General Gunn in a very few words said he endorsed everything that Captain Heron had said about the inspection and he said that it was certainly a revelation to him to come to this city and see the work the cadets had done. He told of commencing as a cadet 42 years ago when he had to drill with a wooden rifle. General Gunn, who is head of the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion, said that their convention had passed a resolution this morning endorsing the training of boys and girls, so that they would maintain the splendid traditions made by their fathers. He paid tribute to Captain Jamieson and the officers who had trained the cadets to such a degree of excellency.

Col. McKay, who was an artillery officer and distinguished himself during the Great War, said the inspection was highly creditable not only to the officers but to the men in the ranks. He told the boys that they had a great future before them and that they would rise to the call just as their fathers and brothers did if ever required.

J. A. McKone, in the absence of Bruce Fowler, chairman of the Board of Education, congratulated the cadets because they had been congratulated by such note worthy officers. He wished them the same success in their examinations, and in closing gave them a half holiday.

Captain Heron presented efficiency medals to Harry Westbrook, Charles Thomas, Albert Rockwell, Arnold Spencer, Winston Merrell, M. Hartley, J. Low, Gordon Richadson, H. Vickers and D. Gardiner.

FINE ADDRESS AT CONVENTION

J. M. Taylor Reviews Growth of Manufacturing in Canada.

MANY ADVANCES

CALGARY, Alta., June 2.— (Canadian Press.)— In an address which challenged the imagination of his hearers and reviewed the events of the past in manufacturing in Canada, John M. Taylor, of Guelph, Ont., President of the Association, opened the first session of the 56th annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at the Palliser Hotel this morning, with reminiscences of the past and accounts of present progress. The speaker inferred a picture of what the Canada of the future may become. Mr. Taylor reminded the delegates that not so long ago the industries of Canada were based on wood and wood working machinery, whereas to-day they are based on steel. He spoke of advancements in the fishing, logging and other industries and, tracing the improvements since Confederation, gave interesting statistics to show the rapidity of Canada's growth.

Wash Away All Poisons in Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowels Before Breakfast

To feel your best day in and day out, no more headaches, indigestion, gas on stomach, bilious attacks, rheumatism, kidney pains, bad breath, you must bathe your self inside. Start today by taking one Tanol Calomel tablet before meals or two at bedtime, then next morning drink a glass or two of hot water to wash from the stomach, liver, kidney and bowels all the previous day's waste, poison and toxins before more food is taken in. Get a few Tanol tablets from F. C. Weber, Charlotte street, Peterborough. They are harmless to take, do not nauseate, no bad after effects, no salts or soidlits next morning, like ordinary calomel. Then you can eat better, sleep better, work better, think better and look better. m-t-s.

Kiwanis Win First Game in the Junior Series

ROTARY JUNIORS DEFEATED 6-2 IN OPENING TILT OF CITY LEAGUE

Victors Bunch Hits in Third Innings For Three Runs.

WAS CLOSE GAME.

Kiwanis Get Edge on Opponents in First Three Frames.

League baseball series 6 to 2 at the iors in the first game of the City Leageu baseball series 6 to 2 at the Exhibition Park last night. The game was a good exhibition of baseball and the score does not indicate the closeness of the play as the winners got six hits and the losers four. The Kiwanis bunched their hits in the third innings for three runs.

Both pitchers twirled good ball but Hardill with his experience had a little the edge getting 13 strikeouts to Howden's eight. The Rotary boys were a little nervous at the bat, especially in the first three innings and "Jeff" had eight strikeouts in the ten men who faced him. Baker got a home run in the third when the ball became lost in the long grass in middlefield.

Swanger registered the only hit and run for the rotary in the first three frames. The Kiwanis scored twice in the first when Westbrook got a nice single between second and third, and "Jake" Hall was hit with a pitched ball. Both these scored on an error of Grady at third base. In the third Westbrook doubled over second base; Baker got a home run scoring Westbrook Hall singled and Hardill and Graham sacrificed, scoring Hall.

Howden, the first man up for the Rotary in the fourth doubled, Beavis singled and Howden stopped at third, the next three men struck out.

In the same frame for the Kiwanis Hunt lifted a high one to Beavis in middle field, Gillespie got a walk, Lebarr made first on an error of Walton, Gillespie scored, and the next two men struck out. In the fifth the Rotary batters went out in a row, as did the Kiwanis. Smith made a splendid catch of Hall's fly.

In the sixth, Walton made first when Lebarr failed to get the ball, Swanger sacrificed, and Howden singled, scoring Walton. Sturgeon doubled and other three men failed to reach first. In the last frame the Rotary men failed to get on the runway.

MENIE WINS GAME FROM GLENROSS

BURNBRAE, June 2—For five and one-half innings Monday night's encounter between Glen Ross and Menie, at the latter's ground, bore all the earmarks of a close and interesting game. In the final sp_am, however, the Glen Ross suppor: gave way, and the Menie boys drove sixteen counties over the platter. Glen Ross looked like sure winners at the third innings, with Smith pitching well and receiving good support. Eagleson pitched well all the way through and got better as the game proceeded. After a big third inning the Glen boys threatened in the fourth, but a snappy double play ended their scoring for the evening. Carlisle and Conley showed up well in the early innings in the outfield.

Linn was the star for Menie, although all played well. The shortstop, in addition to fielding in splendid style, was the batting star with four hits, including two homers, and four runs in five trips to the plate. His speed on bases enabled him to stretch ordinary two and three base hits into circuit clouts. Walker, playing his first game, turned in a good performance both in field and at bat. Stanley Little is coming along in splendid fashion and bids fair to become the star catcher of the league in this his first season behind the b_t.

COLTS TAKE OPENING GAME

BEARS LOSE OUT.

NEW YORK, June 2. — (Canadian Press).—Rochester won the first game of the series with the Syracuse Stars at Rochester, 3 to 2. Burlyn Horn, diminutive Rochester twirler, pitched splendid ball, holding the hard-hitting Stars to seven hits, one of which was a home run drive by Benson.

Despite tight pitching by Chambers who held his opponents to six hits, Jersey City's Black Cats nosed out the Orioles at Baltimore, 3 to 0.

A big sixth inning in which seven runs were scored, gave the home team the lead and enabled the Keys to win against Newark, 12 to 8. Newark was the victim in its first visit here this season.

GOOD BALL GAME TO-MORROW NIGHT

Cogs and Raybestos Meet in East Peterborough Match.

Baseball fans should not overlook the Cognawaga-Raybestos, East Peterborough League game at Exhibition Park tomorrow evening, when these two good teams promise a battle royal. Flushed with a fine victory over Bethany, the Cogs will go into the contest confident of a win even though they must face "Casey" Masterson in the box for Raybestos.

The brake-liners who have gathered together a strong team, realize that the Cognawaga outfit is one of the teams to beat for the championship, a feeling that is shared by the majority of fans who have watched the work of the Cogs.

Both teams have been instructed to be ready for a start at six o'clock. Umpires Kay and LeBarr will be in charge of the game.

YANKEES WIN CLOSING TILT

Make It Four Out of Five in the Series With the Athletics.

TIGERS DEFEATED.

NEW YORK, June 2. —(Canadian Press). — The New York Yankees made it four out of five in the series with the Athletics by winning the closing tussle at Philadelphia by 2 to 1. Rube Walberg allowed only five hits and Miles Thomas 6 in a pitching duel that was decided in the ninth when Joe Dugan delivered a pinch single that scored Pascal. Mark Koenig hit a home run in the first inning.

Cleveland pounded out a 14 to 1 victory over the Tigers at Detroit, thereby gaining an even break in the four-game series. Four Detroit pitchers were hit hard, while Hudlin was effective and scored his sixth victory of the season. Cleveland made 20 hits, including seven doubles and two triples, for a total of 31 bases. The Indians settled the issue when seven of them crossed the plate in the third.

Boston gained an even break in the series with the Senators, taking yesterday's game at Boston, 6 to 1. Harriss, effective after early wildness, kept Washington's seven hits well scattered, while his teammates touched Marberry and Braxton for ten hits.

Only three games scheduled.

Wagers 6-5 Over Joe Dundee For Bout on Friday.

NEW YORK, June 2. —(Canadian Press). — Wagers placed yesterday showed Pete Latzo, welter-weight champion, a 6 to 5 favorite over Joe Dundee, his Baltimore challenger, for their 15-round battle at the Polo Grounds, Friday night.

The champion has whipped himself into excellent condition and expects no trouble making the class limit at 2 p.m. on the day of the fight.

PITTSBURGH LOSE TO PHILADELPHIA

Bunch Five Hits in Eighth Inning For 7-4 Victory.

NEW YORK, June 2. —(Canadian Press). — Lee Meadows, bespectacled mound star, allowed Philadelphia but one hit in seven innings of yesterday's game at Pittsburgh, but in the eighth the visitors bunched five hits, including a homer by Leach, and two walks, and won the battle, 7 to 4. Pruett kept the Pirates' 14 hits well scattered. Leach's circuit clout came with two runners on the paths. It was Meadow's first defeat of the season. He had won seven games.

Jim Elliott yielded only four hits at Boston while his Brooklyn mates gathered 12 off three Boston pitchers for a 6 to 2 victory. It was the fourth straight for the Robins who have won seven of their last eight games. Herman lofted a homer into the right field bleachers with two on bases in the first innings.

Cincinnati at St. Louis postponed, rain.

Only three games scheduled.

TENNIS SCORES

ST. CLOUD, June 2 (Canadian Press).—Miss Bouman entered the semi-finals by eliminating Miss R. D. Tapscott, of South Africa, 6—2, 6—0.

Tilden, paired with Senorita Elia de Alvarez of Spain, also entered the semi-finals of the mixed doubles, eliminating Miss Tapscott and Spence, 1—6, 7—5, 6—0.

Tilden is regarded as the likely winner of the men's singles while Miss Bouman, many experts believe, may replace Suzanne Lenglen as the women's champion.

"The little girl with the bare legs," was the manner in which the thousands of spectators attending the championships have referred, rather fondly, to Miss Tapscott, who has been playing stockingless throughout the tournament. Miss Tapscott reached the quarter finals yesterday only to fall before Miss Bouman.

"Isn't she sweet with her bare legs," was the comment heard among many of the spectators, while others among whom the feminine contingent predominated, verably expressed the opinion that the stockingless player was "positively shocking."

REMARKABLE LADY ELEPHANT TRAINER WITH SPARKS CIRCUS

Babe Pope of the Sparks Circus has perhaps been justly called the most daring woman in the world, because she is the only woman who has ever successfully trained a large herd of elephants without the aid of man. Added to this she possesses all of the control of the masters of this strange and curious art. The Sparks Circus, which is to exhibit in Peterborough on Saturday, June 11, has always boasted possessing the most marvelously trained elephants on the face of the globe, is being conceded by all showmen that they work faster than any ever before the public, and they are handled, educated and introduced by this dainty little woman, who, as before stated, is in a class by herself. When you enter a small 40 ft. ring with half a dozen of these tremendous animals capering about you, executing impossible stunts, never allowing one of them to miss their cues and making each one perform at an appropriate moment and at the same time, seeing to it that you are not trampled upon, maimed or otherwise injured yourself, you are accomplishing what any woman will tell you is one of the most hazardous of all feats, because no animal of the menagerie requires more careful or incessant watching than the elephant. Of course there are many other lady animals trainers with Sparks Circus, for this season Manager Sparks seems to have specialized in wild animal acts—for instance, LaVerne Smith, who puts the large and ferocious group of leopards through their paces as nonchalantly and with the same degree of pleasure as the average woman in every-day life caresses an ordinary house cat. Both of these remarkable and fearless women will be seen at the performances in this city on Saturday, June 11. Prices: Children under 10 years, 35 cents; Adults, 75 cents.

BLOOD POISONING

Practically all disease develops from a poisoned state of the blood-stream. This fact I will repeat over and over again in these articles, but the lesson I wish to give you today is one which will teach you how to take care of an acute case of blood poisoning, such as that which develops after the foot has been punctured by a rusty nail.

From this kind of a wound, and others of a similar nature, tetanus with lockjaw often develops. These wounds are usually treated with antiseptics in an attempt to kill any invading bacteria which may get into the wound and develop blood poisoning. This treatment, although advisable as a precautionary measure, is often not enough to stop the spread of septicemia.

After the skin of the foot or hand has been broken open and the tissues violently injured, there is a valuable treatment which should always be used, and which will in every way, prevent any possibility of blood poisoning developing. It is this simple, old remedy of your grandmother's—SOAKING THE AFFECTED PART IN HOT WATER.

If the foot or hand has been injured, it is very easy to keep either of these extremities in a pan of hot water for several hours at a time. This should be done as soon as possible after the injury. One will often not want to take enough time away from work or from school or play, but thousands of deaths would be prevented if my suggestions were followed. The hot water should be used as hot as can be borne, and is itself, of course, sterilized and will thoroughly cleanse the injured part.

The wet, moist heat of the water is also effective in increasing the circulation of blood through the region of the injury, thus distributing the blood changes so that the rest of the body is also able to take care of some of the poisoning which has resulted from broken-down tissues. Dry heat is nowhere near as effective as the hot water.

If the injury occurs in some other part of the body, besides the hand or foot, it is a good plan to soak that part of the body in hot water as well, even if it is necessary to lie in the bath tub and be completely covered with only the head protruding. A bath of this kind should not be extended over thirty minutes at a time, but may be repeated three or four times daily.

Do not wait for a fever or pus to develop, but start the treatment I have recommended at once or as soon as possible after the injury.

It is alright, occasionally, to dope on some antiseptic, such as iodine or mercurochrome, but do not expect the killing of bacteria will be enough to get rid of the poisoning caused from the broken down tissues around the cut. The congealed and thickened blood around the injury must be gotten rid of, as the moment the blood becomes dead it starts to decompose and putrefaction sets in, which poisons the surrounding tissues.

Remember what I have told you in this article, and the next time your child cuts his foot—try the hot water treatment and see how quickly the cut will heal afterwards.

Tom Mix, playing the starring role of Tom Gordon, a detective, in "The Great K. and A. Train Robbery" Fox Films' latest release, which will be shown at the Regent Theatre to-morrow, disregards the danger of death from bullets as he flees from a gang of desperadoes and turns aside to rescue a girl whose horse has bolted, and who has caught her foot in a stirrup and left her head hanging near the runaway's flying hoofs.

Gordon saves her in spite of her fight to escape him because she believes he's a bandit and the pursuers are a sheriff's posse.

After she has had time to think it over the girl concludes such a chivalrous man could not be an outlaw, and when he reappears in her own father's home, again apparently a desperado, the girl decided one good turn deserves another and hides him in a closet of her bedroom, so that he can elude her father's pursuit.

Dorothy Dwan, who plays the feminine lead, gives the screen a new masterpiece of screen riding and acting.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

MEMORY'S BOOK

Memory keeps a book,
Whether we will or no.
Life takes many a look
Back to the long ago.
Nights that we thought forgot,
Days that we thought were done.
Whether we will or not,
Still will come back to one.

Flow'rs that we thought were dead,
Dried in an empty cup,
Thoughts that we thought were fled,
Memory gathers up;
Roses we throw away,
Thinking them faded then,
Memory knows some day
We shall desire again.

Moments that could not last,
Friends who have had to part.
Things that we thought had passed
Out of the mind and heart,
Suddenly we recall,
Suddenly turn and look—
And we shall find them all
Kept in memory's book.

NOT YET INFORMED.

OTTAWA, June 2. — (Canadian Press.)—Hon. William Phillips, Minister from the United States to Canada, established cordial relations with the press this morning. The minister preferred not to discuss some of the present features of Canadian-American relations. The St. Lawrence waterways project, however, would undoubtedly be one of the major questions that would engage his attention when the Legation opens. As to the immigration situation at the border, he said, "I don't think I can comment on that as I am not fully in touch with the situation yet."

SOFTBALL POSTPONED.

Belmonts and Lockworks Will Play on Saturday Instead of To-night.

The softball game to-night between the Belmonts and the Lock Company team is called off on account of the Militia wanting the park for the parade. This game will be played on Saturday at 6.00 p.m., and ought to be one of the best of the season. Neither team has dropped a game, and these are considered the ones to beat for the Taylor Cup.

CORONACH WINS.

Last Year's Derby Winner Takes Coronation Cup Race.

EPSOM, Eng., June 2.—(Canadian Press Cable.)— Lord Woolavington's four year old colt Coronach, last year's Derby winner, won the Coronation Cup this afternoon, by one length from the Maharajah of Rajpipla's Embargo. Sir Abe Bailey's Foxlaw, the only other horse in the race, finished 8 lengths behind Embargo.

INDIAN BURNED.

Trapped in Tent at Cat Lake, in New Ontario.

WINNIPEG, June 2 (Canadian Press).—Trapped in a burning tent an Indian, known as "No Tobacco Peask," of the Cat Lake district, east of the Red Lake gold fields, was burned to death and two companions severely injured, according to information received from Hudson, Ontario, last night.

SOVIET OFFICIALS LEAVING TO-DAY

LONDON, June 2 (Canadian Press) —The Soviet exodus from England, in consequence of the breaking of relations between the two countries, was on in earnest to-day when a party of Soviet officials, numbering more than thirty, sailed from London on the Russian trading ship Youshar. Secrecy marked the preparations for the departure, the public being excluded from the quay. The steamer left flying the Red flag, bearing star, hammer and sickle, which is the emblem of the Soviet Union. It was stated that another official party would board her at Tilbury, down the Thames, bringing the number of departures to fifty.

The ship's cargo consisted chiefly of stores and the officials' baggage, which had been stowed away during the last few days.

WEDDING BELLS.

CAVEN—THORBURN.

Historic Lundy's Lane United Church at Niagara Falls, Ontario, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on June the first at four o'clock, when Margaret Taylor, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Cameron Thorburn, became the bride of Dr. William Robertson Caven, only son of Dr. and Mrs. James Caven, of Toronto. Rev. S. L. W. Harton officiated at the service, assisted by Rev. R. B. Y. Scott, of Toronto, and the guests were only immediate relatives.

The church was beautifully decorated with palms, frens, lilacs and standards of spring flowers.

The bride who was given away by her father entered the church to the strains of the wedding march from Lobengrin, played by Professor Charles Duff, A.C.G.O. She was gowned in a French frock of white satin heavily embroidered in crystal beads and rhinestones; the long train lined with pink georgette beaded to match the gown. An exquisite veil of Princess lace which had been worn by the bride's mother was arranged in cap effect and held with a wreath of orange blossoms and fell to the end of the train. She carried a shower bouquet of orchids, lilies of the valley and maiden hair ferns, and wore the groom's gift, a ring of diamonds and sapphires.

Mrs. Dunlop Goulding of Toronto, matron of honor, was in a frock of fuschia georgette and tulle with a large picture hat of the same shade and bouquet of sunset roses. Miss Dorothy Jane Strickland, of Peterborough, cousin of the bride, was a pretty little flower girl, wearing shell pink organdie with a gold bandeau on her hair and carrying a tiny basket of old fashioned pink posies. Dr. L. T. Colvin, of Detroit, acted as best man and Dr. Farquharson and Mr. Cyril Carson, both of Toronto, were ushers. During the signing of the register, Miss Dorothy Rogers of Toronto, who was gowned in a rose georgette ensemble, sang very sweetly 'All Joy Be Thine."

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mr. and Mrs. Thorburn, Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Caven with the bride and groom received the guests. Mrs. Thorburn wore a beaded gown of green georgette with large black mohair hat and carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Caven was gowned in beige georgette with large hat and carried flame sweet peas.

Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Caven left on a trip by motor, Mrs. Caven travelling in a compose costume of powder blue crepe de chine embroidered in shades of blue and silver with hat to match and a cloak of beige with long beige squirrel colalr. On their return Dr. and Mrs. Caven will reside at their home, 338 Inglewood Drive, Toronto.

The bride, who is a graduate of the 1925 Arts class of the University of Toronto, is a granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor, of Peterborough and Niagara Falls.

OBITUARY.

MRS. R. B. ROGERS.

Many citizens of Peterborough gathered in St. Luke's Church on Monday afternoon to pay their last respects to Mrs. R. B. Rogers, an old and repected resident of Ashburnham. The service was conducted by the Rev. G. J. Bousfield, the Rector of the Church, of which Mrs. Rogers had been a member since it was founded. At the morning service on Sunday he made a touching reference to the faithfulness of the deceased lady in the work and worship of the church. Among the floral tributes were a large cross from St. Luke's congregation and a basket from the Ashburnham Patriotic League, of which Mrs. Rogers was Honorary President.

The pallbearers were R. H. Parsons, Robert Fair, J. J. Turner, A. Stevenson, E. A. Peck, M.P., and Frank Adams.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Lila Hatley, who died June 2, 1925:
I think of her in silence
No eyes may see me weep.
But ever in my aching heart
Her memory I still keep.
—Inserted By Grace.

IN MEMORIAM.

HATLEY.—In loving memory of my dear Lila, who passed away June 2nd, 1925:
Two years have passed and none can tell,
The loss of one we loved so well.
But while she lies in peaceful sleep,
Her memory we will always keep.

This day brings forth, sad memories,
Of our loved one we laid to rest,
And those who think of her to-day
Are thoes who loved her best.

Yet again we hope to meet her
When the day of life has fled,
Then in heaven we hope to meet her,
Where no farewell tears are shed.

LOCAL PUBLIC SCHOOL CADETS LEAD ALL MILITARY DISTRICT IS STATEMENT OF CAPT. HERON

WONDERFUL DISPLAY

Q. M. S. Instructor Thomas Praised by Officer—Cheered by Cadets.

From the time when Brigadier General J. A. Gunn, D.S.O., C.M.G., President of the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion, appeared on the parade ground at Central Park yesterday to receive the general salute from the Public School Cadets until the last platoon had marched past to dismissal with a final fanfare of bugles, the annual inspection of the Peterborough Battalion went with a snap and dash unequalled in the history of the movement in this city. That this is no idle boast is attested by the fact that the work done yesterday showed so high a standard of training that the Peterborough Battalion was placed in first position among all the Cadets in Military District No. 3.

Yesterday was a day of superlative things in Peterborough. There was the big Canadian Legion Convention proceeding just across the way. And the day finished with the huge parade of veterans, Militia, Cadets and bands of the Cenotaph on Murray street for a memorial service. But foremost in the minds of a thousand boys and thousands of parents who had boys on parade, will remain for many months the memory of Public School Cadet inspection. If minor criticisms are made of this and that fault in military bearing and in the execution of manoeuvres, the fact remains that the Battalion carried itself imposingly. The parade was a splendid display of Peterborough's boyhood at its best.

King Edward and Central school companies tied in the competition for the silver cup that has been held proudly by Queen Alexandra school company for the past two years. As a result of the tie, each school will hold the cup for six months, with King Edward taking first possession. The margin of decision was small, the inspecting officer said, depending in some cases upon minor lapses by the Company Commanders. The losers have little to criticize themselves for; the winners are to be congratulated upon being just a little bit better.

The Inspection.

The cadets were drawn up in review order for the inspection by General Gunn. The Battalion Commander, John Clayton of Queen Alexandra School, had formed the parade, and on the appearance of the inspecting officers a general salute was presented, the Collegiate Bugle Band adding its fanfare of greeting. Captain V. W. S. Heron, District Cadet Officer, extended a nice courtesy to General Gunn by inviting him to make the inspection. The actual marking of points for the efficiency report was done, of course, by the Cadet Officer.

When the cadets had been reviewed, with many complimentary references from the General, who shook hands with the several Company Commanders, the Battalion marched past in column of platoons in a movement that was spendidly executed. It was an inspirational sight, the long line of khaki-uniformed boys breaking into orderly sections and marching around the parade ground to pass the saluting base in almost perfect alignment, the orders and salute being given by the very youthful platoon commanders. Boys there were, only slightly over twelve, who marched with heads erect and shoulders thrown back, as though they had the traditions of Guards to uphold. Too self-conscious, some of them, so that their marching was stiff, but all eager to do the thing right. In all the twenty-four platoons there was not a boy who was not trying, and trying hard, to bring honor to his company. For this one movement alone, if they had done nothing else, the boys deserve the greatest credit.

King Edward School.

But there was more to follow. No sooner had the cadets wheeled into the line from which they started than Sergeant-Major William Snowden, of the King Edward school company, took up his position and called for markers. Snappily, the markers fell in, were numbered off, and extended; then the company fell in, was checked up by the youthful Sergeant-Major, and reported correct to Company Commander Donald Wood. Then the platoon commanders took post, and proved their platoons, reporting as follows: No. 1, James Shaw; No. 2, John Watson; No. 3, Bruce Spence; No. 4, Ralph Beatty. It was a snappy piece of work, so well done that Captain Heron turned with an appreciative smile to call for applause from the spectators. It was enthusiastically given.

COL. J. W. MILLER.

GUNN CONVEYS THANKS TO CITY FOR RECEPTION

BANQUET IS HELD.

"On behalf of the members of the Canadian Legion, I wish to express to you, Mr. Mayor, our deep appreciation of the magnificent reception your city has accorded us. We shall carry away sentiments that will be ever green in our memories for the way Peterborough has treated the boys of the Canadian Legion."

In these words Brigadier-General John A. Gunn of Toronto, unanimously re-elected president of the Ontario Command of the Legion yesterday afternoon, declared a grateful guest's thanks to a generous and gracious host in his reply to the toast to The Canadian Legion at the convention banquet last night in the Legion Assembly Hall.

"I wish also, Mr. Mayor, that you would convey to the press of your city our appreciation of the wonderful work it has done in furthering the cause of this organization. Never in all my experience have I seen more interest shown in our behalf than by the press of this city. I wish also to thank very sincerely all those citizens who took the trouble to write in the press those letters of esteem and sympathy and good-cheer."

Another little incident prior to General Gunn's address revealed the deep impression Peterborough has made this week in the hearts of the delegates to the convention of the returned soldiers of Ontario. It, too, gave the citizens as a whole a fleeting chance to see themselves as others see them. It occurred during the speech made by Col. L. R. La Fleche, late commanding officer of the 22nd Battalion of Quebec and the acting president of the Canadian Legion, Dominion Command.

Col. La Fleche said: "I have noted with pleasure the warmth and friendliness with which soldiers' matters are regarded here," and the exceptionally significant outburst of applause from the delegates eloquently corroborated Col. La Fleche's observation.

These impressions had been accumulating from the time the delegates arrived in Peterborough, were greeted by the parallel lines of Union Jacks along the main streets, and particularly when they saw the splendid quarters which had been provided for the returned men of the city. This good opinion was strengthened by many other evidences of cheerful hospitality and was clinched perhaps by the notable tribute which His Honor Judge Huycke paid the Legion last night.

Thus, if the first convention of the Ontario Legion has been highly successful, it also has apparently been

M.P. Asks Report Empire Conference

LONDON, June 3 (Canadian Press).—A determination to discover just what happened at the last Imperial Conference and the exact meaning of the decisions reached is seen in a motion put down on the order paper of the House of Commons for early discussion, by Sir John Marriott, who is supported by nine other members in his statement that it is desirable the House should have an early opportunity of considering the declarations and recommendations contained in the report of the proceedings of the Imperial Conference.

COL. ACKERMAN VICE-PRESIDENT FOR PROVINCE

OTHERS HONORED.

Legion Considers Case of Comrades Unable To Earn Own Living.

The election of the executive for the incoming year and the selection of Kingston as the location of the Provincial convention next year were the most important features of the business of the closing session of the first Provincial convention of the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion.

Col. C. H. Ackerman was honored by the convention in being elected as 2nd Vice-President. Dr. W. D. Sharpe was elected as 1st Vice-President; L. F. Cunningham was again elected chairman by acclamation; W. Cornell as vice-chairman; V. O. Hooper, the former honorary treasurer, was again returned unopposed as treasurer.

Two local men, His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke and Col. J. W. Miller, were appointed Honorary Vice-Presidents of the Ontario Command.

Other honorary officers are: His Honor Col. Henry Cockshutt, His Honor Lieutenant-Governor W. D. Ross, Sir Edward Albert Kemp, K.C., as Honorary Presidents; General Sir W. D. Otter, Major-General F. L. Lessard, Major-General V. A. S. Williams, Brigadier G. S. Cartwright, Col. A. E. Gooderham, Lt.-Col. W. A. Gartshore, and Col. C. R. McCulloch, Honorary Vice-Presidents.

Dr. N. H. Sutton was elected district representative to the new executive.

Comrade Campbell was appointed to represent the Tubercular Veterans' Association, and Comrade Hills for the naval veterans.

North Bay, Kingston, Woodstock, Toronto, Hamilton and Sudbury were the centres which competed for the honor of entertaining the delegates at next year's convention. A large number of letters and telegrams were read from these cities, the Kingston correspondence being exceedingly voluminous. In addition to these messages, the representatives from the various centres involved were given two minutes to state their claims. On the matter being put to a vote it was seen that Kingston had a clear majority, whereupon the delegates from the other cities withdrew their motions and the decision in favor of Kingston became unanimous.

The presence of a considerable quantity of literature dealing with Kingston and its environs, drew from one delegate the following remark — "I notice here a little circular descriptive of Kingston. It is very nice, but judging from that description, Kingston seems to be a differetn place from what it was when I was there!"

The question of the appointment of honorary chaplains came up, but it was finally decided to leave this matter in the hands of the incoming executive.

A resolution carried unanimously instructs all branches to enforce Section 3, Article 4, of the constitution. This article forbids the admission to the Legion of persons holding anarchistic views or advocating the overthrow by force of constitutional governments.

Votes of thanks were passed to the citizens of Peterborough for the manner in which the delegation was welcomed.

Votes of thanks were tendered to the Peterborough branch for the manner in which the members labored to make the convention the success it became. A very cordial appreciation of the efforts of the Ladies' Auxiliary was voiced by Rev. Paul Costello. Last night's banquet, he said, was unprecedented in his Legion experience. The Examiner also received a bouquet for ready co-operation with the officers of the convention.

Votes of thanks were tendered to the committees as they were discharged.

Col. Ackerman intimated that ar-

KING GEORGE IS 62 TO-DAY

LONDON, June 3.—England's famed Horse Guards came trooping behind the colors to-day.

British military men were on parade around the world—wherever British soldiers are to be found.

They were hailing the 62nd birthday of King George Fifth.

The King's natal anniversary this year is making Britons realize with a start that King George is setting in for old age. For this reason he was acclaimed to-day as never before.

The King is popular; he is very wise, very tactful. In the country's history, his reign will have a unique place.

King George has realized the characteristics of the age in which he has lived. He has grasped the spirit of the British populace, and his own duty to restrict himself to severely constitutional authority.

Memorable Events.

These are some of the mighty events that mark his reign and make it forever memorable:

FIRST—The great war, in which England assembled the most powerful armies and navies ever gathered under her flag, and fought on land and sea to preserve her very existence in a manner that she never had to fight before, even when Napoleon was at the height of his glory.

SECOND — As one concomitant of the war, the royal house, to associate itself more closely with the English people, changed its family name from Guelph to Windsor.

THIRD—The Government imposed an income tax upon the people that has never been equalled in world history.

FOURTH—It was during this reign that a great change took place in British politics — women were given the vote.

FIFTH—For the first time in its history Britain had a Labor Socialist Government.

SIXTH—In May, 1926, came the nation-wide strike, probably the first of the kind in world history.

Toured World at 15.

June 3, 1865, was the day of George's birth. He was the second son of the prince who became King Edward Seventh. He joined the navy when 12, and at 15 toured the world.

Death of his brother in 1892 made George an unexpected heir to the throne, and he was created Duke of York. July 6, 1893, he married Victoria May, only daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Teck. In 1901 he was made Prince of Wales.

George roamed the British Empire on royal missions, as his own sons now are doing. Edward Seventh died in 1910 and George was crowned in Westminster Abbey June 22 of that year.

Lives Unpretentiously.

During the World War he set Britain an example by leading a very simple, economic life. In the peace years since the war he and Queen Mary have continued to live rather unpretentiously. Their court is guarded most carefully against "off color" guests.

WHAT THE LEGION MEANT TO BELGIUM

The presence in Peterborough of the gentlemen of the Canadian Legion these three days emphasizes a recent belated discovery of a facet of humor in the German war menace of twelve years ago, which at that time paralyzed the gentler emotions in the reaction of courage, loyalty and perhaps uncertain fears.

Casually turning over the leaves of a magazine of April, 1915, one found with retrospective amusement the reports of interviews which were given that Spring by Dr. Bernhard Dernberg and General von Bissing as to the fate of Belgium, then under the heel of the eternal Huns. Von Bissing was the Governor-General of Belgium, representing the Kaiser.

It really is amusing, grimly, perhaps, but also comfortably, to look back at the struttings of the soft-hearted von Bissing, and the class he represented, as he lorded it over the helpless Belgians in their slavery.

In a long letter to a Berlin friend, von Bissing gives an account of his manners as governor of Belgium, and disclosed his high sense of duty in the following naive boast:

"I have threatened as little as possible and only inflicted punishment when I have thought it necessary, although I have had to take sharp measures sometimes, and here and there my hand has been heavily felt."

He also says:

"If one wants to rule a people, and to make them acknowledge an undesired Government, one has to take into account their peculiarities."

Dr. Dernberg's thoughts in April, 1915, as revealed by his press interviews, were occupied with the occupation of the Belgian Channel ports as a threat and defence against Great Britain. It is unnecessary to quote Dernburg, but the recollection of the German ambitions recur opportunely this week because they remind us, with the feebler thrill of an old danger happily escaped long ago, of the part these gentlemen of the Canadian Legion played in rescuing Belgium, and the free countries she tpyified, from the tyranny of the Huns.

Peterborough has its own returned men to whom it has shown many expressions of respect and affection, and the influx of so many of their comrades throughout the province rekindles thoughts and memories of that splendid Canadian army which put an end to the pretensions of the Prussians—for this generation at least.

TORONTO LADY WINS.

Mrs. E. M. Turner To Get $80,000 From Calcutta Sweepstakes.

TORONTO, June 3.— (Canadian Press.)—Mrs. E. Mackay Turner, of this city, has won $80,000 in the Calcutta Sweepstakes on the Epsom Derby, run on Wednesday, according to information reaching her son-in-law, N. W. Campbell, to-day. She drew a ticket on a horse which started in the classic and thereby was entitled to the rich award. Mrs. Turner, who lives with her daughter here, left for India last November to visit her son, A. R. Turner, manager of a rubber company's estates in South Malabar. She bought the ticket for about 34 cents while in Calicut, South Malabar.

COLUMBIA MAY ATTEMPT TRIP OVER ATLANTIC

Berlin Possible Destination of Bellanca Plane, Now Ready For Hop.

SECRECY OBSERVED.

Officials of Plane Company Won't Say What Caol Is.

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., June 3. — Canadian Press. — The Bellanca monoplane, Columbia, was filled to capacity with gasoline and oil to-day in preparation for a take off, probably this afternoon, weather permitting, for an unnamed point in Europe. The New York Sun says the Bellanca will hop off to-night for Berlin, Germany. The weather conditions, the Sun says, are being investigated, and if favorable, it is considered likely that Clarence B. Chamberlin, who was to pilot the plane on the New York to Paris flight, will take off.

Although strict secrecy was observed by the Columbia staff, it was learned that police protection for the take off and permission to use the long runway at Roosevelt, adjoining Curtiss field, had been requested. At the offices of Charles A. Levine, the managing director of the Columbia Aircraft Corporation, the owners of the plane, it was acknowledged that a request had been sent to Carl F. Schory, secretary of the contest committee of the National Aeronautical association, to appear at the field for the take off. Schory would officially seal the barograph to be placed on the plane, in order that the duration and distance of flight would be recorded. Levine declined to make any statement in case conditions beyond his control should prevent a take-off.

NEW YORK, June 3. Canadian Press. — The understanding in aeronautical circles here is that Berlin is the destination chosen for the proposed flight of the Bellanca aeroplane 'Columbia.'

TO ENFORCE ACT.

Joseph Stewart, who has been appointed Enforcement Officer for this district under the Government Control Act.

Election Of Other Executive Officers Set For Today.

NOMINATIONS.

Public To Receive Audited Accounts of Poppy Day Monies.

A striking vindication of the policy of the past year, and a spontaneous recognition of the fact that the retiring executive had adopted the best means of extricating the Legion from the morass of difficulties into which it was precipitated by the assumption of the contracts and liabilities of some of the previous ex-service mens' organizations was afforded by the return by acclamation of General Gunn to the executive of the incoming Legion year. Nominations for the other offices were held yesterday afternoon and the elections will take place today. Nominations for other executive offices were:

Vice-President. — Comrade Smees, Comrade Sharpe, and C. H. Ackerman, Peterborough. Colonel Keiller McKay was nominated, but intimated that his physical health would not permit him to accept.

Chairman.—Comrade Dobbs, Comrade Cunningham.

Vice-Chairman. — Comrade Cornell, Comrade Bray, Comrade Ford, Comrade Padbury.

Hon. Treasurer. — Comrade V. O Hooper, Hamilton.

Separate Bank Account

Another important decision which received the unanimous endorsement of the Convention was one which decreed that a separate bank account would be kept of all monies derived from Poppy Day sales, and that a statement checked by independent auditors of receipts and expenditures would be given out to the people among whom the appeal for money was made.

Proposed General Gunn

When the meeting was thrown open for nominations, Dr. Sharpe proposed General Gunn as President.

C. H. Ackerman, in seconding, urges the election of general Gunn, who, he said, had been chiefly instrumental in the formation of the Legion. He had piloted the Legion through a very difficult experience, said Col. Ackerman. The name of Comrade Mess was also put forward, but the latter instantly withdrew. Nominations were then declared closed by the unanimous consent of the meeting, and General Gunn was elected by acclamation.

On his way from the rear of the hall to the platform, General Gunn received a remarkable ovation, which told him in unmistakable terms that the Legion was more convinced than ever that its honor and integrity were safe in the hands of the leader of the executive that had carried the ship into port after a storm that might well have seen the end of the Legion so far as Ontario is concerned.

General Gunn stood with bowed head on the platform while the welkin rang with the sound of the lusty cheers of the upstanding delegates, who finished up by singing in powerful, albeit, hardly musical voices, that classical chorus: "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," ending with a defiant note of interrogation and affirmation.

Expresses Thanks

General Gunn was visibly moved by this superb manifestation of loyalty and affection tendered him by men who have learned to appraise men, in the hardest of all hard schools—the fighting line.

"Words fail me," he said, "when I try to express to you my feelings at this time. Some comrades have been good enough to say we have been through a critical time." It was good, he thought, that the criticism of the executive should be aired in the open. He believed that out of the ashes of the past year would arise a greater and stronger Legion than ever before. The Legion would continue in greater measure in the coming years, its work of caring for the less fortunate comrades who were broken in the war.

The nomination of L. P Cunningham as a candidate for the office of chairman was also the occasion of an enthusiastic demonstration of loyalty on the part of the delegates who recognized freely that Comrade Cunningham had acquitted himself admirably in the discharge of an exceeding onerous task, which called for tact and firmness and a profound knowledge of the rules of order. It was largely due to his adroit handling of the debates, that, while many contentious matters were brought up before the delegates, personalities were almost entirely absent yesterday, the chairman intervened to nip in the bud an incipient exchange of personalities between two of the delegates.

APPEAL MADE FOR PENSIONS FOR MINISTERS

Commissioner Asks Presbyterian Assembly To Provide For Aged and Widows.

TO REMOVE STIGMA.

Business Houses Provide For Their Aged Employees, He Asserts.

STRATFORD, Ont., June 3 (Canadian Press).—A ringing appeal for the aged and infirm ministers and their widows was made by Rev. D. T. L. McKerroll, of Toronto, in presenting the proposed pension scheme of the Church at the 52nd General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

A total of $138,234, he explained, was necessary to carry the fund at the present time.

Declaiming against the present pension fund in operation by the Church, Dr. McKerroll declared: "Can we look the world in the face and call ourselves Christian if we do not provide for our old men?"

Business firms throughout the country are now making adequate provison for their veteran employees, he said, adding that the Church "has the privilege of lifting the stigma that rests on the Presbyterian Church of not making provision for its servants."

Messages of congratulation from the Assembly to His Majesty King George on his birthday and a welcome to Lord Willingdon, the Governor-General, and Lady Willingdon were adopted this morning.

THE WEATHER

There was considerable white frost again this morning, and the thermometer was down to 32 degrees as the low point during the night. Probably no damage was done, but it was what is popularly known as a "close shave." In the early days of the pioneers June frosts were all too frequent in this section of the province, but since the country has been cleared of the bush and the land cultivated, June frosts, happily, are rare, and when they do come, are usually light.—W. SMUGGLE SILK INTO MONTREAL IN FRUIT CASES

No Thorough Examination is Made of Goods Entering Port.

NEED APPRAISERS.

Candy Shipments From England Discussed Briefly By Customs Board.

Montreal, June 3 (Canadian Press). —The examination of fruit entering the port of Montreal by customs officers consists merely in looking into the open crates. There is no attempt to dig into the crates to ascertain whether or not other articles are concealed among the fruit. This was revealed to the Royal Customs Commission yesterday afternoon by James J. Moore, assistant appraiser at Montreal.

R. L. Calder, K.C., Commission counsel, suggested to Mr. Moore that a mere examination of the outer layers of fruit did not preclude the possibility of smuggling. There had been a case of a fictitious firm which imported large quantities of cabbages and other vegetables. Investigation of these importations led to the discovery that the vegetables were merely "camouflage" for silk in webs, said counsel.

The afternoon was occupied with continued examinations of customs officers employed at the port of Montreal. Richard J. Lunny, chief appraiser at Montreal, said that another appraiser was required here. He also needed more assistant appraisers and packers.

Candy Shipments.

Montreal, Que., June 3 (Canadian Press). — Candies from England which should have been subject to the dumping clauses of the Customs Act were discussed briefly before the Royal Customs Commission yesterday afternoon.

Thomas B. Hirson, special Customs officer, who has been engaged in ferreting out cases of undervaluation for the Department, told of a number of seizures which he had made, the values of which ranged from $100 to $22,000. In the course of his testimony he said that he had run across candy importations from England which should have been subject to the dumping clauses.

The largest seizure mentioned by Mr Hurson involved goods which, he said, were worth $22,000. In the case of candy and confectionery, he said, the value of the containers was sometimes excluded in declaring the value of the goods for duty purposes. This was a violation of the regulations. Total seizures made he gave as approximately $170,000.

Chief Commissioner Brown expressed the opinion that some of the people who brought in goods at an undervaluation should be prosecuted.

Expressed Hope For Friendly Settlement

Cairo, Egypt, June 3 (Associated Press). — The Egyptian Premier Sarwat Pasha, in a statement to the Chamber yesterday, expressed the hope of a friendly settlement of the Anglo-Egyptian difficulty. Great Britain has already sent a note protesting against any change in the Egyptian Army system involving the removal of the Sirdar, and also warships to protect British interests. But, the Premier declared, the despatch of warships to Egypt was evidently in a belief which does not correspond with the actual facts, since there is no movement in Egypt threatening the lives of interested foreigners.

"Peace and security," continued the Premier, "reign everywhere, and foreigners themselves are quite tranquil. There is great hope that this conflict may end, thanks to the spirit of friendship governing Anglo-Egyptian relations in a manner securing Egypt's interests and honour."

WOMEN CHOSEN ON HONOR LIST

Feature of King's Birthday Honors in Recognition of Their Services.

TWO NEW PEERAGES.

LONDON, June 3. — (Canadian Press.) — A feature of the King's birthday honor list issued to-night is the number of women chosen for honors in recognition of their public services. These are all admitted to the Order of the British Empire. Princess Mary and Dame Nellie Melba received the Grand Cross of that order, while Countess Stradbroke, Lady Antrobus and the others are made Dame Commanders. The Countess of Lytton is admitted to the Imperial Order of the Crown of India.

The list includes two new peerages, Sir Davison Dalziel who first introduced motor cabs into London and Sir Gilbert Greenall, former president of the Royal Agricultural Society, being created barons.

Another interesting honor was the Order of Merit bestowed upon Sir Charles Parsons, of Turbine fame, in recognition of his eminent services in the application of science to industries.

Lieutenant General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, chief scout and founder of that organization of boy scouts and girl guides, receives knighthood of the Grand Cross of St. Michael and St. George, while the Grand Cross of the British Empire is conferred on Sir Samuel Hoare, the air minister.

Sir Francis B. Dicksee, president of the Royal Academy, is given K. C. V.O. (Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order); Owen O'Malley, who figured in the Hankow negotiations, gets C.M.G. (Companion of St. Michael and St. George), and John J. Broderick, commercial counsellor of the British embassy at Washington, K.B.E. (Knight Commander of the British Empire).

Among the many air honors, the air force cross was awarded to Bernard Leete and Neville Stack, British civilian pilots, for their flight to British India in their baby moth planes.

PETERBORO WOMEN'S MUSIC CLUB OFFERS PRIZES FOR POEM ON "CANADA."

The Music Club, wishing to commemorate our local celebration of "Confederation" in poetry and song, offers two prizes of five and three dollars to any pupil, over twelve years of age, attending either the Collegiate or Public Schools of Peterborough, for an original poem on "Canada." The poem must consist of six stanzas of four lines each. The Rev. Mr. Wren of Trinity Church and Rev. Mr. Gordon of St. Andrew's Church have kindly consented to act as adjudicators in selecting the two best poems. The poem winning the first prize, if suitable, will be set to music by our talented musician, Miss Agnes Logan, and sung on some public occasion by a well-known vocalist. By kind permission of The Examiner, the two prize-winning poems will also be published in its pages. We are sure there is as much budding or latent poetic talent among the young people of Peterborough as in any other city, and we hope that the subject of "Canada" will lend inspiration to the efforts of our young poets and poetesses. All poems must be sent to Mrs. Porter, 521 Gilmour Street, the Secretary of the Club, on or before Saturday, June 18th, and there must be enclosed a note from either parent or guardian certifying the poem to be the pupil's own unaided composition.

DEAD HEROES ARE HONORED AT CENOTAPH

SPEECHES MADE.

Sir Edward Kemp, Canon Hedley and General Gunn Render Homage.

Seldom in its military history has Peterborough witnessed a more impressive spectacle than the memorial service of last night when the visiting delegates to the Canadian Legion Convention accompanied by Legion members of the city, unattached veterans, local military units and the cadet corps of the Collegiate Institute and the Public schools paraded to the Cenotaph, once again to honor the memory of that great and glorious company of Peterborough heroes who sleep under the white crosses around the battelfields of France and Flanders.

Four generations were represented in the parade. Clad in the brilliant scarlet pre-war uniform of the Canadian militia and present by special invitation, Colonel J. W. Miller, who first smelled powder in 1863 as he charged in the ranks of the Federal army when they swooped down on Lee's battalions at Gettysburg, marched with a gait that scorned his four-score years. Included in the array were not a few old members of the Canadian contingent that lined up with the Imperial troops against the Boers on the veldts of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State, then there was the large body of men, with and without uniform, who helped to emblazon the name of Canada and Canadian valor in the struggle against the greatest military machine the world has ever seen; last came the soldiers of the future, the boys of the schools on whose shoulders one day may rest the responsibility of defending our Dominion against foreign aggression when the last of the heroes of the World War has gone to his fathers.

Headed by the Pipe Band of the Machine Gun Corps and accompanied by the band of the Peterborough Rangers and the Salvation Army, the parade marched down from the Armouries to McDonnell street, south along George to Murray and down Murray to the Cenotaph.

The parade included officers of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, headed by Col. T. J. Johnston; of the 4th Battery, Canadian Field Artillery, under Major D. J. Lawrie; the Peterborough Rangers, commanded by Lt.-Col. W. Gordon Hall, with four former commanding officers in line; No. 3 Company, 4th Battalion, Canadian Machine Gun Corps; the Collegiate and Public School Cadets; convention delegates, Legion members of the city, and ex-service men generally.

Before the ceremony the Convention delegates were photographed and were also filmed. A photograph was also taken of the retiring executive.

Lt.-Col. C. H. Ackerman was in command of the parade. Major G. G. Winterbottom, second in command, marshalled the troops. Captain James Abraham marshalled the cadet companies.

March Filmed.

Moving pictures were taken of the march of the parade as it approached the Cenotaph. These will be distributed throughout the British Empire.

While the delegates were lined up on Murray street, one could not help being struck by the remarkably high standard of physique which they presented. It is safe to say that the average height of the visiting delegates is considerably more than ordinary. This fact emphasizes the truth of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's description of the Canadan troops, as he saw them on their way to the great offensive of August 8, 1918, at Amiens, as "the finest body of fighting men in the world."

At the Cenotaph.

At the Cenotaph a short prayer was offered up by Canon Hedley, of Toronto, one of the visiting delegates to the Convention. The massed bands of the Salvation Army and the Peterborough Rangers played 'O Canada.' Then at the request of Colonel C. H. Ackerman the crowd observed one minute of silent reverence.

Rev. Canon Hedley said he counted it the greatest privilege of his life

OLD MASTERS

He whom a dream hath possessed knoweth no more of roaming:
All roads and the flowing of waves and the speediest flight he knows
But wherever his feet are set his soul is forever homing
And going, he comes, and coming he heareth a call and goes.

He whom a dream hath possessed knoweth no more of sorrow,
At death and the dropping of leaves and the fading of suns he smiles,
For a dream remembers no past and scorns the desire of a morrow,
And a dream in a sea of doom sets surely the ultimate isles.

He whom a dream hath possessed treads the impalpable marches,
From the dust of the day's long road he leaps to a laughing star,
And the ruin of worlds that fall he views from eternal arches,
And rides God's battlefield in a flashing and golden car.

Planning Flight Around the World

NEW YORK, June 3.—(Canadian Press.)—The New York Evening Post yesterday announced that two airmen are contemplating a 15-day flight around the world to be begun from New York the last of July "if present plans materialize."

The airmen mentioned by the paper are Linton Wells, holder of the present round-the-world record of 28 days, 14 hours, 36 minutes, and Lieut. Leigh Wade, one of the three pilots in the army's 1924 world flight. A third man, as yet unnamed, is to be chosen to fill the post of radio operator and navigator.

A three engined plane, probably a biplane, is considered for the trip, and Wells and Wade are to be looking over the field for a suitable craft.

FLIER AWAITS CLEAR WEATHER

TAKES SHORT FLIGHTS

London, June 3 (Associated Press). —With that care and quiet thoroughness which characterized Captain Charles Lindbergh's preparations for his epic-making Trans-Atlantic flight, the United States flying ace sat in the little headquarters office of the Kenley Military Air Station yesterday afternoon, and as the adverse weather reports from South England and the Channel and Northern France were laid before him, and as the mist and fog rolled up over the edges of Kenley air field, he pictured the treacherous air path to Paris. He waited for nearly two hours to see if conditions would improve, and then decided to postpone his departure from England until dawn to-day.

Off he went for tea with the officers, and last night he slept at their mess—among men who talk his language of aeronautics and to whom he is as much a hero as he is to the crowds who have followed him in France, Belgium, and England.

From the Air Marshal to the ground force of the British Air Service the story has spread how Lindbergh cavorted through the air in the British military plane which he brought back from Gosport the other morning after taking the Spirit of St. Louis to the south coast to be packed for the trip home.

Stunts in Air.

As if for sheer joy at being in his element again, Lindbergh turned, tumbled, soared, dived and rollicked about like an elfin child at play—free at last from the earthbound creatures who have been crowding him much of late. It was because of this experience with the American birdman that the British air force authorities at Kenley realized the great responsibility they had as his hosts last night.

Not that there is the slightest doubt of his being able to take care of himself, but there is the realization that if an accident of any kind should occur to the hero, they would never forgive themselves, and consequently extraordinary precautions have been taken that nothing shall happen to him.

Wing Commander H. M. Brock, in charge at Kenley Station, has issued an order to his two squadrons of air fighters that Captain Lindbergh is not to be given any plane except the one carefully tested and designated for his Paris trip to-day. Nor is he to be taken as a passenger by other pilots. Night flying is carried out every night at Kenley, and the high officials feared that the adventurer might sally into the clouds last night just for the fun of the thing, or that he might go up with British officers for a lark.

WELCOME W. I. HEARS ADDRESS

Mrs. Lowe Gives Instructive Talk On Duties of Institute.

MANY GOOD POINTS.

WELCOME, June 3.—In Morish on Friday afternoon the ladies of the Women's Institute met and they were addressed by Mrs. Lowe. She talked to them for a few moments at first on the "Women's Institute and Its Duties."

It is hard to make women realize why the Institute is organized. It is a society where every member must take part. Sometimes one is asked to read a paper and she hesitates, probably because of timidity.

They should feel as if they belong to one family when they are meeting together. A roll call is a splendid thing for each institute to have where every woman answers her name with a quotation, joke or recipe—anything is better than only saying "present". When we go to visit a friend we do not go and sit down and wait to be entertained. We do our part in the carrying on of the conversation. It is just the same in the institute. Every one should do their part in entertaining the other members.

A good thing in one's general outlook in life is to be prompt. Be on time when you are going to an institute meeting. If you are slack in a minor detail like that, you will be slack in other more important things. Some institutes are dealing with historical research work. Many are trying to find out the life of our early settlers, especially in this year, our Diamond Jubilee. In order to do this they established small museums where interesting old-fashioned implements and articles may be brought. Again a grandmother's meeting may be held where the elderly ladies come and relate some of their early experiences.

The ladies should be interested in school work. They should have at least one lady on each school board. They should see that the school is clean. Children spend most of their days in school and it is here that the contagious diseases are prevalent, those which have such lasting results. They could meet the teacher when she is beginning her school term and see that she finds an interesting and pleasant boarding house. The teacher should feel as if all the mothers are trying to help her to educate the children.

The plan of the institute is to have "something to see, to hear, or to do." Demonstrations, papers or singing readily carry out this program. Directors can be obtained in home-nursing, serving courses, or domestic science for practically nothing, and see what results are obtained. They should be plenty of music in a meeting because people enjoy music.

It would be well to have a press and advertising committee to see that everything that is being attempted or planned is well known through the local papers.

A musical committee is rather a novel idea but a good one. A Glee Club could be established. The general idea is that young people care only for dancing. The speaker did not condemn it but stated that we should have a chaperon committee to accompany them and see that the company and music was alright.

Failure is only a stepping-stone to success. People who succeed look for circumstances and then make them. Napoleon's motto was "Go on and carry on." Thus the institute should be a band of women, working together in perfect harmony for the general welfare of mankind but beginning their work at home first and then seeking wider fields for activity.

Following this address was community singing and then the speaker gave a short but interesting address on "Self-Control.'"

Self-Control.

It depends on us whether we make or mar ourselves. It is what we make ourselves that counts. When we fail we say "We are what God made us. We are placed here as finality—not as a possibility. We are creatures of circumstance whether we gain or lose." That is for us to decide.

This power of self-control is one of the great qualities which distinguish us from the animal. We must stand or fall. Surrender to hopeless conditions makes a slave of ourselves. As we master opposing influences we gain a step in self-control. When we bear small trials with fortitude, nature is only storing these up in a reservoir which will sustain us on bigger trials. Every day is disciplinary and so we should do certain disagreeable tasks which are a moral discipline for us. Self-control comes through a study of ourselves. Is it selfishness, vanity, laziness, lack of purpose that brings self-control? Lack of self-control causes worry. Laughing means everything to us. We must love each day with no regret for the past or useless worry for the future. Shall we be kings or slaves? It has been said: "He who conquers his own spirit is greater than he who takes a city. Happiness is derived from a natural flow of duty. Thus we can train daily and feel ourselves becomes stronger or we can submit and fail.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

A peculiar mishap befell a little girl last night on George street. She was standing on the sidewalk when a car ran into the flagpole situated outside the Royal Bank. The pole was knocked over and broken and a piece struck the bystander, who fortunately escaped with slight bruises.

THIS HAS HAPPENED.

LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, mysteriously summoned to the queer little jungle-bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, encounters an old friend, VILAK, who tells him it was he who had sent for him.

Vilak's cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl, owns a coffee plantation and other land near Porto Verde, and has received mysterious warnings to get out of the country. Vilak is alarmed, because several deaths already have occurred and the superstitious natives think some supernatural force is at work.

The day Nunnally arrives another man is killed, TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise Marberry's foremen. He had been hit with a club in the hands of LIMEY POTTS, another foreman. Before he died a strange paralysis took hold of him, and Vilak confides to Nunnally that he is certain Limey Potts, though he may have struck the victim, was not the murderer.

That evening Vilak induces Nunnally to come with him on a visit to the house of GAYLORD PRENTISS a reticent and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise. Vilak believes Prentiss is somehow involved in the mysterious deaths.

Before going to Prentiss' place, Vilak and Nunnally call on Elise Marberry. After a few minutes, Vilak, out of a clear sky, demands of Elise what took place in her house that afternoon.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER VII.

Elise's face clouded. Her black eyes half closed to avoid the steadiness of Vilak's gaze. "I don't know what you're talking about," she murmured.

"You know perfectly well. I could tell the minute you sat down there and began beating with your fan in that staccato fashion that something was wrong. You don't get rhythmic unless you're absorbed. You can't lie to me, my dear. I know you too well. Besides, all the furniture in this room has just been moved. And not carefully moved either. Moved in haste. I can tell by the scratches on the floor and the bruised places on the rugs. I should say it was about five o'clock. There are tiny bits of cracker crumbs scattered about, so you must have been having tea at the time. Possibly the maid in her haste knocked the crackers over. Certainly it was after you had been attacked in the road and after poor Tony was killed."

"You know about that attack on me, too? I thought you would."

"Of course. It's my business to know everything. That's why you got me down here. Come. Tell me the truth. Don't mind Nanny. He's one of the family. What happened here this afternoon?"

She folded the fan together with a snap. "I didn't want to tell you now. I didn't see any need of frightening Mr. Nunnally. I didn't like to talk about these tragedies while he was here. But I guess he knows enough anyway. Something did happen. You were right about the time, too. Quite close to tea. I had come back from town, not really much upset by Tony's shout along the road—I hadn't heard about the poor fellow's death then—and was sitting on the veranda with Tinky, when I decided to go into my bedroom and get one of those new books that came from the States the other day. Usually I go into the bedroom by the door directly off from the veranda. This time, for no particular reason, I happened to go around through the door near the living-room."

She paused a moment, then went on. "I reached it and was about to put my hand on the knob, when you can believe that I was amazed to hear the sound of faint breathing inside, for I make a particular point of letting none of the servants in there except Hannah, my cook, whom I brought from the States, and she was in the kitchen.

"I looked through the keyhole. And behind the curtain, beside my bed, I saw the perfect outline of a man's body. Then I acted like a fool. Instead of sensibly going and getting some of the servants and a pistol, I reverted to the young lady of the Victorian period that I so much detest and screamed. I suppose my nerves were affected more than I thought after that scare on the road. Of course, whatever the reason, it ruined everything. The man inside heard me and darted out through the veranda, without my so much as seeing him, for naturally when I was screaming I wasn't thinking about keeping my eyes on the keyhole.

"Nobody saw him, in fact, though we turned every room upside down, in the belief that he might have hidden in some other part of the house. But he wasn't there. It's quite likely he got up on the roof and jumped down when it got dark. There are plenty of places to hide there and I didn't think of it until too late. I am luckier than I deserve to be. If I'd gone into my bedroom the way I do ninety-nine times out of every hundred, our uninvited guest would have had me in there alone and I would have been helpless."

Vilak meditatively traced with his shoe tip the conventionalized roses worked into the design of the parquet floor. "Nothing in the house touched? No jewels? No papers?"

"Nothing. But something outside the house was. Something quite serious."

The Mongolian cast of Vilak's eyes brightened as he leaned forward attentively. "And that was?"

"Guns. Every one of the rifles we had in the storehouse has been stolen. Except the pistol I have in the bedroom, the whole fazenda is absolutely without a weapon. And the singular part of it is that there wasn't a trace of how they could have been taken, though the ground was terribly soggy everywhere about and every step made a print three or four inches deep. And they could only have disappeared since four o'clock this afternoon, for the first thing I did in coming back from town after my scare was to get some more cartridges for my revolver. It's positively uncanny how those guns disappeared. Schwartz, my German foreman, swears he saw nobody. But, however they did it, the point is that we are absolutely without firearms."

Vilak snapped open his cigaret case. "Will you believe now that your life is in danger every hour you remain here?"

She nodded, "Yes."

"Do you realize that the one employe on whom you could whole-heartedly rely, and who has been more or less your bodyguard has been put out of the way and that the next blow may logically be directed against you? That you haven't the slightest idea of where the blow is coming from, why it's coming, and with the exception of your colored cook you haven't a single worker you can trust?"

"Yes."

"Will you take the first and only boat that leaves here next week and go to Rio deJaneiro?"

"Certainly not."

"Suppose I order you to go. What then?"

"I'll merely ask you where you get your authority."

Vilak swung on his heel toward the chemist. "There you are," he said, with a mock gesture of resignation. "I told you it would happen. But I know better than to waste time arguing with her. I'm going out to look at that storehouse. My respected relative can come along if she wants to."

They walked out the door into the clear night, and going to a small cottage where four great shadowy warehouses loomed blackly against the horizon, found Schwartz, the German who had charge of the fazenda properties. He was a little man, quite fat, apparently much too fat for his comfort or his arduous duties, for great heavy tear bags swelled under his eyes and his skin was splotched here and there with areas of asthmatic purple. Yet his voice betrayed none of this bodily laziness, being polite but tinged with the short curt note of one accustomed to command.

His great distress over the theft of the afternoon was quite apparent, when Elise and her two companions knocked at his door, explaining that she wished to take Mr. Davis and his friend to the shed where the theft had been committed.

"Ach, it's terrible, terrible, Fraulein Marberry," he murmured as he led the way to a small stone building near the edge of a wood where the rifles and more valuable tools were kept. "I gif you mine word I am afraid. And I, Adolf Schwartz, am not a coward. Once before has this happened. Ven I vas on der veldt in South Africa on der estate of a rich Englishman. Von night all der guns disappears and der next before he can get new ones, for der city iss many many miles away, someone iss come and kill him in his bed, why knows nobody. Ach, I like not to think of deess days." He shuddered. "I tells you, Miss Marberry, I stay. But if I iss you I go away."

They neared a clump of bushes not far from the stone shed. "Stop here a minute," Vilak asked. The others halted. He drew out his flashlight and stepping carefully ahead, directed it to the footprints deep in the mud. They were of two sorts, one small, gracefully shaped, the other broad and squarish. "Those big ones are yours, of course?" he asked of Schwartz.

"Ya, ya," the German answered eagerly. "I makes dem ven I come mit Miss Marberry tonight. It iss no use for you to look, Herr Davis. We haf look, und look, and look, till our backs break, and we find nuddings. How they hav get dem digns out ven all der doors and windows iss locked, I, Adolf, do not know. Sometimes I think dat der savages iss not so crazy ven they say dat if a man knows der evil spirits in der jungle he can talk to them and they vill make magic."

He shook his fist at the leafy blackness on the horizon. "Where I vill get new guns, dot I do not know. And without guns dot damn jungle he is to fear. Listen, Fraulein Marberry, listen to Adolf Schwartz. Go away. Quick. Schnell. Schnell."

Best, cheapest and goes farthest

We have always maintained that Magic is the cheapest baking powder because it goes the farthest. And that is also the opinion of the many thousands of housewives who use it constantly.

Mrs. B. Marsh, Prescott, Ont., recently wrote:—

"I have tried all kinds of baking powder, but I have found that Magic is the best, cheapest, and goes the farthest. My pastries are as light as a feather and I shall never use any other baking powder but Magic."

Ask for and insist on getting "Magic" Baking Powder. No other is "just the same."

MEXICO PLACES BAN ON STATES

IN RETALIATION

MEXICO CITY, June 3.—By order of President Calles, all Federal dependencies in Mexico will stop buying supplies in the United States. The order was dictated in retaliation for the embargo on shipments of war materials to the Mexican Government. "A systematic embargo," the President's decree reads. His order will take effect at once. It will reduce exports from the United States to Mexico by several million dollars.

President Calles' sharp order was the first intimation made publicly in Mexico that the American Government was laying obstacles in the way of shipments of war materials into Mexico. It has been generally supposed that the only embargo in force was that applied to shipments to revolutionary factions.

"In view of the fact that the United States of North America has established a systematic embargo on merchandise acquired by the various dependencies of the Federal Government," the presidential decree stated, "the executive has seen fit and hereby orders that they abstain entirely hereafter from buying directly or indirectly in that republic, furniture, machinery and all other articles in general for administration of public service. Such purchases shall be made in all cases from commercial houses within national territory."

The Mexican embassy and consulates in the United States will be notified to make no further outlays there for the accounts of the Mexican Government.

LONG LIVE THE KING!

"There goes Garge 'E's looking well. 'Is trip to Epsom must have done 'im good."

This remark, quoted by an American journalist to illustrate the affectionate regard of the British people toward His Majesty King George, comes to mind on this, the birthday of the head of the Empire.

King George holds a firm place in the hearts of citizens of the British Commonwealth wherever they may be located, such a place as is held by few rulers.

Britishers look upon their King with friendly eyes; they are interested in his movements, love to see him or read of him at public gatherings, appreciate the willingness with which he enters into the affairs in which his people are interested.

As the head of the Empire King George not only has the respect of his people but, more than that, he possesses their love.

And so today, the Empire over, citizens of the British Empire will fervently say today:

"The King! God bless him!"

"BEAUTY" CONTESTS.

We agree with the Osservatore Romano, official organ of the Vatican, that no good comes of those contests in which young women measure their physical attractions for the sake of cash prizes, motion picture contracts, and that sort of thing. The typical "beauty" contest has less than the dignity and decorum of a live stock show. It has the same physical basis, but in addition an atmosphere of intrigue and suspicion among managers and contestants is lacking from the exhibit of sheep or cattle.

One need not be prudish to find objectionable the parade of young women in abbreviated bathing suits before critical judges and curious spectators, and the frank comment which follows them. If it is desirable that women should be judged publicly on the shapeliness and perfection of their forms it would be rather more becoming that they should be given a classification in the stock shows at exhibitions and county fairs.

Undoubtedly it is true, as the Osservator Romano says, that participation in a beauty show tends to unsettle those who taste therein an unhealthy publicity. Most of them, of course, settle down again to the routine of living, with nothing out of it but an experience which they relate to their children and grandchildren, but there is in the whole thing an element of bad taste if not of danger to inexperienced youth which ought not to be encouraged.—Ottawa Journal.

AN IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

The outstanding feature of the Canadian Legion convention so far as the public was concerned was the memorial service at the cenotaph last evening, one of the most impressive ceremonies of this nature that Peterborough has ever witnessed.

The visiting delegates, a large number of Peterborough's returned soldiers, the local militia units, the Collegiate Institute and Public School cadets and many prominent citizens gathered to pay tribute to the memory of the hundreds of soldiers from this city who gave up their lives in the World War, and the simple but dignified service very effectively testified to the general desire that the sacrifice of these men should not be forgotten.

It is well that there should be such services.

They not only keep green the memory of gallant soldiers who have answered the last roll call, but they serve to animate the community with a quickened sense of patriotism and love of country.

Peterborough is the better for such ceremonies as that of last evening, which will always serve to keep the 1927 convention of the Ontario Commamd of the Canadian Legion fresh in the memory of local citizens.

SPIRITUAL PROGRESS.

Several church bodies have passed resolutions regretting the fact that the Diamond Jubilee booklet, "Sixty Years of Canadian Progress," issued by the Dominion Government, contains no reference to the spiritual growth of the Dominion in the last sixty years.

But is a book of this nature the proper medium to discuss religious growth in Canada, and should a Civil Service Department be called upon to endeavour to measure accurately the spiritual progress of the country?

In the first place, how would spiritual growth be estimated?

A mere table showing the number of churches and adherents of those churches at Confederation compared to the present figures in this regard would be of little real value as a guide to the religious progress of the Dominion.

For instance, The London Advertiser, discussing this point, says:

"Merely to satisfy curiosity, but without attempting to plumb the depths of the spiritual ocean, we give a few figures. From 1871 to 1921 Roman Catholics increased from 1,492,029 to 3,389,636. Their percentage of the population declined in the period from 42.80 to 38.57, due probably to Protestant immigration and the creation of new Provinces in which Protestantism predominated. Presbyterians increased in the same period from 544,998 to 1,409,407, and the percentage increased from 15.63 to 16.04. Anglicans increased from 494,079 to 1,407,994, and the percentage from 14.17 to 16.02. Methodists grew from 567,091 to 1,159,459, while the percentage declined from 16.27 to 13.19. Baptists numbered 239,343 in 1871 and 421,731 in 1921. The feature to be noted here is the relative gain made by the Anglicans, which is probably due in large measure to the much larger proportion of English immigrants in recent years. The English population has grown since 1871 from 706,389 to 2,545,496, the Irish from 846,444 to 1,107,817, and the Scottish from 549,946 to 1,173,637. This has a certain interest, but we do not flatter ourselves that it is a perfect index of spiritual growth."

PETERBOROUGH'S CADETS.

Peterborough's cadets, both of the Collegiate Institute and of the Public Schools, covered themselves with glory at the annual inspection yesterday by Captain Heron, the District Cadet Officer.

At no time since the cadet movement was launched here have the two corps exhibited such smartness, steadiness and soldierly behaviour.

It may have been that the presence of such distinguished officers as General Gunn, D.S.O., and Col. K. MacKay, D.S.O., had a tonic effect upon all ranks, or that, in the case of the Public School cadet inspection in the afternoon, the largest attendance of citizens on record was registered, but at all events, the showing made by both Collegiate Institute and Public School pupils was such as to reflect the greatest credit upon their teachers, officers, Sergt.-Major Thomas and the cadets themselves.

The inspecting officer was loud in his praises of both units, and General Gunn was equally eulogistic in his references.

The presence of so many parents among the spectators was conclusive proof that they are keenly interested in the cadet movement, and have no such fears as obsess Miss Agnes MacPhail and others of her school.

Cadet training is here to stay, and the greater interest shown by the public and the steady improvement shown by the cadet units themselves are most satisfactory to those who recognize the value and benefit of the cadet movement.

GROWING CANADA!

This year, immigration will probably be the biggest since before the war, according to the opinion of railway and Government authorities. That means that more workers will settle on Canadian lands and enter Canadian factories and the various other industries and services that make up our economic system. By serving the country they will draw a living from it. In turn they must build the business of others by buying their requirements and by investing their savings here.

This is in addition to the natural growth of population. We have a birth-rate well above the death-rate, so that even of ourselves we do not stand still. Every year many thousands of native-born Canadians leave childhood and take their place in production, adding to the wealth of the country by what they earn and by what they spend.

And it is not true that all of this natural growth is drawn off across the border. At times the difference in the relative prosperity of the two countries has been sufficient to cause a heavy emigration from Canada, and this certainly was the case a few years ago. But at other times we have got our own, and more than our own, back from the United States. For long years before the war farmers by the thousands sold their lands across the border and took up the cheap lands of the Canadian West. These thousands, or rather hundreds of thousands, are today producing in Canada, spending in Canada, and saving in Canada. And present conditions favor Canada, because we are, if anything, going ahead more rapidly than are our neighbours and at least holding our own in respect to the movement of people.

The growth of a country, however, is a little more complex than mere additions to population. There is economic growth which is in part the result of and in part a cause of growth of population. People seldom move out of a mere whim; they generally have an eye to their material prosperity. Industrial developments now planned or actually under way in this country are laying the foundations for a much greater number of people than is now contained within our borders. From the Portland Canal to the Bay of Fundy there are resources in process of development, so rich that when a little preliminary work is done they will guarantee the livelihood of hundreds of thousands. Millions of acres of farm lands now unused or unsettled will be producing within a decade. Premiers and Norandas undoubtedly still lie untouched, and hundreds of lesser mining properties are actually in sight. Great lumber and paper areas have still to be tapped. Only a fraction of our water power sites are in use, and electricity is the basis of many manufacturing industries. Railway and steamship services, and the various public utilities, necessarily grow with population and production, while in manufacturing and retail distribution there is going on a constant reorganization and improvement, which cheapens goods to the consumer and at the same time releases thousands of workers for other branches of production.

For a concrete expression of this economic growth, we have only to look at the figures of our banks, life insurance companies, and our stock exchanges. Every year the premium collections of the life insurance companies increase by millions, and the vast funds accumulated by them are invested in productive enterprise. Savings bank deposits grow, and help to finance business. Direct investments by the public capitalize new companies which create new wealth and new income. The keen students of our stock exchanges are continually finding new prospects and new values. The earning power of the great producing organizations of the country is year by year expressed in higher and higher valuations of their capital, and it is this function of our stock markets, so often abused as "speculation," which sums up with more or less accuracy the advance in progress as of the country.

And this growth of the past few years has been a stable thing That of the war and of the two years following the war was in comparison a mere mush-room, founded on inflated currency and war demands—both of which added to the public debt without creating any corresponding new assets or earning power. Since 1920 many currencies have been restored to a gold value, among these being the notes of Great Britain and those of the Dominion of Canada, while in many other countries not quite so fortunate, a substantial improvement has been made. Commodity prices, instead of rising in the currency balloon, not only had a sharp reaction, but have continued slowly downward. It is a double tribute to the possibilities of this country that its progress has been so pronounced in the face of such a handicap to production.—Monetary Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Long live King George!

Even Miss Agnes MacPhail would have enjoyed the local cadet inspection had she been here yesterday.

Peterborough's Diamond Jubilee celebration looms bigger as the date draws nearer. With the co-operation of the community, the event will be the biggest in the city's history.

The movie camera men overlooked a bet if they didn't get flashes of the opening of the Government liquor stores.

The Peterborough convention of the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion will be remembered by the organization because of the progress made toward a better understanding and a stronger faith in the Legion.

SUCCESSFUL SEASON ENDS AT HART HOUSE

Both Artistically and Financially Season Now Ending Was Best in Theatre's History.

TORONTO, June 3 (Canadian Press).—When Hart House theatre, Canada's premier Community Playhouse, which has its being in Toronto, closed its doors for the summer just recently, it concluded its most successful season, both artistically and financially, according to Walter Sinclair, its director. Eleven plays, three of them the work of Canadian playwrights, the rest, productions with established reputations either on the professional or the amateur stage, were presented.

The fame of Hart House theatre as a laboratory of dramatic art, where experts in stage production conduct a laboratory of dramatic art, where experimental research with the most modern stage equipment at their fingertips, has spread, during its eight season, far beyond the boundaries of the Dominion. It is the parent of the Little theatre movement now gaining strength in many Canadian cities; and, so interesting have been its ventures that the eyes of all advocates of the amateur stage throughout the English-speaking world are following its development.

"Our players are drawn from the community at large," stated Mr. Sinclair, in reviewing the season's work, "and during the past eight years nearly fine hundred amateurs have taken part in our productions. Over a score of these are now continuing the careers commenced at Hart House on the professional stage.

"Among the players whose work drew particular praise from the critics this season, Ivor Lewis, A. J. Rostance and Frances Rostance were outstanding. Many other amateurs displayed astonishing art and technical skill, strengthening the proof that the amateur theatre has a distinct future before it in this country."

Writing on the importance of the amateur theatre in Canada's cultural development in a recent issue of "The Canadian Forum," Fred Jacob found his strongest argument for non-commercial production in the excellence of "T'Marsden's," a genre comedy of Yorkshire life presented at Hart House last January. This play, whose author, James R. Gregson, has consistently devoted his art to the amateur theatre, both as director and playwright, was one of the most notable successes of 1926-27.

"At Mrs. Beam's," another well-known English comedy, proved very popular, while Thackeray's Christmas pantomine, "The Rose and the Ring," revived at the festive season, was so enthusiastically received that Mr. Sinclair promises a third revival for next Christmas. "Twelfth Night," presented in April, was revived as the closing offering of the season in response to an eager demand.

The range and ambition of the Hart House workers and the excellence of the human material at their disposal are further testified to by the successful production during the winter of such plays as Bernard Shaw's "Heartbreak House" and "The Man of Destiny," and St. John Ervine's "John Ferguson."

The Canadian bill for this season is composed of three plays by well-known Canadian writers. "Come True" is by Mazo de la Roche, who has recently carried away so many literary honors; Duncan Campbell Scott is the author of "Joy! Joy! Joy!" a highly dramatic study of terror; while "The Last Cache" is by Isobel Ecclestone Mackey, of Vancouver.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, June 3 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in grain here yesterday was quiet owing to the very limited demand from foreign buyers overnight. There was some inquiry from New York exporters for Manitoba Spring wheat here, but no business resulted.

The domestic trade was also quiet, but the undertone continued firm.

A fair amount of business was done in Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour and values were well maintained.

A feature of the millfeed trade was the stronger feeling that prevailed in the market for middlings and prices were advanced $1.00 per ton. This was attributed to the increased demand and the small supplies available.

The egg market was moderately active and firm. The receipts were 1,212 cases.

The potato trade was fair and the undertone was steady. Car lots of New Brunswick Green Mountains were quoted at $2.45 to $2.50 per bag of 90 pounds; Quebec White 3 grade at $2.40 per bag, and Reds at $2.00 to $2.10 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

There was no improvement in the condition of the cheese trade owing to the continued indifferent attitude of foreign buyers. In the absence of any important transactions it is difficult to quote prices. The receipts were 5,153 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 3 (Canadian Press).—Soaring 4¾c beyond all recent high records, corn yesterday held a big share of the gain despite immense selling to realize profits. Persistent wet weather that hinders planting and reduces acreage appeared to eclipse all other factors in the corn market.

Closing quotations on corn were unsettled, 1⅞ to 2⅞ net higher; wheat 2⅛ to 2⅝ down; oats unchanged to ⅝c up, and provisions showing 7 cents to 15c advance.

Wheat met selling pressure on all rallies and closed weak, better weather southwest and in Canada took off the edge of demand, although unofficial crop summaries yesterday pointed to an average of 34,000,000 bushels less than was the case a month ago.

Oats, like corn, rose to a new high price record for the season owing mainly to the action of corn.

Provisions were firmer, responsive to the trend both of hog values and of corn.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, June 3 (Canadian Press)).—Cattle 10,000; fed steers, yearlings and butcher stock strong to 25c higher; mostly strong to 15c up; weighty steers scare; best $13.25; yearlings $12.25; bulk fed steers $10.25 to $11.75; most yearlings, including mixed lots, $9.50 to $10.50.

Sheep 11,000; fat lambs active; unevenly strong to 25c higher; better grade lambs selling mostly at advance; bulk good Californias $16.25, few medium Californias around $15; top natives $16.50; bulk $16 to $16.75.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL

FASTER
By Dr. Frank Crane.

A man by the name of H. O. D. Segrave from England has come over to America with a peculiar kind of automobile and has made a mile in seventeen seconds, or over 203 miles an hour.

This is the fastest that any automobile has ever gone. It marks another record in the history of automobiling.

Just what its effect will be upon the automobile industry it is hard to say. But the incident is indicative of the times.

Whether we are getting better or not and whether we are progressing or not we are all certainly going faster.

Ships cross the ocean in six days and a hundred years ago it took them weeks.

We travel in express trains across the continent in five days, when it used to take months. The plodding ox has given way to the 7-league boots of steam.

It is a common thing for airplanes to fly through the air at the rate of 100 miles an hour. We dart up to the top of a 20-story building in elevators and dash under the street level from the suburbs into town via the subway.

Typists get off 50 letters nowadays in the time it use to take a person to write one by hand. The sewing machine speeded up the business of making clothes tremendously. They are now made by machinery and by wholesale, where they formerly were laboriously put together by hand.

And what shall we say of the sewing machine, the fountain pen and other devices?

The effect of this has not only been a great increase in production, but it has been to release a great deal of human effort for other things. We work faster and get more done in an hour than we used to do in six hours, consequently we have more leisure.

And art and culture are the products of leisure.

The by-product of this great industrialism therefore is a people with more time for better things, and while there is much talk of crime and viciousness as a product of our modern age, I personally think that the result has been that the world is growing better.

With the electric cooker, the vacuum and such things a woman can get her housework done now in a fraction of the time it used to take her. She need not be continually employed in household drudgery.

So far from the machine enslaving man, therefore, it seems to me that the improvement of machinery has liberated mankind.

RED CROSS Nurses are Angels of Mercy to Frontier Settlers

DEATH threatened 19-year-old Clarence Helgerson. An operation might save his life. But no doctor was available . . . the nearest hospital was 100 miles away . . . no train for two days!

Helped by a railroad worker, the Red Cross Outpost Nurse put her patient on a "gas jigger" and started the same evening . . . It was 20 below zero!

The gas container sprang a leak . . . in the biting darkness, the nurse and her helper pushed their handcar four miles to a wayside station where the agent gave them food and another jigger . . . they arrived at the hospital early next morning. Helgerson was found to have a ruptured appendix and peritonitis . . . he was operated upon at once . . . his life was saved.

On the fringes of Canada's advancing civilization stand the 39 Red Cross Outpost Hospitals. In these remote districts doctors are few, skilled nursing attention is lacking. The Red Cross comes to their aid.

Since the War
THE RED CROSS
has disbursed
7 Million Dollars
for the Soldiers, Women, Children and Frontier Families of Canada.
"STILL SERVING"

Each Outpost serves a population scattered over hundreds of square miles. To it the settlers come . . . ten, twenty, fifty miles . . . to find the skilled attention they must have if their lives are to be saved. Here the Red Cross Nurse is a true Angel of Mercy, serving with skill, courage and unflagging devotion.

Last year 743 mothers gave birth to their babies under the Red Cross care . . . most of them must otherwise have gone unattended. In all, 3088 patients spent 30,896 days in the Outpost Hospitals. Operations were performed . . . fevers allayed . . . suffering mitigated . . . many lives saved to Canada. More of these Outposts are urgently needed, and will be established when you provide the funds.

Canada needs the Red Cross. It brings to thousands the skilled help and kindly attention no other agency supplies.

WILL DISCUSS MISSIONS.

ST. THOMAS, June 3.—Struck by an automobile on the No. 3 Provincial Highway in front of the United Church at Shedden on Sunday evening, Richard J. Dunlop, a prominent farmer of that locality, died of his injuries at his home yesterday afternoon.

He suffered a fracture at the base of the skull and never regained consciousness. Mrs. Dunlop was also knocked down, but was not seriously injured. An inquest has been ordered.

Mr. Dunlop was born in Ireland 68 years ago, and moved to Shedden from Hamilton four years ago. Besides his widow, five sons and four daughters survive. They are: Arthur of Shedden; David of Chicago; Rev. George Dunlop of Montreal; Samuel in Wisconsin, and Richard of Glasgow, Scotland. Misses Lillian and Betty, both of Niagara Falls, and Misses Ruth and Sadie, both of Buffalo.

Discussion was abruptly terminated by the announcement of the secretary that Colonel L. R. Lafleche, acting Dominion President had entered the room. The assembly rose as one man to greet him, and the singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," testified to the enthusiasm of the veterans at the arrival of Colonel Lafleche.

To insure district representation on the executive, the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion yesterday adopted the report of the zoning committee, dividing the province into twelve districts or electoral areas. Peterborough Branch is included in District No. 10 with Oshawa, Port Hope, Cobourg, Brighton, Lindsay and Lakefield.

The defining of the Toronto area gave rise to considerable discussion, with one little flare-up that momentarily harked back to the contentious question of Tuesday afternoon. The convention had already approved of the Toronto expedient of forming a district council, providing local autonomy, and enlisting the support of the civilian advisory board which General Gunn sketched in his presidential address. Other districts may, if they choose, form their own council. By this means it is believed that such councils would tend to strengthen district groups of Legion branches and to a large extent relieve the provincial executive of some of the administration burden.

Comrade Harry Bray of Toronto expressed the opinion that if the Toronto council method were followed by other districts the provincial organization would be superceded by these smaller district councils and would in effect be stripped of its usefulness.

Mr. Bray's remark that the Toronto council plan had sprung from the same source as the criticism published on Tuesday elicited prompt and vigorous protest and denial from Comrade Ford of Toronto and several others, but the discussion was directed by the chairman to the subject of the zoning report.

Mr. Bray was informed that the electoral zoning plan and the Toronto district council were two separate ideas and did not necessarily overlap. The zoning proposal was devised to assure representation on the executive for every section of the province.

The committee's report was adopted.

Sent Telegram

Lt.-Gen. Sir Richard Turner, V.C., K.C.B., K.C.M.G., First President of the Dominion Command, sent the following telegram to the Convention

QUEBEC, Ont., June 2.—Regret exceedingly being unable to be with you owing to indisposition. My great desire is that Ontario by an united provincial organization will take the lead in the Legion to which it is entitled having furnished nearly fifty per cent of the men that served the Empire from Canada.

R. E. W. Turner.

1.—That the incoming provincial executive council be empowered to enter into such arrangements with the dominion executive in connection with the supply of poppies and wreaths as may appear to the said executive to be reasonable and business like, but always on the understanding that it be clearly understood that our provincial executive is merely a convenient intermediary and is not attempting to make a revenue or to commercialize the annual demand for poppies. Carried.

2.—That, in view of the fact that the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, meaning the national executive acting on behalf of all branches of the Canadian Legion in Canada, and so authorized at the Dominion Convention in Winnipeg in January last, have entered into a contract with the D.S.C.R. as the sole distributors in Canada of poppies in connection with Armistice Day; Be it resolved, that this convention go on record as requesting all branches and committees to purchase their supplies, poppies and wreaths, only through the regular channel, i.e., the provincial executive. Moved by Comrade Caswell, Fairbanks: Seconded by Comrade Cooper, Walkerville. Carried.

3.—Poppy Day—Your committee would recommend: That advisory boards be established by every city, town and village in Ontario, to confer with the advisory board in Toronto through the provincial command to the end that through their joint co-operation, ways and means may be devised to have Poppy Day funds collected and dispersed in as uniform a manner as is possible throughout the whole of Ontario. Moved by Comrade Mess, London; seconded by Comrade Marlow, Hamilton. Carried.

4.—That a separate bank account be kept of all monies being received from the Poppy Day appeal and an annual statement, properly audited by outside auditors of all receipts and disbursements be given to the outside public where the appeal is made. Moved by Comrade Marlow, Hamilton: seconded by Comrade Caswell, Fairbank. Carried.

5.—Poppy Day Committee—That this convention assembled do express the sincere appreciation of the work and efforts of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion B.E.S.L. and all other bodies who have assisted in the collection of funds on Poppy Day and in the efficient and sympathetic distribution of same. Moved by Comrade Caswell, Fairbank; seconded by Comrade Meighan, East Toronto. Carried by standing vote.

LOCAL PUBLIC

ward school was uniformly dressed in all black stockings with trim shorts. The boys had blue ribbons in their caps, and, all in all, made a very attractive company. It was the only company in the Battalion that went through the physical drill without numbers. And after Captain Heron had congratulated the Company Commander and instructed him to march his company away, when the boys swung into line without a hitch, the inspecting officer again turned to the spectators, clapping his hands and urging them, "Oh, a whole lot more applause!" Again, the boys received it.

Prince of Wales School.

Under Company Commander Herbert Rye, "A" Company from Prince of Wales school made a splendid showing in the same drills as were given to all companies. The march past in line was well executed, and the physical drill was snappily carried out. Sergeant Major Garth Braund made a fine impression, and the Platoon Commanders, Kenneth Jones, George Robertson, Laurence Machen, and William Abbott carried out their duties in a manner that showed their interest in the training. "A" Company won special praise from Captain Hill.

Queen Alexandra School.

Then came the cup winners of the past two years, with traditions to uphold. "E" Company, under Douglas Fraser, had a reputation to look after, and every boy was on his toes. Perhaps they were a little too eager; perhaps they were too conscious of the task they had before them. But no one can say they lacked snap and dash.

From the fall-in under direction of Sergeant Major Kenneth Long, to the final march past, every movement was clean-cut and smart. When an order was given to turn, the heels clicked as one man's. In the physical drill there was a precision of movement that indicated long practice, and at the same time so great energy was put into the exercises that it was evident the boys gained in development through them. Even the closing of ranks, likely to be sloppily performed by regulars, was smartly done. In the march past the feet of 58 boys beat the ground in perfect time, even if the same foot of every boy was not going down at the same time. And so anxious was the Company Commander to march his Company off in proper order and keep the cadets on their toes till the last moment, that he had to be called back to receive the congratulations of the inspection officer.

The Platoon Commanders of "E" Company are: Carl Dorrington, Gordon Smith, Marvin Hamilton, and Lloyd Louis.

King George School.

Company Commander George Merrett has reason to be proud of "F" Company from King George School, and especially of No. 13 Platoon. Everyone remarked on the perfect step and good line of this platoon in the march past, and the way in which all the heads moved together on the commands "Eyes right" and "Eyes front." Sergeant-Major Keith Darrah showed that he knew his work and the Platoon Commanders, Hector Bousfield, William Calladine, Stanford Reid and Edward Brown, in their proving of their platoons, were smart and steady.

Queen Mary School.

There were 89 cadets on the strength of the Queen Mary School Company, and 84 of them were on parade yesterday under Company Commander George Doukas. The work of "C" Company was, on the whole good, but probably the marching was the most outstanding item in the list of exercises. "Very good marching," was Captain Heron's comment as the boys went past, their red and yellow cap-pieces lending a jaunty air to the ranks. The Sergeant-Major is George Lancaster and the Platoon Commanders, Floyd Wagar, Roy Bath, William Widdess and Robert McClellan.

Central School.

Then, last in the inspection order, but destined to be among the first in the inspection report, came Central School "D" Company, under Gordon Millen, with Carlos Routly as Sergeant Major and C. Vincent, W. Todd, Jack Bennett and Allan Harper as Platoon Commanders. This company, like "B" Company is dressed in rolled stockings and shorts, appearing much smarter than the puttees which in the hands of inexperienced boys are inclined to be sloppily rolled.

The proving of the platoons was outstandingly smart, and the line in the march past was notably steady, getting away well and preserving its alignment throughout the turn and advance. Breaking into platoon column was well done, and the cadets picked up their dressing like veterans. The physical drill was exceptionally good, and in the second exercise the results of careful training were shown. In this exercise there is a movement from hands raised above the head to hands extended to the sides from the shoulders. All the other companies, coming from one to the other, slurred through the intermediate position in which the arms are extended to the front. Whether it is called for in the drill book or not, the noticeable angle made in this movement by "D" Company makes a much better appearance.

Another point of excellence in the Central School Company was the marching in fours, in which the swinging of the boys' arms was uniformly correct. To the untrained onlooker it may not appear difficult to swing the arms correctly when marching, but an observer on George street will see nine out of ten persons swinging their arms across their bodies, which is altogether wrong in military training. "Swing the arms from front to rear, not across the body," is the Sergeant-Major's instruction—and the Central School boys had learned the lesson well.

The Presentations.

Following the drilling under Company Commanders, the Battalion reformed in review order and advanced to the general salute, taken again by General Gunn. Then when the cadets had been formed in a hollow square, Captain Heron congratulated them upon their wonderful showing. "I wish to congratulate you on this first class inspection," he said, "the very best you have gone through in the last four years. So well have you done your work that it places you in first place among the public schools in Military District Number Three."

Captain Heron remarked that he had been stationed in many parts of the country, and had come in contact with many Cadet Corps but he did not think he had met any to measure up to the high standard of the Peterborough Battalion. "Everything you have done has been done with smartness and efficiency. Your Battalion Commander, your Company Commanders and all your officers, have done their work splendidly, and every boy has done the best for his school."

"I'd like to take all the credit, as District Cadet Officer," continued Captain Heron, "and say it is all due to me. But I remember your Board of Education, and the interest the members take in you, and the pride they have in your successes; I remember your Inspector and his interest, your principals and cadet instructors, and all their work and interest; I think of Quarter Master Sergeants Instructor Thomas, your Cadet Godfather who takes so great a pride in your work (applause from the boys); I remember The Examiner which is doing, and has always done since I have been in the district, its best for the cadet corps of Peterborough. When I remember all these gentlemen, and these influences, I feel my share of the credit is very small."

Continuing Captain Heron remarked that the competition for the cup was very keen, mere slips putting two companies out of the running. "Two Company Commanders forgot to march off parade," he said, "or to say 'good-bye' to me, whichever you like."

Public School Inspector A. Mowat welcomed General Gunn and invited him to address the cadets.

"Words fail me when I try to express my appreciation of being in Peterborough to-day," said General Gunn. "A great many honors have been heaped upon me as representing the Canadian Legion. It was a great privilege to inspect the Collegiate Cadets, and it is a great privilege to inspect this fine body of Public School Cadets."

Remarking that a resolution favoring cadet training has been placed on the records of the Canadian Legion convention, the speaker told of the benefits of this training. He referred to the splendid type of officers the Peterborough Battalion has, and mentioned Captain Heron as having no peer in efficiency. He urged the boys to walk with their heads up, profiting by their training. "Try to break the top buttons off your coats," he urged. "Your mothers and sisters may raise a row, but they won't after you show them how you are being developed physically. This development, with courtesy and cleanliness is the making of real cadets."

Then, announcing the winners of the silver cup General Gunn led cheers for Captain Heron and for the King.

Medals Presented.

Dr. H. M. Yelland, deputed by the Board of Education to make the presentations, handed to every Company Commander a medal for general efficiency donated by Inspector Mowat. "We were proud of you boys before, we are proud to be here to-day to hear General Gunn and Captain Heron commend your training; and now we are more proud of you than ever," Dr. Yelland said.

The inspection closed with cheers for General Gunn, led by Captain Heron and a march past as the companies went to their dismissal points.

A Company	105
B Company	75
C Company	54
D Company	80
E Company	58
F Company	58

ADDRESS GIVEN AT W.I. MEETING

West Seymour Branch Will Meet Again on June 17.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 3. — The annual summer meeting of Seymour West Women's Institute was held yesterday afternoon in Bethel Church. This being the first meeting since the election of officers, President Mrs. Tom Dunham presided in her official capacity for the first time.

There was an excellent attendance and an equally excellent programme. With the opening code, "A goodly thing it is to meet," heartily sung by members and visitors from other institutes, the meeting was away to a good start.

Miss McGee of Chesterville gave an inspiring address on "Woman's Place and Duty," stressing more particularly woman's place in the home and in politics.

Miss Macoun, recording secretary of the Confederated Women's Institutes, gave an exceedingly patriotic and enlightening address on "Confederation of Canada and the Diamond Jubilee."

Both Miss McGee and Miss Macoun, the visiting speakers, were welcomed in right royal style by the officers and members of Seymour West Institute.

Ex-President Mrs. Robert McCulloch gave a brief address along the line of institute work, which was well received.

A vocal duet by Mrs. Miles and Roy Flemming was very nicely rendered.

At the conclusion of the programme ice cream and cake and other delicate edibles were served.

The next meeting of the Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert McCulloch's on June 17, when Mrs. Edwards of Toronto, ex-president of the Confederated Institutes, will address the meeting. Mrs. Edwards is well and favorably known to Seymour West Institute members, so that a large turnout at the meeting on the 17th inst. is assured.

OBITUARY.

HERBERT HAWTHORNE

CAMPBELLFORD, June 3.—Herbert Hawthorne, 24 years of age, an employee of the Bell Telephone Co., at Sudbury, was instantly killed when a train smashed into the car in which he was driving to work yesterday morning. A brother, George, who is engaged in the plumbing business here, left immediately for Sudbury on receipt of the sad news.

The young man, who was eighteen years of age, had been suffering from heart trouble since an attack of the flu a few weeks ago. He had been forbidden by the doctor to do any work. Yesterday morning he drove his mother in to Havelock in the car to catch the train. Shortly after his return his father was attracted by heavy breathing, and reached his room just before he died.

Besides his parents, five sisters and two brothers survive. They are Mrs. Allen Dafoe of Havelock, Mary and Laura of Toronto, Josephine, Irene, Isaac, and Randal at home.

The funeral takes place to-morrow afternoon, with service at the house at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in Maple Grove Cemetery.

DEAD HEROES ARE HONORED

that he had been permitted to share the experiences of the troops in the firing line. It had taught him many lessons. These men bought the name of Canada and established it with their blood. He was born in Canada, but he did not think he was ever really a Canadian at heart until he witnessed the courage and spirit of service and sacrifice which their men exhibited in the front line trenches. The value of occasions like that which they were celebrating was that they helped to remind the people of the cost of Canadian nationality. It called on them to purify their lives and to make themselves worthy of the sacrifices that had been made for them. They who were carrying on the work of the Legion was helping to keep green the memory of these men who had made this nation what it is among the nations of the world.

Wreaths Deposited.

A wreath was also deposited by Mrs. J. Mills, on behalf of the Local Women's Auxiliary; another was deposited by Mrs. W. R. Morris, and in all nine wreaths, in memory of the fallen generally, or of individual dead were placed around the base.

From the Pipe Band of the Machine Gun Corps came the mournful strains of "Lord Lovat's Lament," and the Union Jack was slowly lowered to the accompaniment of the heart-throbbing dirge of the clansman over the bier of his chief. It was noticed that simultaneously with the lowering of the flag on the mast at the Cenotaph the emblem flying from the top of the Armouries dropped also.

An unexpected addition to the ceremonies around the Cenotaph was a short address from Sir Edward Albert Kemp, K.C.M.G., former Minister of Militia, who was invited by Col. Ackerman to address the gathering.

Sir Edward Kemp

Sir Edward expressed his pleasure at being able to take a part in the celebration. He said he had simply been passing through the city when he learned of the service, and while he had had no intention of taking part, he would have been disappointed if he could not at least have been an onlooker. He wished the Legion every success in the work that had been entrusted to it. He had been in the war, from its civil side, from the day and moment of its outbreak and held office until a year after the conclusion. He had often been in England and France during the war. He had seen all its horrors. He never wanted to see war again. He felt that way today. He was glad to see the School Cadet Corps. He thought it was a magnificent thing in drilling the citizens of the future. Sir Edward paid a fine tribute to the work of the officers and men of the Militia in Canada. He had seen 6,000 of them in parade the other day. It was wonderful to see them. This was not militarism. It was Canadianism. They were not drilling in order to be a warlike nation. These training schemes were merely measures of protection. He wished to compliment every man and every officer in the Militia for the interest they had shown in their organizations under very difficult circumstances. He would not have missed the ceremony for a great deal. He knew what the men had suffered in France. In France and Belgium, Canadians did the greatest thing they had ever done; perhaps the greatest thing they would do this century.

General Gunn

Introducing General Gunn, Col. Ackerman said the General was the president of the Ontario Command during the Legion year which had just concluded, and had been returned unanimously by the Convention as President of the incoming year.

General Gunn, in a brief, pointed speech, thanked the citizens of Peterborough for their kindly reception of the delegates and for the assistance that Peterborough had given to the Legion in its work to aid the returned men.

The Last Post was sounded by a quartette of cornets from the Rangers' Band. Immediately after, came the sharp notes of the Reveille, and the flag was raised.

Colonel Ackerman thanked the citizens for their splendid response in attending the ceremony. He thanked them for what they had done. He did not thank them as Peterborough citizens but as Canadians, representative citizens of Canada and the British Empire.

The ceremony over, the troops reformed into marching order and paraded via Aylmer, McDonnel, George and Murray streets back to the Armories, where they were dismissed.

Peterborough's Cenotaph has as part of its inscription the question. "Shall their glory ever fade?" Last night's demonstration showed that the dead are crowned with deathless praise. They live ever in the hearts of their countrymen, and in the many precious memories that are the heritage of this city and this country none are dearer than the recollection of the khaki-clad lads who left our city and district, and marched out into the night to find immortality.

MILLBROOK W.I. ANNUAL MEETING

Mrs. C. Thorndyke Re-elected President—Financial Report Read.

MILLBROOK, June 3.—The Women's Institute held its annual meeting on Saturday evening, at 8 o'clock, at the home of the treasurer, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, the attendance being mos encouraging.

The retiring president, Mrs. C. Thorndyke, occupied the chair for the opening business session, when the secretary, Mrs. Will Armstrong, reported fifty members having paid fees for the current year, and the treasurer's report showed a total on hand at the beginning of the year of $708.65; expenditures had included the purchase of the new piano for the Town Hall at a cost of over $300, and the amount now in the bank i $338.85.

There were some fees paid at the meeting, and the membership list is already larger than that of last year, with oth rs promised to join.

The decision to offer $5.00 in prize money for the South Cavan School Fair was approved, the money to be divided equally for the best collection of vegetables and of fruits. F. C. Paterson, Agricultura Representative for Durham County, had written his appreciation of the Institute's offe . The money is to go to the school, not to the individual prize winner.

Delegates to the annual meeting, which convenes in the Town Hall, Millbrook, on Monday, June 6, at 2 p.m. were appointed as follows: Mrs. Thorndyke, Mrs. J. R. Eakins, Mrs. R. J. McKnight, Mrs. H. A. Earle, and Miss Burnham. The eight branches which will be represented are: Baillieboro, Mount Pleasant, Bethany, Garden Hall, Cavan, Elizabethville, Charlecote and Millbrook. Mrs. T. A. Skitch, of Baillieboro, is the President, and Mrs. J. R. Eakins, Millbrook, the secretary-treasurer.

A considerable amount of important business is always transacted at the annual meeting, and the local branch acts as hostess to the visitors, serving lunch at the close. The committee appointed to look after the refreshments was: Mrs. C. C. Garside, Mrs. Stuart Fallis, Mrs. H. J. Armstrong, and Mrs. W. West.

The election of officers for 1927-28 resulted as follows: President, Mrs. C. Thorndyke; Vice-President, Mrs. T. H. Harkness; Secretary, Mrs. Will Armstrong; Treasurer, Mrs. T. H. Aiken; District Director, Mrs. R. J. McKnight; Auditors, Mrs. Garside and Mrs. Fred [illegible].

Tre tic from the Neighborhood Association Workers, Toronto, asking if some homes would not be willing to receive two or three children for a two weeks' outing during the summer months, called forth considerable discussion, but apparently either understanding of the object, or sympathy with it we e lacking, for there were no volunteers.

The formation of a Home and School Council, and the matte o providing chaperons for the public dances, both of which were recommended strongly by the recent departmental speaker, Mrs. Lowe, of Toronto, also came up for discussion and finally were left over until the annual meeting. It was felt that if all the branches took concerted action in these matters, more effective work would be accomplished.

Summer School.

The annual Summer School, in connection with the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church, will be held at Bobcaygeon this year, from July 18 to 25, inclu i

Worship, Bible study, Training in Leadership, and Recreation are the topics to be taken up in daily classes. Registrations may be sent to Rev. A. G. Hie, Bobcaygeon. This School has been carried on for several years under efficient leadership, and many of the young people of this district are among the students each year: all report decided help along spiritual, mental and physical lines. Sleeping accommodation is in tents.

Rev. F. H. Howard and Mr. James Might are in Oshawa this week attending the sessions of the annual Conference, the latter representing the local congregation having been officially elected for this purpose. Rev. Joseph Wilks will have charge of the services next Sunday morning and evening, in the pastor's absence; the service at Fallis Line in the afternoon will be withdrawn.

Rev. S. T. Tucker, of Orono, formerly pastor on the Millbrook circuit, expects to move to Thorndale, in the London Conference this year.

Mrs. H. Kennedy, Mrs. H. Russell, and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kennedy motored to Niagara for a week end during "Blossom Week."

The feature of the evening was a mock marriag ceremony, in which Harry Dugan and Fred Scates made a very realistic bride and bridegroom, the former attired in conventional garments, with white dress, shoes, stockings, veil and bouquet. Mr. Fred Craig, in clerical garb and demeanor, made a splendid clergyman for the occasion. Father Peter McGuire, on behalf of the Mother Superior, thanked the choir for the kind thought that had prompted them to come, and hoped they would soon return and give another concert as they did not have many vocal concert. Rev. Father Guiry, in a racy speech, complimented the choir on their efficiency and earnestness, and requested the song "Annie Laurie," to be sung in the 'real Scotch brogue. Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R. Garis

To-day's Bedtime Story.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE FAST DOOR.

Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

(By Howard R. Garis.)

When Uncle Wiggily hopped up the front steps of his hollow stump bungalow one afternoon, and tried to open the door he found that it would not swing back. That is, he could put his key in the hole, turn the lock and twist the knob, but that was all.

The door could be pushed back a little way and there it stuck, being open only about an inch, or, perhaps an inch and a half, for good luck. The crack was very small.

"I never can crawl in through that crack," thought the rabbit gentleman to himself, there being no one in sight to whom he could speak. "I wonder what is the matter with my door?"

Again Uncle Wiggily pushed, but the door would only open a little way, not enough for him to get his pink, twinkling nose inside his bungalow, to say nothing of his whole body.

"What can be the matter?" asked Mr. Longears, and this time he spoke aloud.

"I know what's the matter," answered a voice up in a tree. Uncle Wiggily turned around to look and saw an early spring Robin sitting on a branch.

Again Uncle Wiggily pushed

"Well, Mr. Robin," asked the bunny gentleman, "what is the matter with my door?"

"It is fast," sang the Robin. "Your door is caught fast, so it must be a fast door."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "It is a fast door all right. But what makes it fast? I know it is stuck; but why?"

"That isn't for me to say," answered the Robin as he trilled another song. "All I know is that your door is stuck fast and you can't open it."

"You are telling me no news," said Mr. Longears, sitting down on the top step to think what he had better do. "If you could tell me how to make my door so it isn't fast you would be helping me a lot."

The Robin sang with his head on one side, and then he sang with his head on the other side, and then he chirped:

"If you can't go in the front door because it is fast, why don't you go in the back door? Perhaps that isn't fast."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I never thought of that. 'Tis good advice! I'll try it!"

He was hopping around the path to the back door when Jackie Bow Wow, the little puppy boy, who had just come along, barked out:

"Oh, I wouldn't do that if I were you, Uncle Wiggily."

"What wouldn't you do, Jackie?"

"I wouldn't go around to the back door to get in the bungalow when the front door is fast, Uncle Wiggily."

"Why not, Jackie?"

"Well, you see if the front door is fast it must mean that there is somebody inside your bungalow holding it. Perhaps it is one of the bad chaps; the fox, wolf or bob cat. It wouldn't be Nurse Jane, you know, or your wife, holding the door, would it?"

"No," answered Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose, "I don't believe so. And I hardly think any of my forty 'leven little bunny boys or girls would play such a trick on me as to hold my door fast. As you say, it must be one of the Bad Chaps has gotten in. I must call the police dog. He'll go in the back door and arrest who ever is in my bungalow."

But the police dog could not be found, so Jackie bravely said he would go in the back door with Uncle Wiggily and help him drive out any bad chaps who might be in the bungalow. Slowly and carefully the rabbit gentleman and the doggie boy crept in the back door which was not fast. And when they tiptoed through the hall to the front door not a bad chap did they see. But caught under the lower edge of the door, holding it fast so it could not open, was Boppy, the funny little wooden man who lived nearby in his bungleump, with his wife Um and six wooden Wooglejig children.

"Why, Boppy!" cried Uncle Wiggily, seeing his little friend. "So you held my door fast?"

"Yes," answered Boppy, rolling out of the way, for he had no legs on which to walk. "I came in here to wait for you and I fell asleep in the hall and I guess I rolled under the edge of your door. I have a great favor to ask you, Uncle Wiggily."

"Well, ask it," said the jolly, old bunny gentleman. But what favor Boppy asked, and whether Uncle Wiggily granted it or not you shall hear in another story.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1927

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

Good and evil planetary influences mark this day according to astrology. The early morning is not good for amicable association in business or in the family.

This should be a favorable rule for all who seek employment and there is indication of much work for all who are industrious.

Under this sway good luck is supposed to attend the giving of presents.

There is an auspicious sign for those who make short journeys and week end visits should be especially enjoyable.

The planetary government encourages travel and recreation. There is a forbidding sign for business initiative.

There is a menacing sway for those who sign contracts or begin negotiations of any sort.

The stars encourage deliberate action and he who plans carefully should benefit.

A winnowing of good and evil is foreshadowed, for the causes that are right are to gain in power, the seers prophesy.

While increase of crime, especially those actuated by greed, is forecast, stern measures are to be adopted in dealing with social problems.

Warning is given that the summer may be a time of much romance and sentimentalism, a sign presaging great real life drama.

Before wars or great upheavals of any sort the love interest is rampant, astrologers declare, and they prognosticate world conditions that affect all the emotions.

There is tremendous profit for all who are interested in iron or steel. Transports, motors and railways will bring fortunes to many.

Persons whose birthdate it is should have a year of uneventful prosperity.

Children born on this day are likely to be independent and able to win success. They may be too kindly for their own good and may lose through friends.

$1.00 Ask for No. 870

Today women choose stockings in shades they know are fashionably correct—are Paris-designed to meet the coming modes in shoes and dress materials. So Holeproof, in its colours, offers you the world-famous authority, Lucile, Paris. Each shade Lucile creates and sends exclusively to Holeproof. A new and all-important feature added to these stockings known to 2,000,000 women by their famous fashion points.

Exquisite clearness. In sheer weights clearness comes only through uniformly even thread. The lack of it in cheaper silks causes unsightly shadow rings. So at great cost Holeproof selects silk judged the world's finest.

Superlative transparency, even in the heavier weights. There is no cloudiness, no streaking. First the silk is tested, then it undergoes the special Holeproof treatment.

No loose ends. Loose threads mar appearance. So Holeproof carefully trims the inside of each stocking by hand.

No imperfections. Style vanishes with imperfections. And here Holeproof safeguards you by nine separate inspections. It is a fact that few other fine hose are so uniformly perfect.

GUNN CONVEYS

Sir Edward Kemp Present.

Largely attended, the banquet assembled a distinguished company not only in the delegates who represented their local branches of the Legion but also in those gentlemen who had borne heavy burdens of responsibility during the war, particularly Sir Edward Kemp, Minister of Militia for the greater part of those years.

Col. C. H. Ackerman presided as toastmaster, and among those at the speakers' table were: Mayor Holloway, Judge Huycke, E. A. Peck, M.P.; W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.; Sir Edward Kemp, General Gunn, Col. J. W. McLer; Col. Keiller MacKay of Toronto, Col. La Fleche, Rev. Paul Costello, Rev. Canon Hedley of Toronto, Mrs. E. Mills, Mrs. W. R. Morris, Mrs. R. J. Devey, and Mrs. B. J. Greenaway, Mrs. Gunn and Mrs. Green of Toronto.

The toasts were as follows:

"The King," proposed by Col. Ackerman.

"The British Empire," proposed by Judge Huycke and responded to by Col. Keiller MacKay, D.S.O.

"Canada," proposed by E. A. Peck, and responded to by Sir Edward Kemp and Col. La Fleche.

"The Canadian Legion," proposed by Dr. N. H. Sutton, and responded to by General Gunn.

Our Fallen Comrades—Proposed by Rev. Father Costello and responded to by Rev. Canon Hedley.

The Ladies—Proposed by Col. Ackerman and responded to by Mrs. B. J. Greenaway.

Musical numbers by Madame Fletcher and Bob Hendry were both encored. Madame Fletcher sang, "I Am Fate" by Hamblen, and "A Dream," the contrasting moods of her selections being a striking feature. Her first number was sung with dramatic effect and abundant vocal power and range. Its challenge seemed an echo of the fate of the men of the Legion had defied.

Acting for the local executive and as a token of their appreciation of the financially fruitful work carried on by the Social committee during the winter, Gen. Gunn presented gold mounted pens and pencils to the following members of the committee: N. E. Crowe, O. Hurrie, M. McGill, H. Payne, E Abraham, A. Fisher and A. Everett.

Canada's Task.

Sir Edward Kemp said that the task before Canada to-day was as serious as, and perhaps more so than that which the founders of Confederation had before them in 1867. The great distances in this country created a problem by the very fact that the various parts of Canada were far apart. It was not physically close knit and for that reason needed all the more understanding and goodwill among the provinces.

"But when I recall the deeds of our 420,000 men who went overseas I feel that if that is the stuff our people are made of we can overcome any difficulties we may have to face."

Credentials To King.

Col. La Fleche told of having met the new U. S. Minister to Canada at Ottawa a few days ago and of having been impressed by the fact that the credentials he brought from Washington were to His Majesty King George V, signifying both our nationhood and our British connection.

"The Legion to-day shows a membership of 30,000 in 500 branches," Col. La Fleche continued. "That is just one-quarter of the number the Legion will have before long in Canada. It is gratifying to know that the better citizens are in sympathy with the Canadian Legion, I think they realize we intend to give them value for their kind support."

Judge Huycke's address in proposing the toast to the Empire conveyed a warning and an exhortation to take lesson from the historic example of ancient Rome. The empire of the Caesars had declined and fallen because its people lost their vigor and gave themselves up to luxury, sloth and the accumulation of wealth. Instead of manning their armies with Roman youth, they employed mercenaries and in the hour of danger the hirelings fled.

Judge Huycke referred to the pacifists in Canada, people who decried cadet training and even toy wooden rifles little boys use.

"God knows no one hates war more than you gentlemen," said His Honor. "These people don't know as much as you do about the horrors of war. I don't say that some of them may be not be sincere in their motives, but I feel that others of them are actuated by motives that are not pure and patriotic."

The maintenance of the British Empire, said His Honor, needed virile men and women who would preserve the great heritage that they had received.

Princess Maria Adelaide of Savoy, who is reported to be engaged to wed the Italian crown prince. She is the daughter of Duke Tomaso of Genoa, uncle of the king of Italy, and is 23 years of age.

CARTOON MOVIES ARE EXPLAINED

Many Artists Have Share in Drawing Funny Features.

"Isn't it marvelous how they make those wonderful animated cartoons? I wonder how they do it?"

How many times have you asked that question of yourself or your companion when the funny Aesop's Fables are shown on the screen at the Capitol.

A visit to the studios of this enterprising movie concern is a most novel and educational trip behind the scenes. At least twenty artists leaning over drawing boards and busily sketching, as their nimble fingers make the needle-pointed pencils fly, is the first thing that meets the spectator's eye. So as not to get ahead of our outline, let us start with the birth of the idea that forms the scenario for our Aesop's Film Fables.

A conference is held and each artist has the chance to express his views and suggestions as to the theme and characters in the proposed scenario. All suggestions are taken down by the stenographer and typed, and a scenario is thus formed by the head of the department who practically boils down the score or more of suggestions, into a short story that is filled with humorous situations and screamingly funny gags. With the characters decided upon, the scenario is developed in detail. Scenes, actions and titles are put into proper continuity in the same manner as a scenario for an eight reel extravaganza.

Backgrounds are the first pictures to be drawn. These are sometimes exterior scenes showing woodland country or mountains, or if it is a picture of the Far North, the background is of the icy hills of the Arctic regions. Interiors of rooms are drawn or close-ups of windows or doors, as the case may be. After the backgrounds have been made, the artists immediately set to work animating the various scenes. This means that thousands of drawings must be made for each release so that a life-like effect is the optical illusion when the various drawings are shown on the screen consecutively and in rapid succession.

Each animator is assigned a series of scenes and his drawings are made on translucent tissue paper. Thus, the animator may see the lines of the preceding drawing as he places a new paper over each completed sketch. On the new paper he traces the previous drawing, but moves the arm or leg or head, as the case may be, up to give the started or completed action of the character. This means that each drawing of the character is made in an entirely different position and the mere action of Farmer Al Falfa taking his pipe from his mouth may mean a series of forty to fifty separate drawings. After the picture has been completed by the total number of drawings being made on the tissue paper, these pictures are handed to the tracers who transfer the drawings from the tissue to celluloid sheets, which are of the same size as the paper. Both the papers and the celluloids, or "cells" as they are more commonly known, have been perforated at the top with two holes. These holes on all papers and cells are of the exact distance apart and fit snugly on two pegs that are at the top of the animators', as well as the tracers' drawing boards.

Tracers then fill in the "blacks," or bodies. As we know, Henry Cat is a black cat and Milton Mouse is also of a very dark hue. Water colors, black and white, are always used so that after the cells have been photographed, they may be washed and used again. The completed drawings are numbered by the supervising artist, and the number of photographic exposures necessary to register the desired action is made.

The ordinary motion picture camera takes sixteen pictures or "frames" per second, but the cameras used in photographing Aesop's Film Fables are so arranged that only one "frame" or picture is taken with each turn of the camera handle, which is so arranged that the photographer merely pushes a foot pedal to make the exposure. The entire cartoon release is handed over to the photographers. It is usually between ten and twenty thousand sheets of celluloid. Then the photographer sets to work. He first places the background under the camera eye and fits the celluloid over two pegs that protrude from the camera table. These pegs are, of course, the exact distance apart as are the pegs on the animators' and tracers' drawing boards. The first action picture is placed over the background and as all pictures of action are made on "cells," the background shows through to give the necessary effect.

Upon the completion of the photographing process, the exposed negative is sent to the laboratory for developing. The negative is then developed and a master print made, and after the cutter rearranges this into its proper continuity, the picture is ready for projection.

To present an idea how the photographer or cameraman does his part in the making of animated cartoons, let us suppose the scene is to show Henry Cat emulating Robin Hood sending an arrow into the air. Sherwood Forest is pictured on the "setting sheet" or painted background. This drawing is placed under a frame directly beneath the camera which is focused from overhead. A celluloid sheet bearing a drawing of Henry's body in standing position is superimposed over the Sherwood Forest background. This shows Henry in a natural position for archery—with these exceptions, his arms, bow and arrow are missing. These members are on a second or third sheet of celluloid, which, when superimposed over the first, complete the cat, Robin Hood, or if you prefer, William Tell. Then, the superimposed sheets and background are photographed. To show the cat shooting the arrow the arms are made to draw back the arrow on the string by substituting various sheets with drawings of the arms and bow and arrow in progressive stages of movement. Just the required number of exposures of each combination of drawings and background are photographed to make the action natural and life-like.

The next time you see an Aesop's Film Fable at the Capitol, try to estimate the number of drawings for each action and see if visualizing the technicalities of the process of production will add enjoyment to the already laugh-producing entertainment.

P. BLACK'S SIXTEENTH ANNIVERSARY SALE

Commenced To-Day and Will Run Two Weeks

I do not frequently put on special sales of any great length, but as the year rolls round I give the citizens of Peterborough and district on each anniversary of my going into business in Peterborough, very special values to mark the occasion.

I have been in business in Peterborough now sixteen years and I have endeavored to give to all my customers a dollar's worth of value for a dollar spent with me; but for the next two weeks I am going to do better than this, and have cut my prices so that everyone making a purchase at my store will realize a great saving.

I hope to see all my old customers and many new ones on this occasion. —P. Black, corner George and King streets; opposite J. J. Turner & Sons.

Prove Power Superiority
of—HAVOLINE
- the power oil

Does not only increase power in any specially built racing car or aeroplane but increases power in YOUR car

60,000 car owners had actual, visible evidence of Havoline power in motor car tests on the Wasson Motor Check.

You, too, can have this extra power from your car with Havoline. Have your crankcase drained and filled with Havoline Oil to-day. Then try a familiar hill and feel that extra power. The average car gains 10% to 30% in power when the right grade of Havoline goes into the crankcase.

Havoline Oil gives power—saves gasoline—lasts longer—keeps the motor cooler—gives increased speed and once tried will prove its own superiority right in your own car. It has no substitute.

PRESENTATION TO MR. FISHER

Peterborough Poultry Association Gives Him Pen and Pencil.

FOR HIS SERVICES.

At a meeting of the Peterborough Poultry Association last evening, William Fisher was presented with a fountain pen and pencil encased as a slight token of appreciation of his services in this organization in the last seven years.

Mr. Fisher has worked hard, assisting in making the Association one of the liveliest organizations in the city, and has had the satisfaction of watching it grow to such an extent that it is now rated on a par with three of the best associations in Ontario.

The president, Frank Dawson, along with many others, spoke of his sterling qualities and untiring interest in the poultry industry.

William Nesbitt, the secretary, made the presentation, and Mr. Fisher replied very fittingly, thanking the Association and expressed regrets in leaving the city.

In case the request was not granted, the Charge was instructed to leave the Albanian capital with the rest of the staff and the Legation archives.

TEN MEN ARRESTED IN SOVIET OFFICE

Released Again When Protest Made To Mexican Authorities.

MEXICO CITY, June 3 (United Press).—Federal secret agents and gendarmes entered the Soviet Legation early today and arrested ten men, all of whom were released when the raiders were satisfied their meeting in the Legation was not of a seditious nature.

The chief of the raiders said a mistake had been made.

The release of the arrested men was obtained by Leon Haykiss, First Secretary of the Soviet Legation, who conferred with Madame Kollontai, Soviet Ambassador to Mexico at her hotel.

Haykiss later returned to the Legation. Secret agents were still there and the building was still brightly lighted as late as two o'clock this morning.

Haykiss told the United Press the whole thing was a mistake.

APPEAL MADE

The commissioners yesterday heard reviews of many phases of Church activity particularly in regard to missionary work while for a brief space at noon routine work was halted to permit civic representatives to welcome the delegates and representatives of the church of England to extend the greetings of that communion.

Rev. Dr. W. L. Clay, of Victoria, elected Moderator of the Assembly at the opening session last night, presided at the three sederunts held during the day. Three committee reports were adopted, the Deaconess and Missionary Training Report, the report on remits and the last report of Rev. Dr. Ephraim Scott dealing with the church publication, the record, the editorship of which he recently relinquished after 35 years' service. The review of the historical committees work was submitted as well as the important report of the General Board of Missions, but further discussion on these will take place before adoption.

During the afternoon the commissioners were thrilled by messages of an inspirational nature delivered by Mrs. L. A. Moore of Halifax and Mrs. D. T. L. McKerroll, of Toronto, in reporting for the Women's Missionary Society. They referred to the sacrificial efforts of the women of the church on behalf of home and foreign missions and the manner in which the mission stations had been maintained following the passage of the church union measure and the disturbed conditions which consequently prevailed. Rev. Dr. A. S. Grant in speaking on the report of the General Board of Missions roused his audience by declaring that Ministers admitted to Presbyterian Pastorates during the past two years were "just as good as those who left." The necessity for adequate accommodation for training young women for missionary work will be taken up with the Board of Administration of the church by a committee having knowledge of the situation. At the evening sederunt Rev. W. A. Cameron, Saskatoon, Miss Sinclair of the Women's Missionary Society, Rev. W. M. MacKay, Sault Ste. Marie and Rev. F. J. MacKintosh, New Glasgow, N. S., addressed the delegates on home missions.

Approximately 100 commissioners on Saturday afternoon will will go to Waterloo, Ontario, where the corner stone of a new church is to be laid.

Wheat Prices Go Down As Weather Improves

CHICAGO, June 3. Canadian Press.—Fresh downturns in wheat took place early to-day as a result of selling based on better weather reports from Kansas and the Northwest as well. Corn also developed weakness, support on the part of new buyers being inadequate. Opening at 5-8c to 1¼c decline, wheat soon underwent a material further setback. Corn started ¾c to 2 7-8c off and sagged a little more, but then rallied sharply. Oats followed corn. Provisions, too, were easier.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 146⅝, September 144 3-8; corn, July, 105½; September, 106⅝; oats, July, 54 1-8; September, 52⅜.

Early Losses Overcome On New York Market

NEW YORK, June 3 (Canadian Press).—The stock market was headed upward again by early afternoon after an early sinking spell. Trading was again in enormous volume.

Except for the growing belief that the technical position of the market had been weakened by the recent rapid advance, there was nothing in the day's news to explain the selling movement.

Wide open breaks in several specialty stocks had a tendency to cause liquidation of other stocks. A. M. Byers, United States Cast Iron, Case Threshing, Federal Mining and Smelting, White Sewing Machine, American Linseed, and Pittsburg and West Virginia were hammered down 4 to 6 points below last night's final quotation before supporting orders checked the decline. United States Rubber sagged below 49, to lowest level since 1925. Rails received fairly good support. Delaware and Hudson, Texas and Pacific and Norfolk and Southern all reached new high ground. Missouri Pacific Common broke from 60 to 58¾ and then snapped back to above 61, with similar fluctuations in the Preferred and the Chicago and Great Western issues.

The most interesting feature of the day's news, so far as Canadian securities are concerned, was the definite information that a new packing house issue will be brought out within the next few days by one of the large investment banking houses. The details are being closely guarded, but those who have been watching the situation closely have declared for some time they have seen the handwriting on the wall.

William Davies Company, Inc., has been commanding considerable attention recently on the Toronto Stock Exchange. The securities of this company have always been held to a large extent by insiders. At irregular intervals, buying of a significant character has appeared. During the past two or three weeks there has been an interesting move in the stock. There are 91,000 shares of class "A" stock outstanding. This stock has no par value, and dividends at the rate of $4 per annum are cumulative. No dividends have been paid since June 15, 1921, thus the arrears now amount to $23. The price range on Davies "A" W 1925 was between 24 and 37 3-4, and during 1926 it was between 27 1-2 and 37 1-4. A record price was attained on Monday of this week at 43 7-8. The class "B" stock is the junior security of the company. After dividends at the rate of $5 per annum have been paid on the "B" stock any further dividends shall be paid share for share to holders of both classes. There are 60,000 shares of "B" stock outstanding. The price has advanced from 11 to 19 within the past few weeks, and the high price was attained in yesterday's market. The public will not have to wait more than a few days for detailed information concerning the prospective financing, which, rumor says, will involve a merger.

Packing Industry Importance.

An analysis of the Canadian packing house industry made by one of the prominent investment banking houses includes the following:

"More than one-half of Canada's invested capital is in farm values, and about one-half of the population is engaged in the agricultural industry.

"In the light of these facts it will be readily appreciated that there is a broad and substantial basis for the development of all those industries closely related to agriculture. Among these might be mentioned the milling industry, packing and dairying. In no case is this more strikingly evident than in the case of the packing industry, the rapid development of which closely parallels the expansion of Canadian agriculture.

"In 1871 the capital invested in packing plants was less than half a million—by 1911 the capital invested had increased to more than $15,300,000; while the total for 1925, $54,000,000, represents an increase of more than 250 per cent. over 1911.

"The annual value of the products of the industry shows a similar remarkable increase. In 1871 the total was $3,099,000; by 1911 it had risen to $48,527,000, and the 1925 figure, $163,816,000, shows the rapid expansion which has taken place.

"Today the industry numbers its employees in thousands, and sells its products not only in the domestic market, but also in European and Asiatic countries. In the total annual value of its products the industry, according to the latest comparative statistics available, ranks fourth among all Canadian industries. It is preceded only by the pulp and paper manufacturing, flour milling and lumbering.

"We may look forward confidently to a further rapid development in Canadian agriculture, and with it a development of those industries based thereon, among which the packing industry occupies a pre-eminent place."

The Packers' Merger.

Several months have elapsed since official notification was made that the Harris Abattoir Company were ready and willing to assume the financial obligations of Gunns, Limited. That this has been done, and is now in active effect, is borne out by the fact that the two packing companies have practically ceased to function as individual units, both from a financial and operating viewpoint, and are at date merged as one going concern, retaining, however, the firm name as a distinctive trade mark. Further light is also thrown on this last assumption with the report of building modifications recently carried out at the Harris and Gunn plants, situated at West Toronto, and closely adjacent to each other. To help solidify the business engaged in, and with a view to closer co-ordination and economy, it is also mooted that measures of reform have been introduced with collective purchasing of products and centralization of buying and selling in the various fields of supply and demand.

The increasing tendency for even important and long-established businesses to become absorbed in this way will not have escaped notice, and still further packing industry rumors with merger possibilities as an ultimate factor are contained in the news that Canadian Packers, former subsidiary company of Allied Packers of Chicago, will again revert to an all-Canadian ownership when taken over by Matthews-Blackwell & Company in the near future.

Kills Brother During Quarrel Over Dish

NEW YORK, June 3. — Canadian Press. — A quarrel that developed while they were helping their mother wash dishes, resulted early to-day in the death of Dominick Sambrona, 18, from a stab wound near the heart, caused by a bread knife hurled at him by 15-year-old John. The quarrel was said to have started over as to where a macaroni dish was to be placed.

"I'll show you where it goes," said Dominick, breaking the dish over his brother's head. The younger brother staggered, grasped the bread knife, and hurled it.

The National Anthem was sung and the 1927 convention of the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion passed into history.

The Ontario branch of the Canadian Legion decided yesterday to petition the Federal Government to declare a national holiday in June to be known as "Decoration Day" in honor of the soldiers of Canada "who fell defending the principles of the British Empire in any of the wars in which the Dominion of Canada may have taken part."

The resolution carried without discussion.

The Legion convention opened this morning's session with prayers by Comrade Rev. Mess of London followed by the singing of the National Anthem in recognition of the birthday of His Majesty the King.

"The re-affirming of old resolutions gets us nowhere," commented J. H. Davidson of Toronto, in regard to the morning's first resolution, which endorsed the Canadian Legion's action at Winnipeg asking the Federal Government that provision be made for the maintenance and care of ex-service men who by reason of chronic illness, injury, or old age, through no fault of their own, become incapable of maintaining themselves.

Dr. Grant stated that this resolution embodied one of the most serious problems confronting the Legion.

"It was also a great problem growing out of the American Revolution," he said, "and the example the United States set might well be copied by Ontario and Canada."

Another member said it would be a shame if indigent ex-service men had to be sent to jail farms.

Mr. Davidson pointed out that many of the men who enlisted in the first years of the war were of middle age and even beyond it. On their return to civilian life it was soon realized that many of these men were prematurely ageing, or that their health broke down as a result of their experience overseas.

The resolution was adopted with an amendment, that the executive committee consider the appointment of an officer to look after this department of the Legion's work and that a comprehensive report be brought in at the next convention.

Vetcraft Employees

Disabled ex-service men employed in Vetcraft shops are insufficiently paid, another resolution asserted, and requested the executive to take energetic action in behalf of these men. It was contended that their wage should provide a proper standard of living and also that they be paid for statutory holidays.

Comrade T. Williams of Toronto said that although the Vetcraft shops were originally intended as sheltered industries for disabled men, they were now apparently being operated on a competitive basis with an efficiency engineer in charge. Some of the men receive a small pension, but others depend entirely on the shop wage of 33 cents an hour. One man who had been employed in a Vetcraft shop for two or three years was paid only $12 a week—until he collapsed.

Members agreed that the Vetcraft shop employees should receive pay for statutory holidays, as is done for all Civil Service employees.

Major Melville of the D.S.C.R. reviewed the work and financing of Vetcraft shops. They built up the manufacture of porcelain top table, but its success attracted others who cut into the business and thus became competitors.

Vetcraft sales have steadily increased, while selling expenses have been kept as low as possible, Major Melville said. The shops as a whole are not paying a profit. The loss in the Toronto shop is $20 a man a month. Losses in some shops reach $50 a man monthly.

Other resolutions were as follows:

That Dominion Headquarters of the Canadian Legion be requested to open negotiations with Empire Headquarters, British Empire Service League, with a view to obtaining modification of the Royal Warrant to extend the statutory time limit for receiving pension applications (in the case of residents of Canada) from seven to nine years.

That Dominion Headquarters of the Canadian Legion be requested to open negotiations with Empire Headquarters, British Empire Service League, with a view to obtaining amendment of the Royal Warrant, whereby the option of election to receive Canadian rates of pension may be offered to other ranks with prewar Canadian residence upon their return to Canada, irrespective of the date of return.

CANTON FORCES SUFFER HEAVILY

Call Sent For Nurses To Care For 5,000 Wounded Men.

LONDON, June 3. United Press.—Large numbers of wounded nationalist soldiers have arrived in Hankow, despatches from China said to-day.

Mmme. Sun Yat-Sen, wife of late Canton leader, telegraphed the Shanghai branch of the American Red Cross, a Manchester Guardian despatch said, requesting the immediate despatch of nurses to assist in caring for 5000 wounded men who have arrived from Honan. The Nationalists suffered severely in Honan from the Northern artillery fire.

The Rockefellar Foundation at Peking, the despatch said, was sending a corps of nurses and doctors to Hankow immediately. Bishop Logan Rooth of the American Church Mission, heads a committee formed to raise relief funds.

In the middle ages the strength of brews was indicated by the Latin words, "simplex," "duplex" and "triplex." This was shortened to the familiar marking of X, XX and XXX.

MUST GET $50 AS TOP PRICE

Tex Rickard May Shift Heavyweight Fight To Windy City.

DEMPSEY IS OUT.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Chicago has taken Philadelphia's place on the championship checkerboard of the Rickard Sporting.

In a heart-to-heart talk with Jack Sharkey, President Tex Rickard divulged the information that he has accepted an invitation to visit the Windy City. He will leave for Chicago either Friday or Saturday.

Taking the boxer and his manager into his confidence, Rickard outlined his plans for a title match between Sharkey and Gene Tunney. Here are the high spots of what he told them:

1. Unless the New York Boxing Commission approves a maximum price of $50 for the heavyweight championship bout, it will go to Chicago. He has dropped Philadelphia from consideration because of the traffic congestion that prevailed at the Dempsey-Tunney bout.

2. He has abandoned all thought of Jack Dempsey as a contender. He does not believe Dempsey will consent to box Sharkey. He believes Sharkey is a better card than Dempsey.

3. He made a profit of $450,000 on the Dempsey-Tunney match. He cannot hope to do better than break even if forced to take the Yankee Stadium and forced to limit the price of his tickets to $25.

4. He will pay Sharkey a percentage that will assure the Bostonian of receiving $300,000 for his end.

5. He has accepted an invitation from civic leaders of Illinois to consider Soldiers' Field in Chicago as a site for the match. He will leave for Chicago either to-day or to-morrow.

Says Buckley.

"Tex believes that Chicago is the logical spot for the next big fight," said Buckley. "The Middle West has not had a heavyweight championship since 1919; and Chicago has never had one.

"Naturally, he said, he wants to make at least as much profit as he made on the Tunney-Dempsey match. This is out of the question at the Yankee Stadium under a $25 ticket maximum.

"Soldiers' Field will seat 150,000, least, which is 20,000 more than the capacity of the Sesquicentennial Stadium in Philadelphia. He is afraid the novelty has worn off on a Philadelphia fight, and that the public would remember the traffic inconvenience of 1926. Also, the lack of hotel accommodations.

"Everyone in Illinois is behind the campaign to bring the big fight there. The Chicago Chamber of Commerce is backing the move and has enlisted the support of the Governor, the Mayor and the Illinois Boxing Commission. He is assured of running the bout unhampered by any red tape."

About Dempsey.

Buckley said that Rickard had warned them not to expect a match with Jack Dempsey. The promoter declared he has given up all hope of Dempsey coming back. Tex said:

"Personally, I don't care. I think Sharkey is the big card now, not Dempsey."

Buckley and Sharkey, accompanied by their wives, motored to New York from Boston. It was their first appearance here since Sharkey knocked out Jimmy Maloney. Jack Conway, noted Boston boxing expert, was also in the party.

In discussing Sharkey's triumph over Maloney, Buckley gave considerable credit to Dr. W. G. Fralich. The manager said that Sharkey has always been able to punch, but that he has been troubled by frail hands.

New York, June 3 (Canadian Press)). — The New York Yankees played snappy ball behind Dutch Ruether's great pitching, and shut out the Detroit Tigers here yesterday by 2 to 0. Stoner suffered his first defeat of the season.

Chicago won the first game of the series with the Red Sox at Boston, 7 to 2, the visitors pounding Wiltse hard in the early innings. Pirates Go On Batting Rampage in Seventh To Defeat Philadelphia.

HOMER FOR WILLIAMS.

NEW YORK, June 3. Canadian Press. — The Pirates staged a batting rally in the seventh inning at Pittsburgh to win from Philadelphia 7 to 3. The Pirates scored a trio of runs in the third, hitting Ferguson freely, but in the sixth Cy Williams drove out his tenth homer of the season, scoring two runners and deadlocking the count. This was Hill's only bad inning. The Pirates cut loose in the seventh and put across four runs, including two on Grantham's single with the bases loaded. Harris continued on a batting rampage, getting three hits. In the field he had 18 put outs and one assist.

The Giants clouted Jackie May in the twelfth after Pete Donohue had held them in hand for 11 innings, to win the first game of the series at Cincinnati, 5 to 4.

SKEETERS LOSE OUT.

New York, June 3 (Canadian Press). — The Stars evened the series with Rochester at Syracuse by winning the second game, 10 to 6. The Stars clouted three Rochester pitchers for a total of 16 hits. In a free - hitting contest at Reading, Newark evened the series, 16 to 8. Four Keystone pitchers failed to stop the Bears. Oeschler hit a home run with none on in the sixth.

The Orioles, playing at home, downed the Skeeters 8 to 3. Baltimore socked over six runs in the first and was never headed. Only three games scheduled.

Jack Ogden was credited with the win. Brower's homer was his ninth of the season, giving him a tie with Bissonette of Buffalo.

PETE LATZO TO DEFEND TITLE

Will Battle Joe Dundee at the Polo Grounds To-night.

CHAMP IS FAVORITE.

NEW YORK, June 3. — A close and evenly fought battle between two young battlers is expected to-night when Pete Letzo, the former mine boy of Scranton, Pa., defends the world's welterweight championship against Joe Dundee, the Baltimore Italian, at the Polo grounds.

Where any odds existed, they were slightly in Latzo's favor, but the majority of critics looked on the match as a toss-up, with chances favoring it going the limit of 15 rounds and the title being retained or lost on a decision.

If the promise of fair and warm weather is fulfilled, Promoter Humbert Fugazy expects a crowd of about 25,000 to witness the fight with the receipts approximating $150,000.

Much of Latzo's prospects of remaining the king of the welters depends on his ability to make the 147 pound limit by two o'clock this afternoon without sapping his stamina. It is no secret that the champion has had some difficulty scaling down but brother manager, Mike Latzo, declared yesterday he would weigh in at about a quarter or half pound under the limit without hardship.

PLAY AT BETHANY.

Cognawagas of Peterborough To Play Bethany Seniors on Monday.

BETHANY, June 3.—On Monday evening the Senior baseball team met the Cognawagas of Peterborough on the home grounds. The local fans were disappointed in the home team, for they were badly beaten, the score being 10—1, in favor of the visitors.

This may be partly due to the fact that a number of the players have been sick since the 24th and therefore unable to practice. But in all probability they will make a better showing in the next game, as they are devoting more time at practice since.

KIWANIS WINS OPENING GAME

Defeat Canucks 15-4 in First Match of Bantam Series.

AT SACRED HEART.

Kiwanis Bantams won the first game of the season from Canucks at the Sacred Heart grounds last night, defeating the Canucks 15-4. Braund pitched a good game for Kiwanis, making 14 strike-outs and passing 2. Whatley did the receiving very nicely and threw four runners out at second. Cuffe and Cuthbertson both had a good day at bat.

Cuffe with four trips to the plate had two doubles and two singles. Cuthbertson had a single, a double, a triple, and a sacrifice in four times up. Adamson, for the Canucks, pitched well up to the third innings, then became very unsteady, and allowed the Kiwanis batters to collect six hits and nine runs in the fourth inning. Collins replaced Adamson in the fifth. He was also hit hard for four runs and five hits. Both teams played good ball. The Canucks intend to have some new players on the next line-up, and will offer some keen competition.

The next game will be played on Monday night at Sacred Heart grounds. A good crowd should be on hand to support the youngsters.

Kiwanis Bantams will practise on Saturday afternoon at King Edward School grounds at 1.30.

NEW FACES ON LOCAL TEAM IN SATURDAY TILT

A REAL ARGUMENT.

Ontario Champs Expect To Take Local Seniors To-morrow.

The Petes will introduce several new players to the local fans to-morrow in the game at Riverside Park, with Deloro, the Intermediate Ontario champs. Clifford Osterland, big right-handed pitcher, from out where the best wheat grows, will be on the firing line. Osterland has a world of speed and a sharp-breaking curve, and Manager Swanston expects him to tie up the Deloro attack. Gordie Spence, hockey star, and ball player from New Liskeard, will be seen in action in the outfield, while Charlie Ansaldo, going better than ever, will cover the short field position.

Deloro will be at full strength and Manager Bob Elliott's lads expect to take the Seniors into camp. The Ontario champs are stronger than last season and are called to grab the honors again this year.

Umpire Alex Kay will get the teams away at three o'clock sharp, and indications point to a big crowd out for the first game of the season.

GOOD BASEBALL HERE TO-NIGHT

GAME AT CURVE LAKE.

The Cognawaga-Raybestos game at Exhibition Park this evening promises plenty of interesting baseball. Both teams are on edge for a tight battle, and with Masterson and Vannest as the opposing heavers, the pitching assignments are in good hands.

Vince O'Connell is taking the Crescents to Curve Lake for an exhibition game with the Indians this evening. The Curve Lakers will probably be given a bye in the East Peterborough League and play off with the winners of the local series.

The Northumberland League has affiliated with the O.B.A.A. This League includes Hastings, Campbellford, Warkworth and Keene, the latter team being a new entry.

LACOSTE IN FINAL.

Will eet Tilden or Cochet For World's Hard Court Title.

ST. CLOUD, France, June 3 (Canadian Press).—Rene Lacoste entered the singles final of the international hard court tennis championships today by defeating P. D. B. Spence, of South Africa, in straight sets, at 6-1, 6-3, 6-2. He will play the winner of to-day's match between William T. Tilden and Henri Cochet for the title.

BASEBALL.

The Rotary Juniors will practice at the Exhibition Grounds on Monday night, at 6 o'clock sharp.

HALE YOUTH FROM YALE PLAYS LEAD IN REGENT SERIAL

Silver Streak and Louise Lorraine Co-Featured with Malcolm McGregor

As a college boy in Yale, Malcolm McGregor, featured player in "The Silent Flyer," the adventure picture which comes today to the Regent Theatre, had visions of becoming a star of the silver sheet.

After three years at the university the alluring temptation of the screen caused him to lay down his higher mathematics and hot-foot it to Hollywood, where he succeeded in getting enough extra work to keep himself alive for two years.

Then he got his first opportunity as juvenile lead in "All the Brothers Were Valiant," and McGregor was henceforth looked upon as a full fledged actor.

He appeared to good advantage in "The Prisoner of Zenda," "Can Woman Love Twice?" playing opposite Ethel Clayton, and in Universal's "The Untamable" with Gladys Walton. He had an important part in "Smouldering Fires" with Pauline Frederick and Laura Le Plante.

"The Silent Flyer," his present vehicle, is a thrilling chapter narrative of the northland in which two factions fight for possession of a great invention. McGregor's singular athletic prowess is ever in play, for daring stunts on skis, iceboats and racing cars punctuate the fast action of the plot throughout.

Strangely enough, after struggling for years to keep the wolf away from the door, McGregor's greatest opportunity came when he was offered the chance to get on the same side of the door with the wolf.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

DENTISTS GOOD DIETETIANS

From my observations, it seems to me that there are more dentists, who recognize the value of correct diet, than physicians from the other schools.

Time was when the dentist was considered only a tooth-jerker, but in the last twenty-five years there have been rapid advances in dental science. The modern dentist makes a very careful study of the structure of the teeth's relation to health and the influence of diet as it effects the teeth.

If you will remember what your dentist tells you about diet, you will find your health will improve in every way. Of course, the dentist is chiefly concerned in teaching you how to grow good teeth and preserve them, but in order to accomplish this purpose, he finds it necessary to tell you how to select and combine your foods so as to prevent hyper-acidity of the stomach, which is the fundamental cause from which pyorrhea and dental decay develop.

At the last National Dental Convention, almost as much time was taken up in discussing diet and mouth hygiene as with the mechanical side of dentistry. I feel that this attitude, on the part of the dentists, should be favorably looked upon, and other medical conventions will do well to copy their example and encourage more dietetic research.

At the convention the need of foods rich in vitamin A was emphasized. It was reported that experiments with rats have shown that they would develop dental decay very rapidly if deprived of the foods containing this vitamin. Here is a list of foods which all contain vitamin A: Spinach, lettuce, cabbage, alfalfa, clover, tomatoes, carrots, sweet potatoes, yellow corn, green peas, butterfat, and egg yolk. Of course, the average child's diet is so varied that he gets some of these foods from day to day, but if enough is not used, there will be a gradual change which will not show until after he is 25 or 30 years old. Then, the effects of improper feeding in childhood will be seen in cavities, which rapidly develop, and in the tooth changes which precede pyorrhea and alveolar absorption.

While diet is the most important factor in preventing tooth decay, it is also necessary to keep the mouth thoroughly clean and free from destructive bacterial growths. This can be accomplished through cleansing the teeth daily with gauze and dental floss. Many people have gums so tender that a tooth-brush should not be used, as it only injures the gums. The right food may also serve a mechanical purpose, and if coarse foods are used, the teeth are exercised more than if the soft mushy foods are taken, which do not require mastication and which usually are deprived of their vital elements.

If false teeth are worn, one must be very careful not to allow any irritation to develop under the plates. If any such irritation does start it is the best plan to leave the teeth out for a few days and treat the affected part and allow it to completely heal before the false teeth are put back in the mouth.

If this precaution is observed many cases can be prevented from developing into cancer.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

BEYOND A MAN

I like to look beyond a man, whatever name a fellow bears,
To see a little farther than the thing he says, the coat he wears.
For I have seen a smiling face and found the face was but a mask.
I want to look another place, I want to see him at his task.

I like to look beyond a man and see the house in which he dwells;
Some woman's heart I want to scan and read the story that it tells.
Do little children run away, or are they glad to see him come?
Whatever other people say, I want to see him in his home.

I like to look beyond a man, I want to look him through and through,
I want to see him where I can, not take the verdict of the few.
The fickle public's praise or blame his thoughtless fellows may bestow,
But is the inner man the same as is the outer man they know?

I like to look beyond a man, behind his desk, behind his door.
I've often found him better than the world would give him credit for.
What critics sneer or friends applaud, whatever other people say,
I want to judge him as his God will judge him on the final day.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

PETER PREACHING TO GENTILES

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 5: Peter Preaching to Gentiles.—Acts 10:34-48.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.

Text: Acts 10:34-48.

Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respector of persons:

But in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him.

The word which God sent unto the children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ: (he is Lord of all:)

That word, I say, ye know, which was published throughout all Judea, and began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached:

How God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil: for God was with him.

And we are witnesses of all things which he did, both in the land of the Jews, and in Jerusalem: whom they slew and hanged on a tree:

Him God raised up the third day, and shewed him openly:

Not to all the people, but unto witnesses chosen before of God, even to us, who did eat and drink with him after he rose from the dead.

And he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testify that it is he which was ordained of God to be the Judge of quick and dead.

To him give all the prophets witness, that through his name whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins.

While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word.

And they of the circumcision which believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost:

For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter,

Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we?

And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tar y certain days.

One of the most amazing things in life is the way in which a man can profess a high and holy creed, believing that he is both intelligent and sincere in its profession, and yet at the same time live far from that creed in practice. The man who sings the hymns of patience and brotherly love on Sunday may be an impatient and domineering tyrant in his business on Monday. The man who professes to believe that God is the Father of all men, and that therefore all men are brothers, may be exceedingly unbrotherly when it comes to dealing with men in general, and especially when racial or other differences are involved.

The world would soon make great progress toward the Kingdom of Heaven if racial hatreds and social and religious bigotries and prejudices were confined only to men of evil spirit. Nor is it even the action and spirit of the thoughtless member of the mob who cries to his fellows, "Here comes a foreigner, let us heave a brick at him," who impedes progress. The real obstacles are found in the fact that men make a veritable religion of their bigotries and prejudices, and they justify the most damnable attitudes and actions upon high and holy ground.

Peter's Prejudice.

If one doubt these things, or if one has failed to sense their reality in the modern world, let him consider the story of our lesson. Here was Peter, a man who had for a long time been in touch with Jesus: he had even gone forth to preach the Gospel of God's love and was willing to suffer for it, and yet when it came to a matter of that love finding its natural effect in the lives of those who were not of Peter's race and of Peter's former religious upbringing and ideas, Peter was not sure that he could be even socially decent to those in whom this experience took place. It required a miracle, or at least a vision, to break down Peter's ridiculous pride and bigotry. It was the hardest thing in the world for Peter to come to the simple appreciation of the fact that God is no respector of persons, but that a Gentile could be as much an inheritor of love and righteousness as a Jew.

Do not imagine that such religious prejudices and bigotries have been associated particularly with the Jews. As a matter of fact, the Jew himself has suffered from the most intense and blind, and perverted, of bigotries among professing Christians. So much has this been true that many Jews have hated the name of Christ because of the hateful things that tragically misled Christians have done to them in the name of Christ.

All Acceptable to God.

How is it that we cannot come to see that Godliness in its very heart is seeing the world and seeing our fellowmen as God sees them? Does God despise or hate the Jew, or the Chinaman, or the Japanese, or the Negro? Has God a special favoritism for Protestants, or for Romanists, or for those of any particular sect? Who that reads the New Testament with intelligence and with openness of mind and soul can imagine such a thing? It is true today, as it was when Peter said it, "that God is no respector of persons: but in every nation he that fareth him and worketh righteousness is acceptable to him."

It is not our crying, "Lord, Lord," that marks our Christian character, but our doing the things that Jesus has commanded us, and above all the commandments of Jesus is his commandment of brotherly love. It is not in racial heritage nor in color of skin, nor in orthodoxy of faith, nor in anything outward in our lives that we are marked as God's children, but it is in our yearning to have the love of God shed abroad in our hearts so that it is as a flame burning up all that is gross, narrow, and selfish.

Helping Others.

We may remember the spirit of John, in many ways a much greater man than Peter, who had shared something of Peter's narrowness and who upon one occasion, had wished Jesus to call down fire from Heaven and consume those of a certain village who had treated Jesus inhospitably. It was this same John who came later to such large experience of the Christian life as a life of love that he said, "We know that we have passed from death unto life because we love the brethren."

It was, moreover, this great truth that Jesus enjoined in the Parable of the Good Samaritan, for if a man might be disposed to regard as his brother only the man of the same nation, or race, or creed, Jesus particularly reminded us in that parable that it was the man of a different race and a different creed from the man whom he helped who had shown the true spirit of neighborliness and love.

SOVIET LEADERS LEAVE FOR HOME

Demonstration On Platform at Station By Communist Crowd.

LONDON, June 3 (Canadian Press).—The main body of Soviet representatives in England, whose functions were terminated by the recent suspension of diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Soviet Russia, left London by train this morning en route to Moscow, to the accompaniment of a Communistic demonstration by a moderate sized crowd on the station platform. Communistic songs were sung and red flags waved as the leading members of the Soviet headquarters staff and trade delegation, headed by Charge d'Affaires A. Pu Rocomgsky, took their departure.

Lieut.-Col. W. Grant, Morden, British Conservative M. P., who averted the "thrashing" promised him, and apologized in the house for his open charge that the Labor Party was in Russia's pay. Labor members declared they would thrash the government member unless he apologized.

LINDBERGH BACK ON FRENCH SOIL

New York-Paris Aviator Leaves For Home on Cruiser To-morrow.

Lebourget, Franc, June 3 (Canadian Press). — Captain Charles A. Lindbergh landed at a local airdrome this morning from England in a British plane, covering the distance in two hours twenty-seven minutes' actual flying time. The New York to Paris aviator is on French soil for a farewell visit before departing from Cherbourg on the U.S.S. Memphis for Washington to-morrow. Lindbergh made the journey from Kenley a few miles out of London, in two hops. Fog, the bane of airmen, forced him down when he had travelled about fifty miles to Limpne, on the Kentish coast. Among the first to greet Captain Lindbergh was Benjamin Mahoney, president of the Ryan firm, builder of the "Spirit of St. Louis" Trans-Atlantic plane.

CHICKEN HAS FOUR LEGS

ORANGE, Texas, June 3.—Maggie Knox, negress, entered her chicken house the other day, stared openmouthed at a tiny creature that scuttled about the floor. It was a four-legged baby chick, healthy, even stronger than the others of the new brook. Maggie, smacked her lips at the prospect of four drumsticks to each fowl, longed for a way to perpetuate the speeches.

character, who failed in one of the most daring attempts ever made to stage a wholesale jail delivery at the Illinois state penitentiary in Joliet. He was dressed in the robes of a priest and when arrested had two revolvers several bottles of nitroglycerine and some mustard (tear gas) bombs under his clerical coat.

THE LITTLE THEATRE.

Amateur theatrical societies have been in existence a long time, but it is only about fifteen years ago that the first experimental amateur producing groups were established in Canada. The movement grew slowly and was seriously interrupted by the war. Suddenly a real public interest developed, probably the principal reason was the dominance of the "movies" and the virtual death of touring companies. Now all over this country there are hundreds of amateur producing organizations of many different kinds, groups in colleges, schools, and churches. Their name is legion, and their methods of organization, their strength, their equipment, the quality of their productions vary exceedingly.

Hart House Theatre, Toronto, the Ottawa Drama League, the Vancouver Little Theatre Association and the Winnipeg Community Players are at present the four best known groups in Canada. They own their own theatres, and Toronto and Ottawa both employ professional directors.

No citizens of Toronto ever think of Hart House Theatre without associating with it the name of Vincent Massey. Not only has Canada's Minister to the United States given very generously to our country's most perfectly equipped Little Theatre, but he has also acted with considerable success in some of the major productions. Hart House Theatre is on the University of Toronto grounds, but its charter gives it practically complete freedom of action and it is liberally patronized by the general public as well as the University students.

The Ottawa Drama League, which has grown from a small reading circle of fifty-two in 1913 to a producing group with one thousand five hundred and two members in 1927, is numerically the largest Little Theatre group in Canada. Duncan Campbell Scott, Deputy Superintendent General of the Department of Indian Affairs, and well known Canadian poet, is the active president, and Rupert Caplan, formerly prominently associated with the Community Players of Montreal is the producer. Among the various authors whose plays have been presented by the League are the following Canadians: Mazo de la Roche, Merrill Dennison, Donald Guthrie, Stephen Leacock, Marion Osborne, Lloyd Roberts and Duncan Campbell Scott.

The Vancouver Little Theatre Association, though only in existence since 1921, has already gained quite a reputation on the Pacific coast for its artistic productions and its strict adherence to the four main objects of the association which are: (1) To promote the study of the drama; (2) to produce high-class plays by British and foreign dramatists not ordinarily given by travelling companies; (3) to encourage and provide facilities for the production of plays by Canadian dramatists; (4) to develop the arts of costume scenic design and stage lighting.

The Winnipeg Players made a very wise move when they added "Community" to their title. They have lived up to the true meaning of the word in its fullest sense and their public realize that in the Community Theatre they have an outlet for whatever artistic abilities they may possess.

There is no doubt that general interest in the Little Theatre movement will increase in the years to come. The wave is not yet at its height. Interesting experimentation will go on throughout Canada, and doubtless some significant contributions will be made to the theatre arts.

BEAM WINNER OF GREAT RACE

Lord Durham's Filly Breaks Record in Winning Famous 'Oaks.'

FAVORITE SECOND.

Epsom, England, June 3 (Canadian Press Cable). — In record time for the old classic, Lord Durham's three-year-old filly, Beam, won the Oaks this afternoon by a head from Lord Astor's Book Law, with Sir George Bullough's Grand Vitesse third, six lengths back. Lord Astor had won the race the past two years, and his Book Law was the favorite at 5 to 2. The winner started at 4 to 1, while Grand Vitesse was at 25 to 1.

Beam set a record for the mile and a half Oaks, doing the distance in 2 minutes 34 3-5 seconds, only a second slower than the Derby record set by Call Boy on Wednesday.

Fifteen fillies ran in the classic, worth about $45,000, and being renewed for the 145th time. Weston rode Beam a bay filly by Galloper Light Mistrella. It was Weston's first Oaks victory, and it was also Lord Durham's first win in the fourth classic.

The weather was glorious and the attendance large, although no members of the Royal Family were present owing to engagements elsewhere, it being the King's birthday anniversary.

The taps were broken three times, and the field of fifteen got away to an unlucky start. Cresta Run, the winner of the one thousand and one of the favourites, lost at least a dozen lengths at the get-away, and Corona also got away badly. Cinq a'Sept led from Beam, Esclarmonde, and Book Law for a furlong. Passing the mile post, Beam was two lengths in front of Book Law, Grand Vitesse, Sundry, Endowment, and La Sofatara. Entering the straight, Beam still led from Book Law, with La Sofatara, Grand Vitesse was third, Endowment Cinq a'Sept following. A quarter-mile from the finish Book Law moved up and challenged Beam, but Beam got the better in an exciting finish. Grand Vitesse was third, Endowment fourth, and La Sofatara fifth.

TILDEN WINS

Big Bill Tilden to-day wiped out the stain of his defeat by Henri Cochet in last year's United States' National Lawn Tennis Championships by the downing of the youthful Frenchman in their semi-final match in the International Hard Court Championship Tournament in straight sets at 9-7, 6-3, 6-2. Tilden will play Rene Lacoste of France for the International hard court singles championships on Sunday.

Women's Final Sunday.

Women's final will also be decided on Sunday, between Miss McKee Bouman of Holland, and Mrs. Peacock of South Africa. Miss Bouman defeated Bobbie Heine of South Africa in the semi-finals to-day 5-7, 6-4, 6-2, while Mrs. Peacock eliminated Eileen Bennett of England 5-7, 6-1, 9-7.

U. S. GOLFERS LEAD AT END OF ROUND

Have Margin On British at the End of 18 Holes To-day.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 3 (Canadian Press).—The United States was leading in two matches, the British one, and the fourth was all square, at the end of the morning round of the four two-ball foursomes in the competition for the Ryder Cup, emblematic of Anglo-American professional golf supremacy.

John Farrell and Joe Turnesa, the first United States team to complete the morning round of the 36-hole two-ball foursomes in the Ryder Cup competition, led their British rivals, George Duncan and Archie Compston, by four holes. The Americans went around in 76 strokes, while the British pair required 81.

Gene Sarasen and Al. Watrous led Herbert Jolly and Arthur Havers five holes at the end of the eighteenth.

Aubrey Boomer and Charles Whitecombe, England, were five holes in front of Leo Deigel and Bill Mehlhorn at the end of the first eighteen holes. Boomer and Whitecombe had a ball of 73, one over par, while Deigel and Mehlhorn needed 78. Walter Hagen and Johnny Golden staged a sensational comeback on the second nine and finished the eighteen all square with Ted Ray and Fred Robson. The United States team were three down at the turn. They got two consecutive birdies at the 13th and 14th after they had won the 12th.

DISTRIBUTION OF INSURANCE IS CONSIDERED

City Can Save Money By Care in Placing Business, Committee Learns.

FINANCE MEETING.

Legion Delegates Now Boosters For Peterborough, Says Ald. Ackerman.

Ald. C. H. Ackerman advised the Finance Committee of the City Council, at the regular meeting last night, that proper care in distributing all the insurance on the various properties of the city would save the city at least a thousand dollars. Any company licensed to do business in Canada, whatever the premium, he said, would be safe to insure with. A committee previously appointed will consider the reports sent in by the various civic bodies.

The Ontario Municipal Association will meet at the City Hall, Toronto, from August 3 to Sept. 2. City Clerk S. R. Armstrong and City Assessor W. J. Henry will represent the city.

The Utilities Commission's request for the issue of debentures to the amount of $7,500 for extensions to the waterworks system and for $15,000 for additions to the electrical system was granted.

Ald. C. H. Ackerman assured the Committee that the delegates to the Canadian Legion Convention had gone away with the impression that the City of Peterborough is one of the finest in which they had ever met, and would always be boosters for Peterborough. The value of the hall given the local veterans, he said, as an evidence of Peterborough's interest in her soldiers, was greatly increased during the Convention.

Ald. Ackerman also spoke of the advertising value of the visit of the Pathe camera man to Peterborough for the Convention.

FIGHT OVER BRIDGE.

BUDAPEST, June 3.—Bridge has aroused such a storm of interest and rivalry among women here that they are barred from card clubs by an official decree. The decree was prompted by a free-for-all fight in which two prominent women exchanged blows over an error in their score.

FOUR KILLED AT CROSSING

Two Others Dying in Hosptial After Accident Near Brantford.

TRAIN HITS CAR.

BRANTFORD, June 4 (Canadian Press).—Four persons are dead and two dying as a result of a level crossing tragedy just outside the village of Cainsville, near here, at 9.40 this morning.

Samuel Bellhouse, a farmer; his son, Russell; Mrs. R. Bellhouse and their two children, Anna and Ruth, four and one years old respectively, and R. Silverthorne, a hired man, were proceeding towards this city when the car was hit by a Canadian National Railway gravel train and totally demolished. The three men were instantly killed and Mrs. Bellhouse died on the way to the hospital. The two children were taken there, and it is feared were fatally hurt, no hope being held out. An inquest will be held.

FORMER GOVERNOR OF CANADA DEAD

Marquis of Lansdowne Dies Suddenly in 83rd Year.

CLONMEL, Tipperary, Ireland, June 4. — Canadian Press. — The Marquis of Lansdowne, former Lord of the British treasury and Governor General of Canada from 1883 to 1888, died to-day at Newton Anner, after an illness of only a few hours.

Henry Charles Keith Petty Fitz-Maurice, Fifth Marquis of Lansdowne was one of the few remaining figures in the Victorian line of statesmen and held many high offices.

He was born January 14, 1845, the eldest son of the fourth Marquis and succeeded to the title in 1866. In 1869 he married Lady Maude Hamilton, daughter of the first Duke of Abercorn. To them were born one son and two daughters. In 1914, while minister without portfolio, the Marquis startled the political world generally by asking through the medium of the press what were the definite aims of the allies in the war.

Lindbergh Didn't Have a "Flutter" On Derby "Would Fear to Ride One of Those Horses"

LONDON, June 4 (A.P.).—"Well, did you have a little flutter, Captain?" an English reporter asked Captain Lindbergh when the flier returned to London after the Derby.

"That means, did you have a bet," somebody explained.

"Oh, I thought it was something to do with the heart. No. I didn't even try to back the winner, though many people gave me the inside information—and most of it would have been wrong," he laughed. "But I must remember that about the 'flutter.' We have strange terms in aeronautics, but racing seems to have it beat."

"So you still prefer to be an airman, rather than a jockey?" he was asked.

"I wouldn't stand much chance against those wonderful little men," said the flier. "I think they need as much courage as a pilot, if not more. What a scramble as the horses dashed away from the post! I should have been scared on one of those horses. Give me the loneliness of the Atlantic."

BERLIN POLICE PREPARING FOR FLIERS' COMING

Prepare To Handle Big Crowds if Bellanca Arrives There.

MAY GO TO ROME.

Washington Hears That Italian Capital is Goal of Plane.

BERLIN, June 4. — Aviation circles believe that with favorable flying conditions and barring any untoward incident the Bellanca plane will reach Tempelhofer aerodrome in the early hours of Monday morning, if Pilot Chamberlin is actually aiming at Berlin in his trans-atlantic flight.

In the absence of any definite news as to the destination of the plane, it is taken for gratned that the aviators are heading for this city and the police officials are working at high pressure perfecting arrangements for their reception and the handling of the crowds.

ROME DESTINATION (?)

WASHINGTON, June 4. — Canadian Press. — Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, told the coast guard headquarters here that Rome would be the objective of the Bellanca flight in the event that the plane functioned smoothly and the weather was good. He based his information, he said, on conversation with Mrs. Charles Levine.

CARRIES USUAL INSTRUMENTS

ROOSEFELT FIELD, N. Y., June 4 —Canadian Press. — The navigation instruments carried by the Columbia were similar to those carried by Captain Lindbergh. That means that an earth inductor compass, just like the instrument Lindbergh praised after his arrival in Paris, was aboard. There also was a magnetic compass and other aeronautical instruments used in any sort of long distance flying.

PINEDO READY TO LEAVE.

PONTA DEL GADA, Azores, June 4. — Canadian Press. — Commander Francesco de Pinedo, Italian four-continent flyer, intends leaving Horta on the Island of Fayal, at daybreak to-morrow, on his homeward flight.

BEIRES CONTINUES FLIGHT

PORT NATAL, Brazil, June 4. — Canadian Press. — Major Sarmento Beires, the Portuguese aviator, who is making a return flight to Portugal, by way of Newfoundland and the Azores, hopped off at 6.30 this morning for Para, roughly one thousand miles away.

BEHIND TIME.

YARMOUTH, N. S., June 4.—Canadian Press. — The Columbia flew directly over Yarmouth at 1.06 eastern standard time this afternoon. Chamberlin was flying very low, "nearly touching the tops of the houses," in the words of watchers who plainly saw the distinguishing marks. She was upwards of one hour and a half behind Lindbergh's time for the same distance.

The Columbia's Marks

Distinguishing marks on the 'Columbia' are:

On each wing, in large letters and numerals "NX 237." This is special license symbol of the United States Department of Commerce.

On each side of the fuselage in large numerals "140."

On each side of the tail in small letters, "NX 237."

On the body is also printed in small letters, "Auspices of Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce."

Midships on each side of the fuselage is "New York." The "Paris" that followed "New York" was painted out.

The fuselage is silvery grey. The wings are dun yellow.

LINDBERGH HAS DOZEN MEDALS

HELMET IS LOST.

PARIS, June 4 (Canadian Press). —Captain Charles A. Lindbergh will carry twelve medals when he boards the Memphis for his return to the United States. They are the Legion of Honor; the Order of Leopold; the British Air Force Cross; the Lafayette Escardrille Medal; the French Aero Club's Gold Medal; the Belgian Aero Club's highly prized Gold Medal; the French "Broken Wing" Insignia; the Medal of the International League of Aviators, and that of the French Geographical Society; Spain's "Plus Ultra" Gold Medal; and Gold Honor Badges from the cities of Brussels and Paris. All these were conferred within a fortnight, beating the record of Marshal Foch after the Armistice.

Lindy, however, would much prefer to recover the helmet he wore on the flight, but which was lost at Le Bourget after he landed. "I promised it to a friend back home," he said. "But seeing it was undoubtedly taken as a souvenir, I suppose it's good-bye helmet."

LINDBERGH AT CHERBOURG.

CHERBOURG, France, June 4. — Canadian Press. — —Captain Lindbergh arrived from Paris at the Lessay Aerodrome, 40 miles from here, at 11.38 this morning.

Employees Put Paper Fire Out, However, Before Firemen Arrive.

ANOTHER CALL.

No small alarm was experienced by the persons in the main branch of the Bank of Montreal yesterday afternoon at 1.16, when a lighted match thrown into a wastepaper basket became a small blaze. A call was sent into the Fire Hall and the whole brigade turned out, only to find on their arrival that it had been extinguished by the men who sent in the alarm.

At 7.20 p.m. the brigade responded to a call at 24 Stewart Place, where some clothing in a shed had caught fire. It seems that a piece of oilcloth over a chimney had ignited and had dropped through on to the clothes causing the conflagration. The persons living there had just moved in and had failed in the meantime to transfer their insurance, therefore sustaining a loss of two hundred dollars. Chief Gimblett wishes to warn the citizens to have proper stops placed on all unused chimneys and thus avoid any fire such as this one.

LEVINE LEAVES IN OWN PLANE FOR LONG HOP

Backer of Bellanca Flight Companion of Chamberlain on Journey.

SURPRISE PASSENGER.

Plane Will Follow Lindbergh's Course and Fly as Far as Possible.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N.Y., June 4 (Canadian Press). — Seated side by side in the Bellanca monoplane "Columbia," designed for trans-oceanic flying, O. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, managing director of the Columbia Aircraft Corporation, hopped off at 5.05 this morning for a flight to an unnamed European destination.

It was a dramatic moment as they soared aloft from the runway, where on May 21 Captain Charles Lindbergh began his epoch-making flight to Paris. Levine sat beside Chamberlin, clad in an ordinary business suit. There was no hat on his head. Neither showed any emotion as they prepared for the flight, with spectators standing about the plane, not knowing who Chamberlin's companion really would be until Levine climbed into the cockpit.

In a Garden City hotel, several miles away, Mrs. Chamberlin, the pilot's wife, was in great anxiety. She had said previously that she knew her husband was taking his life in his hands. So she stayed away from the field, to keep in her mind a picture of him that she treasured, saying good-bye to him at the hotel, but Mrs. Levine wife of the surprise companion of Chamberlin, was on the runway. She said she did not know who was going with Chamberlin, and was much surprised when her husband stepped into the plane.

The monoplane, its propeller whirring and the motor roaring, taxied down the runway and lifted itself clear of the earth about two thousand feet from where the spectators stood. The true start of the plane was preceded by a false one. It taxied down the runway for about five hundred feet, and then returned to its place at the western end of the runway. As the plane sped down the runway on its final start, Mrs. Levine turned pale and her hands fluttered to her face. She fainted a few seconds after the hop-off, and was taken from the field.

The destination of the "Columbia" was not announced prior to the departure, but Chamberlin said yesterday that he would fly to Newfoundland and follow a great circle. The destination was the farthest point from New York that he could pilot the plane. The machine carried 455 gallons of gasoline and 20 gallons of oil. Mechanicians said enough fuel was carried to drive the plane more than four thousand miles. The occupants carried chicken sandwiches, oranges, two quarts of chicken soup, one quart of coffee, and two gallons of water.

Passes Plymouth.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., June 4 (Canadian Press). — A monoplane, believed to have been the "Columbia," was seen at 7.25 a.m., passing over Long Pond, in Plymouth. It was about 600 feet high and travelling north-east. The weather in this vicinity was ideal to-day. Long Pond is about twenty-six miles north-east of Northwestport, where the plane was reported sighted at seven o'clock. The course being followed would bring the plane to the ocean in the neighbourhood of Scituate, where Lindbergh struck out to sea.

Freak Explosion; Five Men Burned

NEW YORK, June 4. — A freak explosion in an elevator shaft, caused by the dropping of a bag of pulverized sugar, yesterday burned five men severely. Four employees of the A B See Elevator Company were repairing the elevator in the basement of the Trolley Cake Corporation, 536 West 46th Street, using a torch to weld a cable. Above them employees were lowering a 70-pound bag of powdered sugar from the third to the second floor, when the rope broke and the sugar was dropped to the top of the elevator car. The torch exploded the sugar particles in a flash of flame.

CHURCHILL AND M'KENNA FIGHT

Feud Between Present and Former Chancellors Excites Interest.

CREDIT PLAN SPOILED.

LONDON, June 4 (United Press)—The development of a feud between Stephen McKenna, head of the Midland Bank and former Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Asquith Cabinet, and the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, present Chancellor, is being discussed with lively interest throughout London and various rumors are in circulation.

It is pointed out that the Midland Bank and Mr. Churchill have been at odds twice recently, which is regarded as significant in view of the fact that the banks and the treasurer are generally on the best of terms and always consult one another in important deals.

Mr. McKenna, furthermore, was the man who had arranged to extend credit of 10,000,000 pounds sterling to the Union of Soviet Republics when the whole scheme was wrecked by the raid on Arcos House in London. It is therefore obvious that he did not consult the Treasury concerning these proposed credits, and the Laborites are asserting with the greatest emphasis that the real reason for the raid was not the recovery of any missing document, but the annihilation of the Midland Bank's plans, which would have given a fresh fillip to the Soviet regime—a result most distasteful to the Government and its chief supporters.

Two weeks ago the Midland Bank devised a scheme which it is reckoned might cost the Government in revenue more than a million ponds sterling annually. The law provides that all cheque payments, no matter what their size, must carry a two-penny stamp as revenue duty. Now McKenna's institution is issuing "receipt forms, which serve the same purpose of cheques, for sums under two pounds. As no duty is payable on receipts, for amounts smaller than two pounds, no stamps are affixed to the forms. By this method the cheque duty is evaded.

Mr. Churchill announced the taking of legal opinion on this action, of which he had had no previous notice from the bank, and was successful in preventing the Bankers' Clearing House from adopting the scheme generally on clearing the Midland Bank's receipt forms.

The principal actors in the present conflict were formerly together in the Asquith Cabinet, and it is asserted that there was no love lost between them. At any rate Churchill is certainly very embarrassed by McKenna's present policy of acting independently of the Treasury.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF COUNSEL FOR ACTION AGAINST BREWERS LAID BEFORE ROYAL COMMISSION

Expected Argument On Them Will Take Place Next Tuesday.

REGARDING BREWERIES.

Suggest Action Taken Against Breweries in Arrears Over Sales Tax.

MONTREAL, Que., June 4 (Canadian Press).—Systematic and organized payments to and corruption of Customs officials and agents, railway officials and employees, and police; switching and camouflaging of cars of beer in order to pass them into the United States; theft of United States and Canadian Customs seals and the forgery or unlawful procuring of Customs and shipping documents; sales of strong beer in Ontario in violation of Provincial law; falsification of records so as to conceal these sales; failure to show sales of strong beer on sales tax returns to the Government; these are among the findings which Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., counsel for the Royal Customs Commission will suggest that the Commissioners make in regard to certain Ontario breweries.

The findings and recommendations which the Commission counsel will ask the Commission to make have been forwarded to counsel for the Ontario breweries who may wish to prevent argument against them. They have been laid before the Commission in written form, but it is improbable that the argument on them will take place until next Tuesday. Then there is likely to be some strong objections voiced by counsel for the breweries.

Recommendations.

Among the recommendations which Mr. Rowell will suggest the Commission make, are the following:

(1) That immediate action should be taken against all breweries in arrears on gallonage and sales taxes, to recover the amounts which under the law are properly payable.

(2) That a copy of these findings and relevant evidence be forwarded to the Minister of Justice with a view to the institution of criminal prosecutions against those who upon the evidence would appear to have committed criminal offences.

(3) That the Commission concurs in the recommendation of the Parliamentary Committee investigating the administration of the Department of Customs and Excise "that excise and sales tax be levied on all Canadian-made intoxicating liquors released from bond, no matter where they are carried and consumed, and that duty and sales tax be levied on all alcoholic liquors entering Canada, whether in bond or otherwise, irrespective of their ultimate destination," and recommends that this provision should apply to gallonage and sales tax on beers also and that the necessary legislation be enacted at the earliest practicable date.

(4) That Section 15 of the Excise Act and Section 2 of the Doherty Act should be so amended as to make clear the right of the Minister to cancel licenses upon the conditions mentioned in these sections.

On Beer Manufactured.

(5) That the gallonage tax should be payable on the actual beer manufactured, less a reasonable allowance to be determined by the Government for wastage, on the same principle as the Government allows a deduction in the case of spirits and shrinkage for evaporation, and that closer supervision should be exercised by the Customs officials over the actual production of beer.

(6) That copies of this report and of the evidence relating to the conduct of the several breweries investigated be submitted to the Minister of National Revenue for such action in reference to the cancellation or withholding of licenses of the breweries as the findings and evidence warrant.

(7) That the Commissioner of Taxation review the income tax returns of the breweries investigated in the light of the evidence and these findings.

Twenty-eight breweries in the Province of Ontario have been investigated "in whole or in part, in respect to the payment of Customs duties, excise duties, excise taxes, sales taxes and income tax," Mr. Rowell states. At the outset he refers to the destruction or loss of books and records by certain of the breweries. "Owing to the removal of the books of the O'Keefe Beverages, Ltd., while the Commission was in session, and after

Ship Search Plane To Newfoundland

NEW YORK, June 4 (Canadian Press).—The Jeanne d'Arc, the Fokker monoplane to be used in a search over Newfoundland for the missing French fliers, Nungesser and Coli, will be shipped by boat from New York to St. John, Nfld., it was announced last night.

The original plan had been to fly the plane to the district in which the search has been conducted. The searchers were to have taken off to-day, with Boston designated as the first stop. No explanation for the decision to ship the plane was made.

The Jeanne d'Arc will be flown from Port Washington, N.Y., to Manhassett, N. Y., this morning, and there put aboard the steamship Silvia of the Red Cross Line for shipment to St. John's.

Mechanics worked all Thursday night and yesterday installing and adjusting an earth inductor compass and other instruments in the plane.

LOCAL STORE NEARLY READY

Painters Are Putting On Final Touches To-day and Monday.

OPEN NEXT WEEK?

The new Government Liquor Store is rapidly nearing completion, and by Monday night it is expected that the finishing touches will have been put on and the store will be ready to receive its supply of liquor. The painters were busily engaged this afternoon painting the rows of shelves. At the back door a large chute has been built into the cellar, where all the liquor will be weighed before the cases are opened.

The Peterborough store was to open along with the first stores in the province, but there have been delays and a great deal more work had to be done than was at first expected.

The date of opening has not yet been announced, but from all appearances the store ought to be doing business by this time next week.

Congressional Honor Urged For Batten For Heroism In Driving Blazing Racer

INDIANAPOLIS, June 4 (A.P.).—Recognition in some manner by Congress of the heroic feat of Norman Batten, Brooklyn driver in piloting his flaming racer to the sidelines during the annual 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on Memorial Day will be sought by Mrs. William E. English, widow of State Senator William E. English of Indianapolis.

Mrs. English was in the grand stand and with thousands of others watched Batten guide the flying racer to the inner side of the track before he tumbled out seriously injured. Some have said that if Batten had jumped and the machine had crashed into the grand stand a panic would have resulted.

Mrs. English said she would try to interest Postmaster General New and others in her recommendation. Batten is still in a hospital.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, manager of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, declared after the race that Batten's act probably saved the lives of either some of the other drivers speeding around the track or of spectators.

DE PINEDO GIVES OWN ACCOUNT OF FLIGHT ACROSS ATLANTIC

Says That Strong Head Winds Depleted Gasoline Supply.

FORCED DOWN TO SEA.

Aided By Portuguese Sailing Ship—Held Up By Ship.

(By Francesco de Pinedo. Written for the United Press.)

Horta, Azores Islands, June 4. — After leaving Trepassey on June 23, for the first hour the wind was favorable. It then changed to east-northeast when we were obliged to fly over a fog bank for about 400 miles. The wind had a velocity of 30 to 50 miles an hour and was partly against us. After passing the fog bank the wind was southeast and against us when we flew at low altitude.

Owing to strong winds our speed was reduced to one-third, so we found our gasoline supply was insufficient to take us to Ponta Delgalda.

At latitude 41.1 north and longitude 33.54 west I decided to land on the ocean to wait a lighter and more favorable wind, hoping to reach at least Flores.

Near the landing spot there was a three masted Portuguese sailing ship en route to the banks of Newfoundland. She came to our assistance and passed a rope by means of a small boat. The sea at the time was dangerous for us. The small boat took us on board the Portuguese fishing boat Infanta de Sagres, and towed us in the direction of Flores, the westernmost of the Azores group.

On the same night we met a steamer which communicated with us by signals, but we were unable to reply.

The following day the conditions of wind and sea were the same. On the 25th the barometer fell a good deal and we hove to. The storm and the high winds damaged the tail and the controls of the machine.

On the morning of the 26th the tow rope broke and while picking up the Santa Maria, the Italian steamer Superga, which was looking for us, appeared and offered assistance, which we accepted.

The wind shifted to the northwest, but owing to sea conditions, we were unable to tow the machine with the wind astern, owing to the danger of breaking the tow ropes. Again when trying to attach the tow ropes to the Santa Maria, owing to the heavy seas it was impossible to get close to the machine and the second officer, Martini, of the Superga, jumped into the sea, and swimming took the ropes to the plane.

We then tried four different routes to reach Horta. But we were unfortunate again, as when we wanted the wind astern it was against us, so that we could tow the machine, it was astern of us.

On the 25th, when in tow of the Infanta Sagres, the waves were so high at times that we could not see the hydroplane. The Superga was steaming about three miles an hour, at times less. The rope broke again, and it required six hours in a rowboat to make the rope fast.

A second time, on Sunday, the 29th, we were 25 miles west of Horta, but not able to make a straight course for the island owing to the wind being astern. We steamed slowly toward the end of the Fayal and as the sea was a little calmer we got in shelter of the island and reached Horta about 6.30 a.m. on the 30th.

On arrival we had the plane towed to safe anchorage and during the evening we had it overhauled. On the following day we had the machine lifted on to the end of the breakwater, where it will remain until it is thoroughly overhauled.

When all repairs are completed and the machine tried out we intend to return to the spot where we landed and resume our flight from there.

The engines of the machine worked excellently and were undamaged. The machine in spite of seven days towing in heavy seas and high winds showed how it was built and how easily it withstood the heavy weather by the capacity to float in such heavy seas.

PETERBORO WOMEN'S MUSIC CLUB OFFERS PRIZES FOR POEM ON "CANADA."

The Music Club, wishing to commemorate our local celebration of "Confederation" in poetry and song, offers two prizes of five and three dollars to any pupil, over twelve years of age, attending either the Collegiate or Public Schools of Peterborough, for an original poem on "Canada." The poem must consist of six stanzas of four lines each. The Rev. Mr. Wren of Trinity Church and Rev. Mr. Gordon of St. Andrew's Church have kindly consented to act as adjudicators in selecting the two best poems. The poem winning the first prize, if suitable, will be set to music by our talented musician, Miss Agnes Logan, and sung on some public occasion by a well-known vocalist. By kind permission of The Examiner, the two prize-winning poems will also be published in its pages. We are sure there is as much budding or latent poetic talent among the young people of Peterborough as in any other city, and we hope that the subject of "Canada" will lend inspiration to the efforts of our young poets and poetesses. All poems must be sent to Mrs. Porter, 521 Gilmour Street, the Secretary of the Club, on or before Saturday, June 18th, and there must be enclosed a note from either parent or guardian certifying the poem to be the pupil's own unaided composition.

RESENT PRESENCE OF JAPAN FORCES

Charge the Tokio Government With Deliberately Reverting To Policy of 1915.

PEKING, June 4. — (Canadian Press.)— A dispatch from Hankow says Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the Nationalist government there, has protested in vigorous terms to the Japanese government against the sending of Japanese troops from Dairen to Tsingtao this week.

Chen is quoted as charging that the Tokio government "is deliberately reverting to the policy of its 21 demands of 1915 and criminally provoking the Chinese to use economic weapons," for the results of which his government cannot be held responsible.

The foreign minister adds, according to the despatch: "Chang Tso Lin, Chang Tsung Chang or Chiang Kai Shek may have approved the expedition, but under no circumstances can the Wu Han (Hankow government) agree." The linking of the name of Chiang Kai Shek, former leader of the armies of the Hankow government, with those of the northern army leaders attracted much comment here.

It was reiterated to-day at the Japanese legation here taht the Tsingtao expedition might be extended to Tsinan, capital of Shantung, if necessary, but no decision to reinforce the garrisons at Tientsin and Peking has been taken.

FOUND A HEALTH BUILDING TONIC

A Nova Scotia Lady Was in an Anaemic Condition.

Men and women who do not sleep well and are not refreshed and strengthened by a night's rest, are generally suffering from thin, watery blood. The nerves fail to get the nourishment they demand and headaches and a worn-out feeling is the one sure step to renewed health and strength, and for this purpose nothing else can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. From first dose to last they enrich and purify the blood, and in this way promote better appetite, better rest at night, and renewed strength.

Mrs. Mary E. Uhlman, Williamstown, N.S., writes:—"I have received so much benefit from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, that I would feel myself ungrateful if I did not let you know.

I was in a very poor state of health, and reached the stage where I had to remain in bed. A doctor was called in and he told me I had no organic trouble, but was simply run down from overwork. I had been left with a family to support, which I did by dressmaking. The doctor said my blood had almost turned to water, and advised a rest cure. I did not see how it was possible for me to take a very long rest, so I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Soon I found my strength returning and before very long I was able to go about my duties as usual again. This was a few years ago, and my health remained good until about a year ago, when I broke out with humor of the blood. Again I consulted the doctor, who said my blood had become so thin that it had really poisoned itself. I told him I had bought several boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and he told me to go on taking them as he thought they were just what I needed. I took eight boxes and again was in good health. I can therefore recommend these pills to all in a weak or run-down condition."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price, 50 cents a box. Try them to-day.

Famous Criminal Lawyer Will Keep Promise His Son Made 23 Years Ago

CHICAGO, June 3.—Clarence Darrow, one of the outstanding criminal attorneys of the country, yesterday prepared to keep faith with a promise by his son, Paul, 23 years ago.

He will go to the defence of John C. Winters, a young Vermont mountaineer, sentenced to death for murder.

The promise, which is taking the famous defender of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold to the defence of a rather obscure country youth, came when Paul Darrow was a student at Dartmouth College, Hanover, N.H.

He was driving a spirited horse on one of the country lanes leading out of Hanover, when the horse got out of control and ran over five-year-old Arthur Cooley. Young Darrow was grief-stricken. He wrote the mother of the boy a letter, expressing his sorrow, and then added the following promise:

"If any member of the Darrow family ever can be of any aid to any member of the Cooley family, we will give that aid."

ALMOST FORGOTTEN

"The years have skipped by and the promise has almost been forgotten. Recently the elderDarrow, now one of the nation's commandinging figures, was speaking at his son's alma mater. As he finished his talk an elderly woman approached him and said: I am going to invoke a promise made to me 23 years ago."

She showed Darrow the letter his son had written. She was the mother of the little boy killed.

"My nephew is John C. Winters, and he has been sentenced to die for murder. I know he is innocent. Will you defend him and keep the promise your son made?"

Darrow, probably the leading critic of capital punishment, looked at the letter and gave assurance the promise would be kept.

"I know nothing much about the case," Darrow said yesterday. "The man was convicted several months ago. An appeal has been made to the Supreme Court of the State. I will obtain a copy of that appeal and then will know what steps to take.

"I will do whatever I can for Winters, and thus make good my son's promise."

CHAMBERLAIN HURT IN CAR ACCIDENT

Was Returning To His Home From the Foreign Office.

LONDON, June 4.— (A.P.)— Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, was slightly injured in an automobile accident last night while returning to his home from the foreign office.

Sir Austen's automobile was proceeding through Whitehall Square when a woman suddenly stepped off the sidewalk in front of the car. The chauffeur swerved sharply to avoid her and collided with a mid-street safety zone, damaging the car and smashing some of the glass.

Sir Austen's forehead was cut by glass and his finger was injured. He was taken to Westminster Hospital, where his head was bandaged, after which he returned home. Later he told a newspaper reporter that the cut was slight and not serious and that he would go to Geneva on Saturday for the League of Nations council meeting as he had planned.

ESTABLISH OFFICES IN HEART OF CITY

OTTAWA, Ont., June 4 (Canadian Press).—The new United States Legation will establish offices in the Metropolitan Building, in the heart of the Capital, it was officially announced last night.

The suite was engaged late yesterday afternoon and practically adjoins the offices of the American Consul-General, Col. John G. Foster, which have been located in the Metropolitan Building for the past few months.

Hon. William Phillips, recently appointed United States Minister to Canada, has not yet, it was stated, executed a lease for the premises; but this will be done in due course. The offices will be taken over by the American envoy on July 1, when the Legation will be formally opened. In the interim a number of necessary alterations will be made. A few days ago Mr. Phillips intimated that eventually an American Legation would be built in the Capital.

While several suggested residences were again inspected yesterday by Mr. Phillips, it is understood that no selection will be made until Mrs. Phillips arrives in Ottawa about June 30.

As the guest of Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Viscountess Willingdon, the United States Minister attended the annual King's birthday garden party at Government House yesterday afternoon.

Today, Mr. Phillips will leave on the five o'clock afternoon train for New York, where he will meet Mrs. Phillips and family, who are scheduled to arrive at New York on Monday. Before his departure, he will make several ceremonial calls and fill a luncheon engagement.

Mr. Phillips and his family will probably proceed from New York to Boston and then to Washington. The American Minister will return to Ottawa on June 30.

Four-Legged Duck Hatched In Otonabee

MATHER'S CORNERS, June 4. —This week an interesting bird was hatched at Mather's Corners. It was dead, but was fully developed. It had died while it was being removed from its shell. The little duckling, for such it was, had four perfectly formed legs and two tails, and only one head. Different people in the township and at Keene saw it.

A few years ago a resident of this neighborhood had a duck that grew to be large that had an extra pair of legs, which, however, it could not use.

PLANT TREES ON RESERVE

INSTAL FIRE BARRELS.

ROSENEATH, June 4.—Last week Superintendent Thomas H. Honey completed the planting of young trees on the Northumberland and Durham forestry reserve in Haldimand Township. 225,000 trees were planted this spring, of which all but 15,000 were pine, there being planted 500 each of white ash, elm and soft maple. From now on the chief work of the men on the reserve will be watching out for fires, a number of barrels of water having to be placed all through the forests of young trees. Last summer one camper did start a small fire, but one of the patrol noticed it before it had obtained headway. Each patrolman carries with him a small portable fire extinguisher, which holds about a pail and a half of water, and these will extinguish a fire if it has not attained too much of a start.

BOY GANGSTERS TRY TO ESCAPE

Boys Charged With Guelph Burglaries Run Away From Home.

CAUGHT NEAR ARKELL.

GUELPH, Ont., June 4.—Fearful of the heavy hand of the law, four of the nine juvenile gangsters who were arrested for participation in a series of burglaries in the city, attempted to run away from home and escape the court consequences of their crimes on Thursday night. Armed with a shot gun, a revolver and sundry jack knives, and provisioned with a single loaf of bread, the four lads, whose ages range from 12 to 14 years, started out of the city to the east along the C.P.R. tracks.

It was not long before they were missed from their homes, and their parents raised the hue and cry after them. Neighbors were enlisted, and a hunt commenced, resulting in the capture of the youthful fugitives near Arkell.

As they were sighted one of the boys, who was carrying the shot gun, raised it and fired a shot to discourage pursuit. It was an ineffectual attempt, however.

BOY DROWNED AT PEMBROKE

Falls From Raft Into Muskrat River—Fails To Come Up.

BODY RECOVERED.

PEMBROKE, June 4.—The first drowning fatality of the season occurred here yesterday when Elmer Gorr, seven years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Gorr, lost his life when he fell off a raft on the Muskrat River a mile and a half from his home. He and two boy chums had gone on a picnic and were about to retire to a tree in a pasture when the Gorr boy spotted a raft at the river's edge. Despite the warning of his parents and the pleadings of his chums, the unfortunate lad mounted the raft and, losing his balance, plunged into the river. He did not rise, the body being recovered by his father fifty feet down stream an hour and a half later, the current being quite swift at the spot. Deceased's chums waded in up to their necks in an effort to save the lad, but he had disappeared. They then ran to his home, a mile and a half away, to give the alarm. The funeral took place to-day.

THEATRE MERGER.

NEW YORK, June 4.— (Canadian Press.)—Unified control of more than 600 theatres in America is the ultimate aim of a $250,000,000 merger of the Stanley Company of America, Keith and Orpheum vaudeville circuits and the S. B. Moss theatres organization, which was under negotiation here to-day. A physical merger of the two vaudeville organizations is understood to be the first step in the consolidation, which is expected to be completed some time this summer.

Moon Passed Between Venus and the Earth

TORONTO, June 4.—A conjunction of the moon with venus took place at 12.50 a.m. standard time yesterday, that is, the moon passed between venus and the earth. The phenomena was not visible to this district, however, as both planets had already set.

"Even had they not set the conjunction would not have been visible here," informed Prof. C. A. Chant, "as venus from our viewpoint would be a little north of the moon. The conjunction was visible in the south-western parts of the United States and from some areas in the Pacific."

DEVELOPING NEW PARTS OF ONTARIO

Maps and Report of Surveyors Have Just Been Issued.

Ontario is the second largest province of the Dominion and contains over 400,000 square miles, being exceeded in size by the Province of Quebec which is nearly three-quarters as large again. It occupies over ten per cent. of the aggregate land area of the Dominion and exhibits many varieties of climate and soil, from the distinctively southern conditions along the shores of Lake Erie to the relatively diverse ones of Hudson and James Bays. Manitoba, its neighboring province on the west, with an area six-tenths as large, exhibits varieties nearly as diverse as those of Ontario.

Ontario and Manitoba have not always occupied the same extent as they do at present. Several times their limits have been set forth by Imperial exactment or by Dominion statute, the ultimate effects of which have been large increases to the original areas of each.

At one time Manitoba with its regular boundaries appeared so small upon the Dominion maps that it was often referred to as the "postage stamp province." The latest acquisition to the territory included within this province was by Dominion Act of Parliament in 1912, when a part of the district of Keewatin was included. At the same time, also, the present district of Patricia was added to the Province of Ontario, and a large area in Labrador peninsula to Quebec. These three expanses of virgin territory contain possibilities for future development that can be only dimly surmised to-day.

These possibilities are indicated in the mineral development that has already taken place in the Pas area in Manitoba, on the recent discoveries of the Red Lake area in Ontario, in the forest wealth as a source of timber and pulpwood, in the available power resources of the innumerable water falls, in the hunting, fishing, and tourist attractions, and the many other features.

When Ontario and Manitoba were extended in 1912 the boundary between them was defined. This was to be along the then existing meridian-line eastern boundary of Manitoba to a point about 265 miles north of the International boundary from which point it turned north-easterly in a straight line to the eastern edge of Island Lake and thence in a straight line to the intersection of the 60th parallel of latitude with the western shore of Hudson Bay.

At that time only a small portion of this boundary line had been run upon the ground, namely, that part of the meridian-line boundary lying south of Winnipeg River. The necessity for further demarcation of the boundary soon became apparent for reasons principally connected with administration, and in 1921 and 1922 the meridian-line boundary was surveyed to the point at which it turns north-easterly. This was performed under the direction of two commissioners, the Director of Surveys, Toronto, for the Province of Ontario, and the Surveyor-General, Ottawa, for the Dominion of Canada. The interests of the Province of Manitoba were considered to be the same as those of the Dominion since Dominion lands only were affected.

The report of these commissioners has just been issued. It presents a historical sketch with the incidents leading up to the necessity for the survey, the present boundaries, methods of survey, actual surveys made, and a general description of the district. An appendix giving the results of magnetic declination observations is also included.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the report so far as the general public is concerned, is the chapter devoted to a description of the district. What little is known about this practically unknown area is presented under various sections relating to physical features and economic possibilities of the country. The report is well illustrated and is accompanied by an atlas of maps, the complete atlas containing sixteen sheets.

Copies of the report and atlas may be obtained upon application to the topographical Survey, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, for the nominal fee of one dollar for the report and two dollars for the atlas, or three dollars for the both combined. These amounts are for the paper-covered editions. The report alone is also issued in a cloth cover for which the fee is $1.25. The fee for the sheets contained in the atlas, if desired separately, is fifteen cents each.

COURTESY PAYS

HONOLULU, June 4.—Because fithey were generous with their smiles and extended courteous treatment to a traveler, Ernest Ching and Harry Nolan, employees of a Waikiki beach hotel, have departed on a trip around the world. The traveler, Charles D. Clinch, wealthy Californian, took a fancy to the boys when they greeted him on his first trip to Honolul.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

ON ONE OCCASION Jesus said: "Now is the judgment of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out. And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." More than once I have heard clever, if not convincing, sermons which tried to prove that Jesus was thinking of the preaching of the gospel as the meaning of and the method by which He was to be lifted up. But, while we are willing and glad to admit that there is a sense in which Christ is being lifted up when the glad news is proclaimed to the children of men, that is not what Jesus meant when He uttered this striking statement. And in support of this contention I only ask that you, my reader, will take a copy of the New Testament and look at the thirty-third verse of the twelfth chapter of the Gospel according to St. John. There you will find that the Holy Spirit interprets for us the meaning of the Master's words: "This He said, signifying what death He should die." Could anything be plainer? The lifting up from the earth refers to His death upon the cross.

A UNIQUE DEATH.

There never has been a death at any time in the history of the race just like the death of Jesus. Every other death is in weakness. His was in strength and triumph. He said, in a way that no other could use the words, "I lay it down." "I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep." "No man taketh it from Me, but I lay it down of Myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again." If we will prayerfully ponder these words, spoken by one who spake as never man spake, we shall realize that they bring us into the presence of the most mysterious death ever suffered by any of the sons of men.

He died to satisfy the demands of a broken law. He died to break the power of evil by which the world was enslaved. He died to create a centre at which men might enter into freedom and life. In the most explicit language He declares that His death will do all this and more.

HIS CROSS.

What is it that determines the difference between the death of Jesus and the death of others who died upon a cross? The day that He was crucified there were two others who were crucified at the same time. But there was no virtue, either for themselves or for others, in the death of the two who died on either side of Jesus.

There is an old legend which encloses a great truth which will help to illustrate the difference in the death of Jesus when compared with the death of others who died upon a cross.

It is said that the Empress Helena wanted to find the cross on which Jesus died, and so she sent excavators to the Holy Land for this purpose. Excavations were made, and three crosses were found; but how were they to know which was the one upon which the Son of God had suffered and died? Telling the Empress of their perplexity, they asked her how they could know the true cross. She told them to take a corpse and put it successively upon one and another, and as soon as it touched the Saviour's cross it would come to life again. The legend says that they did this and discovered to their amazement and delight that one of the three crosses had power to give life to the dead.

The cross is not a piece of masonry adorning the end of a religious edifice; neither is it a golden ornament that dangles at a lady's breast or hangs from the girdle of a priest or a nun. All these are but symbols of the cross. The cross is the death of the Son of God.

In the cross of Christ I glory,
Towering o'er the wrecks of time;
All the light of sacred story
Gathers round its head sublime.

SUBLIME EGOTISM.

There was a sublime egotism about Jesus. Others might doubt Him—He never doubted Himself! He said that in His death—which might seem to be the dashing to the ground of all His hopes and the defeat of all His plans, as it proved to be the dispersion of His followers—there would be provided the foundation for every worth-while hope, and the magnetic power which would draw all men to Himself in simple, child-like faith.

It has been pointed out more than once that when Jesus says "all men" he could not have meant all men WITHOUT EXCEPTION, since the history of the race clearly proves that multitudes have resisted successfully that drawing power. What He did mean was that He would draw all men WITHOUT DISTINCTION! This is the glory of the gospel that it breaks down all racial and caste barriers. It makes its appeal to men simply as men who, as sinners, need salvation.

DRAWING POWER.

At the manger, which was glorified by the presence of the child Jesus, we find that the wise men have been attracted. What took place then has been taking place ever since with a far deeper significance. Think of the names of all those who have shone in the realms of art, music, letters, science, politics, invention and commerce, and you will discover that the overwhelming majority of them have yielded to the drawing power of the Son of God. Those who have been considered the fallen and the outcasts of society have been drawn to Jesus as the one who understands their case and has sympathy and help for them. Matthew, the tax-gatherer, hated by his countrymen and despised by the Romans, responded to the magnetism of Jesus. The woman of Samaria, an outcast if ever there was one, found in Jesus what she needed. If Jesus cannot help such souls, who can? But He can, and does! Time would fail to tell of the triumphs of His cross in the redemption of those who have been without God and having no hope in the world.

A DEBT PAID.

The cross meets the demands of a broken law and enables God to be just and the justifier of all who believe in Jesus. The cross gives the guilty conscience peace. The cross bridges the gulf between a holy God and the guilty sinner.

When the publican in the temple cried unto God, he unconsciously painted one of the most remarkable pictures every painted with words instead of with brushes and colors and canvas. In seven words when translated into our English language, he cried, "God, be merciful to me, a sinner." There is no attempt at embellishment! At one end there is God, holy and just: at the other end there is the publican, a sinner, unholy and unjust. The problem is, how can these be brought together? How can God be just and at the same time justify one who has broken the law?

The answer to these questions is to be found in the cross of Christ. "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness even so must the Son of Man be lifted up, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

The philosophy of the cross may be beyond the comprehension of the brightest intellects, but the practicalness of it is beyond all question. Christianity is nothing if it is not experimental. Jesus says, "Come and see," and never yet has that "come" been acted upon, but those who have "come" have been enabled to "see." The Psalmist says, "Taste and see that the Lord is good." All the talk in the world will never bring us to know how the Lord is good. To know it we must "taste." We may doubt and question this, but we are unfair if we refuse to put it to the test before we deny the truth or the reality of it. "Taste," and having tasted, if you fail to find that the Lord is good in saving and satisfying the deepest desires of the soul, you will then have some ground for your unbelief!

A RECEIPT GIVEN.

When Jesus died upon the cross He died to pay a debt. When He arose from among the dead He received, in His resurrection, the receipt to show that His payment had been accepted. Never again can that debt be collected or charged against those whose debt it was. He was delivered for our offences and raised again for our justification.

Having been saved by His cross, we should consecrate our lives to His service. We must lift Him up in every way. Let us lift Him up in the midst of the congregation by our worship, our service and our gifts. How listless and dull our worship often is. The wonder to me is that so many people go to church. I know that the usual complaint is that so few go. But when I think how very ordinary the average church service is, I think we ought to marvel at the numbers attending. If Jesus were lifted up in the worship of the sanctuary there would be a lift and an interest to the service such as we don't often have now. Then our service is often so grudgingly given that the wonder is that it meets with as much success as it does. It certainly is an illustration of the Scripture applied in another way, that God does not despise the day of small things. If He did, much of what is called service would never be accepted by Him. And when we think of much of our giving, in its spirit, its motives and its meanness, we are reminded of what is to be found in Malachi:

"Ye offer polluted bread upon mine altar; and ye say, Wherein have we polluted thee? . . . And if ye offer the blind for sacrifice, is it not evil? And if ye offer the lame and sick, is it not evil?"

Let us lift Christ up in our worship, our service, and our giving and see what a transformation will be wrought.

IN CONCLUSION.

Since He has paid our debt and redeemed us by His death on the cross, it should be a joy to lift Him up in our lives. Our great concern now should be to reflect His glory and advertise His grace. He is the world's only hope. Methods, money and music all have a place in the work of God; and they can do much to draw to the sanctuary, but the greatest draw is a crucified Christ.

I have read somewhere of a kindergarten school on the East Side of New York into which there came one day a little lass. Through the open door she entered and stepped up to a table on which there was a vase with some lovely lilies. She looked at the flowers, then at her own unkempt condition, gave a great sigh and walked out of the room. After a while she came back marvellously transformed. Her hands had been washed, her hair combed back and tied with a piece of ribbon, and a clean dress had taken the place of the dirty one in which she was clothed when she had first entered the room. The lillies had done two things! They had acted as a mirror, and also as a magnet. This is just what Jesus does by His life and His death. His life is the mirror in which we are reminded of our own imperfections; and His death is the magnet which draws all men unto Him for safety and satisfaction. The gospel of Christ is the only religion which has a ray of hope for the lost, the sinful, the oppressed and the weak, or a message for the woman and the little child.

—Allan Fairbairn.

Strange Company

A reader of the Bible was assailed by an infidel with such expressions as these: "That the blood of Christ can wash away sin is foolishness; I don't understand or believe it." The Bible student remarked, "You and Paul agree exactly." "How?" "Turn to the first chapter of Corinthians and read the eighteenth verse: "For the preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved, it is the power of God."

Strange Happenings

HE asked for strength that he might achieve; he was made weak that he might obey.

He asked for health that he might do greater things; he was given infirmity that he might do better things.

He asked for riches that he might be happy; he was given poverty that he might be wise.

He asked for power that he might have the praise of men; he was given weakness that he might feel the need of God.

He asked for all things that he might enjoy life; he was given life that he might enjoy all things.

He has received nothing that he asked for. His prayer is answered. He is most blest.

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

ON one occasion George Muller was coming out to Canada, and was due at Quebec to fill an engagement on Sunday. The ship was delayed by dense fog. Mr. Muller said to the captain, himself a Christian man: "I am due at Quebec for Sunday, and I have never yet failed to keep an engagement." "Impossible!" replied the captain. "Don't you see the fog?" "Come down to my cabin," said Muller, "and let us bring it before God in prayer." They knelt together, and Muller prayed very simply. The captain in his turn was about to pray, when Muller touched him, saying, "No! Don't you pray, for you do not believe that God will take away the fog, and I believe that He has taken it away already." They went on deck, and sure enough the fog was gone, and Mr. Muller kept his appointment.

CHURCHES AND CHURCHMEN

By I. SEEWELL

Sunday Driving.

A certain minister, dealing with the question, "Should a church member drive his car on Sunday?" said something like this: I can find no excuse for any Christian church member, or church official, who drives his car on Sunday when he knows that his church service is going on. A church member pledges his support to the church. Does he forget his pledge, does it mean so little to him that he can leave the church week by week and join the crowd that congests the highways on Sunday and add to the already grave problem of the handling of traffic and the lessening of accidents?

We wonder, as we read the Monday newspapers with their record of accidents and deaths, how many of the fatalities were caused by church members who should have been in church.

When a man spends Sunday after Sunday on the road and neglects his church he is a slacker, and disgraces decent standing. By virtue of his church membership a man pledges himself before God and men to support the services of the sanctuary by his presence, his pocket-book and his prayers. If he leaves his church week after week and makes Sunday a holiday he is false to his vows; and society at its best disdains the man who fails to keep a promise.

You may ask me, would you not, then, drive your car at all on Sunday?

If I were as busy as I know some of you to be six days, early and late, and Sunday were the only day I had, I would attend church; then I might consider it a privilege to get out into the country, or beside a lake in a quiet, restful spot, perhaps take others who could not get out, and in the woods, the fields, or by the water find rest and recreation. I do not advise, however, to get into cars and race through the streets and so increase the danger of the highway.

What good is derived physically by one who starts out early Sunday morning, drives like Jehu all day, and returns home tired, worn out, nervous, and spent? What has he seen, wherein rested? Why drive the physical machine until it cries out?

Drive your car on Sunday? Yes, after you have attended church and gained a spiritual perspective. Then you can continue it in the great out-of-doors and in the company of like minds find refreshment of soul.

Evolution in a Museum.

UNDER this caption a religious periodical, in an interesting editorial, says that a visitor at Yale's new Peabody Museum of Natural History quoted a remark which a celebrated painter once made to a pupil: "How is this, my boy? Six toes on one foot? Surely somebody is mistaken—either you, I or the model!" Then, giving the painter's remark a twist of his own, the visitor observed: "Surely somebody must be mistaken about evolution—either the evolutionists, the anti-evolutionists or the very fossils in this museum!" For all the exhibits on the ground floor are arranged in evolutionary sequence, and appear to tell their own story.

Whether they actually do tell their own story is another matter. According to the anti-evolutionists, they tell only a story which mistaken theorists have made them tell, and no doubt Mr. Chesterton would take the latter view, as a recent article of his in The Forum ridicules evolution. Time may yet prove him quite right in so doing.

A Necessary Evil.

THE Christian Century, in an editorial on "The Minister's Salary," declares: "The professional ministry is at best a necessary evil." In commenting upon this a contemporary asks the question:

"Is there such a thing as a necessary evil? Is not the phrase contradictory in its elements—a thoughtless though much used combination?"

What has the professional ministry done and what is it doing? Of course, we cannot answer completely that question, it is too comprehensive. A professional ministry met the religious conditions in all centuries (Paul, to whom appeal is made, indeed "supported himself—but note 1 Tim. 5: 17-18), and has equally fitted its services to the psychology of man who ever needs admonition to do the good thing as well as encouragement to persist in well doing. That ministry is still those things. Even were the ideal state reached when every child was so trained as inevitably to assume the obligations and privileges of a son or daughter of God in communion with the church, could we even then, human nature being what it is, dispense with an educated, devoted and "necessary" but expert "professional ministry?" Indeed, if "necessary," then how "evil?"

SEE this crowd of men travel-stained with long pilgrimage. What a motely multitude they are! Many hundreds in number; ecclesiastics are there, and professional men, labourers, servants, and persons of all sorts.

They have not been traveling aimlessly, neither are they fugitives, nor are they a poverty-stricken throng. Quite the reverse; there is an air of importance, and great authority about the leading men which is very noticeable.

I think also that I notice about a couple of dozen who seem as if they were guardians of some precious things, so watchful is their care.

The weather is warm, for it is full summer, but neither heat nor weariness trouble them. Calm trust and fixed determination in their countenances is changing now to excitement and triumph. Apparently from their conversation, they have never seen the place towards which they have been travelling all these weeks and months; now it bursts upon their view! The sight amply rewards them for the troubles of the way.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

That out of the convention of the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion, which has just concluded its deliberations here, has arisen a new spirit and a fresh desire to serve is a matter for rejoicing, not only among returned soldiers, but among all those who recognize what a power for good such an organization can be.

There were features in connection with the financial history of returned soldier organizations that had to be dealt with in a manner that would inspire confidence.

Mistakes had been made by some of the organizations taken over by the Legion, and it was necessary to dispose of the consequences of these mistakes and to prepare a chart for the future that would ensure smooth sailing for the new union of ex-service men.

Very satisfactorily progress along these lines was made.

The Ontario Command begins another year with every assurance of progress and growth for the organization, following upon the able and conscientious handling of the problems uncovered at the Peterborough convention.

THE CADETS.

The splendid turn-out of Public and Collegiate Institute cadets in the memorial service parade on Thursday evening made a profound impression upon hundreds of citizens who saw the cadet units on the march for the first time.

The opinion was repeatedly heard that the cadets should be a feature of the Diamond Jubilee procession.

Their soldierly bearing and good marching were favourably commented upon everywhere, coupled with a hope that the Dominion Day parade would find the units in line.

The difficulty, of course, is that the jubilee comes at a time when the schools are closed for the summer vacation.

But they are all loyal young Canadians willing to do their bit to make Peterborough's observance of the occasion as glorious as was Peterborough's answer back in the days of the Great War when the Empire called for men.

PETERBOROUGH AND THE JUBILEE.

In regard to the Diamond Jubilee celebration, the local committee is taking the right attitude in making it clear to other centres in the district that Peterborough is not endeavouring to monopolize the anniversary.

The proper celebration of Canada's sixtieth anniversary, as it was foreseen by the Dominion Parliament in proclaiming the jubilee and as planned by the National Committee, should consist of as many demonstrations as possible.

It is the hope of the national organization that municipalities, big and small, throughout all Canada will plan an appropriate programme so that everywhere from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Arctic Circle to the international boundary Canadians will on Dominion Day observe this most significant anniversary, and rejoice in their Canadian citizenship and the privileges such citizenship confers upon them.

Peterborough has no desire to interfere with any celebration planned by other municipalities in the district.

All that the local committee is doing in this regard is to extend a most hearty invitation to the citizens of those centres in which no local demonstration is being arranged to come to Peterborough on Dominion Day, assuring them of a most ambitious and unusual programme.

If you have no jubilee celebration at home, come to Peterborough and help this community loyally observe Canada's Diamond Jubilee.

A WELL-MERITED TRIBUTE.

The Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion paid a fine tribute to three well-known Peterborough citizens in the election of Lieut.-Col. Ackerman as Second Vice-President of the organization and the selection of Lieut.-Col. J. W. Miller and His Honour Judge Huycke as Honourary Vice-Presidents.

Lieut.-Col. Ackerman, one of the first Peterborough officers to go overseas, has always taken a keen interest in work on behalf of ex-service men, and it was largely through his assistance that the Peterborough Returned Soldiers' Club, forerunner of the local branch of the G.W.V.A. and of the Canadian Legion, was made possible.

Lieut.-Col. Miller, the oldest soldier in the city and one of the keenest, has a military record dating back to the American Civil War and including service at the time of the Fenian Raids. His long association with the 57th Regiment, culminating as officer in command of the Rangers, his services in the interest of recruiting and his still great interest in the cadets, the militia and the returned soldiers, make the tribute paid him by the Canadian Legion richly earned.

The selection of His Honour Judge Huycke as Honourary Vice-President is also a recognition of splendid service, generously and gladly given. The men who fought have no more eloquent or warm-hearted friend in Peterborough than His Honour, and it is gratifying that the Ontario body has fittingly recognized his efforts on behalf of ex-service men.

ARE CANADIANS LIVING TOO WELL?

The daughter of the Premier of Great Britain, Mrs. Maurice Huntingdon Whitly, while on a tour across Canada, expressed the opinion that Canadians were living too well, and apparently did not know poverty. Perhaps the lady did not quite mean that we should not live so well and that we would be better off if we did know some poverty, but the casual reader could almost take that meaning out of her quoted remarks.

In any event, what Mrs. Whitly said is true. Canadians do live well, and what actual poverty and distress there is, is pretty much isolated. It is not the general run of things at all. It is a good thing that bathrooms are a necessary adjunct in the ordinary Canadian home, and Mrs. Whitly would be further surprised were she to visit some of these ordinary homes where electricity has relieved the housewife of so many onerous tasks. Our furnace heating system is also another improvement over the general heating of English homes, and induces comfort with warm fresh air every hour of the day. Behind the little cottage may also be found the proverbial garage in a thousand city homes kept by people of average means. All these things belong to the standard of living which now pertains in the New World. We don't need poverty to harden our souls, and we don't want it as a cure for anything. This country will never go back to the old standard of living, wages will never recede and prices of commodities will not descend to the level when one dollar a day was the wage of a laborer. Canadians and Americans, too, may hustle hard for a competence, and may lack the time to get the culture and the knowledge how to really live as the Old World people have inherited, but there is wider and more equal distribution of wealth and land in this Dominion, and more equal opportunities for all, and a good deal more hopeful outlook for the future. But Canadians do not live too well. They are striving all the time to live better.—St. Catharines Standard.

TELL ABOUT IT.

The Evening News of London, England, is not at all satisfied with the results being achieved under the Oversees Settlement scheme of the British and Dominion Governments. Not enough people are going to the Dominions, it thinks, although the Dominions offer conditions and opportunities that would improve the position of many thousands in the Old Country.

"Far better to be a happy farmer in the Dominions than to be an unhappy striker under the orders of Mr. Cook," argues The News.

The News thinks that one of the defects in the settlement schemes is that not enough people know about them. "It is unquestionable that a large number of dole drawers are content with the dole and will not make serious efforts to get work; it is equally unquestionable that the best British types loathe drawing the dole; and that they are ignorant of the offers to immigrants of the Dominion Governments," says The News, which thinks that the managers of the emigration schemes "might be more noisy about their splendid offers."

This plea for more advertising in Britain of the immigration opportunities afforded by Canada and the other Dominions is a sound one. Australia does more shouting than Canada; Australia got 71 per cent. of last year's immigrants from Great Britain to the Dominions. Canada got 35 per cent., despite all our advantage of proximity to Britain, nearness to the United States and more highly developed prosperity.—Financial Post.

THE ROYAL TOURISTS.

After a tour, marked at every stage by remarkable demonstrations of public enthusiasm, the Duke and Duchess of York are now homeward bound. Their's has been a royal progress in every sense of the phrase, extending over a hemisphere peopled by different races, touching remote parts of a far-flung empire embracing an itinerary which carried them through two great nations, one a Dominion, the other a Commonwealth; and revealing in a conspicuous degree the abiding spirit of loyalty that binds inseparably the British breed.

The policy of "seeing the empire" was inaugurated by Edward VII. when, as Prince of Wales, he visited Canada and other colonies, establishing a tradition that has been worthily maintained by succeeding representatives of Royalty, and by none more triumphantly than by the present heir to the throne. As the unofficial ambassador of Britain, endowed with qualities that have won universal admiration and made him one of the world's outstanding figures, that popular Prince has set a pace and a standard which other Royal travellers might find it hard to follow.

But the scenes of enthusiasm witnessed throughout the tour of the Duke and Duchess of York would seem to indicate that the Prince has no monopoly in the Royal family of the power to charm and captivate the hearts of the people with whom they come in contact. In every town and city they visited in New Zealand and Australia their Royal Highnesses received a welcome in which the note of affection was strikingly evident.

Labor Premiers joined with aristocratic Governors in extending cordial greetings to the distinguished tourists. State capitals vied with one another in the arrangement of decorations and illuminations, and in the organization of receptions designed to express the loyalty and esteem of the people. The Maoris of New Zealand and the blacks of Northern Australia were as demonstrative in their welcome as the whites of Auckland, Sydney or Hobart, Tasmania. And what seems to have impressed the Duke and Duchess more than anything else was the display of interest on the part of the children massed in thousands and tens of thousands at various points in their tour.

These Royal progresses are no mere pleasure jaunts, as a cynical republican might suppose. They make demands that require the possession of no ordinary qualities to meet, and involve a strain that is certainly not light. State processions through decorated streets lined with cheering multitudes are but the spectacular features of a round of activity which includes no end of functions and ceremonies, from the opening of an hospital to the dedication of a capital, from a distribution of war decorations to a university convocation, with innumerable civic receptions, State banquets, Government balls and public addresses thrown in.

To all these and other demands that arose in the course of their extended trip the Duke of York and his gracious consort proved more than equal, winning on all sides popular approval and affectionate regard by their never-failing tact, hearty interest, and unassuming ways. To the Duke the tour afforded, as he more than once said, a long desired opportunity to study at close range conditions in two of the great nations of the Empire, an opportunity of which he seems to have taken full advantage. And of no less importance is the evidence it has furnished anew to the world of the unfaltering loyalty of all classes, creeds and races in the overseas Dominions to the Crown so worthily represented by the members of a much beloved Royal family.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The band concert season has started. Summer must be here.

Even though they are demobilized, the members of the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion refuse to lay down their arms. They still have a Gunn available.

The Diamond Jubilee is less than a month away. Every one who is called upon to help in the preliminary work should as a good citizen and a good Canadian cheerfully obey.

The "strong man" may yet go down in history as "Hard-hearted Hanna."

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, June 4 (Canadian Press).—There was no improvement in the foreign demand for grain here yesterday. Owing to the pronounced weakness that developed in the Chicago market for corn and oats there was practically no demand for cash grain in the domestic market, but feeling was weak and prices were again readjusted. Car lots of Argentine corn were quoted at $1.02 and American Sample Corn at $1.07. Canadian Western oats were reduced 1 cent per bushel.

Extreme dullness marked the trade in Spring and Winter wheat flour owing to the observance of the King's birthday, but prices were unchanged.

The trade in all lines of millfeed was inactive but prices were steady. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was also quiet, and the undertone was easier in sympathy with the weakness in the raw material, but prices were unchanged.

A moderate amount of business was worked in butter and values were firm. The receipts were 1,483 packages.

In the absence of any transactions in cheese prices were difficult to quote. The receipts were 4,948 boxes.

The egg market was moderately active and firm. The receipts were 2,302 cases.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 4 (Canadian Press).—Rushes to sell brought about sensational price cuts for all grain yesterday following new steps toward Illinois State control of the Chicago Board of Trade. A contributing reason was word that Argentine sellers had arranged to land a great deal of Argentine corn both in this country and Canada between now and September.

Corn fell nearly 6 cents a bushel and closed semi-demoralized 4¾ to 5¼c net lower; wheat 2¾ to 3½c down; oats 3¾ to 4¼c off, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents decline.

Improved weather conditions in Canada and the southwest had a good deal to do with wheat weakness. Heavy rains in Kansas were reported as covering a large territory where moisture was badly needed.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

The oil industry, facing an oversupply, looks around for a dictator. It's not the oil that's bothering most of us but the cans. . . . A dictator might be useful though. He could bring those missing Fall-Sinclair witnesses from Europe. . . . We just knew there was something the matter with that gasoline price, with the detouring season beginning and all.

FORT CHAMBLY, QUEBEC.

Fort Chambly, twenty miles south west of Montreal, on a conspicuous headland of the Richelieu river, is a most picturesque and intersting ruin. The first Fort Chambly was erected by the French in 1666, and the building of the present structure was begun in 1709. In 1851 the fort was abandoned as a military post, and in 1921 was placed under the care of the Canadian National Parks Branch of the Department of the Interior to be preserved as a valuable memorial of the early military history of Canada. It is near one of Quebec's main highways and is visited by many motorists every year.

DISTRICT W. I. HOLDS MEETING

East Durham Branches Hear Splendid Papers at Annual Convention.

HELD AT CASTLETON.

WARKWORTH, June 4.—The annual district meeting of the East Northumberland Branch of the Women's Institute was held in the town hall, Castleton, May 31.

The hall was decorated with baskets of apple blossom and lilac.

The morning session at ten o'clock was in charge of the district president, Mrs. Robert McCullough, Campbellford.

The president gave a short address. In this Mrs. McCullough expressed her regret in not being able to visit the different branches during the year. She also expressed her desire to do her best in any way and also desires greatly to organize new branches, to help co-operate with trustees and teachers, also encouragement in taking interest in fairs and special attention to mothers who may be in need of advice or medical attention.

Mrs. G. F. Clarke gave an excellent report of the executive, giving in detail all receipts and expenditures. The secretary also gave a detailed report of both the District and branches.

Before calling on the delegates of the different branches, the secretary mentioned several works of the branches which were of much benefit to the different communities.

The following reports were given: Brighton, by Mrs. Robert Alexander, Castleton, by Miss Cora Gooderich, Codrington, by Mrs. Lloyd Ames, Percy, by Mrs. J. H. Black, Warkworth, Seymour West, by Mrs. D. Rutherford, Wooler, by Mrs. J. J. Way, York Road, by Mrs. Ernest Rogers.

These reports covered in detail their year's work and were very interesting.

Discussion on the dental inspection given by the Department to rural schools followed.

This proved to be such a good thing for children that it was moved by Mrs. Charles Macoun, of Campbellford and seconded by Mrs. Floyd Harnden—that a committee be appointed to form a resolution to send in to the Department in regard to Dental Service in rural schools. The committee appointed was Mrs. Chas. Macoun, Miss E. McGee, Chesterville, and Mrs. William Ormis, Wooler.

Following this was the election of officers. Mrs. Robert McCullough Campbellford, was re-elected with a majority of eighteen; 1st vice-president is Mrs. Leigh Isaac, Warkworth; second vice-president, Mrs. Floyd Harnden, Castleton; and 3rd vice-president, Mrs. Aubrey Woof, Codrington. These were all re-elected by acclamation. Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. G. F. Clarke unanimously re-elected.

Auditors, Mrs. Reg. McCullough and Mrs. D. Rutherford, Campbellford.

Confederation Representative, Mrs. Robert McCullough. Branch Directors, Mrs. Robert Alexander Brighton; Mrs. Charles Wolfraim, Castleton; Mrs. J. B. Moran, Codrington; Mrs. George L. Walker, Warkworth; Mrs. Reg. McCullough, Campbellford; Mrs. William Orvis Wooler; Mrs. A. L. Potts, Smithfield, for York Rd.

The meeting adjourned for dinner which was served in the basement of the town hall by the members of the Castleton Branch of the W.I.

There was a discussion on financing Belleville Convention. It was decided that each branch pay two dollars and the district five dollars and each person pay for banquet, and if more funds than necessary are collected, this is to be carried over for next year's convention.

An address of welcome was ably given by Mrs. Roy Petty, Castleton, in which it was stated the Institute's work was greatly needed in child welfare. Although this organization has accomplished much in this line there is still much to be done. This excellent address was replied to by Mrs. W. J. Harper, Warkworth, in which the speaker expressed much pleasure in being a member of the W.I., where one meets with all denominations and where help is given regardless creed and nationality.

Mrs. Will Campbell, of Norham, sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. J. E. Arkles, Norham.

Following this was an excellent address on Confederation, given by Mrs. Charles Macoun, Campbellford. In this Mrs. Macoun touched on the time when Confederation was in consideration and to illustrate how important this question was to the Fathers of Confederation, read two short speeches made by Sir John A. McDonald and George Brown, the two leaders at that time. The speaker also pointed out Canada's great export trade, Canada's wealth per capita and on many other important items.

Mrs. Lorne Evans gave a very humorous reading which was heartily encored.

Mrs. Jackson, of Woodrows, Federation representative, explained fully the meaning of federation of the Institute, and finished her talk with a splendid paper—"Duty as neighbors." This showed careful thought and preparation and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Little Vivian Bowen sang, playing her own accompaniment on the ukelele.

A short intermission followed in which the ladies served ice cream.

Miss E. McGee, of Chesterville, spoke for a short time on the essentials of Institute work, which were sociability, service, loyalty, interest, tact, co-operation and optimism. The speaker urged each branch to see that it had all these essentials.

Mrs. Vance Pomeroy gave a reading entitled "Selling Fellers."

Miss McGee took charge of the question box and out of which questions were asked by those who did not understand certain things or by those desiring information. These were answered by some member or Miss McGee.

The household science judging competition was brought before the meeting and explained as clearly as possible by Mrs. G. F. Clarke.

A discussion followed, but no definite decision made and it was left with each branch to decide if they wished to enter a class and also to help in financing it.

A solo by Mrs. Mattie Calberry was thoroughly enjoyed.

On motion of Mrs. Dunham, Campbellford and Mrs. Leigh Isaac, Warkworth, a hearty vote of thanks was extended to the members of the Castleton Branch of the Women's Institute for their kind hospitality. It was decided to hold the next district meeting in Seymour West.

The Percy Branch had on exhibition the articles made for the Girls' Garment Competition.

NEW PONTIAC SIX PLANT OPERATING AT CAPACITY

PONTIAC, MICH., May 25.—Comprising the major portion of the Oakland Motor Car Company's $15,000,000 expansion programme, the three buildings of the new Pontiac Six Division are now running at full capacity.

Such an expansion programme was an urgent necessity, since Pontiac Six production, out-distanced from the day of its introduction seventeen months ago, has not caught up with orders.

This group of buildings includes the motor manufacturing plant, assembly plant and car storage building. The project was completed in the record time of less than seven months. A large foundry is yet to be added.

The plant, as completed, has a capacity of 1,000 Pontiac cars a day, it houses 35 acres of floor space, and the railroad storage yards have a capacity of 500 railroad cars.

The driveaway tunnel connecting the assembly building and the car storage building passes underneath the tracks and provides for entirely enclosed weather conditions, so that the cars may be loaded into box cars in the car storage building without exposure to the weather.

Here, on one floor in one unit, is a huge battery of 800-unit electrically driven machines, many automatic, devoted to the manufacture, finish, and assembly of the parts of the Pontiac Six engine. In one corner of one unit are 240 engines being tested under their own power, being carefully run-in to ensure proper performance from the very start as well as future long life.

I.O.O.F. MEMBERS ENJOY EXCURSION

Weather Somewhat Cool, However, For Trip to Rochester.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 4. — Campbellford's contribution to District No. 45, I.O.O.F. excursion from Cobourg to Rochester, N.Y., began to trek in at 2.30 this morning.

Of the seven lodges represented—Madoc, Campbellford, Hastings, Springbrook, Stirling, Tweed and Thomasburg—Campbellford had the largest representation.

The cold weather of the past few weeks no doubt had a lot to do with the number leaving on the excursion being less than half of the 1,000 the boat can accommodate.

The trip on the water, both going and returning is reported as being decidedly cool. The cabins were, however, kept nicely heated and the excursionists made good use of them. On reaching Rochester the greater part of the voyagers made their way to the Rochester vs. Syracuse ball game.

The Blute Orchestra, Campbellford's well-known musicians, furnished the music for the dancing on board the boat.

TRIMMED LAWYERS WOULDN'T AID HIM.

(Nea Service.)

New York, June 3. — It's impossible! In spite of all that's said about brilliant lawyers, shyster lawyers, and lawyers, who know every quirk of crookedness, there is one layman who doesn't know the difference between a tort and a felony, yet make his living by tricking lawyers. James Annini, with half a dozen aliases, posed as a destitute veteran with a claim for $4,000 back pay. He would give the case to an attorney and then "borrow" on the money he was supposed to receive. But they hauled him into Court the other day and confronted him with several complaints. "Do you want a lawyer?" he was asked. "Who could I hire?" asked Annini despondently. "I've trimmed them all."

CAMELS ONCE ROAMED OVER AMERICA.

Camels are commonly understood to belong exclusively to the Old World. It was not always so, however, as a specimen recently acquired by Canada's National Museum at Ottawa amply demonstrates. This is the fossilized frame of a camel which a few million years ago roamed over the western plains of North America, which were then dry. This curious specimen has been placed on exhibition in the Hall of Palaeontology.

GIRL RESCUED FROM SEWER

SAVED BY FIREMAN.

NEW YORK, June 4.—For almost half an hour last night, three-year-old Grace Hedin, No. 5313 Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn, battled in the darkness at the bottom of a twenty-foot sewer against a rushing torrent, waist deep, that threatened at any moment to sweep her through subterranean passages into the bay.

She had fallen into the sewer through an open man-hole on 52nd Street, near Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn. While hurried calls were being sent for fire department rescue crews and ambulances, the frantic mother of the girl had to be restrained forcibly from jumping down the man-hole.

The girl finally was rescued by Frank P. Hart, a member of the fire department, who descended into the sewer by a fire ladder. Dr. Jacobs, of Norwegian Hospital, who arrived in the hospital ambulance, found that the girl, though wet and bedraggled, had suffered only slight bruises of the left knee.

A heavy motor truck, it was said, had shattered the man-hole cover a few days ago. Wooden boxes were placed around the opening and red lanterns were hung at night. One of the boxes was carried off yesterday by children at play.

Shortly after dark last night, the girl went walking with her mother, Mrs. Frieda Hedin. The other did not have hold of the child's hand, and as they were crossing 52nd Street the mother heard a shrill cry. Turning quickly she found the child had disappeared.

Then from the depths of the sewer came a series of frightened shrieks. The mother and many others in the neighborhood ran to the man-hole. In a flash they realized what had happened. Mrs. Hedin was seized and drawn away when she tried to jump into the sewer.

When the girl stumbled and fell, she knocked one of the wooden boxes into the sewer. On this she climbed, after regaining her footing in the swift current, and managed to maintain a precarious footing until she was rescued.

Staples sang a duet, which was very much appreciated. After the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. Elliott assisted by several of the ladies. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. A. B. Kennedy's on the first of September.

Had Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Wm. Peacock had a narrow escape from a serious accident on Wednesday, when she was returning home from leaving the children to school in the car; she turned out to pass a rig and lost control of the car. The car turned completely over. Mrs. Peacock managed to get out from underneath it and escaped with only a few bruises. The car was pretty badly damaged.

TORONTO, June 4. — (Canadian Press.)—Prices tended to slightly lower levels on the Toronto exchange this morning, although one or two firm spots showed. Trading was quieter than early in the week, but still remarkably active. International Nickel, Northern Bakeries, and Hiram Walkers, the leaders all softened. Nickel sold down to 69, recovering to 69 5-8 for a net loss of 2 3-8, while Bakeries was down a point at 32 and Walkers 1 1-8 lower at 54 3-4. Gooderham and Worts lost 3-4 at 59, City Dairy a half at 115 1-2, and Seagrams 3-4 at 25 1-4. The firm spots were Northern Mexico, advancing 4 1-2 at 80 and Brazilian which climbed 2 3-4 at 154 3-4. Elsewhere stocks remained steady.

Many Gains in Toronto Mining Market To-day

TORONTO, June 4 (Canadian Press). — Some good gains were recorded in the heavy trading on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning. Against a background of general firmness the strength of Kirkland Lake and Nipissing was 45 cents higher at 585. Argonaut in active trading finished a half point better at 42½. Duprat firmed one at 10, Laval-Quebec improved 1½ at 21½, and Castle Trethewey was up 11 cents at 95. Noranda softened 20 at 21.75.

Stock Prices Higher To-day; Few Losses in Wall Street

NEW YORK, June 4 (Canadian Press). — Stock prices made an irregular recovery to-day after an opening period of heaviness. Operators for the advance supported the stocks freely on the theory that the technical position of the market had been improved by yesterday's shake out, but bear traders continued to ferret out new weak spots.

Public Utilities led the advance, American Water Works, Commonwealth Power, and Standard Gas and Electric all touching new high levels. Laclede Gas also scored an advance of four points. Special buying in Pittsburgh Common was based on reports that new interests were seeking control, the stock jumping 5½ points to a new high record.

The strength of National Distillers also apparently was based on the belief that the Government would permit the manufacture of whisky or the release of part of its storage stocks for medicinal purposes.

A BUNGALOW OF MODERN DESIGN

By Frank P. Martin, Architect.

The bungalow, a comparatively recent home building development, seems the best medium for the expression of the modern homemakers' ideals. To attempt to follow in bungalow design, any precedent originated for two storey houses often results in an incongruous appearance which insistently makes one thing "invitation." What is wanted in bungalow building is good honest design and construction, and in this example at least, these requirements have been met.

Interesting features of the exterior are the extension of the roof to form a hood over the front entrance, the use of window sash bars to make six lights in the upper sash and nine in the lower, and the judicious placing of diamond shaped wood medallions to relieve the possible monotony of unbroken expanses of stucco wall.

A good impression would be received right at the vestibule, which is larger than the average, and which, with its tinted walls and ceiling, antique electric fixtures, and a well chosen picture or two would make something out of what, in most homes, is merely the space between the doors.

Travellers returning from abroad have invariably been stricken with the lack of color in our buildings. The present trend toward the use of colored materials, however, indicates that Canadian eyes will not long remain color starved, certainly those of the dwellers in this house will not, for the interior walls and ceilings are tinted throughout.

Imagine the furnishing opportunities of the living room with this color treatment, antique electric fixtures, a big fireplace, and doors to the sunroom and dining room.

The kitchen cannot fail to appeal to any housewife. It contains an electric range, sink, refrigerator, and a large cupboard, and is conveniently related to the remainder of the house.

One of the greatest advances in modern home building is the increasing importance given to the bathroom. Here, this is well exemplified, it being tiled, and equipped with a built-in bath and a pedestal basin. Near the hall door is a linen closet.

Constructed with concrete foundations, insulated walls of white cement stucco, and a variegated shingle roof, this home costs approximately $7,000.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architect direct. Address Mr. Frank P. Wilson, Imperial Bank Bldg., Saskatoon, Sask.

KIWANIS LADIES' NIGHT

Ladies' night was celebrated by the Kiwanis Club at the weekly luncheon, held last night in the Lawless House, Lakefield. The nurses of the 1927 graduating class of St. Joseph's Hospital were the guests of the evening, and the speaker was T. J. Coo of the United Typewriter Company, Toronto.

Yesterday being the King's birthday, J. J. Turner gave a special toast, and the boosters were Harry Huffman and John R. Heron.

Mr. Coo gave the seventy guests one half-hour of fun when he told stories, described the trip of an Irishman through the British Isles, and gave a comical monologue and a Chinese parson delivering the announcements and preaching his sermon.

After the luncheon those who wanted to dance went to the pavilion, where the Collegians supplied the music. Others played bridge in the hotel.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Cook of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. J. John, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Bredin, Mr. and Mrs. A. Moffat, Mr. and Mrs. H. AWAIT ROCKNE

HONOLULU, June 4.—That Hawaii is a coming force in American football is evidenced by the fact that Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame football coach, will arrive in Honolulu in December to conduct a school in football playing. Rockne will come to the island at the invitation of Coach Otto Klum, University of Hawaii mentor, whose teams have commanded attention on the mainland during the past few years.

INDIGESTION
Gas on Stomach Caused Severe Pains

Mrs. C. F. Wheeler, R.R. No. 1, Glen Ewen, Sask., writes:—"For years my eldest son suffered from severe pains and agony from imperfect digestion. He dieted and used artificial digestants, but all to no avail. At last I got him a bottle of and he had not taken the whole bottle before he was greatly relieved. The severe stomach attacks ceased, there was no more gas on the stomach, and he could eat anything he wished."

A GOLFER'S SKILL WINS HIM A WIFE.

By NEA Service

HUTCHINSON, Kan., June 4.—George Hipple, merchant, courted Margaret Waddles, woman golf champion of Kansas. Margaret was fond of George, approved of him in every way—but one. The trouble was that every time they went out on the links together, his score looked like the national debt beside her own. She absolutely refused to marry a man who couldn't trim her at the game. So Hipple practised. Finally he challenged her to another game—and won by one stroke. Mr. and Mrs. George Hipple are touring the south now.

SAFEGUARDING MILK
BY PASTEURIZATION

(Report of M.H.O., Toronto, Continued from Thursday

It was with a knowledge of these facts that Dr. H. A. Harding, Professor of Dairy Husbandry of the University of Illinois, in an address before the Industrial Milk Dealers' meeting at Chicago, in October, 1914, said: "The proper pasteurization of milk is a simple and inexpensive process which leaves no objectionable influence upon the milk, and which takes from the milk not only the danger of transmitting tuberculosis, but also the danger of transmitting all of the long list of other diseases which are frequently transmitted by milk. The requirement of the universal pasteurization of the public milk supply is endorsed by the leading students of milk problems, regardless of whether they approach these problems from the avenues of science or of practice."

It was with a knowledge of these facts that the Minister of Agriculture for France, in 1912, had legislation passed prohibiting the sale of any milk in France that had not been properly pasteurized. The Minister of Agriculture had behind him in this move a solid block of all the scientific and legislative powers, including Professor Bordeau, of the College of France; Professor Metchnikoff, of the Pasteur Institute; the President of France, the Deputies, the Senators, the Ministers, the Pasteur Institute, the College of France and the Medical Faculty.

Denmark, the country that practically leads the world in dairying and in efforts to control tuberculosis amongst cattle and hogs, goes so far as to require that all skimmed milk and buttermilk required for the feeding of animals must be pasteurized, and also all cream used in the manufacture of butter or ice cream.

One of the latest pronouncements on the subject is that of the Hon. J. M. Uhrich, Minister of Public Health, Saskatchewan, who in the course of the budget debate in the legislature of Saskatchewan on January 12th of this year quotes: "I make the claim and I have no hesitation in making it that the pasteurization of 100 per cent. of the milk sold in the cities of the Province is a health necessity."

CURING COLDS BY FASTING

If you have been eating too much this winter, become enervated and finally caught a cold, it will be a good excuse for you to try the fasting cure which I have been telling you so much about.

You, doubtless, have had other dozens of different kinds of symptoms and ailments which I have been explaining to you can be cured by fasting. So, if you do not have a cold at the present time, the treatment which I am going to suggest for you would be beneficial in getting rid of your other troubles, and, if a cold is already starting, it is imperative that you follow these instructions. If you do not use these suggestions now, paste this article in your scrap-book for future reference.

At the start of a cold there is often the symptom of sneezing before any mucus discharge starts. The sneezing is caused by irritation of dust or bacteria which has "caught" on the mucous membrane. You can sometimes get rid of this irritation by lying on your back and filling both nostrils with plain white vaseline, then drawing the vaseline up into your nose so that it finally comes out through the mouth. This will coat all of the membrane lining the nose with the sticky vaseline and prevent the spreading of infection. If, after using this precaution, the mucus begins to flow in large quantities it is then always wise to stop the intake of food. Drink only plain water with the addition of lemon or orange juice.

An excellent treatment which you can use at this time is to drink the liquid from steeping whole grapefruit in boiling hot water. Prepare this as follows: Cut the grapefruit in small pieces, skin and all, and pour over each grapefruit a quart of boiling-hot water. Allow this to stand in an enameled pan or glass jar. After standing for at least thirty minutes, begin to drink the liquid—taking from four to eight ounces every one-half hour. This liquid contains the acid of the grapefruit and also a large amount of organic quinine which is extracted from the skin of the grapefruit. This has a similar effect to the inorganic quinine which you have often taken in the form of tablets, but with no bad effects. Take a drink of water every one-half hour, either plain or with lemon, orange or the steeped grapefruit juice. Continue this for several days until the cold is entirely eliminated. During this time you should take two enemas daily, using plain warm water, and use hot sponge baths at least twice daily.

The fasting must be continued as long as any fever exists or if there is much mucus in the nose or throat. If the temperature becomes over 100 degrees, get between woolen blankets and take a good sweat once or twice a day. It is a good plan to be as quiet as possible while under this treatment to cure the cold. You will actually be in much better health afterwards if you take the fasting treatment for your cold, as the body will be cleansed of many accumulated toxins which have been burdening your body for a long time.

If you are well, correct your habits of eating and exercising and working so that you do not again develop the toxemia and enervation upon which colds and every other disorder is built.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

RELATIVES

Mother's people never, never
Did a thing that's wrong.
Father's folks were awful clever—
He says so right along.
Father smiles when mother's talking
About her brother Jim;
Mother just keeps right on walking,
And smiles, when it is him.

Mother hopes that I'm like her folks,
Dad that I'm like his.
Each one seems to think that their folks
Is all the folks there is.
But if I'm as nice as mother,
I'm as good as dad.
I don't care about no other Relatives I had.

If I'm half as kind as father,
And as she is, too,
I don't guess I need to bother
What other people do.
Yes, in spite of all their chatter,
As far as I can see,
All the relatives who matter
Are mother, dad and me.

HŌVIS
The Bread of Health

Why is HŌVIS the "Bread of Health"?

What is the Secret of the HŌVIS Flavor?

IT'S the Flour that makes the difference. No other bread flour is milled in quite the same way as HŌVIS.

For it contains a large proportion of wheat germ, which is the most nutritious part of the wheat grain.

The result is that HŌVIS Bread, baked by leading Canadian bakers, contains those precious, health-giving vitamines and more of the true nutriment of the wheat.

That's why HŌVIS Bread—"the bread of health" is so different and so much better for you.

BETTER ingredients always make better bread. But there is one particular ingredient present in such abundance in HŌVIS Bread as to give it a value no other bread possesses.

That ingredient is the wheat germ, scientifically combined in HŌVIS Flour.

You have only to taste HŌVIS Bread once, to realize the difference this makes!

And you are certain to enjoy it—just as thousands of others do.

Costs a little more,—worth much more.

Why the name HŌVIS? It is coined from the two Latin words "Hominis Vis" and means "The Strength of Man"

HŌVIS Flour is made by the millers of PURITY FLOUR—trade-mark protected. 7C7

A product of WESTERN CANADA FLOUR MILLS CO. LIMITED, Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Saint John, Winnipeg, Calgary, Victoria.

Grand Falls—one of the world's greatest cataracts. Brought into the public eye in the territorial Labrador award to Newfoundland against Canada, the waterpower of this rugged domain is regarded as one of the greatest plums known. Chief among the great power cataracts is the Grand Falls, one of the mightiest in the world. They were discovered in 1839, but have been seen by few white men. The falls have a vertical drop of 316 feet. The banks of the Grand river rise in towering cliffs. The illustration on the right, made from a rare engraving, shows the Grand Falls viewed from a projection of rock below. Facing is the canyon, a quarter of a mile below the falls. For some time after the privy council judgement there was doubt concerning the actual ownership of Grand Falls. The arrival of the text of the decision, however, removes this doubt and it is admitted that the judgment awarded the cataract to Newfoundland.

August Heckscher, aged and very wealthy philanthropist, is being sued by Mme. Frieda Hempel, noted opera star, for $24,000. This sum, she charged, is owed her in back payments of a mysterious contract between her and Heckscher in which he agreed to pay her $48,000 a year for the rest of her life.

Confirmation is still lacking of the report that Morris Aorahaun Cohen, Canadian war veteran, has been executed in China. Cohen, the former "uncrowned king of Edmonton's Chinatown", the man of mystery, the Hebrew knight-errant, became a real Chinese general when he left Canada two years ago to act as aide to the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Cantonese Nationalist movement.

The postmaster-general has asked for an air mail service between Father Point, P.Q., and Quebec, whereby mail from Great Britain will be landed from the British liner at Father Point and rushed by plane to Montreal, the plane arriving 24 hours before the ship gets in. In picking the leaders to whom was entrusted the safety of British lives in the Chinese theatre of war, the powers that be were careful to select men who knew that the iron fist could wear a velvet glove and that moderation and conciliation often could win where bayonets and cutlasses failed. L.O.D.E. ASSEMBLY.

Splendid Musical Programme Given in Parish Hall.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 4.—At the June assembly of the local Chapter of the I.O.D.E., in the Parish Hall, one of the most talented programmes ever presented to a Campbellford audience was splendidly carried out. There was an excellent attendance, as has become a matter of course with any concert or meeting sponsored by the local I.O.D.E.

The following is the programme as rendered:

Solo—Miss Kathleen Connor.

Address—"Canadian Women," Miss Janet Nelson.

Solo—Mrs. George Nicol.

Address—"Canada To-day and in Prospect," Mrs. A. C. Connor.

Instrumental solo—Miss Wheadon, B.A.

Reading—'Canada Our Fatherland,' Miss Lillian Hay.

After a trial lasting a week, Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder and her corset salesman paramour, Henry Judd Gray, were found guilty of murder in the first degree. They were accused of jointly slaying the woman's husband, Albert Snyder, art editor of Motor Boating, at their home in Queen's Village, New York City, on February 20, under particularly savage circumstances. The victim was chloroformed, beaten over the head with a window-sash weight, and finally strangled with picture wire. The convicted widow is shown at the left and at the right is Gray. During the trial both sought to load the entire blame upon the other.

"Fraternity"

"I don't believe in Lodges," said Mrs. Sarah Binckley, emphatically, swaying back and forth vigorously in her brown rocking chair; "they're too secret. My husband joined the Orangemen when he was a young man, and we were living at Prescott, in Ontario, but I never let him go to no night meetins' after we were married. He did march faithful with his Lodge every Twelfth of July—I'll admit I couldn't stop that. Said he believed in it on principle."

"I think you're right, Mrs. Binckley," her caller, Miss Matilda Hatchett, agreed, her rocker swaying out of time with the other; "Pa was always wantin' to join the Oddfellows, but Ma never would listen to him. Ma said when they had to keep everything so close there must be somethin' shady goin' on in that Lodge room."

"That's it," Mrs. Binckley responded. "Why, a man darsen't tell his own wife what they're up to, and I don't hold with no such ways as that. I say, if things is all right and above board, why can't they tell about 'em? When my John was alive he hid nothin' from me I can assure you, Matilda. I wormed it out of him, i there ever was a time I even suspected him of keepin' close about anythin'."

"And now the women's got their Lodge started," and Miss Matilda's face showed her consternation and stern disapproval; "got to be apin' the men in everythin'. And the hours they stay out to, Mrs. Binckley, is somethin' shockin'. Dear only knows what's goin' on when they give out it's a business meetin', with a social time followin'. No outsider ever gets in to see." (Miss Matilda had not been invited to join the Rebekah Lodge.)

The little prairie town of Warsaw, where this conversation took place was one of those Western villages which spring up almost over night—today a handful of shacks, with the only merchant selling goods out of a trunk, a tent for his covering—to-morrow a bank, a dance hall, a pool room, some stores, shacks giving place to frame houses, and then, in this case, as they waited for the railway, promised but not yet a fact—a standstill.

The two ladies were seated in the small kitchen of Mrs. Binckley's home on the "main" street (there was only the one), and Miss Matilda, who took care of her selfish and invalid mother, returning from her daily trip to the post office, had dropped in as usual for a gossip with her friend. The two generally discussed the local situation pretty thoroughly.

Mrs. Binckley's only daughter, Marian, taught school in the small, unpainted, frame building standing, in all its treeless ugliness, to the north of the village. She was a fine type of Canadian young womanhood, inheriting from her mother a certain strength of will that carried her through many a trying situation, and from her father a refined disposition, a sunny temperament, a love of art, beauty, and genuine goodness, that made her heartsick many times for other surroundings than her prairie home afforded.

Warsaw had no church. Standing at one extreme of a parish served by a single missionary who found himself utterly unable to visit all the scattered points, at any regular interval, in the great tract of territory which the church, for lack of sufficient workers, had assigned to his charge.

Hence only three religious services had been held in Warsaw in two years. Unused to this state of things in her eastern home, and trained by her father to ideals of true Christian service, Marian was often troubled in mind over the unsatisfactory moral status of the community. Pool rooms, and dance halls, were open seven days in the week, and of Sunday observance there was small sign. The worst of it was the children were growing up practically untaught as far as religious instruction was concerned. Oddfellowship had been brought into active being through the efforts of the young bank manager, and the men, some of whom had been members in their eastern homes, were glad to obtain transfer cards and enjoy the fraternal associations, and benefits. The Rebekah Lodge followed as a matter of course, the wives and daughters needing its pleasant companionships as much as husbands and sons did the men's gathering.

On her way home from school, tired, glad to be free, the day her mother and Miss Matilda had aired their opinions of Lodges in general, one of Marian's closest friends, Mrs. Langford, met her and said,

"Marian, why don't you join our Rebekah Lodge? We have gotten well under way now, and we do have good times at our meetings."

"I hardly know, Agnes," Marian replied, hesitatingly; "Mother doesn't care about Lodges, you know. I scarcely think she would like my joining."

"But, my dear, the Lodge is absolutely the only decent social recreation this town affords. Think it over and let me present your name at our next meeting."

"Perhaps I will," as she nodded goodbye.

After supper, when the dishes were washed, she broached the subject. "Mother, Mrs. Langford met me today, and invited me to join the Rebekah Lodge."

Mrs. Binckley, wringing the dishcloth viciously, said crisply, "I hope you told her 'no' most emphatic."

"I told her I would consider the matter. It is the only respectable social recreation this town affords, mother, and I need some relaxation."

"Marian," said her mother, setting down the frying-pan with a bang on the stove, "you know my opinion of Lodges and their secret ways."

Her daughter did; she had heard her father replied to often enough with such arguments, and had seen his disappointment. A sudden determination tightened her lips a bit.

"I think I shall join," she said, quietly.

Her mother's cheeks grew very red. "Oh, you'll join, and flout your own mother's wishes in this Lodge business same as you flout 'em by goin' with that Peter Graham against my will."

Marian's eyes flashed fire. "I certainly intend to marry Peter as soon as circumstances make it possible," she said firmly; "your grudge against him is a most unreasonable one."

Mrs. Binckley suddenly sat down in her rocking-chair, threw her blue checked gingham apron over her head, and began to cry audibly. But, used to such tactics, though with troubled lines between her brows, Marian left the room closing the door quietly behind her.

Later Peter drove up in his Ford, and they went for a spin, while Marian explained the situation to him. Graham was eally a fine, strapping fellow, clean in physique and morals, making his way steadily toward success as he broke more and more of his prairie acres year by year.

The Binckleys and Grahams had been near neighbors when living in Ontario, but some dispute among the older folk had arisen on the trip west, and Mrs. Binckly had never got over her bitter, personal grudge against the entire Graham connection.

"Mother still bears the old spite against yours truly, eh? Never mind, sweetheart, when we are married you shall join the Rebekah clan, and I, myself, having duly taken the third degree in Oddfellowship, and being further initiated into the mysteries of the Rebekah Degree, will propose 'Mrs. Peter Graham' for membership."

The rosy hue which crept into his sweetheart's face was very pleasant for Peter to watch, and he proceeded to deepen the impression by saying,

"Some good news to-day, Marian; the missionary who serves this extensive parish will be making one of his belated visits by Easter time. So hold yourself in readiness, my girl, to become the lady of my home, as well as of my heart, when the Sky Pilot's arrival is heralded."

Six weeks until Easter. That meant a busy time for Marian, and for Peter, too, getting the four-roomed house on his homestead ready for his bride-to-be. Marian realized only too well the futility of telling her mother any plans until the Reverend Harold Bridges arrived, when the news was broken suddenly, and the ceremony was quietly carried out in the front room—Mrs. Binckley, speechless with indignation, rocking vigorously, and punctuating the minister's words with audible sniffs and snorts at regular intervals.

Two boarders, the bachelor hardware merchant, and the new young man school teacher, kept Mrs. Binckley company when Marian and Peter moved to their farm home, and a few weeks afterward Mrs. Peter Graham did become a duly qualified member of "Maple Leaf" Rebekah Lodge, No. 188, Warsaw, Saskatchewan.

"Peter," his bride said one day, as they sat at breakfast, "I wish we could have a Sunday School for the children—it's awful the way they are growing up without any religious teaching whatever. You will have to take a class."

"Me," said Peter disgustedly; "not much, little girl. The only teaching I ever did was when I taught you to love me."

"But, Peter, you must," Marian insisted, soberly; "who else could help?"

"Well, ask Billy Lawrence, he's chaplain at the Lodge, and should take a hand with that position," and Peter's eyes twinkled with mischief. "I don't believe Billy Lawrence ever taught any more than you did, Peter," Marian said, doubtfully.

"Maybe not, but what business had he to go looking for the position of chaplain if he can't teach a few kids out of the Bible every Sunday afternoon"—Peter's pretended indignation covered his huge delight in the predicament he saw coming in Billy's direction.

"Then, on that basis, Agnes Langford is chaplain in the Rebekahs and should teach too?"

"Sure," agreed Peter, "get 'em busy; I'll back you up, Mrs. Graham, every time."

Undisguised dismay reigned in the hearts of the two persons approached.

"I'll wring Pete Graham's neck when I see him," declared Billy indignantly. "Go round trying to be appointed chaplain—I give you my word, Mrs. Graham, the thing was forced upon me."

And Sister Agnes Langford voiced a like sentiment. Nevertheless Marian was so deadly in earnest, and when the thing was put right up to them "as a sporting proposition of straight duty" to quote Peter again, they did "play the game," and Marian got her School under way. Peter even took a class of small boys because he could not resist the tearful pleading of two gray eyes looking deep into his own honest brown ones. So the Sunday School grew, many of the older folk came, and after a time it became decidedly a factor in improving the moral tone of the community as its leavening influence became increasingly active.

The great drama of Canadian prosperity was reaching its final unfolding, while the acres of wheat grew golden as the sunshine wooed them with daily ardor. Then tragedy visited the little home where Marian and Peter had found unalloyed happiness in the congenial companionship married life had brought to them.

Peter had gone out to the barn and was working underneath some piece of machinery. Something went wrong, and the horses started off in fright, dragging the weight of one rear wheel right over his back.

Marian found him a little later—white, unconscious. She never did retain any clear conception of just what followed. Frantic telephone calls for help—the limp body carried to the house—the quick, capable taking charge by his brother Oddfellows. There was no doctor nearer than forty miles, yet somehow he was there as soon as possible; a specialist brought later from the city confirmed his opinion that big, sturdy Peter Graham would never again go about his daily duties—a prisoner in a wheel chair, if life retained its hold, was his outlook.

Fraternity showed its true usefulness then. There were long, critical hours of nursing to be shared; the farm must be disposed of; and the little wife, bravely facing the burden which apparently was hers now to the end, must revert to her teaching once more.

In addition to their own farm and business duties, the Lodge members saw the grain harvested, secured a purchaser for the homestead, paid off the oustanding indebtedness, and had the legal advice as to investing its remaining funds. They, too, saw that the home school was again in Marian's charge. Apparently no call on time or patience was too much for brothers and sisters in the dark weeks when Marian and her mother were too dazed to think clearly, and too inexperienced to act promptly.

It was at their initiative, also, that Peter, who was like to go out of his mind with the strain when the true situation was brought home to him, was taken to a city hospital for treatment, feeding the hope that some mitigation of his sufferings and helplessness might be accomplished.

Sitting with her mother one evening, toward Christmas time, after her return from school, Marian said wistfully, "Mother, what do you think of the Oddfellows and Rebekahs now?"

Mrs. Binckley stopped in her task of turning the bread-mixer and wiped some real tears from her eyes.

"Marian," she said fervently, "thank God for 'em—I say, thank God for 'em."

LAKEFIELD STORES VOTE ON HOLIDAY

LAKEFIELCD, June 4. — A meeting of the business men of the village was held on Tuesday evening, with A. B. Burrows in the chair, to discuss the question of whether or not to continue the annual custom of observing with other villages and towns the weekly half-holiday. During the past few years the minority have kept open despite the law, and it was felt that perhaps a new vote would be a wise move. By a large majority it was decided to observe the half-holidays on Thursday afternoons during June, July, August and September, and also that the local stores would remain open on July 2nd.

Messrs. P. Spence, J. A. Porter, and A. B. Burrows were appointed a committee to discuss with the banks the advisability of closing on Thursday afternoons instead of Saturday for the months of July and August.

All being well, the Citizens' Band will give the first open-air concert of the season on the village square on Thursday evening. These concerts are popular with the village people, and also the people in the surrounding country.

The Lakefield Cheerios are repeating their musical comedy "Oh, For Pity's Sake" in the Memorial Hall on Thursday evening, June 9th, in response to repeated requests from many who were unable to be present when it was put on before, and also from many who enjoyed it so much the first time that they desire an encore.

Creighton in the chair, and these officers were elected:

the auditors had demanded access to them, the auditors of the Commission have not been able to examine the books of this company prior to the 1st of October, 1926, or to ascertain the amount payable to the Government in respect of gallonage and sales taxes," he states in this connection.

The destruction of the vouchers and sales records prior to December, 1926, by the Sudbury Brewing and Malting Company, the Soo Falls Brewing Company, Ltd., and the Kakabeka Falls Brewing Company is referred to, and Mr. Rowell asks the Commission to find that this took place while Commission was in session and auditors of the Commission have been unable to complete the investigation or to determine the amount of sales and gallonage tax properly payable by these breweries. He asks for a similar finding in the case of the Grants Springs Brewery of Hamilton.

Falsified Records.

Counsel asks for a finding from the Commission that with but few exceptions all the Ontario breweries have sold strong beer in Ontario contrary to the laws of that province and in most cases have falsified the records of the company so as to conceal these sales and have omitted these sales from the Government returns showing gallonage and sales taxes payable, and by omitting these sales they have made false sworn returns of the taxes payable to the Government. The principal methods adopted by the breweries for concealing the sales of strong beer in Ontario and avoiding gallonage taxes, as outlined in the suggested findings are:

(1) Entering sales of strong beer as 2.5 per cent. in the books. (The Government does not collect gallonage tax on 2.5 beer).

(2) Entering the sale in their books as an export sale.

Reads Letter.

In his suggested findings, Mr. Rowell draws the attention of the Commissioners to evidence in regard to a letter written by G. W. Taylor, now commissioner of excise, under date of October 20, 1922, in which Ontario brewers exporting through Windsor were required to furnish a bond which could not be cancelled save by the production of a proper landing certificate. The Ontario Brewers' Association recognized, states Mr. Rowell, that the "effect of this order would have been to seriously hamper, if not destroy, the existing liquor export trade to the United States on inland waters." Consequently a deputation waited upon the then Minister and Deputy Minister of Customs and assured them that gallonage and sales taxes on the liquor exported would be paid not only for the past but for the future, and on these conditions asked that the order of October 20 be rescinded." The order, in so far as it relates to landing certificates, was rescinded, "but the other provisions of the order, which included the payment of sales and gallonage taxes, were affirmed." Mr. Rowell asks the Commission to find that, with a single exception, the breweries of Ontario have all failed to pay gallonage and sales taxes on "so-called export sales" up to the present time.

Arrears in sales and gallonage taxes are dealt with in the findings. Counsel suggests the commission find that "the evidence discloses in the case of all breweries in substantial difference between the gallonage manufactured, according to the sworn returns of the breweries, and the gallonage reported as sold for purposes of taxation. The differences in the case of several of the Ontario breweries are much greater than the evidence in reference to wastage would appear to justify." Mr. Rowell outlines the explanations for these differences—wastage, spoiled beer, wrong returns, etc., and suggests that there should be closer supervision by customs officials of the actual production of beer.

Excess of $1,400,000.

"While the auditors for the commission have not had time, nor have they attempted to find the exact amount due by the several Ontario breweries for gallonage and sales tax, it appears from the evidence of the auditors and the reports presented to the commission that the amount in arrears is substantially in excess of $1,400,000 for a period of approximately three years (exclusive of O'Keefe's Beverages, Ltd.) If the audit were brought up to date and the amount estimated to be due by O'Keefe's Beverages, Ltd., added, the total gallonage and sales tax in arrears would exceed $2,000,000," counsel states in his suggested findings.

He also says that several of the breweries have paid out substantial sums for which there are no satisfactory vouchers and for purposes which are not disclosed in the books. "These amounts have been deducted as part of the cost of operation before arriving at the amount of the profits upon which income tax is payable, and the character of these payments has not been disclosed on the returns made for income tax purposes."

Mr. Rowell points out that the shipment of "beer camouflaged as some other commodity is a crime punishable under the criminal code." He suggests the commission find that large quantities of beer from Canada are shipped into the United States "camouflaged as some commodity, the importation of which is not prohibited in the United States." He outlines the methods which he asks the commission to find the evidence reveals. The first, he says, involves theft of both United States' and Canadian customs seals or that they should have been "fraudulently and unlawfully procured and fraudulently and unlawfully affixed to the cars." It also necessitates bribery of railway officials "and that evidence establishes that this method has been repeatedly adopted."

Second Method.

The second method outlined, which involves loading the beer on a car either with or without some other commodity as camouflage and describing it wrongfully in the export entry and the bill of lading, "involves fraud and perjury on the part of the shippers and a measure of connivance at least upon the part of the railway employees, and the evidence establishes that this method has also been repeatedly adopted."

"The commission is not able to state how many breweries have participated in this method of shipping beer," suggests Mr. Rowell, "but the evidence discloses that shipments have been made in this way of beer of the Carling Brewing and Malting Company, the Kuntz Brewery, Ltd., John Labatt's Limited, O'Keefe Beverages, Lt., and the Hamilton Brewing Association, Ltd."

With respect to the corruption of officials Mr. Rowell asks the Commission to find on the evidence that "In practically all the breweries investigated, the auditors report certain unvouchered payments, in some cases running up into very large amounts."

"Most of the breweries denied that these funds were used for the corruption of officials," he continues, "but the evidence establishes on the part of certain breweries systematic and organized payments to and corruption of customs officials and agents, railway officials and employees, and police. While evidence of corruption of these three classes of officials was disclosed, it is not possible to determine the number of breweries or liquor exporters which participated in so corrupting officials and employees, as the books, insofar as kept, do not disclose the true character of the payments made."

Entered Corrupt Agreement

Mr. Rowell asks the Commission to find that W. M. Egan, former solicitor of Windsor, "entered into a corrupt agreement with a number of the breweries and other liquor exporters, whereby in consideration of the payment to him of a certain amount per case in respect to beer and liquors exported, he promised them immunity from prosecution and from government interference, with the free export of their goods, and pursuant to this agreement very large sums of money were paid to Egan. The Commission has not been able to ascertain the total amounts paid to Egan, owing to the absence of Egan from the country and to the fact that the books of breweries and liquor exporters do not disclose such payments, but the evidence shows that large payments were made by the British American Brewing Company, the Walkerville Brewing Company, the Hamilton Brewing Company, and John Labatt, Ltd.

"The evidence clearly establishes that at no time since 1923 has the customs law and regulations in reference to the export of liquors, at the Port of Windsor or its sub-ports, been carried out, and while there have been repeated infractions of the customs law by the parties concerned in the export of liquor, prosecutions were not instituted for these infractions."

Suggests Special Findings

Mr. Rowell suggests that the Commission make special findings in regard to certain Ontario breweries. He opens with the Carling Export Brewing and Malting Company,

"Harry Low, Vice President and General Manager of the Carling Export Brewing and Malting Company, in or about July, 1925, attempted to bribe J. W. McGowan, the foreman of the Michigan Central Railway at Windsor, Ont., to be a party to the switching and camouflaging of cars of beer of the Carling Company as other commodities the entry of which into the United States was not illegal, so that these cars shipped from London over the Canadian Pacific might pass into the United States over the Michigan Central Railway as in transit cars passing through Canada in bond," reads the finding.

Secondly, he asks the Commission to find that Harry Low represented to railway officials, "That the Carling Company was already switching cars on other lines and that he would procure and provide the necessary customs sales both of the United States and Canada and the necessary customs and shipping documents." Also he states that the evidence establishes the fact that cars of beer shipped by the Carling Company have been switched in the railway yards at Windsor, Walkerville, or other points, and that seals of the United States or Canadian Customs were unlawfully procured and affixed to the cars "and that customs and shipping documents were forged or otherwise unlawfully procured."

Mr. Rowell suggests a finding that "The Carling Company and its principal owners and officials were parties to this switching of the cars and to the frauds and crimes incident thereto, and it is reasonable to assume that the number of cars detected is small as compared with the actual number of cars so switched." Also, he states, the profits of the Carling Company were reduced for the purposes of income tax and the sales for sales tax.

After the reading of the minutes of the last meeting a discussion followed regarding the taking of children from the Neighborhood Workers' Association for a two weeks' holiday, which was left over from a previous meeting. THIS HAS HAPPENED

LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, mysteriously summoned to the quaint little jungle-bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, encounters an old friend, VILAK, who tells him it was he who had sent for him.

Vilak's cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl, owns a coffee plantation and other land near Porto Verde and has received mysterious warnings to get out of the country. Vilak is alarmed, because several deaths already have occurred and the superstitious natives think some supernatural force is at work.

The day Nunnally arrives another man is killed, TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise Marberry's foremen. He had been hit with a club in the hands of LIMEY POTTS, another foreman. Before he died a strange paralysis took hold of him, and Vilak confides to Nunnally that he is certain Limey Potts, though he may have struck the victim, was not the murderer.

That evening Vilak induces Nunnally to come with him on a visit to the house of GAYLORD PRENTISS, a reticent and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise. Vilak believes Prentiss is somehow involved in the mysterious deaths.

Before going to Prentiss' place, Vilak and Nunnally call on Elise Marberry. After a few minutes, Vilak demands of Elise what took place in her house that afternoon and she tells him all the riffles on her place have been stolen. Her overseer, Adolf Schwartz, advises her to leave the country.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII.

Vilak made a quick tour of the building, then closely examined the door. "Good lock, all right," he murmured. "Open it, please."

The little German obeyed, exposing a white stone interior, filled with electric wire storage batteries, detonators, the delicate, more expensive parts of machinery which might prove too much of a temptation to the natives if left in the ordinary warehouses. The floor was bare except for the few drifting leaves inescapable in this region of superabundant vegetation.

But a tiny scrap of green, which to the old man seemed just another leaf, caught Vilak's eye. He picked it up and when the German's attention was concentrated elsewhere put it carefully in his pocket. They strolled outside again.

In a few moments they had left the puffing Schwartz, and were once more inside Elise's brilliant living room.

"Did you go to see Prentiss yesterday as you intended?" Vilak asked as he leaned over and caught a brilliant fly creeping dangerously close to a spider web in the corner. He tangled the insect's legs in the web an instant.

Elise watched him wonderingly. "What are you doing that cruel thing for?" she protested.

"I'm being kind, not cruel," he retorted. "I am trying to show it the error of its ways and by demonstrating that webs are dangerous for it, save it from crawling to an unhappy end. But it won't learn. Watch."

He lifted it from the web and set it on the floor. In a moment it was again crawling toward the web, in another the spider had swooped down and before Vilak could prevent slain it. "It's a cruel law, nature's law, the jungle law, or whatever you want to call it. And the closer we are as men to it so the more cruel are we. Spider kills fly, frog kills spider, little snake kills frog, big snake kills little snake, man kills big snake or another little man. Did you go to see Prentiss?"

She nodded. "After all, we are the only Americans here, and I felt like a beast for not trying to do something for him. As far as I am concerned he can have the land he's on for good. I won't dispute it."

"Did you see him?"

"Yes . . . and no." She was silent a moment. "I shan't try again . . . alone."

Vilak grunted. "Humph . . . what happened?"

"He came running out of his house, opened the gate, and set that enormous mastiff of his on me. If I hadn't been a fairly good tree climber it wouldn't have been very . . . pleasant."

Vilak took out his cigaret case and smoked thoughtfully. Nunnally and Elise talked quietly. The old man was enchanted by her charm and intelligence. He added his persuasions to those of her cousin that she leave Porto Verde as quickly as possible, either to return to the United States or to take up her residence in some civilized part of Brazil. She only shook her head smilingly. The talk drifted to their plans for the night and then to Prentiss again. Elise, after hearing that the two men intended visiting his fazenda, remarked quietly that she would go with them.

Vilak heard. His gaunt, odd-shaped head jerked onward. "News to me," he mumbled. "Afraid I'll have to contradict it."

"I'm afraid that I'll have to contradict you in turn, esteemed cousin. I'm going."

"Haven't you had enough happen to you when you went out there in the daytime? You want more trouble?"

"That's not the question." She brushed back a few wisps of hair that had strayed over her dark olive forehead. "It's merely that I've made up my mind about a few things where I've been weak and foolish before. In the past when you have gone out on your dangerous expeditions here I've done nothing except sit on my veranda and lazily read a novel. I'm not going to do it any longer. I can't with a clear conscience. I'm responsible for bringing you down here. The Victorian period is over. That's the one thing that you with all your wisdom, can't seem to understand. A woman's as good as a man, as bad as a man, as brave . . . a man."

Vilak put a pellet of betel on his tongue and rose to go. "The harem doors now open wide, the foolish wives to foolish freedom stride," he quoted.

"Talk away, if sarcasm makes you feel more superior. But with all due respect to you it won't change my intention in the slightest. I'm going . . . must you insist on chewing that dreadful betel?"

"Sorry, I must. And with equal regret I must also announce that you shall not come with us. Seriously," he said with finality as he neared the door. "I'm not in the slightest doubting your courage or questioning your intelligence, for which I have the highest admiration. I simply have a very strong conviction—fundamentally it may be based on prejudice, I admit—that whenever women have any connection with crime except as a motive, trouble quickly follows."

"I can't take you with me. Try to understand! And knowing your disposition I might add that if you attempt to follow, you'll be endangering all of us, mostly yourself. I'll be compelled to send you back just as you throw rocks at your dog who insists on following you down the road. Not because you don't love your dog, and wouldn't like to have him along, but because you know the chances are that he'll be killed by an automobile. Now be sensible."

She pressed her hand gently, strolled to the door and returned with a bundle, part of which he gave to the old man, part of which he put on the floor at his feet. There are boots and gloves for you, Nanny," he said. "Get into them. And put your raincoat on now. I know you'll tell me it's hot but put it on anyway."

He helped the old man into his saddle, leaped in himself, and, waving a half-amused, half-troubled goodby to his cousin who stood peering after them, a delicate silhouette against the barred door, set off to the road again.

They retraced their route until they neared the bridge which crossed the river. A red glow showed a few hundred yards down the railroad track. "Queer," said Vilak. "Never saw that before. Let's have a look at it."

They stepped their horses nearer and through the brush saw five or six torches burning brightly, by the light of which some twenty or thirty men were hurrying about pitching a tent. They were the customary motley of black, Indian, and half-breed, with an occasional surly individual who appeared to be white. They were clad in the nondescript clothing of the typical Brazilian laborer, here a once brilliant purple shirt hanging out over vivid green breeches, there a tattered strip of cloth which had been manufactured as an American suit of underwear.

Most were the dregs of their races, with cruel eyes and vicious, degenerate faces. The teeth of some of the Indians had been filed into sharp points. "Must be section hands," Vilak remarked. "Those in the States aren't the gentlest creatures in the world but they can't hold a candle to the ones they get down here. The cream of the country. Wonder if the railroad sent them up on account of the flood. Think I'll find out."

They dismounted, stepped through the brush and reached the open. In a little depression of the land a bright fire was burning. Nunnally looked at it. His wrinkled face became puzzled. "Er . . . why have they that . . . er . . . yes . . . that?" he asked in a whisper. "It's hot tonight . . . very hot. And they're not using it to . . . er . . . melt anything. It's . . . singular' . . . yes . . . er . . . singular."

Vilak stared thoughtfully at the blaze. "Fires can be used for other things than heat," he answered. He bent down and drew something out of the hot cinders. This he held before the chemist. "Perhaps that, for instance. Mean anything to you?"

The old man's sleepy eyes narrowed behind their glasses. All he could see was what appeared to be a small bit of charred wood no different than the other pieces of branches which formed the glowing embers. He shook his head. "No . . . it . . . er . . . means nothing . . . er . . . nothing."

Vilak tossed it back into the fire.

DOCTORS ADVICE TO THE SICK

To feel your best day in and day out, no more headaches, indigestion, gas on stomach, bilious attacks, rheumatism, kidney pains, bad breath, you must bathe your self inside. Start today by taking one Tanol Calomel tablet before meals or two at bedtime, then next morning drink a glass or two of hot water to wash from the stomach, lives, kidney and bowels all the previous day's waste, poison and toxins before more food is taken in. Get a few Tanol tablets from F. C. Weber, Charlotte street, Peterborough. They are harmless to take, do not nauseate, no bad after effects, no salts or seidlits next morning, like ordinary calomel. Then you can eat better, sleep better, work better, think better and look better.

PORCH PRIVACY

If your neighbors look into your screened porch too searchingly, a thin coat of light paint over the screen will insure privacy.

TIRED EYES

To rest eyes after a weary day, bathe them in as hot water as you can stand, then cold. Repeat and then lie down with a cold compact on them.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

A the first drug store they rea hed, Faith parked the car, on the back seat of which Bob sat between his two prisoners, Brady W. Hutchinson and Sammy Horne, alighted and went in to telephone. Churchill himself answered the phone.

In a low, rapid voice Faith told him where she was, and made her request that he lawyer join her and Bob as soon as possible.

Rather grudgingly, but unable to refuse the compelling urgency in her voice, Churchill promised to leave his house at once in his own car.

When Churchill arrived, within ten minutes, in a large sedan driven by his chauffeur, he was amazed to find Bob Hathaway guarding two prisoners with an automatic.

"Hutchinson!" he gasped. "Good Lord, Bob, what does this mean?"

"Meet the murderer, Mr. Churchill," Bob grinned. "And his playmate, Sammy Horne."

When Bob told him of Sammy Horne's unsolicited confession, involving himself as well as Hutchinson, Churchill whistled with amazement. "Well, I guess that clinches it," he admitted. "We've already introduced testimony on the brown and yellow taxi seen in the alley behind Cluny's house the night of the murder. The shoes Hutchinson wore as the crippled beggar will undoubtedly fit the measurements of those footprints in the snow—"

"And I'll stake my life on that bit of strap fitting into this harness that Hutchinson used to strap up his leg so that it would make those lying footprints," Bob interrupted eagerly. "And you have the threatening letter that Hutchinson wrote to Uncle Ralph. It shouldn't be hard to pin that on him, in view of all the circumstances and the dope you've already got on Hutchinson, through Crowell."

"But if Sammy Horne confesses," Faith began, bewildered.

"Takes more than a confession to convict a man of murder," Churchill told her. "Have to have corroborating testimony. But we've got more than enough evidence to hang Hutchinson and send Horne up for life, unless he gets leniency fo turning state's evidence. I doubt if Banning will be willing to let him turn state's evidence, however, ince you two seem to have caught them both dead to rights. But what I don't want is for Banning or the papers to get wind of this until court opens tomorrow, and then I'll manage the show. Cherry has got to be vindicated in open court. Not a word from either of you!"

"Best to keep her in the dark, too," Churchill advised. "There might be some slip-up, and the shock of the disappointment, if she isn't immediately released, might go hard with her. Oh, Lord! What a show that will be in the morning! I can hardly wait to see Banning's face when I spring the news!"

On their way to the police station, Churchill stopped at his office to take from the safe containing the exhibits for the defense the bit of leather strap which Bob had found in the snow beneath his uncle's window the night of the murder. Returning to Bob's car he examined the complicated leather and metal harness which Faith had found under the seat in the murderer's taxicab.

"Just as I expected," he nodded. "The strap that goes around the leg has been broken and mended. This bit of strap fits exactly. One more link! Now I'm going to yank up Hutchinson's trouser leg and see if there are any marks on it, from this harness pressing against the flesh. That one link is needed to clinch his identity with Phil the beggar."

It took Bob and the chauffeur to hold Hutchinson while the lawyer made his examination. "There are the marks all right," Churchill exulted. "Well, Hutch, my boy, I guess it's the chair for you this time, instead of state's prison. I'll feel safer when the juice is turned on, for you have a nasty habit of getting even. Poor Cluny!"

The next morning when Faith took her seat beside Cherry, it was all she could do to restrain the joyous words which bubbled out of her heart, for poor, harassed little Cherry's face was as wan as a dying magnoli a blossom; the golden eyes looked dead and hopeless, above their deep half moons of violent shadows.

It had been hard enough to withhold the tremendous news of Cherry's impending release and vindication from her father, poor Jim Lane, bowed down with sorrow and worry, but it was the hardest thing she had ever been called upon to do to let Cherry suffer even one minute longer than was necessary.

"But she'll be free today, today!" Faith's heart rejoiced. She bent over Cherry, took the cold little hands in hers and chafed them tenderly.

The jury had filed in, the judge had sunk wearily into his chair, and court had been declared in session when Churchill came pushing his way through the packed courtroom, closely followed by Bob Hathaway. Faith's heart almost stopped beating as she saw the grave, unsmiling faces of the men, but when Bob was in his chair directly behind her he leaned forward and whispered, "Everything's all set!"

The crowd was waiting tensely for Cherry to be ordered back into the witness chair, in which she had spent half the day before. They expected to hear from her own lips the story of her last interview with Ralph Cluny, whom she was accused of murdering.

But Churchill rose and advanced toward the judge's bench. "Your honor, before this trial proceeds, I must ask your forbearance while I bring to your attention a matter of vital importance to the defendant and to the cause of justice."

Churchill, with a triumphant smile, first at Cherry, who leaned forward with breathless interest and leaping hope in her golden eyes, then at Banning, who was frowning prodigiously, stepped to the judge's bench, closely followed by the district attorney.

After a few minutes of low-toned conversation, broken by a sharp exclamation of astonishment and incredulity from Banning, Judge Grimshaw ordered the sheriff's deputies to remove the jury.

"Court is adjourned for ten minutes," Judge Grimshaw declared. "Bailiffs, see that no one leaves the courtroom."

He passed out of the room, followed by Banning and Churchill, Churchill carrying a heavy bag which, Faith guessed, contained the exhibits against Hutchinson.

Within the ten minutes the judge re-entered the courtroom, the jury was summoned, and order was restored. Churchill took his place before the judge's bench again, and spoke in a loud, ringing voice:

"Your honor, I move a dismissal of the indictment of murder against this defendant, Cherry Lane Wiley, and of the indictment against Christopher Wiley, charged with the murder of Ralph Cluny, on the grounds that the real murderer, Brady W. Hutchinson, has made written confession, after having been confronted with indubitable proofs of his guilt, and with the confession of his accomplice, Samuel Horne."

As Faith knelt before the small body, tears running down her cheeks, the judge shouted for order, banging repeatedly on his desk with his gavel.

"The ladies and gentlemen of the press will take their seats and keep them until this court adjourns," Judge Grimshaw thundered, as a score of reporters crowded about Faith and the unconscious body of the defendant.

When a measure of order had been restored, District Attorney Banning rose and addressed the court:

"As district attorney and prosecutor of this case, I join the de ense counsel, Stephen Churchill, in asking that the indictments against Cherry Lane Wiley and Christopher Wiley be quashed, in view of the evidence which has just been brought to my attention."

The astounded spectators, who had tirelessly watched the progress of the big drama from day to day, broke into a mighty cheer then, a cheer of which Cherry's dazed ears soon became faintly conscious. She rose shakily to her feet, assisted by her brother and sister, then flung her arms above her head in a wild gesture of thanksgiving, as she cried:

"Oh, thank you, God! Thank you, Muggy! I'm free I'm free!"

And in less than half an hour she was legally ree. Judge Grimshaw summoned her to the platform on which his desk stood, rose and took both her trembling little hands in his, as he congratulated her on her miraculous escape from further persecution at the hands of the law.

There wa: no further effort to control the joy-mad demonstrations of the crowd. Never, in the history of the city, had there been such an ovation for a vindicated defendant as took pla e in the next few minutes. Press photographers snapped Cherry being ridden on the shoulders of the shouting, cheering mob, Cherry in the arms o her family, Cherry shaking hands wi h the beaming jury, Cherry shaking hands with Churchill, Cherry making a speech of thnaks to the thousands tha milled about the courthouse lawn.

"Bob," she implored at last, "take me away, Dad, Faith, Junior, Fay—" she called the names of her family in a voice of heartbreaking sweetness, "le me go for a l ttle while. Take me, Bob—"

"Where are you going, darling?" Faith cried, in a jealous terror of losing her again, even for a little while.

"I—I m going to the hospital to see Chris, to congratulate him on his reedom," Cherry con essed in a low voice, but a reporter heard her and broke into a run to reach the nearest telephone.

"Cherry," Jim Lane's voice quavered on the beloved name, "You're—you're going back to that scoundrel who got you into all this trouble?"

"No, Daddy," she shook her copper-and-gold curls, but her golden eyes filled with tears. "I—I can't go back to him, Daddy, bu I've got to do the decent thing. He has no one to rejoice with him today. He's sick and alone, and I've got to do the decent thing. I—I hope I've learned decency if nothing else during these dreadful weeks."

"Good girl, Cherry!" Bob applauded. 'Of course I'll take you, but why can't Faith come along, too? You'll want o see Chris alone, I imagine, and Faith and I have a lot to talk over, haven't we, darling?" he added, turning to the girl he was engaged to with a smile of infinite tenderness glowing in his blue eyes.

"Of course Faith is to come," Cherry said quickly. "Oh, Faith, Bob! You wonderful people! Churchill says you did it all by yourselves. You're a hero, Bob, and Faith's the greatest heroine since Joan of Arc. I adore you both!"

Faith, watching Cherry's little arms clinging about Bob's neck and her lovely, childish little mouth pressing against his lips wondered justt how much Cherry had changed, after all. Then horror at herself for the unworthy thought sent the hot blood rushing into her face.

Thank God, Cherry was free, she told herself passionately. Cherry would come home, would live with her and Bob after they were married. And after a few months the e would be a baby—Cherry's baby—

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Beige and black are smartly combined in this jacket frock. The hat, scarf, shoes and satin skirt are of black, while the vest and jacket are of beige shantung. The stockings are beige and the flower is beige with black leaves.

It would be hard to find two women whose ideas concerning effective color combinations would agree perfectly—save those women who seem to feel that so long as a color is fairly light and not too vibrant it will "go with anything." There are a lot of women like that—women who are fastidious enough about the cut and quality of their frocks but who seem to think that frocks but who seem to think that so long as they do not display a really African love of bright colors they can wear any colors they choose—not only any one color but any two colors.

One must remember in connection with this matter of color combinations that it is one thing to select two colors that harmonize and look well of themselves together, and quite another to select colors that are quite smart in combination. Sometimes it happens that the smartest color combinations are not those that show the greatest harmony in blending. One season it may be smart to use a little of that dark purplish red called Black Prince as a contrasting color with navy blue. The effect is smart—for the season—though abstractly speaking this shade is not one of those that might be called most harmonious with navy blue. Sometimes there is something too obvious about the colors that combine most harmoniously.

And now word comes from Paris that a really definite color seldom takes unto itself another definite color by way of contrast. There is one definite color and another of the so-called neutral sort. We began the season with a decided leaning toward black and white, and now you have noticed many well-dressed women are choosing the beige and black combination in preference. It was said that navy blue would be worn with shades of green, with lighter blue, perhaps—but the smartest adjunct for navy blue at present is white.

For resort and sports wear many women use color combinations that they would not think of using in town. Thus among smart French women deep blue is sometimes worn with bright red, shades of green may be worn with yellow, violet may be combined with blue.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 5, 1927

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

This is rather an uncertain day in planetary government, according to astrology.

In the early hours there may be a feeling of irritability and restlessness that should be combatted.

Family jars may be easily brought about under this rule, which makes for discontent.

Desire for excitement and change may be accented under this direction of the stars, which encourages reckless extravagance.

There is a menacing sign for those who journey by water and sudden storms may cause serious wrecks or accidents.

Warning is given that the eclipse of the Moon ten days hence is likely to affect the West Indies and certain southern states.

Tidal waves and inundations may be expected in regions already sorely troubled by disasters.

This month in which there is an eclipse of the Sun as well as the Moon may be marked by many calamities, astrologers foretell.

There is a planetary influence making for revolutions and wars from which the United States holds aloof and appears as the world benefactor.

The seers foretell that there will be a gradual separation of people into groups with varied aims and this is held to be the first step toward important reforms.

Again many religious cults are foreseen and much tendency toward emotionalism in religion.

South America this month will have reason to cement friendships with the United States, it is prophesied.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of any unusual and surprising experiences.

Children born on this day may be rather erratic and difficult to direct, but they may be made unusually successful, if properly guided.

FOR MONDAY, JUNE 6, 1927

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

Good and evil planetary influences conflict today, according to astrology. Many impediments may be encountered by those who desire to accomplish anything important.

There is a promising sign for writers and for those who deal in advertising or publicity.

This should be a lucky day for signing any sort of contracts and should benefit persons interested in real estate.

Amazing news stories are forecast, which put pirate tales into the discard. Revelations of law-breaking are to be made in an unexpected and effective manner, it is foretold.

This is said to be an extremely unfortunate configuration for those who cling to old ideas or traditions. It is well to keep up with the times, astrologers warn.

Ill luck may attend sea voyages started under this direction of the stars. Many persons may suffer discomforts, owing to unexpected events.

Aviation continues under a most stimulating planetary influence and will make a great progress before the end of the year.

This is a day in which there may be an inclination toward intrigue and secret plotting that will be wide in its scope.

Politics will become suddenly interesting, it is forecast, but women will have little power at this period of pre-election agitation.

Revival of interest in the significance and influence of color will be one of the results of the new national effort in cultivating gardens, astrologers prognosticate.

Hotels continue under the most beneficial planetary influences and of the building of them there will be no end in 1927.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of much activity in business. Writers should profit.

Children born on this day probably will be fortunate in mercantile careers.

To Find out if you need Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.—A study of these symptoms will enable you to decide.

This blood and nerve restorative was devised for use in two great classes of diseases, one of which usually develops from the other—Anaemia or bloodlessness, and Nervous Exhaustion. If the blood is thin and watery, as is indicated by pallor of the lips, eyelids and gums, or if you are afflicted by some form of nervous trouble, you will find in DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD the most certain means of relief and restoration. Some of the symptoms and ailments which come under this heading are:

CONTEST TO CLOSE AUGUST 15

Fathers of Confederation

AMONG the many prominent men who have been termed Fathers of Confederation, these names stand out as being of dominion wide celebrity. They and their associates built a United Canada, today one of the brightest gems in the Imperial Crown.

In 1870 and 1871 certain other prominent men associated themselves for the purpose of furnishing the citizens of the new Dominion with sound life insurance protection in a purely Canadian Company. The name of the recently formed Canadian Confederation was chosen. Thus was Confederation Life Association born.

As the Fathers of Confederation built a powerful Dominion, so the founders of the Confederation Life Association built one of Canada's best known financial institutions to supply sound Canadian insurance protection to the citizens of the Canadian Confederation.

NEW ENGINES OF GREAT SIZE

6100 Type Being Built for C. N. R. Largest in Empire.

VERY POWERFUL

KINGSTON, June 4.—The largest engine in the British Empire made its first run yesterday, built by the Canadian Locomotive Company of Kingston, for the Canadian National Railways. It was completed at 7 o'clock in the morning, and by noon was ready for a trial trip. While the Canadian National system had previously held an Empire record for the largest passenger and freight engine respectively, it remained for the engineers to design a new type of locomotive which surpasses all previous motive power both for weight, length and hauling capacity.

This new engine, which is known as the 6100 type, is a triumph for Canadian designers. Previously Canada's locomotives, more or less, have been designed after United States types, and as such motive power as "The Mountain and Santa Fe" types, which the National Railways brought out and which to that time proved to be the largest engine operating under the British flag, were modifications of American designs and consequently were designated by well-known classifications. In designing the new 6100 type locomotives, however, Canadian National Engineers have pioneered the road to an entirely new steam engine, named the "Northern," which is representative of the country where it has been developed.

The new locomotive, with tender, weighs 236 tons, which is greater than the 4100 type of freight locomotive, conceded to be the biggest steam engine in the Empire. In length it also eclipses the biggest Empire engines, having an over-all measurement of 94 feet, 6 inches. This is longer than the biggest engine yet developed.

It is interesting to note that in the past locomotives have been designed with a view either to freight or passenger traffic, but in the case of the 6100 type they are convertible and may be used either for freight or passenger service. Apart from their tremendous hauling powers (under given conditions it is possible to move 100 loaded freight cars), they have an unusual high speed, driving wheels being 6 feet 1 inch in diameter, and have a tractive power of 70,000 tons.

The completion of the Northern type locomotive marked not only a new departure in steam engine design but also the first of the forty locomotives of this type the Canadian National Railways are building. R. H. Fish, general superintendent of the southern Ontario district, and D. J. McMillan, superintendent of the Belleville division, went to Kingston to welcome the new locomotive. Mr. Fish, who at one time was an engineer on the "International Limited," had the honor of driving No. 6100 from the yards of the Canadian Locomotive works to the main line of the Canadian National station at Kingston. Twenty of the forty engines are being built by the Canadian Locomotive works and twenty in Montreal.

Twenty will be put in service on the fast through trains between Montreal and Chicago. The engines will set a new record in long distance operation by running from Bonaventure station at Montreal to Sarnia, a distance of 511 miles. To make this run possible, Mr. Fish stated that new coal shutes will be erected at Belleville and Paris Junction. The engines will go into active passenger service as soon as the chutes are completed and they have had the necessary trial trips, hauling freight trains.

Apart from the forty locomotives which will be built in Canada, twelve have also been ordered for the Grand Trunk Western lines, operating between Sarnia and Detroit to Chicago; four for the Central Vermont Railway, subsidiary of the Canadian National system, running from St. John's, Q., to New London, Conn. One of the features of the new 6100 type locomotive is a double wheel under the cab. A special provision has also been made to place the whistle as far forward as possible. This was done with a view to secure the greatest carrying power, and likewise, to lessen the vibration upon the engine crew. As in the latest design of locomotive, the steam piping is outside of the engineer's cab, thereby affording additional safety to the crew.

Some idea of the tremendous power which No. 6100 is capable of generating can be gleamed from the fact that the boiler pressure is 250 pounds to the square inch. The smoke box alone has a diameter of 98 inches, which is considerably greater than a man of six feet could reach, while the outside diameter of the boiler is proportionally greater. Some idea of the power which this engine is capable of developing can be determined when it is known that it would be in excess of the horsepower distributed by the electrical requirement of the city of Kingston, serving 25,000 people. The tender designed for No. 6100 is of the Vanderbilt type.

This tender was first introduced into Canada by the Canadian National Railways system in its 100 type of locomotives, and it has proved to be so successful that the engineers of the National system decided to carry the design into the newest type of locomotive. Apart from the generally recognized features, the tender has a capacity of twenty tons of coal and 14,500 gallons of water. This feature was specially designed for long distance hauling. The engine has four drive wheels on each side, while the truck has six wheels. "The Booster" attachment gives it an additional power which makes it according to Canadian National standards an 87 p... engine. The engine trucks of this design were applied originally to the "Mountain" type on the 6000 class of engines, and have proved so successful in the three years' service that it was decided to contiuue them. The tender frame is a Commonwealth design, while the tank is that put into operation by Commodore Vanderbilt, whose name will be remembered in American railroad annals. A novel feature has been introduced on the engines by the use of a common exhaust pipe on the left side for the air pipe, the feed water heater pump and the stoker, this pipe being carried forward into the exhaust steam pipe leading from the exhaust passage in the cylinder saddle to the feed water heater. Located on top of the smoke box, this gives an unusually attractive appearance to the engine.

As the engine comes into service almost upon the eve of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation, it marks a striking example of the progress made by the nation. Back in 1867, the locomotives were only twenty tons and the largest over-all length was 50 feet, and while the speed was approximately 60 miles an hour, they were only capable of handling four passenger cars or 15 freight cars. When it is considered that No. 6100 can pull 18 passenger cars or 100 freight cars, a striking example of the progress of the nation is written in terms of steel and iron.

Ennismore Dramatic Club Puts On "The Luck of Derryveraugh."

DOWNEYVILLE, June 3.—The Hall here was crowded to the doors Friday evening when the members of he Dramatic Club of Ennismore presented their splendid play, "The Luck of Derryveraugh."

The play was a splendid one and was very ably presented, each player doing their part well.

The play was of Derryveraugh in Ireland, where lived the master, Lord Derryveraugh and his youngest sister, Maurya, and a young girl Deidre Doyle, sister of the master's daughter-in-law, Eileen, who with Terence, his son, was dead.

The opening is the expectation of the arrival of Lord Derryveraugh's grand-daughter, Kathleen, from America, daughter of his favorite son, Dominick, who by his marriage to a peasant girl, Mollie O'Leary, made his father so angry that he disinherited him. Kathleen, now an orphan, returns to her father's home a beautiful young girl, who loves Derryveraugh's and Ireland. She arrives just as a fearful thunderstorm bursts and later the storm brings a handsome young stranger seeking refuge for he sprained his ankle. He is cared for in the house, and is a great favorite with every one, but Deidre, who hates him because he has fallen in love with Kathleen, of whom she is very jealous. Kathleen wins everybody by her sunny disposition and her sweet way, and even the stern old master finds himself liking her.

The Luck of Derryveraugh was an exquisite emerald brought a long time ago from India, and if the stone left the house, all luck went with it, and would only return when the stone was returned during the play and is very interesting, as the handsome stranger, who loves Kathleen is Larry O'Leary, son of Tim O'Leary, the master's worst enemy.

The old love of Fergus and Maurya is renewed despite the opporition of the master, and is brought about by Kathleen. Others were Bridget, Dominick's old nurse, who loves his pretty daughter, Nora, a parlor maid, who is in love with Mike Kelley, who is Larry O'Leary's right hand man, Sheila, the demented girl with a stranage gift o divination and Fergus.

The parts were all well played each player speaking clearly as to be heard at the back of the hall. Mr. Scollard, who played the part of the master, was splendid, as he had a very hard part to play. Kathleen was also good and it was she who brought about sunshine to the old house, and to Maurya, who was very often dull. In fact all did splendid. Rev. Father McAuley accompanied the players, and gave an address as also Father Galvin. Mr. Angus Twomey rendered two songs in his excellent manner, and the Downeyville orchestra composed of Messrs. Albert and Charles Lucas Frank Milloy, Thomas Lucas, Miss Loretto Harrington, Mrs. W. C. Herlihey and Mrs. Pat Perdue played.

Everyone was delighted and the cast is as follows:

Brian, Lord Derryveraugh, the master, Mr. P. J. Scollard.

Maurya, his sister, Miss Marguerite Mulvihill.

Kathleen, his grand-daughter, Miss Agnes Cavanagh.

Deidre, an adventuress, Miss Mary Harrington.

Larry O'Leary, an Irish American, Mr. Joseph McGuire.

Fergus, a neighbor, Mr. John Harrington.

Morat, the maid, Miss Maugerite Holland.

Sheila, Miss Madeline Flaherty.

Mike Kelly, Larry's servant, M. J. Cavanagh.

PRIZE PRESENTED FOR BEST ESSAY

Miss Anna Hunter, of S. S. 15, Emily, Receives Award.

KING'S WHARF, June 4.—A very large number of the ratepayers and others from near by places gathered at S.S. No. 15, Monday afternoon for the purpose of doing honor to Miss Anna Hunter, who recently won first prize for writing an essay on Canada. The contest was put on by the Weekly Newspapers' Association, and a great deal of interest was shown. Mr. Thurston, of Bobcaygeon, proprietor of the Bobcaygeon Independent, made the presentation, and gave the following address:

Mr. Chairman, Miss Herlihey and Friends,

It affords me sincere pleasure to come here this afternoon to pay tribute to the success brought to the school, to the Township of Emily, to the community at large, and to Canadian citizenship and to hear the one who is responsible for this, Miss Anna Hunter.

It is a great thing to be able to relate a story. It is a great thing to be able to tell a story so well that people will listen to it. It is a great thing to have a suitable theme for such a story, and what more suitable story could be given to tell or write of than Canada and of the people who have gone ahead and bought the land on which we live and call our own home. It is a great thing to be successful in a race; it is a great thing to be as near the top as you can. Pluck and perseverance, if they do not come out on top, will stand near it and, sir, when a little girl says to herself, "I am going to try for a certain thing and do my very best to get it," it makes us all feel proud that her efforts are successful.

I am going to write about Canada, and about the people who have made Canada a great nation; it does all the more honor to that girl. We are proud to day to find one girl in the Township of Emily, who has been able to compete successfully and win a prize. It affords me much pleasure to bring this tribute to her and hope she may grow to be a useful Canadian citizen, and one who in the future may bring further honor to herself and to us all. The teacher, Miss Viola Herlihey, then welcomed the visitors and read a letter from the Premier, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson to the pupils. Miss Dorothy O'Neill gave a recitation, "The Old Union Jack."

A flag salute, led by Marguerite Murtha was very well done.

Rev. Father Galvin was called upon to speak and he not only congratulated the winner, but also her parents, and teachers, past and present. Whereas some say that a city school has advantages over the ungraded rural, the reverend gentleman could not see it, because as he explained, brick, mortar, stone, etc., do not make a school. It is the teaching that is imparted to the children. Miss Hunter did not have advantages over other children; she won because of personal application to the matter in hand.

"O Canada, the True," was recited by Stephen Sullivan.

Rev. A. C. Hie, of Bobcaygeon, quoted a motto which he had seen and read, "Not for school, but for life" and brought out to the pupils the relation of school to the life that they will confront later, and the position they will be expected to take as citizens of Canada.

The school was decorated with the picture of the Fathers of Confederation, the Prince of Wales and a map of the Dominion of Canada. In spite of a very short preparation, a patriotic pageant was given. England was represented by Loretto O'Neil, Canada, Viola O'Neill; Ireland, Marguerite Murtha; Scotland, Dorothy Ranson; Africa, Dorothy O'Neill; India, Victor O'Neill; Australia, Joseph Hunter; New Zealand, Leo O'Neill; West Indies, Ralph O'Neill; Hong Kong, James Murtha; Honduras, William O'Neill; Ceylon, Urban Sullivan; Gibraltar, Rita Murtha.

J. C. O'Leary, an old ratepayer of S. S. No. 15 did not wonder how it came about that the prize came to this section. It just could not help it, for they have the best teachers, and the highest pupils. He welcomed the visitors, especially the editor of the Independant. He related a story of a time when the late Charles Stewart was editor and Mr. Dan Morrow was in the cattle-buying business. Mr. Morrow had delivered a ship load of cattle to Antwerp, Belgium and on signing the hotel register, the innkeeper said, "What, you from Canada?" "Yes." "Ah, from Bobcaygeon." "Yes." "Why, that is where the Bobcaygeon Independant is printed." "Yes, what do you know about it." "Oh, sure now, that paper is known all over the world."

All the pupils of the school sang "The Maple Leaf" and recitations were given by Dorothy Ranson and Victor O'Neill.

Mr. Joseph Corbett, secretary of the school, who has recently returned from the Ontario Educational Convention in Toronto, spoke very briefly of the progress which has been made in educational matters in the district and, congratulated those responsible for Miss Hunter's education.

C. W. Fairburn also spoke; also G. W. Taylor, who acted as chairman both of Bobcaygeon. The latter gave a history of a number of prominent pioneers of Canada. Miss Viola Herlihey, the teacher, is also to be congratulated having gone to the same school For her early education in fact all are proud of the pupils of King's Wharf school. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

If Disaster Strikes!

THE RED CROSS as Your Agent gives Relief

A RED glare in the sky . . . the crackling roar of flames as they sweep from tree to tree . . . none but those who have been through it can fully sense the terror and suffering that a forest fire brings to Canada's hinterlands.

In a flash, a whole community may be made homeless . . . without shelter, without food, suffering frightful injuries or mourning for dear ones caught in the talons of the red demon.

Such catastrophes wring our hearts. Fires . . . mining disasters . . . disease epidemics . . . happily they occur but seldom. But when they come, they find the Red Cross organised to render prompt relief.

In every Province, the Red Cross is prepared for instant action in such emergencies . . . In the stricken area confusion reigns . . . In the nearest Red Cross headquarters, the machinery for prompt, efficient measures works quickly and smoothly, drawing on a Canada-wide organization for help if need be.

Medical supplies are kept ready. Nurses and doctors can be quickly mobilized. Tents, blankets, field kitchens, oil stoves, iron beds, mattresses from the Government's military stores are at the instant disposal of the Red Cross. As fast as trains can travel, aid is rushed to the sufferers . . . no confusion or delay.

When the town of Bowden, Alberta, was partially destroyed by fire, the Red Cross furnished assistance for some 88 families made homeless. . . . Similar aid was given to the village of St. Joseph d'Alma, Quebec. In the disastrous forest fires that swept Northern Ontario in 1923, and in the Cochrane typhoid epidemic, the Red Cross played an efficient part . . . In these and scores of other cases the Red Cross relieved and succored thousands of sufferers.

By supporting the Red Cross, YOU make efficient relief measures possible. If disaster should strike any community, the RED CROSS is YOUR AGENT to give relief.

COGS BEATEN BY RAYBESTOS BY 6-2 SCORE

Winners Make Ten Errors, But Win Easily in Spite of Them.

MAKE HITS COUNT.

Cogs Get Only Three Hits Off Maudsley— Score on Errors.

Raybestos handed Cognawagas a large-sized jolt in the shape of a 6—2 trimming at Exhibition Park last evening. The most surprising feature of the contest was the erratic fielding of the Rays, who slipped in ten errors and yet won in a canter. "Scotty" Maudsley, who served them up for the winners, was in fine form and should have scored a shutout. He allowed only three hits, one an extra-base clout which Vannest slammed out in the seventh to start a rally that failed to materialize when the side was retired in a row. Raybestos got only five hits off Vannest, but they hurt.

Fans who like their baseball served up with a good mixture, had a look at everything. There was good pitching, solid hitting, plenty of errors, and some nice fielding. "Casey" Masterson made a neat shoe-string catch of Wilson's drive in the fifth and Moore had a double play unassisted.

Cogs got their first run in the fourth after two were out on a double killing by Moore, who took Davis' short fly and doubled Cripps away from first. Williams singled for the first safety and Crary was passed, and when Jimmie Johnston mussed up Prest's grounder, Williams counted.

H. Nicholls let Davis' grounder go through in the sixth and wild throws by Rogers to second and third allowed the runner to go in.

Raybestos collected three in the first. Baird looped one over second; H. Nicholls was hit by the pitcher, and Rogers singled to score Baird. Corrin hit in Nicholls. Johnston fanned. O. Nicholls popped out and Masterson's grounder went through Crary, allowing Rogers to tally.

They repeated in the fifth. H. Nicholls was passed, going to third on Rogers' double and scoring on a wild pitch. Harry Corrin's infield tap scored Rogers. Johnston struck out, but Corrin scored when O. Nicholls lined out to Rooke.

TILDEN FAVORITE IN TENNIS FINALS

Experts Believe Will Despatch Rene Lacoste in Final Sunday.

ST. CLOUD, France, June 4. Canadian Press. — Experts believe that "Big Bill" Tilden, the United States tennis star, who entered the finals of the international hard court tennis championships here yesterday, will despatch Rene Lacoste, the United States champion, in the final on Sunday, with the same ease that he did Henri Cochet in the semi-finals yesterday.

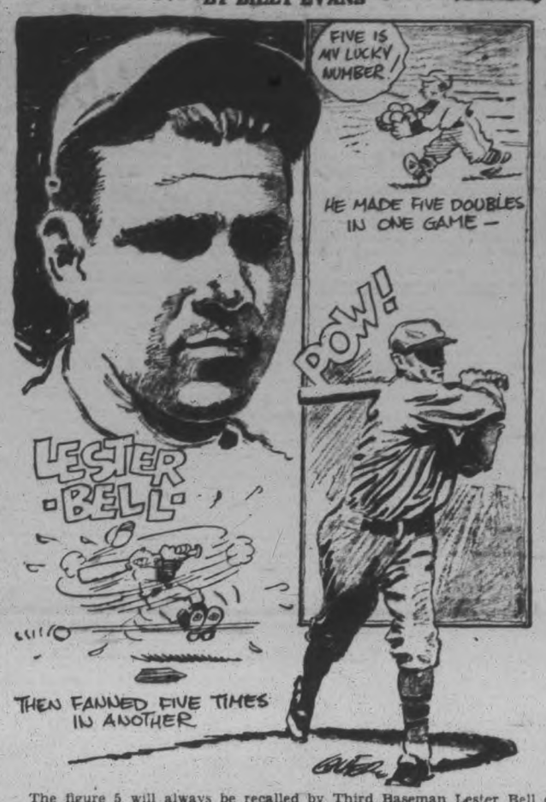
Tilden proved conclusively yesterday that he has "come back." The veteran player stormed about the court, stroking with all his old power, leaving no stone uncovered, and fighting for every point to the bitter end. The youthful French star, although at the top of his game, and with the memory of his sensational defeat of Tilden in the United States national last year, was powerless in the face of this attack. Tilden won in straight sets at 9-7, 6-3, 6-2.

When Tilden walked from the court to the cheers of the 5000 persons who packed the stands he had accomplished what he had set out to do—defeated the last of the famous "Three Musketeers," Cochet, Lacoste and Jean Borotra, in revenge for his defeats at their hands in last season's French tennis invasion of the United States.

Lacoste won his way into the final yesterday by defeating F. D. B. Spence of South Africa, by the decisive score of 6-1, 6-3, 6-2.

You'd Be SURPRISED!

BY BILLY EVANS



The figure 5 will always be recalled by Third Baseman Lester Bell of the St. Louis Cardinals with an equal amount of thrill and disgust. On two occasions it has played a prominent part in his baseball career.

Let's start off with the pleasant recollections dealing with the numeral five, a minor league happening.

Back in 1922 Bell, then a shortstop, was secured by the St. Louis Nationals from Lansing, Mich., in the Central League. After looking him over in the spring of 1923 Branch Rickey, then pilot of the Cardinals, decided he needed further seasoning. Bell was sent to Houston in the Texas League.

It was while with Houston, in a game against Dallas, that Bell equalled a record when he made five two-base hits in one game. He was up seven times and made four runs. That's the pleasant memory.

Four years later, to be exact, May 12, 1927, the figure five was the cause of great disgust on the part of "Les" Bell.

A .300 batter, Bell, like all free swingers, may strike out once or twice in a game and thinks nothing of it. In a game with the Giants on the above date Bell whiffed five times ,Burleigh Grimes setting him down on strikes on four trips to the plate, "Dutch" Henry getting him the other time. That was too much. Bell wasn't very congenial company that evening.

There you have two red letter days in the career of Bell, one of which he would naturally prefer to forget.

EXAMINER WINS LEAGUE GAME

Beats Seven Oaks Team 15-5, Playing Airtight Ball.

GOOD PITCHING.

Playing a postponed game, The Examiner defeated the Seven Oaks at Central Park last night, by a score of 15-5. This game was arranged when it was found out that the 4th Battery could not field a team.

Dormer was on the mound for the newspaper aggregation, and pitched a steady game. He was never in danger and would have scored a shutout with better support from his outfield. Ted LeBarr dished them up for the Seven Oaks, and was a trifle wild, passing eight men. This, coupled with poor support from his infield, caused the large score, for he was not hit very hard.

The Examiner infield were in great form, going through the game without an error. It was just the reverse with the Seven Oaks, their outfield being the best. Chou's work at first, for the Seven Oaks, was a feature. Dugan made a wonderful catch of a hard-hit ball, snaring the drive while travelling at too speed just over second base.

Lew LeBarr was umpire-in-chief and handled the game to the satisfaction of both teams. LeBarr's umpiring in the past few games has been of the very highest caliber, and he is one of the most efficient officials of the League. Smith handled the game, on the bases, in A-1 style.

The teams were as follows:

Seven Oaks—Dwyer, lf; Chou, 1b; Board, ss; McDonoghue, 2b; Barnett, cf; Mein, rf; Corkery, 3b; McGraw, c; LeBarr, p.

Examiner—Dugan, 2b; Bradshaw, 3b; Dormer, p; Baker, c; Grey, rf; Parsons, ss; G. Dormer, cf; Guiry, 1b; Scates, lf.

TIGERS WIN FROM YANKEES

Defeat New York For First Time This Season 3-1.

ATHLETICS LOSE OUT.

NEW YORK, June 4 (Canadian Press).—The Detroit Tigers won their first game of the season from the New York Yankees here yesterday by 3 to 1. After Detroit went scoreless for 22 innings, Shortstop Jack Tavener hit a home run with Heilmann and Gehringer on base in the seventh inning. It was the second home run of his career. Gehrig's circuit smash in the second inning was his thirteenth of the season.

Although Boston piled up 14 hits, Al Thomas, visiting Chicago pitcher, piloted his club to victory, 5 to 1. It was Thomas' tenth this season and his bat contributed to the result. In the fourth he poled out a home run over the left field fence when Clancy was on base.

Cleveland won the second game of the series with the Athletics at Philadelphia by a score of 3 to 1. The Indians scored all their runs in the first inning by bunching four hits off Jack Quinn. Philadelphia's lone tally was a home run by Simmons, his sixth of the season, in the seventh. Walter Miller went the route for Cleveland.

The Browns went on a batting spree here yesterday, pounded three Washington pitchers for thirteen hits and defeated the Senators, 8 to 4. Each member of the St. Louis team had at least one safety to his credit, while Rice had three and Sisler and O'Rourke two each.

EASILY DEFEAT PHILADELPHIA

Pirates Collect 15 Hits, Including Circuit Clouts For Victory.

SENSATIONAL PITCHING.

NEW YORK, June 4. Canadian Press. — In a game replete with sensational pitching by Vic Aldridge and batting by his team mates the Pirates defeated Philadelphia at Pittsburgh 11 to 1. The Pirates collected 15 hits, including circuit clouts by Wright Grantham and F. Waner.

Aldridge gave the visitors but one hit up to the ninth inning. He had seven strike outs. In the second inning after Philadelphia loaded the sacks on three Pirate errors, Aldridge fanned the next three batters. Joe Harris, the league batting leader, had a perfect day at bat with two singles and two walks.

Boston hammered Bush hard in 2 innings at Chicago, finally driving him off the hill in the sixth inning, and won, 5 to 4, in the first game of the series. Charlie Robertson was hit hard during his reign on the mound, but managed to keep the blows scattered until the eighth inning, when he was replaced by Mogridge.

The New York Giants won at Cincinnati, 6 to 0, Virgil Barnes granting only three singles, two of them going to Pipp and the other to Bressler. It was Barnes' sixth triumph of the season and the sixth consecutive defeat for the home club. President John A. Heydler of the National League attended the contest.

WELCOME LOSE TO GARDEN HILL

Defeat 10-4 in First Game South Dummer Baseball League.

BATTERIES GOOD.

WELCOME, June 4. — On Wednesday evening Welcome saw its first League game on home grounds. The Garden Hill team with a goodly supply of rooters, arrived in Welcome quite prepared for victory or at least a good fight.

The games for the first three innings showed good baseball on either side. Garden Hill, though doing some good hitting in the first could not make a score, while Welcome brought one man in. The second time around saw each team adding one to their score, while in the third innings Garden Hill brought in two men to Welcome's one. The fourth and first half of the fifth brought Garden Hill's score up to ten but on account of the darkness the visiting team refused to finish out the fifth innings. The uncompleted game stood at 10-4 for Garden Hill.

The most noteworthy features of the game were the pitching of the visitors by Jack Wright and the home run for Welcome struck by Reg. Gibbs. Welcome presented a strong battery under Jack Haskel and Curtiss, while Garden Hill was ably upheld by Wilson behind the bat.

The line up of the teams was:

Garden Hill: Wilson, L. Dunbar, M. Dundas, Wright, A. Merser, Gray, Burns, S. Merser, Centrill.

Welcome: George Becket, F. McConnell, R. Gibbs, R. Dawson, W. Curtiss, F. Austin, W. Davidson, J. Haskel, Dick Haskell. Sub., Ross, Dickinson (captain.)

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, as a lot of well-known brands of Scotch whiskey said to Ontario folks Wed., "Here we are again," not much exciting has happened locally since my last, but the customers may be looking for something, so the old bean will hafta to work overtime to produce the week's budget.

Anyway, I wanta to say something about the way Ontario athaletes has been performing over the border recently. This young Mister Joe Wright just naturally smashed all records in winning the American Henley at Philadelphia. Hockey fans will remember Mister Wright. He is the bird which played on the defence of the Toronto Canoe Club here last winter, the long guy with the broad smile and the khaki pants what didn't produce no brilliant hockey to speak of, but was willing to mix it with all and sundry, and took his bumps as cheerful as a permit holder watches a bottle of Black and White slide over the counter. On the frozen water he may not be a 1st magnitude star, but get the ice off of the top and put him out there in a shell, and boy, he's a natural. If this bird doesn't win some Olympic pts. for the Land of the Maple I'm a worst picker than I ever thought I was, and I always knew I was bad.

Since my last too, Mac, Canadian runners has done well in long distance gallops across the line, with Mister Cliff Bricker, of Galt, winning the Buffalo marathon and Mister Percy Wyer, a bang-up 2nd in the Detroit 26-miler. When the starter's gat is heard over at Amsterdam next summer they'll all watching them lads with the Maple Leaf on their sweaters.

I see where a guy out in South Africa win 1st prize in the Calcutta Sweepsteaks on the Derby, getting himself nearly half a million bucks. It sure is a grand and glorious feeling. I know just how he feels, for only last Sat. I win a two-bit pool on the 2nd heat of the .14 class. I oughta send the Capetown bird a cable.

Speaking of the races last Sat., Mac, I want to tell you that for home talent the meet couldn't be beat. I didn't think they was so many horses left in Peterborough of any variety, cause you never see none on the street, but here they trotted out about 15 race horses, the owners of which pay taxes here, although I gotta admit that a coupla the nags didn't look like they'd be any help in raising the tax money. Right now we ain't got to ask no help from nobody in staging a race programme. We got plenty of fast ones right here at home.

Well, Mac, if the game Sat. ain't rained out I hope to next week have something to say about the sr. ball club.

Meanwhile, if it should happen to open up next week, remember the stuff's going to be here for a long time. They ain't no call trying to buy it all the 1st day.

Southpaw Pitching By Lefty Faulkner Stops Buffalo Cold.

KEPT HITS SCATTERED.

MAPLE LEAF STADIUM, Toronto, June 4.—Pitching superbly and backed up in splendid fashion, Jim Faulkner scored his ninth victory of the season yesterday, when he blanked the Bisons 1 to 0. He was in several tight spots but kept the hits scattered in all but the first and last periods, when the visitors bunched four of their seven hits, with the bases full in the first, he forced Huber to fly out while in the ninth a great relay throw got Taylor trying to score from first on Devine's double. Thomas was almost as effective for the losers. The Leafs tallying their only run in the first one, successive hits by Burke, Jacobson and Hargrave, Burke's batting was a feature. The attendance was about 2,500.

Syracuse made it two straight over the Colts at Rochester, winning the third game of the series by a score of 8 to 6. "Lefty" Dyer made his first start for the Stars, relieving Barnes in the seventh inning when the Tribe scored three runs.

Batting Russell hard in the fifth inning, Newark scored enough runs to take a 2 to 1 lead in the series at Reading, winning by 17 to 3. The fifth inning rally netted four runs, Reading threatened in the ninth when two pinch hitters came through and Trexler also hit safely, but Mammaux tightened and choked off the rally. Trexler and Mackin hit long three-bagers.g

124 SWIMMERS HAVE ENQUIRED ABOUT BIG RACE

United States To Have About 75 Entries in the C.N.E. Event.

38 FROM CANADA

Vierkotter, German Channel Swimmer, Is Strong Competitor.

TORONTO, Ont., June 4 (Canadian Press). — One hundred and twenty-four swimmers, representing ten countries, have made inquiries regarding the fifty thousand dollar Marathon swimming race which will be staged in Lake Ontario, off Toronto, on August 31.

The United States will have at least seventy-five competitors, while Canada comes next with thirty-eight. Sweden and Germany have two each.

Young Canada's Hope.

George Young is perhaps the brightest of Canada's galaxy of natatorial stars and the announcement this week that the Catalina Channel victor would establish training quarters near Picton, Ont., in the near future, was received with considerable interest.

Germany's strongest competitor, without doubt, is Ernest Vierkotter, who is at present in this country. Vierkotter recently swam the Montreal Marathon course of approximately thirty miles in 4 hours 57 minutes. Mrs. Della Sullivan Herbert established a record of 4.53 last year. She will compete in the Toronto Marathon accompanied by her husband, Dr. Herbert.

Mme. Sion Here.

Madame Jane Sion, European woman swimming champion, is at present in Montreal, and has already begun training for the event. Ishak Helmy, the Egyptian whose repeated attempts to swim the English Channel have been frustrated by unlucky circumstances, is in Cairo, but will soon come to this country to commence training.

Of the many United States inquirers, Ethel Hertle, Mrs. Sullivan Herbert, Charlotte Epstein, and George Creagan are perhaps better known, and all can be relied on to furnish strenuous opposition. In addition, Honolulu is sending Duke Mello and A. Nawahi.

The awards will be as follows: Winner, $30,000, second $7,500, third $2,500, fourth $1,000, fifth and sixth $500 each. The first woman completing the grind will receive $5,000, second $2,500, and third $500.

LAWN BOWLING

A large meet was held last night at the Brock Street bowling greens, when over forty members competed for silverware prizes. These Friday night meets are becoming very popular, both with the members and the citizens generally, for a large crowd attended last night. Next Friday night there will be another competition for valuable bowling measures. The following are the winners of last night's tournament:

1.—J. W. Mayneord with a score of thirteen. 2.—Jack Bacon, eleven: 3.—Chief Gimblett and H. Freeman, tied with a score of ten.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 4. — The greens at the Campbellford Bowling Club were in excellent condition yesterday. In the second appearance of the season, Archer defeated Glover by a score of 20-16.

Skip J. P. Archer; vice, J. R. Wilkinson; players, R. W. Ryder and V. M. Marks.

Skip L. B. Glover, vice T. S. Tate; players, George Nicol and C. S. Gillespie.

In a free for all Mrs. Geo. Nicol, Mrs. L. B. Glover and Mrs. J. P. Archer staged a very spirited contest, ending in a very close score.

At least 80 clubs and 1,000 players are expected to compete in this year's championship tournament of the South Africa Bowling Association. The tournament will be held at Cape Town and will be the largest yet held in South Africa.

BELMONTS WIN FROM HAVELOCK

Defeat Village Team 10-6 at Softball—Sulphide Beaten.

IN HARD BALL GAME.

HAVELOCK, June 4. — A large crowd was in attendance at the park yesterday afternoon to witness the opening games of the baseball season.

The hard ball game between Sulphide and Havelock was scheduled for 3.30 p.m., and resulted in a victory for the locals by a score of 9—6. Mr. Wager of Tweed acted as umpire and James Hooper pitched for the Havelock team.

Special interest centered in the softball game between Peterborough and Havelock. After three years of unsuccessful attempt to defeat the local team, the Belmonts tasted victory today by a score of 10—6. The local boys were at a disadvantage as they entered the game after playing Sulphide, and were tired. The line-up was as follows:

Havelock. — Caesar, p; Armstrong and Quinn, c; Hagerman, 1b; Copp, 2b; Jack, 3b; Plunkett, Wright and Thompson, field; Hooper, ss.

T.C.S. DEFEATS CRICKET TEAM

Peterborough C. C. Loses To Port Hope School By 42 Runs.

SPLENDID GAME.

The Peterborough C. C. visited Port Hope yesterday afternoon and played the Trinity College first team, and after a most enjoyable game was defeated by forty-two runs. The Peterborough team, although defeated, was by no means disgraced, as it was minus the regular wicket keeper and also one of the best bowlers. Stumps were to be drawn at 6.30 o'clock, but at that time Peterborough had only 7 men out and from a pure sporting spirit, which was appreciated by the College boys arranged to play on until 6.45, thus enabling the school to win, where otherwise a drawn game would have resulted.

The Peterborough captain won the toss and put the school in to bat on a perfect run getting wicket. Larzier and Fyshe opening the batting to the bowling of Dyer and Thorpe; runs came quickly from the start until at 16 Thorpe got Fyshe lbw. Thompson then joined Larzier and some bright batting was seen and the score was carried to 63 before Jefferson clean bowled Larzier for a well played 33. Thompson was bowled off his pads the next ball from Dunkerly. The next three men were quickly got rid off, all being bowled by Dunkerly, who was keeping a fine length. Turnbull and Osborne gave the fielders some running about before being dismissed. The score was finally taken to 128 before the side was dismissed. Dunkerly and Jefferson both bowled remarkably well, the former taking 5 wickets for 33 runs and the latter 3 for 20 runds.

Peterborough opened their innings with Dunkerly and Jefferson. Turnbull and Syers started the attack. Both batsmen played very cautiously at the start and runs came slowly. The score was taken to 22 when Dunkerly was caught out, very close to the ground after having made 13 by careful cricket. Monkman was lbw before he had scored. Thorpe scored 5 when he was very smartly caught at point, another catch close to the ground. The next two men were got rid of cheaply, both being caught. Dyer then joined Jefferson, who was batting very confidently. Dyer started after the bowling in rare style and hit both bowlers clean and hard and the score mounted quickly to 76 before Dyer mishit and was caught by Dalton after having made 25 runs in about 15 minutes. The remaining batsmen offered little resistance and were got rid of about two minutes before time for drawing stumps. A good game ended in a victory for the College boys by 42 runs. Bigar took 6 wickets for 14 runs, Winnett 3 for 13, and Larzier 2 for 9.

AMERICANS LEAD IN GOLF COMPETITION

Defeat British Three To One at Their Own Game.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 4 (Associated Press). — Two big points, gained after much perseverance and perspiration over the hills of the Worcester Country Club golf course, sent the Americans off in front in the international competition for the Samuel Ryder Cup. The British were defeated three matches to one at their own game, the two ball foursome, and the home team was vastly encouraged as it prepared to enter the more familiar singles to-morrow with a lead, which the British visitors admit will be most difficult to overcome.

The contesting captains, Walter Hagen for the Americans and Ted Ray for the British, led the match that decided the issue. Johnny Farrell and Joe Turnesa swamped Geo. Duncan and Archie Compston eight up and six to play over the long 36-hole route, but before the cheers had lost themselves in the wooded hills about the course, the British had claimed the right to swamp as well as be swamped, and Aubrey Boomer, three times French champion, aided by Charles Whitcombe, buried Leo Diegel and Bill Mehlhorn under a score of seven and five.

Gene Sarazen and Al. Watrous were back on the course with a lead of four holes over Arthur Havers and Herbert Jolly, and it was seen that the day's advantage would be decided by the result of the stern contest between Hagen and John Golden, the North Jersey pro., against Ted Ray and Fred Robeson.

The pivotal teams finished all square in the morning, and there was nothing to choose between them at the end of the first nine of the afternoon.

The British had caught the Americans napping and taken away a three-hole lead by winning the sixth, seventh and eighth, and halving the ninth.

A deadly pitch from the mashie niblick of John Golden on the 155 yard tenth sent the Americans out in front, and this time they were not headed.

Hagen had a five-foot putt for the birdie deuce. He rammed it home, and the Americans were one up.

The next five holes were halved. The Americans broke through at the sixteenth to win four to five, Hagen again getting down one of his deadly putts and the visitors were dormie two. A half in par in the seventeenth ended the most interesting match of the day.

Duncan and Compston proved no match for Farrell and Turnesa, the young Americans finishing the morning round four up and adding four more in the afternoon before the holes ran out at the twelfth. The youngsters teamed up well, while the gigantic Compston developed a tendency to be wild as the day wore on. George Duncan, wasting no time in idle thought, was better than his big partner, but his play also left something to be deared.

The brightest spot in the British play was furnished by Aubrey Boomer and the sphynx-like Charles Whitcombe. Uncovering a backswing so fast that it made the gallery gasp, Boomer drove long and straight down the fairways and never seemed to tire of walloping the ball with a power that was reminiscent of Babe Ruth in his most ruthless mood.

Boomer was the most talked of British player last night, and his name was being mentioned in the same breath with that of Bobbie Jones, Johnny Farrell, and Bobby Cruickshank in forecasting dangerous contenders in the approaching open at Oakmont.

Eight singles matches will be played to-day to decide possession of the cup. The Americans at least cannot fare so badly as they did last year in an informal preliminary to the first international match being played here for the cup.

The Americans then were vanquished 13½ to 1½, and they have two points in the bag last night which cannot be taken away from them.

The singles matches at 36 holes will pit Farrell against Boomer, Espinosa vs. Compston, Sarazen vs. Whitcombe, Hagen vs. Havers, Watrous vs. Robeson, Turnesa vs. Duncan, Diegel vs. Ray, and Golden vs. Jolly.

CAMPBELLFORD WINS TROPHY

Tennis Players Win Tourney in Tweed For Tummon Cup.

FIVE CLUBS ENTERED.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 4.—Without blushing the local Tennis Club returned from Tweed about 10 o'clock last night carrying with them the much envied Tummon cup. On all sides the local players are receiving the congratulations of their fellow citizens for upholding, at the home of the steel trough, Campbellford's enviable reputation as a cup collecwhile England, Egypt, France, Belgium, Norway, and Italy will have at least one representative.

Five clubs entered the tournament, viz., Belleville, Campbellford, Madoc, Tweed and Point Anne. Of the 16 events Campbellford lost two; Tweed four; Belleville, six; the other two clubs were hardly in the running. The Campbellford players were as follows:

Men's singles—C. Weston.

Men's doubles—W. Kingston and J. H. Bell.

Mixed doubles—Miss J. Weston and H. B. Free.

Mixed doubles— Miss J. Longmore and Hilton Beatty.

The events were played on three courts, two courts at the High school, and W. S. Gordon's private court. The Campbellford players say that the Gordon court can't be beat.

Campbellford now holds the Tummon cup for the rest of the season. The cup will be on view in the window of a store on Front street tomorrow afternoon and evening.

At an executive meeting held after the tournament it was decided to split the district into two groups—North and South Belleville, Deseronto, Point Anne and Napanee will comprise the north group, with President Armstrong of Belleville, as its president. Tweed, Campbellford, Deloro and Madoc are in the south group, and T. E. Moffatt, principal of Tweed High school, is the president thereof.

FRENCH FARCE, "A KISS IN A TAXI," STARS BEBE DANIELS.

Chester Conklin Featured in Latest Clarence Badger Production.

"A Kiss in a Taxi," Bebe Daniels' latest Paramount comedy success, arrives at the Capitol Theatre next Monday. Advance notices claim it to be equally as good as "The Campus Flirt," "Stranded in Paris," or "Lovers in Quarantine." And to give the farce the added colour, 'A Kiss" takes place in zat gay city on the Seine, Paree!.

Perhaps you wonder the cause for such a provoking title? Strange as it may seem, "A Kiss in a Taxi" really has quite a bearing on the story it tells. As Ginette, beautiful Montmarte cafe waitress, Bebe has ample opportunity for the racy, riotous comedy she has become famous for. It is the opinion of all the cafe's frequenters that only one man can kiss Ginette's lovely face, and he is Lucien Cambolle, her fiancee. But strangers come who do not know, and so—Leon Lambert tries his luck with a crockery battle royal ensuing. Why question the results? Rather let us do a quick fadeout from the field of combat.

A few days later, Lambert, riding around town in a cab, stops before a florist's shop and gets out to purchase a corsage for his comely companion, but while he is gone, the bird also flies away. On his return, a figure crouches in the corner. Lambert offers his oral tribute and turns to claim a kiss. He gets it, but also receives a stiff right to the jaw. The occupant of the cab is not his former companion but Ginlette! How did she get there? What happens? These are some of the things "A Kiss in a Taxi" will divulge.

Chester Conklin adds his bag of tricks to all those which Bebe puts over. Clarence Badger, director of a long line of hits, is said to present another masterly job. Douglas Gilmore, a new Paramount recruit, appears as Miss Daniels' leading man.

AT THE REGENT.

"HOLD THAT LION" IDEAL VEHICLE FOR DOUG. MACLEAN.

Comedian's Exploits As Big Game Hunter Provide Riot of Fun and Thrills.

Just how far a gentleman who prefers blondes will go was demonstrated at the Rialto Theatre during the initial unfolding of Douglas MacLean's latest farce-comedy, "Hold That Lion." The smiling comedian follows his blonde charmer around the world before he finally overtakes her in East Africa.

Out on the African veldt, MacLean finds the road to romance not only rocky but blocked by unsociable lions who take violent exception to his comic presence. His method of dealing and capturing the animals may be contrary to all rules of big game hunting, but it is productive of an abundance of rip-roaring action and hilarious fun.

The above, of course, is merely a skeleton outline of this mad and merry yarn. It doesn't begin to touch upon the broad comedy gags, the laughable complications and the breathless thrills woven into the warp and woof of the story. One has to see MacLean dashing about blithely minus his trousers, or making love in a pair of stolen Scotch kilts, or playing hide-and-seek with the frisky lions to appreciate just how funny this comedy really is.

MacLean, as usual, carries off the major portion of the acting honors, but he is ably assisted by a supporting cast of ample merit and experience. Constance Howard brings both pulchritude and personality to the role of leading lady. This picture, incidentally, marks her screen debut, and her performance stamps her as a definite "find." Walter Hiers, Cyril Chadwick, Wade Boteler and George Pearce are a few of the others who acquit themselves with distinction.

William Beaudine has done a workmanlike job of the direction. The action is smooth, snappy and well sustained. There is no let down in the interest, and the suspense is maintained right up to the final foot of film. Colorful jungle backgrounds and beautiful photography contribute to the picture's pictorial attractiveness.

The Central European Football League, which embraces Hungary, Italy, Switzerland, Poland and the Balkans, has voted to support the French proposals that teams competing for the European Cup should be made up of both professionals and amateurs.

ANNOUNCING

The Senior Line

A REMARKABLE NEW SIX

by DODGE BROTHERS

A new line of Sixes by Dodge Brothers is presented to the public today.

It has been rumored, and hoped, for years that Dodge Brothers would ultimately produce such a line—more refined and, of course, higher in cost than their present car.

To combine the sturdy worth of Dodge Brothers standard product with those refinements which greater cost permits, could not fail, it was conceded, to produce a motor car of unique distinction and fineness.

The Senior Line is Dodge Brothers answer to this demand—and Dodge Brothers have answered well.

These are remarkable cars. Brilliantly vital and alive—surprisingly quiet—impressively smart. And built, like all Dodge Brothers motor cars, for years of dependable service.

See one and drive it and you will marvel that performance of this quality and character could be provided at a price so low.

FINESSING

This is one of the three ways in which the declarer tries to make tricks that are not on the face of the cards. His adversaries never finesse, in the true sense of the word. They may hold off, or "duck," or underplay, but that is not finessing.

To finesse is to try to win a trick with a card which is not the best you hold of the suit, nor in sequence with the best. The typical finesse is A Q and small cards in one hand, only small cards in the other, no matter which is dummy. Always "hope" the K is on the right of the Q and lead from the weaker hand. If the K is not played second hand, "finesse" the Q.

If these two cards are divided, A x x in one and Q x x in the other, still "hope" the K is to the right of the Q, and lead a small card from the A to the Q.

With A Q J, it may be necessary, if the first finesse wins, to get the weaker hand in again to try another finesse. If this cannot be done, lay down the ace in the hope that it will catch the king.

With A J 10 and others, two leads from the weaker hand are always needed, hoping that the K and Q are divided. The first finesse of the 10 will lose, but the second finesse of the J may trap the other honor. The important thing about this finesse is to make sure of getting these two leads from the weaker hand so as to get the opportunity to finesse twice.

As a rule, it is useless to finesse unless something more is to be gained than simply the winning or losing of a trick. In many hands a finesse must be made to fulfill the contract, in others it may make 50 points extra for a little slam.

As an illustration of the importance of finessing, sort out a pack of cards into four suits and distribute them as follows:

Y's hand
H. Q 3
C. A K 3
D. J 10 7 6 4
S. Q 9 6

A's hand: H. A 10 9 7 4; C. J 10 4 2; D. K 5; S. J 10

B's hand: H. J 6 5; C. 9 8; D. Q 8 2; S. K 8 5 4 2

Z's hand
H. K 8 5
C. Q 7 6 5
D. A 9 3
S. A 7 3

Z deals and bids no-trump on five tricks, which is the minimum for a safe bid at contract. A passes, having the lead against the no-trumper and no chance to go game at anything. Y counts his hand as worth four tricks in clubs. Add these to the five shown by a no-trump bid and we get nine, so Y bids three no-trumps, that being enough to win the game.

A leads the heart seven, and Y, dummy, plays the singly guarded queen second hand. B plays his second-best, the six, as he makes no attempt to win the trick, Z drop the five. This makes it easy for A to read his partner for only one higher than the six, which must be jack or eight and probably the missing deuce. This also marks Z as still having a guard to the king.

Dummy leads the diamond jack and B plays small, Z playing the three. A wins with king, and tries to get B in to come through that guarded king of hearts, by leading spade jack. This dummy covers with the "imperfect fourchette" queen and nine. The king and ace fall. Dummy is put in with a club and leads a small diamond, Z playing the nine and catching the queen. Then dummy is put in with another club to make the two diamonds; a good example of the promoting power of aces and kings, showing the justification for counting them at double value.

On these three diamonds leads A will have been forced to discard three hearts, or unguard the clubs or make the spade nine good for a trick. Z, having watched these discards and inferred the lone ace of hearts, leads the heart from dummy. B plays the jack, and Z the eight. Now, having discarded two spades on the diamonds, he must make the club queen and heart king, making a trick over his contract.

Another important method of winning extra tricks is making dummy's trumps separately from the declarer's, and the situation is usually governed by the simple rule: "Do not lead trumps while you hold losing cards in the adversaries' suit." Sort out the cards and try this hand:—

Y's hand—H. 5 4 2; C. 6; D. A K 10 5 2; S. 9 7 5 2.

A's hand—H. 7 3; C. K Q J 7 2; D. 9 6; S. K 10 6 4.

B's hand—H. J 10 9; C. 10 8 4 3; D. J 8 4 3; S. A Q.

Z's hand—H. A K Q 8 6; C. A 9 5; D. Q 7; S. J 8 3.

Z deals and bids one heart. A makes a defensive bid of two clubs, hoping his partner has something better. Y counts his hand for five tricks; four in diamonds and a ruff in clubs, so he raises the bid to three hearts, adding his five to partner's four. Z in turn adds his outside trick to the nine, making ten, and bids four hearts, so as to go game if possible.

A leads the king of clubs; and Z wins with the ace. He returns a club at once, and dummy trumps it. In order to make absolutely sure of retaining the lead, he does not risk a diamond, which might be trumped, however improbable that is, but leads the trump and wins with the queen, so as to let dummy trump another losing club.

Now he must lead the diamond, and win with the queen. Two trump leads catch both B's and another trump lead forces him to give up the club, unguard the diamonds or blank his ace of spades. B sheds the club and wins the fourth diamond, but in the meantime Z has discarded two losing spades, and makes five odd, one over his contract.

Another method frequently employed by the declarer is getting rid of losing cards by discarding them from his own hand, if dummy cannot trump them. Lay out these hands:

Y's hand—H. 10 6; C. 10 7 5; D. A Q J 9 4; S. 7 5 3.

A's hand—H. Q J 7 2; C. K Q J 6; D. 7 6 5 3; S. 6.

B's hand—H. A 8 5 3; C. 9 8 2; ; D. 10 8 2; S. A J 4.

Z's hand—H. K 9 4; C. A 4 3; D. K; S. K Q 10 9 8 2.

Z deals and might bid two spades, showing he has trumps enough for both himself and dummy; but if starts with one spade, Y advances the contract to two, having four tricks in diamonds. As Z has six tricks himself, he adds them to the four shown by the assist and bids four spades, so as to go game.

A leads the king of clubs which Z wins with the ace. In order to discard his losing clubs he leads the king of diamonds and overtakes it with dummy's ace. On dummy's queen and jack of diamonds he sheds his two clubs. The nine of diamonds being now the best, he leads that. B refuses to trump, as he must lose both his small trumps if he does. He prefers the heart discard; Z sheds the heart four.

We now have what is practically a finessing position, as dummy leads a heart, and Z hopes the ace is on the right of the king. B puts on the ace second hand, and returns the suit, to force a lead up to his trumps. When Z leads the king of spades B plays what is called the Bath Coup, letting the king win, so as to be sure of two tricks with his ace and jack, but Z makes his contract, four odd and game.

There are other ways in which the declarer may win extra tricks, such as by making re-entries, holding up command of suits, and ducking high cards in his own suits, but these are not common, and are better learned by practice at the card table than by reading a book. They are for advanced players who can figure out positions that the inexpert player would not understand, even if explained.

FINDS THIEF BY SENSE OF SMELL.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Not only does Sando Rodrequez have excellent wine; he has an excellent sense of scents. Sando was dining out one day and a fellow Spaniard sat at his table, engaged him in conversation. Finally the stranger, one Martinez, produced a flask, filled a glass with wine and offered it to his new-found friend. Rodrequez sniffed. He sniffed again. He placed his glass on the table, excused himself, left. He called a policeman and asked that Martinez be arrested, insisting that he recognized his own wine. The three went to Rodrequez' home, where they found his sniffing had not been in vain. Martinez had taken not only the wine, but money and jewellery.

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE — CXCVIII—The $100,000 Experiment. — by MAX HAHN

BEFORE THE WRIGHT BROTHERS COMPLETED THEIR AIRPLANE OTHER MEN HAD SQUANDERED FORTUNES IN VAIN ATTEMPTS TO CONQUER THE AIR. ONE OF THE MOST COSTLY EXPERIMENTS WAS MADE BY SIR HIRAM MAXIM, AN AMERICAN INVENTOR LIVING IN ENGLAND.

MAXIM WASTED $100.000 IN CONSTRUCTION OF A MACHINE TWO OR THREE TIMES AS LARGE AS THE OTHER EXPERIMENTERS WERE MAKING. THE PROPELLORS HAD A DIAMETER OF 17 FEET SIX INCHES. THE MACHINE WEIGHED MORE THAN THREE TONS AND WAS STARTED ON A HALF-MILE RAILWAY TRACK.

YOU MIGHT SUPPOSE THAT SUCH A HEAVY MACHINE WOULD NOT FLY, BUT THIS WAS NOT THE CASE. ON ONE OF THE TESTS, BEFORE MAXIM WAS READY TO SEND IT INTO THE SKY, THE PLANE LIFTED THE OVERHEAD RAIL, FLEW A SHORT DISTANCE AND CRASHED.

Women Know Best

"Fruit-a-tives" Make and Keep You Well

MRS. O. MONACH

Thousands and thousands of women have tried "Fruit-a-tives" during the past quarter of a century. Many of these, like Mrs. Opal Monach, took "Fruit-a-tives" as a last resort after having failed to get relief from any other remedy. And their experience has been invariably the same—"Fruit-a-tives" saved them from constipation, biliousness, headaches, indigestion, backache and kindred troubles when they had almost given up hope of ever being well again.

Writing from Frenchville, Sask., Mrs. Monach says: "I have taken many kinds of medicine, but none prove so good as 'Fruit-a-tives' for me. It is the only medicine I take—I use it regularly and do not feel right if I do not."

Let "Fruit-a-tives" be your medicine and help you to get well and keep well. Buy a box today. 25c and 50c —everywhere.

FREAK RADIO.

HONOLULU, June 4.—A radio antennae which spans a taro patch loops through a papaia tree and crosses the roof of a grass hut, was a discovery made near Honolul by tourists recently. According to the visitors who had kodak snapshots to certify their story, the aged Hawaiian occupant of the hut, Mrs. Lukia Maekena, hears radio programs from the Pacific coast any time she wants to tune in. The set is installed in a tiny wooden shack.

THEY'RE POOR SPELLERS.

OMAHA, Neb., June 3.—Many a business man who upbraids his stenographer for poor spelling can do no better himself, according to the scores in a spelling bee held by the Omaha Chamber of Commerce. "Breasy," "accomadate," "pidgeon," "vituals," and "extreem" were only a few of the glaring errors brought to light in the test.

WEDDING BELLS.

RUTH—REID

EAST EMILY, June 4. — A very pretty house wedding took place on Wednesday, June 1st, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid of Islington, when their eldest daughter, Pearl Elizabeth, became the bride of Oswald Albert Ruth, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ruth of East Emily.

The ceremony was performed at four o'clock by the Rev. Mr. Wells of Islington United Church, in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends of the bride and groom.

The house was beautifully decorated with a profusion of palms, lilacs and apple blossoms.

The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the room to the strains of the Bridal Chorus, played by Miss Ilean Shearer, was in a handsome gown of white satin-faced crepe, wearing a bridal veil caught with orange blossoms, and wore white shoes and stockings to match.

She carried a bouquet of ophelia roses, carnations, and sweet peas. The bridesmaid, Miss Florence Reid, sister of the bride, wore a gown of cream crepe de chene and carried a bouquet of carnations, gladiolus and sweet peas.

The little Misses Reid and Alfred acted as flower girls and were very prettily dressed in peach satin, carrying dainty baskets of sweet peas.

Mr. Clayton Ruth of Peterborough, cousin of the groom, acted as best man.

During the signing of the register Miss Somerville sang very sweetly, "O, Promise Me."

The groom's gift to the bride was a green gold bar pin, a rope of pearls to the bridesmaid, while gold cuff links to the groomsman, dainty sterling silver bracelets to the flower girls.

The soloist received a handsome hand-painted scarf, and the pianist, a bar pin.

After the ceremony the guests retired to the dining-room where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. The tables were prettily decorated with apple blossoms.

The bride and groom were the recipients of many beautiful and costly gifts, testifying to the high esteem in which they are held by their many friends.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Ruth left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for a motor trip. The bride travelled in a smart costume of blue and sand. On their return they will reside in East Emily.

WOOD—DONALDSON

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, June 1st, in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough, when Verna Jean, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Donaldson, was united in marriage to William Stanley, only son of Mr. Edgar Wood and the late Mrs. Wood of Otonabee.

The bride, who was unattended, entered the church on the arm of her father. She wore a becoming gown of bois de rose georgette, and carried a corsage bouquet of ophelia roses; her only ornament was a string of pearls, the groom's gift.

The bridal music was played throughout the ceremony by M. B. Chenhall, organist of the church.

A sister of the bride, Miss Louise Donaldson, and Mr. Harry Garnet witnessed the signing of the register.

After the ceremony the bride and groom left by motor for Windsor and Detroit, returning by way of Niagara Falls. On their return they will reside in Otonabee.

CARD OF THANKS.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

The Peterborough Branch, No. 52, of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, wishes to thank and pay tribute to the splendid effort of your paper during the past convention.

The convention from the point of view of the Canadian Legion was an outstanding success.

From the point of view of those citizens who contributed towards the provision of quarters for ex-service men and women, it must have meant assurance that their contributions have been appreciated.

The presence of one delegate totally blinded while on service for the Empire, full of optismism and enthusisam of the future of his Canada, must in itself be more than a suitable reward for those who assisted in providing suitable quarters for Canadian ex-service men and women. Many others of the delegates who, physically do not discount the future, are striving to carry on—to do their part, and to become useful citizens.

The local branch of the Canadian Legion wishes to thank the citizens of Peterborough. Comments from the visiting delegates gave sufficient evidence that the citizens generally appreciated their stay in the city.

The efforts of one of the members of the local branch, Comrade Fletcher, in bringing a representative of Pathe to film the ceremony, will, in the opinion of the writer, result in the most valuable publicity that this city has enjoyed for some time.

The Canadian Legion should commend itself to all Canadians and particularly to all returned men.

WOMEN SMOKE MORE.

LONDON, June 3.—A few years ago women organized anti-tobacco leagues, fought the use of the weed. Now, according to English physicians, the weaker sex is more intemperate than men in the use of cigarettes. Some women, they say, boast of smoking 50 cigarettes a day. Most of them use long holders in which nicotine accumulates and is swallowed in small quantities.

ROBINSON RESIGNS SEAT IN COUNCIL

Nominations on Monday to Fill Two Vacancies in Lakefield Council.

LAKEFIELD, June 4. — A special meeting of the Village Council was held in the Clerk's office, on Thursday evening, May 26th, at 7.50 p.m.

There were present: Reeve Charles S. Tanner, and Councillors Robinson, Tedford and Harrison.

The Reeve presented a letter from Councillor Robinson, stating that, owing to lack of time, he felt it necessary to resign his office as Councillor.

Moved by Councillors Tedford and Harrison: "That the resignation of Mr. J. R. Robinson as Councillor, owing to pressure of business, be accepted with regret." Carried.

Moved by Councillors Harrison and Tedford: "That this Council now assembled does avail itself of the first opportunity of placing on record our deep regret at the sudden passing of one of our members from our midst in the person of the late John E. Richardson. And as we look upon his vacant chair tonight, there comes over us a shadow of gloom at the passing of one whom we had learned to love and respect for his many personal qualities of head and heart; not only as a Councillor but as a citizen, one who had been a lifelong resident of the village; and had always taken a keen interest in everything pertaining to its welfare:

Aand be it resolved: That, we tender to the family our heartfelt and prayerful sympathy in the loss they have been called upon to bear in the death of a kind and loving father; and resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the family and the press for publication and also inserted in the minutes of the Council."

Nominations will be held in the Memorial Hall on Monday evening, June 6th, to elect councillors to fill the places of John E. Richardson, deceased; and J. Roy Robinson, resigned.

Chiropractic
IS IT MECHANICAL

QUESTION—Will you please explain why your patients say Chiropractic is a MECHANICAL way to get sick people well?

ANSWER—Chiropractic is a mode of adjusting disarranged parts of man's spinal structure, so that Nature can operate without interference in providing FUNCTIONAL ENERGY to man's working parts.

A large percentage of diseases are due to pressure on nerves as they leave the spinal column. This pressure interferes with function in the tissues supplied by the impinged nerves, hence inflammation, pain and distress are manifest in these weakened tissues. Disease is prolonged until this pressure is corrected.

The Chiropractor acts as a body mechanic when by skilful movements of his hands he adjusts the cause of this nerve pressure. He first locates the vertebra which has become slightly displaced, determines the exact degree and direction of displacement, then proceeds to correct this abnormality by a scientific adjustment. In doing this he applies simple MECHANICAL principles to man's MECHANICAL structures.

IF YOU ARE NOT IN GOOD HEALTH HAVE YOUR SPINE EXAMINED.

BISHOP OPENS CELEBRATION OF CENTENARY

Preaches Fitting Sermon at St. John's at First Special Service.

COMMUNION CELEBRANT.

Gifts and Memorials Recently Placed in Church Are Dedicated.

Encouragement to go forward, trusting in God, who led their forbears to build and keep up the church from 1827 to the present, was given the congregation of St. John's Church yesterday morning by the Rt. Rev. J. F. Sweeney, Lord Bishop of Toronto, at the opening of the series of special services which are to mark the centenary of the church.

The service was attended by many members, past and present, and friends of the church, and was marked by the dedication of numerous gifts and memorials presented by members of the congregation and of improvements accomplished by the different societies and the congregation as a whole. The Vicar and Wardens conducted the Bishop to the various tablets. The dedicatory service was followed by Holy Communion, with the Bishop as celebrant, assisted by the vicar, Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., and Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, of the Grove School, Lakefield.

"Remember, and forget not," from the seventh verse of the ninth chapter of the Book of Deuteronomy, was the text chosen by His Lordship. He referred to the fact that the day after the celebration of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee, with all its splendour and majesty, the London Times printed, in the most prominent part of its front page, Kipling's great poem, "Recessional," with its prayer, "Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet, lest we forget, lest we forget." This was a challenge to the sober thoughts of the great Empire, pointing to the Lord of Hosts as having led the nation to such power and honour.

"So this morning," said the Bishop, "it is my purpose to point you to the great God who has been leading you to this hundredth anniversary. "He advised his hearers to read the words of Moses, when he recounted to the children of Israel all the things that God had done for them, charging them to remember the Lord and not to say, 'My power, and the might of my hand, hath gotten me this wealth.' Just as God led the children of Israel and was the source of all their blessings, He led and provided for the people of St. John's Church."

The reverend speaker congratulated the congregation on the history which has been prepared, and mentioned some of the important dates to be found therein: 1827, when the Rev. Samuel Armour began to conduct regular services; 1834, when the cornerstone of the church was laid; 1882, when the restoration was effected; 1905, the incorporation of the city; 1909, when the present rectory was dedicated, one of the first official acts of the speaker as Bishop of the Diocese; the inauguration of the chimes and the bell that sounds over hill and dell the call to worship, in 1911; and the Forward Movement, after the war, when St. John's led all the Diocese except some of the Toronto churches.

"It is God's hand that has guided you," continued the speaker, who said that it had often been his privilege, first as Archdeacon and later as Bishop, to visit the church, and spoke with appreciation of the work of Canon Beck, the Rector-Emeritus, Archdeacon Davidson, and Rev. Dr. Blagrave, the vicar.

His Lordship referred to the action of Samuel in erecting a pillar which he called Ebenezer: "Hitherto hath the Lord led us,' and told his hearers that they were erecting a stone of remembrance by the special services of the centenary, giving all the praise and glory to God, Who led them.

The speaker also referred to Paul, who told King Agrippa, "Having therefore obtained help of God, I continue unto this day, witnessing."

"That is what your predecessors have been doing and what you have been doing in the past hundred years," he reminded them. "Every time you enter the House of God to worship, or serve Him at your homes or outside, men are taking note that you are witnessing to God, to Christ, and to the Holy Ghost.

"The old people had a sense of responsibility for their own age in respect to the House of God," His Lordship continued. "They worked, gave, worshipped, did all in their power to establish and make firm this church. I plead that you will be seized with the same feeling of responsibility for His Kingdom in this age and day. Let it not be, when the Great Judge says, 'I gave you time— yes, many years; I gave you talents—yes, many talents; I gave you money—yes, much money; I gave you life—yes, died for you; what did you do for me in giving, doing, working, living for My Kingdom?' that you stand dumb before Him."

The Bishop impressed upon his hearers that they must continue to go forward, and not sit back, satisfied with what had been accomplished during the past hundred years. Out of great things must come greater. "This church must ever be a beacon set on a hill, and the ivy-clad walls and tower, planted by vanished hands amid the sound of voices that are still, must continue to be a thing of beauty and joy as long as this city lasts," the speaker asserted, concluding with the prayer, "May the Great God and Father of all guide and bless St. John's Church and congregation to greater use and service in the days that are to come."

Medallist Succumbs While On Parade

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., June 6 (Canadian Press).—Fatigued by the march from the Armouries to the Veterans' Club-house in the decoration day parade, Thomas Irvine, drum-major of the Lincoln Regiment, lay down on the lawn near the war shrine during the ceremonial at that point yesterday afternoon and passed away before the time came for the parade to move on to the war cross at the City Hall, St. Paul Street Memorial and Victoria Lawn Cemetery. He had been a carpenter and builder and was drum major of the regiment for over 20 consecutive years. Just before the parade moved off from the Armouries he was presented with a long service medal by Lieut.-Col. A. L. Bishop, O.C. Lincoln Regiment. He is survived by a widow, two daughters and one son. His tragic end added further solemnity to the proceedings of the day, which lasted from 12.30 to 5 p.m. Traffic on the Welland Canal was halted from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. because of the additional traffic over the Queenston Street Bridge between the city and the cemetery. All the local military units participated in the ceremony. Col. F. C. McCordick was in command and the speakers were Brig.-Gen. Gunn, Captain Jolly, Rev. Father Hemel, Canon Riley and Rev. J. A. Pue Gilchrist. Wearers of the silver cross attended.

FENIAN RAID ANNIVERSARY ON SATURDAY

Sixty-one Years Ago Now Peterborough Volunteers Were in Arms.

RAID BEGAN JUNE 4.

Battalion From This County Served at Toronto and Kingston.

The first Monday of June, in the year 1866, was considerably more exciting than has been to-day so far as local events were concerned. On June 4, news came of the invasion of Canada by the Fenian Raiders, and in Peterboro and district bells rang to summon men for the defence of hearth and home against the invaders who had long been causing uneasiness around the boundary line.

As early as March 7, 1866, the local commander, Brigade-Major Patterson, had received orders to have the Peterborough troops available at a day's notice. Some abortive attempts by the Fenians caused the calling out of men on several occasions, and a number of men departed to defend the border at the end of March. But on June 4 came the tidings of the crossing of the main body of Fenians intent on pillaging and destruction.

Peterborough Rifle Company, Peterborough Light Infantry, and Ashburnham Light Infantry, accompanied by a Lakefield company, were called to arms and conveyed by train to Port Hope. Together with companies from Millbrook and Port Hope they travelled to Cobourg, and during the night they were entrained in box cars and hurried to Toronto. On the following day they took part in the reception of the dead and wounded forwarded to Toronto from the battlefield of Ridgeway.

On June 6 the Peterborough companies were mustered into a special battalion and forwarded to Cobourg, en route for Prescott, where an attack was feared. The men remained at Cobourg for several days, after which they were sent to Kingston, where they remained until June 18, when they were returned home.

On returning, the volunteers met with an enthusiastic reception. The Town and County Councils provided a sum of money jointly to pay each man $10.00, and to reimburse the villages of Ashburnham and Lakefield and the town of Peterborough sums of money advanced to families of men absent on duty.

Later an 1866 Veterans' Association was formed, which gave considerable impetus to the enthusiasm felt by the citizens in their local military units.

PATENT LIGHTS MAKE PROBLEM OF GLARE HARD

Chief Newhall Says They Often Aggravate Trouble For Police.

SUGGESTS METHOD.

Piece of Sticking Plaster in Bottom of Reflector Stops Glare.

Efforts of the police to eliminate the glaring headlight menace from city and district roadways have been handicapped by government approval of various patents which have served only to aggravate the trouble, instead of rendering it more easy of solution, Chief Newhall informed The Examiner this morning.

Stressing the fact that the police are doing everything possible to ensure the observance of the regulations, Chief Newhall points out that for citizens to obey the law in letter and in spirit there is a fairly easy way out—the placing of a small piece of court plaster at the bottom of the bulb, which prevents the light striking the lower reflector from which it is thrown upward to the confusion of approaching motorists.

"Many people think the trouble is caused by the top reflector," said the Chief, but this is all wrong. The light which dazzles comes from the bottom. The placing of any dark substance there will act as a remedy. We have a piece of court plaster on the police car and it is very effective."

The Highways Traffics Act is very explicit on the subject of front lights. Section 10 of the Act says: "It shall be unlawful to carry on a motor vehicle any lighting device of over 4 candle power equipped with a reflector, unless the same shall be so designed, deflected or arranged that no portion of the parallel beam of reflected light, when measured 75 feet or more ahead of the lamp, shall rise above 42 inches from the level surface on which the vehicle stands."

Any device for the elimination of glare, provided it has the approval of the Ministry, is held to be in conformity to this clause.

It may be remembered that last summer, members of the Kiwanis Club made an arrangement whereby for one week local motorists had their headlights examined, and those lights which did not conform to the requirements of the act were adjusted to permit of the deflection of the light and the elimination of danger. In most cases this operation was performed with very little difficulty.

Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of Highways, points out that the easiest way out would be for motorists to observe the courtesies of the road, and dim their lights when another car approaches. He has also threatened that unless motorists voluntarily adjust the headlights of their cars to remove the menace of the glare the government will take drastic action.

The following suggestion is offered by an optometrist who does not wish his name to be published:

After pointing out that the head-

One-Time Famous Aviator Now Planning One Hundred Passenger Atlantic Plane

BOSTON, Mass., June 6 (Canadian Press). — The Boston Traveller, in a copyright story on Saturday, reveals Harry N. Atwood as the one-time famous aviator whose plans for the institution of a trans-Atlantic air service in a heavier-than-air plane capable of carrying approximately one hundred passengers, were related in a previous copyrighted story in The Traveller a week ago.

The Traveller says that Atwood, who was believed to have been killed in a flight in Japan several years ago, has been living for five years in a hilltop home in Monson, Mass., where he has been perfecting the plans for his giant airplane.

"The central figure back of the proposed trans-Atlantic air service," The Traveller says, "is Harry N. Atwood, who startled the aviation world in 1912 by shattering then existing world's records one after another. Atwood achieved a fame as an aviator that was world-wide. In a flimsy 25-horse-power biplane he winged his way on what, in that day, was an unbelievably long voyage by air, from St. Louis to New York."

The Traveller quotes Atwood as saying:

"Our plane will conform to the exact standards of aviation, except as to the internal structural details which, aeronautic engineers recognize, have advanced a new idea which will permit the building of huge wing structures hitherto considered impossible.

"The new internal design permits a departure from the present use of wood and fabric which is so inflammable, and also permits passengers to be carried inside of the structure, free from inconvenience of the elements or even the noise of the engines. The plane will be so much bigger than anything the public has ever seen that I feel the whole story would be almost incredible to the public. The plane will be multi-motored.

"Our plans have passed the tests of the most eminent of aviation engineers. There will be cards and dining-room and promenade deck and lounges, and everything necessary to safe and comfortable transport across the ocean."

The Traveller adds that it planned to use Boston as one of the ports, that flights will be made via the Azores, that the flight across the ocean will be made in less than 48 hours, and that safety will be the first consideration.

"Only a small group, pledged to secrecy," The Traveller concludes, "knows the whole story. No stock will be for sale. Yet plenty of money is available for any need."

BAY CONFERENCE REAFFIRMS BELIEF IN TOTAL PROHIBITION

United Church Body Would Entirely Eliminate Liquor.

URGES ENFORCEMENT.

Would Have Laws Strictly Administered—To Educate Young People.

OSHAWA, June 6 (Canadian Press).—In calling attention to what it termed the startling revelations of the operations of the liquor traffic in connection with the Customs investigation, the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada, in session here, reaffirmed its conviction that nothing short of its complete elimination from Canada's national life would satisfactorily solve the problem. The recommendation was passed that the conference urge upon the Dominion Government that nothing less than the most vigorous and impartial enforcement of the law against all who have been proven guilty will satisfy an outraged public opinion and purge our country from the foul stain put upon it.

The conference went on record as disapproving of the Government Control legislation but urges upon its membership the necessity of conforming to all restrictions of the law and rendering all possible assistance to its effective operation.

The conference urged that an intensive and systematic process of temperance education be initiated and maintained by the United Church whereby the young people of the land may receive convincing and effective instruction concerning the evils and harmful effects of alcohol.

FIRE IN HOTEL DRIVES OUT 450

Guests Have Narrow Escape From Destruction By Maniac's Act.

SET WITH DYNAMITE.

PROVIDENCE, June 6. — Crown Hotel, housing 453 guests, including visiting members of the National League of Masonic Clubs from New York, Philadelphia, and various other communities of the East, narrowly escaped destruction by dynamite and flames yesterday.

When discovered flames were sweeping toward the billiard room, which had been soaked in kerosene and gasoline, and about which sticks of dynamite had been placed. The fire was extinguished before it reached a dynamite detonating cap, capable, police said, of lifting five hundred pounds. To this was wired other sticks of dynamite.

Bellboys ran through the hotel reassuring the guests, but some joined in the battle against the flames.

Police began a hunt for the maniac who attempted to cynamite the hotel and probably kill the guests.

King Albert; Rotarian Would Be On the Level

OSTEND, Belgium, June 6.—(United Press.)—King Albert of the Belgians, a Rotarian himself, refuses to sit on a raised platform at the Rotary convention which opens here to-day.

"I am a Rotarian myself and I want to sit on the same plane with other Rotarians," he is reported to have said in requesting that the platform from where he will speak to-day be lowered a few feet.

PORT HOPE MAN KILLED BY CAR

Driver Fails To Stop, Speeding North Towards Peterborough.

NO CLUE TO IDENTITY.

PORT HOPE, June 6.—Clarke Wilton, aged 40, was instantly killed on the Peterborough Highway, one mile north of Port Hope, at 9.15 last night.

Wilton was walking north when struck by a passing motor car which did not stop.

There is no clue to the identity of the driver of the car which was seen going through the village of Bewdley at a high rate of speed. Coroner Dr. F. W. Diamond has ordered an inquest at 9 a.m. to-day.

A farmer who lives near the road heard the crash about 9.15 and saw an old Ford touring car going up the Highway with no lights. He got his lantern and went out on the Highway to see what the car had struck and he found Wilton lying on the road dead. The dead man had a long gash on one jaw and the other side of his head was badly crushed.

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall was motorin gtowards Peterborough shortly after the accident occurred. He found glass lying on the road and was able to trace the car as far as Bewdley. He examined severad Ford cars on the way up and when he came near this city he found one parked very close to the ditch with the left lens missing and one tire flat. The car bore license number 40-891, which had been issued in Toronto.

Sergeant Wigg and Constable G. Puffer investigated and found everything apparently all right, as the lens was in the back seat and the owner said he had stopped on account of a blow out.

The police are making every effort to find the culprit and any person knowing of anyone having a broken windshield or lens on Sunday night is asked to inform the police.

American Aviators Break Record Set By C. A. Lindbergh

Chamberlin and Levine Land at Eisleben, Germany, On Way To Berlin, 42 Hours After Starting From Long Island

DESTINATION ANNOUNCED AS "SOMEWHERE ON CONTINENT."

Progressive Bulletins Mark Continued Success Along Course —England, France and Then Germany See Airplane On Its Route.

BERLIN, Germany, June 6 (Canadian Press).—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, who flew from New York to Germany, will be brought from Klinge, where they made a forced landing in their Bellanca monoplane, shortly before noon today. The propeller of the plane was broken in the landing, but neither of the aviators suffered any injury.

The flight had previously been broken at Eisleben, Saxony, about 110 miles southwest of Berlin, at five o'clock this morning when the Columbia, after 42 hours continuous progress from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, was forced to descend by shortage of fuel.

While coming short of its goal; the Columbia, in reaching Eisleben, sets a new record for long distance sustained flight, covering approximately 3,800 miles, as compared with Captain Charles Lindbergh's New York-Paris hop of 3,610 miles.

The aviators will spend the day and night at Kottbus and will be brought to Berlin to-morrow afternoon.

The Columbia was located by one of the Lufthansa scouting planes from Templehofer Field, Berlin, at the moment Chamberlin was making his forced landing in a marshy meadow, about seventy miles south-east of Berlin.

The Columbia was first sighted and identified over German soil when Chamberlin flew over Dortmund, 260 miles from Berlin, swooping close to the ground and asking directions by shouting: "To Berlin? To Berlin?"

That was at four o'clock this morning. Then came conflicting reports. Aeroplanes sent from Berlin's airfield, Templehofer, to welcome and escort the plane returned without finding it. The welcoming committee gave up its vigil and went home, believing Chamberlin had been forced down at some isolated point.

Then came news of the landing at Eisleben. United States' Ambassador Schurman went home, dressed in warm clothing, and prepared to fly to Eisleben. Meanwhile, however, it was learned that the Columbia had again taken to the air. Then followed her sighting over Magdeburg and a forced landing at Klinge with a damaged propeller, putting immediate resumption of flight out of the question.

The longest non-stop aeroplane flight ever made ended in the town where Martin Luther was born and died. Eisleben, in the Province of Saxony, Prussia, where the Columbia alighted after its record breaking flight across the Atlantic, is a town of about 25,000 persons and the centre of a copper and silver mining region. It is 39 miles northwest of Leipsic.

When it became definitely known that the Columbia intended landing at Tempelhofer Field, a crowd began gathering there. Early in the morning, the brass band of the Lufthansa (German Air League) appeared and got ready for action, amid an outburst of enthusiasm from the watchers. Telegrams for Chamberlin and Levine began arriving at the field.

At the direction of the Lufthansa, a keg of Pilsener beer was put on ice to welcome Chamberlin with a glass of foaming brew when he should arrive, in accordance with a wish attributed to him in New York.

It was shortly after noon when officials announced to the waiting crowds at the air field that the Columbia would not arrive as it had suffered a propeller break seventy miles southeast of Berlin and could proceed no farther.

AIRMEN AT KOTTBUS.

KOTTBUS, Germany, June 6.—(Canadian Press.) — Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine arrived here by motor this afternoon from Klinge, where their trans-Atlantic plane Columbia was forced to land. They went immediately to a hotel, where they ordered a good meal. The airmen were in a happy frame of mind and gave no indication of weariness.

WENT 3,905 MILES.

WASHINGTON, June 6. — (Canadian Press.)— Chamberlin and Levine were credited with a flight of 3,905 miles to-day by the Geological Survey, which measured the distance from Roosevelt Field to Eisleben.

THIRD FLIGHT OVER ATLANTIC WITHOUT STOP

Alcock and Brown in 1919, and Lindbergh Last Month, Made Others.

FLIERS DISAPPOINTED.

Inability To Complete Journey To Berlin Saddens Them.

NEW YORK, June 6 (Canadian Press).—The daring voyage of the Columbia marked the third time the Atlantic has been spanned in non-stop flights by heavier than air machines. Alcock and Brown, Englishmen, flying from Newfoundland to Ireland, in 1919, were the original trans-oceanic trail blazers. Lindbergh's great flight came next.

Chamberlin used about 9½ gallons of his 451 gallons of gasoline in hour, said Guiseppe M. Bellanca, designer of the plane. This consumption would permit forty-eight hours of flying, or fuel for a flight some distance beyond Berlin.

Mrs. Wilda Chamberlin, wife of Clarence Chamberlin, Columbia pilot, does not expect her husband to give up dangerous air feats after his record flight from New York to Germany. When the suggestion was made she laughed.

"Not Clarence. I know Clarence. When this is done he will do something else that has risk in it," she said.

Five thousand dollars will be given Mrs. Chamberlin by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce in recognition of her husband's trans-oceanic flight. Ralph Jonas, president of the organization, said to-day.

"A gift of some sort" will be presented Mrs. Levine, Jonas said. Both women are expected to carry their gifts to their husbands when they sail to meet them in Europe.

Propeller Broken.

(By Frederick Kuh—United Press Staff Correspondent — Copyright, 1927, by United Press).

BERLIN, June 6. — A broken propeller brought the Bellanca monoplane down near Forst, Prussia, Charles A. Levine, backer and passenger on the Bellanca's record-breaking trans-Atlantic flight, told the United Press to-day. While five airplanes with correspondents were speeding to Cottsbus to meet Levine and Pilot Clarence D. Chamberlin, the United Press obtained an exclusive interview with the fliers by telephone.

Chamberlin was changing his clothes when the United Press called the airmen at the Ansorge Hotel, Cottsbus. He sent word to the 'phone that he was sorry he could not come

COMMISSION COUNSEL CALLS FOR PENALTIES ON EXPORTERS FOR NOT MAKING TAX RETURNS

Counsel's Recommendation Which Will Be Submitted To Customs Commission Tuesday.

MAY GIVE ARGUMENT.

To End Present Methods Under Which Houses Are Operating.

MONTREAL, June 6 (Canadian Press).—Findings and recommendations which will be submitted to the Customs Commission her on Tuesday, by counsel for the Commission, call for the imposition of penalties on proprietors of liquor export houses located along the border for failure to make income tax returns; for collection of income taxes on profits made by them, and for legislation, if needed to end the present methods under which these export houses are operating, when the recommendations are submitted to the Commission on Tuesday. Counsel for the export houses will be given an opportunity to submit either argument or evidence or both in opposition to the finding and recommendations.

The findings, based on the report of the Commission's auditors, show that the export business in liquor from Ontario has grown at a rapid rate in recent years, and that there are at least fifty houses between Sarnia and Port Stanley. It is shown that $18,464,000 worth of liquor was exported to the United States from Canada in 1926 and 61 per cent of the exports to the United States passed through the Port of Windsor, Ontario.

Recommendations

The findings and recommendations prepared by counsel for the Commission follow:

"1.—The rapid growth in the liquor export trade (including beer and wines) from Canada to the United States, particularly at Windsor and its outports, is shown by the statements submitted by the auditors for the Commission:

	Fiscal 1924	Years: 1925.	1926.	1st ½ 1927.
Total liquor exports from Canada	$15,716,000	$16,500,000	$21,696,000	$12,611,000
Exported to the United States	9,391,000	11,874,000	18,464,000	11,466,000
Percentage exported to United States	59.7	72.9	85.1	91.0
Exported through the Port of Windsor	4,581,525	6,572,360	11,256,967	7,275,760
Percentage of U. S. shipments exported at Windsor	48.8	55.4	61.0	63.6

This increased trade is also shown by the increasing number of export houses all along the frontier, of which there are now at least fifty between Sarnia, on the north, and Port Stanley, on the east, as follows:

Sandwich, 13; Ford City, 6; Riverside, 10; Belle River, 4; Sarnia, 3; Port Edward, 1; Courtright, 3; Port Lambton, 4; Sombra, 1; Amherstburg, 2; Kingsville, 1; Port Stanley, 2.

"2.—All classes of liquor are shipped under the protection of customs entries as liquor for export, and by so shipping, immunity is secured from seizure by Provincial government officials. These export houses provide a base of supply for Western Ontario as far east as Toronto and for the United States.

Sold in Ontario

"3.—Large quantities of liquor are sold by these export houses for use and consumption in Ontario, in contravention of the laws of the province and, in many cases, without the payment of the excise and sales taxes payable thereon. This fact is established not only by direct evidence of sale and delivery for consumption in Ontario, but by evidence that the sales of these export houses are very much in excess of the amount returned by the same houses as having been exported from Canada.

"4.—The owners and operators of these export houses are carrying on business within Canada within the meaning of the Income Tax Act and are making very large profits in so doing, but with very few exceptions they have so far neither made returns to the Department nor paid the income tax.

"5.—The cash proceeds of the sales of the principal export houses, as actually deposited by them in Windsor banks for approximately nine months ending March, 1917, exceeds the sum of $20,000,000, the profits on which, from the evidence, must be very large, though by reason of the failure of these exporters, with but two exceptions, to keep proper records, it is not possible to determine the true profits or the parties entitled to share in them other than those who appear to be carrying on the business.

"6.—These export houses are not licensed either by the Dominion of Canada or by the Province of Ontario. No government supervision, either Federal or Provincial, is exercised over them, and they serve no purpose other than as a base of supplies for the sale of liquor in violation of the laws of Ontario and the United States.

"6½.—The Governments of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and Alberta secured the abolition of similar export houses under the 1922 amendment to the Canada Temperance Act but the Government of Ontario did not take advantage of that amendment.

HOUSE BOAT NO BAIL

NEW YORK, June 4.—A house oat isn't any legal security at all. A couple recently brought into the court of Judge Boote of Yonkers offered their house boat, docked on the Hudson river as bail. The judge refused the security as "the boat may be there now, but when I want it it may have floated to New Jersey." The couple went to jail.

WAS DELIGHTED WITH RECEPTION

Declares New American Ambassador to Dominion of Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 5. — By Canadian Press. — "I am perfectly delighted with the reception accorded to me in your capital," declared Hon. William Phillips, United States minister to Canada, as he embarked on the five o'clock train yesterday afternoon for New York city.

"This is not good-bye," the American envoy pleasantly added, "as I shall be back in Ottawa on June 30."

Several Canadian officials were at the station to shake hands with Mr. Phillips, and one of the last to speak with him was John G. Foster, United States Consular-General.

Mr. Phillips arrived at the station direct from Government House where he had been a guest of their excellencies the Governor-General and Viscountess Willingdon during his four day's stay.

While in Ottawa, Mr. Phillips has been officially recognized by Canada through the Governor-General as the United States Minister to the Dominion, following the American Envoy's presentation of his letters of credence. Mr. Phillips has been the luncheon guest of Premier W. L. Mackenzie King at Laurier House, and has met the majority of members of the Federal Cabinet, and many leading Canadian citizens.

The new United States Legation will establish offices here in the Metropolitan building, in close proximity to the Parliament buildings.

The matter of the selection of a residence will be held in abeyance, pending the return of the American envoy and his wife at the end of the month.

CIRCUS BABY RULES SPARKS BIG SHOW

They All Take Notice When Little Clifton, Doubles His Fist and Has His Say.

Babies are babies the world over, but there is no baby in the world like the baby on Sparks Circus—that it what everyone with this world famous show will tell you, including his mother. His father, Mr. Clifton Sparks, also admits it.

Clifton, Jr., is the baby's name, and he is the fourth generation of the Sparks family who has an ownership in this circus—or at least he will have one of these days. At present his ownership consists of any animal with the circus docile enough to allow him to handle it. He has absolutely no fear of any of the animals and would stick his chubby hands in the mouth of one of the lions if allowed to do so. He begins to fondle tiger "kittens" and lion cubs as soon as they are old enough to be taken from their mother. He early manifested a desire to frolic with the baby elephants, but these beasts are "some babies" and weigh considerably more than a horse, so care had to be taken when he began to get upon intimate terms with them, for however good their intentions might be, it is no 'light" matter to have one of them tread upon your favorite corn.

Naturally this baby is the pet of the whole show, and has his way with everybody with it, from Manager Charley Sparks down. And if he may not have baby elephants for his playmates, he has the next best thing, and while other youngsters must content themselves with pulling the tail of the tabby cat or lugging puppies in their arms, Clifton Junior plays with the cubs of tigers, lions and bears.

Sparks' Circus, now one of the world's largest, exhibits in Peterborough next Saturday afternoon and night.

PLANE SUITABLE FOR ORIENT HOP

Naval Expert Says Pontoons Would Be Greatly Needed.

TRY HONOLULU JUMP.

SAN DIEGO, June 6. — "So far as safety of life is concerned the trans-Pacific airplane should be equipped with pontoons."

So said Commander A. E. Montgomery, noted United States naval flier to-day ,discussing the handicaps of a flight to the Orient by way of the Hawaiian Islands. He had previously declared that barring motor failure or bad weather, any San Francisco-Honolulu attempt is almost certain to succeed. He continued:

"The pontoons, however ,add materially to the weight of the plane, decrease fuel capacity, and require consumption of more gas to overcome greater air friction and gravity pull.

"But with pontoons, a plane forced down at sea would not be entirely helpless. Repairs might be made and the flight resumed or it could taxi to the nearest steamer lane for help. Not so with the land plane attempting an ocean hop."

Trouble in Starting.

Next to air navigation, the hazard most to be feared is getting safely off the ground, Montgomery said. If a land plane is used, such as Lieut. Leslie Arnold, around-the-world flier has declared he is preparing for a try at the Honolulu jump, a long runway is a necessity. For in case the plane should fail to rise, it might smash up before it could be stopped.

Commander Montgomery deprecated the tendency to cut loose the landing gear ,to gain speed as soon as the plane is in the air. A smash-up is certain when the plane finally comes to earth, the Commander said.

Byrd Plane Best.

A tri-motored plane, similar to that in which Lieut.-Commander Byrd is preparing to take off from New York for Berlin, would be the best bet for any trans-Pacific flight, Montgomery believes.

Possession of the cars was taken after it had crossed the Canadian border after passing through New Brunswick.

BERLIN'S WELCOME WILL "OUTDO PARIS"

German Fleet To Meet Plane in the North Sea.

BERLIN, June 6. — Germany is aroused to a high pitch of excitement over the possibility of Clarence Chamberlin piloting his Bellanca plane to Berlin, and every one from President Hindenburg downward is displaying the keenest interest.

Immediately upon arising yesterday morning President Hindenburg made inquiries as to whether Chamberlin had actually started. As soon as the President learned of Chamberlin's departure he gave instructions that all departments of the Government do everything possible to co-operate and aid the American flier.

Although Germany has no military air force to aid in receiving Chamberlin it is preparing to give him all of the facilities of the best equipped passenger air service in Europe — Lufthansa.

Field Prepared.

Already orders have been issued that Templehofer Feld, which was one of the famous parade grounds of the ex-Kaiser, shall be cleared to receive Chamberlin. Huge searchlights have been wheeled into position to facilitate a night landing.

The Ministry of Marine has issued orders to the entire German fleet, including a squadron now off Portugal, to render all assistance to Chamberlin and to report the progress of the flight. As soon as definite news of the progress of the flight is received the Ministry of Marine plans to despatch a chain of destroyers and torpedo boats into the North Sea to form a guiding line for Chamberlin. The Weather Bureau here reports that conditions are favourable for the flight, with the exception of fog off Newfoundland. Weather experts here state that if Chamberlin makes the open sea he will have a following wind.

During the morning hours Germany was swept with contradictory reports. For several hours the official German news agency insisted that Chamberlin had started on Saturday, and when the announcement was flashed on electric bulletin boards that he had postponed the flight great groans went up.

DEPARTURE POSTPONED.

NEW YORK, June 4.— (Canadian Press.)—The departure of the Jeanne d'Arc, the Fokker monoplane to be used in the search over Newfoundland for the missing French fliers, Nungesser and Coli, was postponed until to-day, when preparations were not finally completed until late yesterday.

JOLLY JINGLES By Graham Hunter

CANADIAN LEGION AT CAMPBELLFORD

Enthusiastic Gathering of Returned Men Forms New Branch.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 6.—In the days of the long ago, a great leader said, "Come with us, and we will do you good '" and not a mother's son moved out of his place. A little later, the same great leader said to the same people, "Come and be eyes to us in the wilderness!" and they fell over each other in their anxiety to sign up.

When the ex-service men met in the Regent theatre yesterday afternoon and it was announced that the purpose of the meeting was to form a branch of the Canadian Legion of the British Service League, and someone further announced that if organized they could get good jobs, there was a discord that well night wrecked the Legion before it was started. Then Major Bygott mentioned the names of a few widows who should be drawing pensions, and stated that if the men present organized they could demand pensions for these widows. Well, for the information of those who do not really know the ex-service man, it may be said that every last man of the twenty-eight present crowded the pro-tem secretary-treasurer and signed up the application for membership in the British Empire Service League, and, although the pro-tem treasurer is a Scotchman, handed over their two dollar fee without asking for a receipt.

The secretary was instructed to get in touch with the provincial command and request that an organizer be sent on Sunday afternoon, June 19.

On motion of Major Adam Linton, seconded by Mr. Sergeant, Major Bygot is temporary head and J. D. McEachern pro-tem secretary-treasurer of the new organization.

The secretary will mail an application form to any ex-service man living in the district upon request, addressed to the secretary, British Empire Service League, Campbellford.

BENEFIT CONCERT AT CAMPBELLFORD

Regent Theatre Packed on Sunday Night—$80 Received in Collection.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 6. — As anticipated, the Regent Theatre was packed to the doors last night for the benefit concert put on by the Northumberland Regiment Band, assisted by some of Campbellford's best local talent.

In the Roman Army of old the soldier carried a large oblong shield on his left arm. When a city was besieged the men in close ranks locked their shields together over their heads and then marched in safety to the gate. So it is with the Northumberland Regiment Band. A member of the band meets with a painful accident, but their locked shields ward off hardship; he and his are cared for. Campbellford citizens appreciate the spirit that has united the band ,so that an appeal made by that organization always receives a ready response.

At the church service the band concert in the Opera House was announced, and the congregation asked to attend. It might have been thought an unusual church announcement, but when the vast audience at the Opera House stood and sang the Ninetieth Psalm:

"O God our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come;
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home," and later Lyte's beautiful hymn:

"Abide with me, fast falls the eventide,"

it was concluded that the reverend gentleman who made the announcement must have had an introduction to the bandmaster who was in charge of the programme and knew his man.

Major Bygott.

Major Bygott, the chairman, in a brief address, eulogized both the band and the band member for whose benefit the concert was being given. He referred in glowing terms to the afflicted one, making special mention of his overseas service.

The programme was pronounced one of the best that has been heard in Campbellford. Mrs. (Dr.) Free sang as her first number, "The Lord Is My Shepherd" (Liddle), but it was in "The Glory of the Sea" (Sanderson) that she won the hearts of her audience. Mr. Cecil Searles, with his violin, took the house by storm and was forced to answer encores to each of his numbers. Among his selections were "Simple Aveu," "Faust," and "The Rosary." Mr. George Lucy sang very nicely, "A Building Meant for God," and as a second number, "God's Garden." Godden brothers, both members of the band, were forced to respond to an encore when they delighted the audience with a spirited number on their guitars.

The band numbers were as follows:

March—"Tenth Regiment."

Selection—"Faust."

Intermezzo—"Les Clockes de St. Malo."

Serenade—"April Buds."

Concluding the programme, the chairman thanked the audience for the generous amount of $80.00 which they had given by way of silver collection, and assured the bandmaster, Wm. Pearson, A.L.C.M., that the concert was "second to none that his band has attempted."

The singing of the National Anthem concluded, the audience left the theatre, no doubt sharing with the band a feeling that the evening had been fraught with deeds of faith and love like those passed between David and Jonathan or Damon and Pythias, knitting their souls together in true friendship, realizing the sublime stanza of Schiller:

"Have love—not love for one,
But man as man thy brother call,
And scatter like the circling sun
Thy charities on all."

TIMBERLINE

Stout of heart
Is the scraggy pine,
Clinging to clefts
In the mountain side;
Up where the storms
And the fierce winds ride,
Blasting and dwarfing
Where naught may hide.

Fortitude
At the timberline;
Hardship with hope,
And much to endure;
Rugged if rough,
But the vision's sure,
Of the tryst with God
When the heart is pure.

DOCTORS ADVICE TO THE SICK

Wash Away All Poisons in Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowels Before Breakfast

To feel your best day in and day out, no more headaches, indigestion, gas on stomach, bilious attacks, rheumatism, kidney pains, bad breath, you must bathe your self inside. Start today by taking one Tanol Calomel tablet before meals or two at bedtime, then next morning drink a glass or two of hot water to wash from the stomach, liver, kidney and bowels all the previous day's waste, poison and toxins before more food is taken in. Get a few Tanol tablets from F. C. Weber, Charlotte street, Peterborough. They are harmless to take, do not nauseate, no bad after effects, no salts or seidlits next morning, like ordinary calomel. Then you can eat better, sleep better, work better, think better and look better.

The United States ice patrol cruiser Tampa has gone to the aid of the grounded vessel.

AMERICAN MADE LONGER FLIGHT; SPEED IS LOWER

Aviator Used as Little Fuel as Possible, Striving For Distance.

WINDS CHANGEABLE.

Held Him Back On This Side—Helped Him on Other Side.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Chamberlin's speed was somewhat less than Lindbergh's, however, for a number of reasons. He was using as little fuel as possible, he took a slightly longer route to the south to avoid a storm near Ireland, and he made slower speed on the way to Newfoundland due to adverse winds. Lindbergh averaged about 107 miles an hour, but Chamberlin's speed was not quite 100 miles an hour.

37 Hours, 20 Minutes

When Chamberlin was reported over Boulogne, he had been in the air for 37 hours and 20 minutes. When he left, he estimated that his 455 gallons of gasoline would keep him aloft for 45 hours, so that if he had not been forced to use more gasoline than expected, due to headwinds or climbing to avoid sleet or storms, he would have been able to go some distance beyond Berlin, if he chose. And Chamberlin said when he left he would fly his plane until the last drop of gasoline, and come down "with a dead stick."

Chamberlin was about two hours and a half behind Lindbergh's time when he reached Plymouth. It is not possible to make an exact comparison of their times, because they did not follow the same course and were not reported from the same places. But Lindbergh had flown 31 hours and 22 minutes when he reached Cherbourg, on the French coast, and Chamberlin had flown 34 hours and 5 minutes when he passed Plymouth, not quote so far as Cherbourg.

Adverse Wind

Chamberlin fell behind somewhat on the trip to Newfoundland because of adverse winds, but apparently picked up speed when he got out to sea with a strong following wind on his tail. With his customary canniness however he throttled down his motor still further to save gasoline and let the wind help him, so that he made up speed with the aid of the wind.

When the Mauretania sighted him he was considerably south of Lindbergh's course, and an interesting explanation of this was given last night by James H. Kimball of the local weather bureau. An area of light rain and fog had developed over England so rapidly that it could not have been foreseen when the plane left New York. Up to that time the course had been clear all the way. Chamberlin, who has been flying for years is noted for his ability to detect adverse weather conditions forming in front of him, and this sensing of bad weather, it is thought, caused him to alter his course.

This explanation of Mr. Kimball's also indicates that probably Chamberlin used very much less gasoline than Lindbergh, and that he may have in his tanks more than enough to carry him beyond Berlin. He is a canny flier when it comes to nursing a motor to do its utmost and he undoubtedly used the wind with all his skill.

May go to Berlin.

Giuseppe M. Bellanca, designer of the plane, who made accurate calculations during the endurance flight as to how long the fuel would last said that he thought that Chamberlin was using about nine and one-half gallons of gasoline an hour which would give him at least 48 hours in the air and enable him to reach some distance beyond Berlin.

Chamberlin, said Bellanca, would

Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R. Garis

To-day's Bedtime Story.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE MAY WORM

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! Wait a moment if you please!" called a voice to the rabbit gentleman one afternoon as he was hopping through the forest not far from his hollow stump bungalow.

"Now I wonder if that is the Skillery Scallery Alligator out of jail already?" asked Mr. Longears of himself, thinking of how he had splattered egg batter on the bad chap the day before with Nurse Jane's mended beater.

But looking behind him, Uncle Wiggily saw the Lady Mouse Teacher from the Hollow Stump School tripping along over the green moss. So the rabbit gentleman waited for her to creep up to him. Though he was much surprised when Miss Mouse asked:

"How are Scrimble and Scramble?"

"Why, they are all right, I guess," answered Mr. Longears. "I haven't seen them since they went to school this morning. Did they win a prize or something like that?"

"How are Scrimble and Scramble?"

"No, indeed!" squeaked Miss Mouse. "Those two poor little bunny boys of yours, Scrimble and Scramble, said they didn't feel well. That was soon after school started when lunch was over. So I let them go home. I thought you might be going after Dr. Possum to give them some medicine."

"Oh, no!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "Why, I didn't know Scrimble and Scramble were ill. They aren't home, for I just came from my bungalow."

"Oh, perhaps the poor dears are suffering in the woods, unable to hop home!" squeaked Miss Mouse.

Uncle Wiggily's pink nose twinkled. "I think I can guess what happened," he said. "Scrimble and Scramble got tired of their classes and pretended to be ill so you would let them come home. They must be playing somewhere in the woods."

"Oh, the little rascals!" exclaimed the teacher.

"Rascals is right!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "And if I could find them I would punish them for playing such a trick on you."

"Don't punish them too much!" begged Miss Mouse.

"No, only just enough to make them remember not to do such a thing again," agreed Uncle Wiggily, as the Teacher Mouse scurried on and the rabbit sat on a log wondering where Scrimble and Scramble had gone.

Just then, all of a sudden, a little voice down in the ground called out:

"Help! Help! Oh, I wish somebody would help me!" At the same time Uncle Wiggily saw a little flat stone pushed up a little way as if some one beneath it was trying to lift it off their head. As it was a very tiny stone, about the size of a doll's earring, the rabbit gentleman soon raised it, and from a little hole beneath crawled out a fuzzy creature.

"Hello!" called the tiny fuzzy chap to Mr. Longears.

"Hello! Who are you, a June Bug?" asked the rabbit.

"No, I am a May Worm," was the answer. "My cousin, the June Bug, will be along next month. I have been sleeping in the ground until just now, but when I wanted to get out, to crawl around, I found a stone over my hole house. I'm glad you pushed it off for me. Now isn't there some favor I could do for you?"

"Well, the only favor I need just now is to find my two little rabbit boys, Scrimble and Scramble, who have played truant from school," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "They are somewhere in these woods, and——"

"Say no more!" whispered the May Worm. "I can crawl around very fast and so silently no one can hear me coming. I'll find Scrimble and Scramble for you. Wait here!"

The May Worm crawled away, and pretty soon he came quietly up behind the two naughty little bunnies who were playing jack straws under a bush. Wiggling his way toward them, the May Worm, all of a sudden, tickled Scrimble on his left hind leg and Scramble on his right.

"Oh, what was that?" cried the little rabbits, much alarmed.

"Now you run right to your daddy, who is sadly waiting for you!" shouted the May Worm, and Scrimble and Scramble were so surprised that they dropped their jack straws and ran through the woods until they reached the place where Mr. Longears was sitting waiting on the log.

"Oh, I am ashamed of you!" sorrowfully said the rabbit. And Scrimble and Scramble were ashamed of themselves. They were punished by not having any lollypop pie for supper that night and promised never to play any more tricks on the Lady Mouse. So they were forgiven.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

For Tuesday, June 7, 1927.

(Copyright, 1927, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Menacing stars dominate to-day, according to astrology; it is a day in which to avoid hasty decisions and impulsive action.

Women are subject to thwarting and disappointing experiences, under this sway, and they should avoid all important business.

This is read as an unlucky rule for lovers, making for great egotism on the part of suitors and disappointment for those to whom they appear as heroes.

There is little to be expected this evening from public entertainments of any sort and theatres may be especially unfortunate.

Educators and new graduates of schools or universities are well directed under this planetary government, which makes for splendid openings for them.

For all who seek employment or promotion this day is likely to be a total loss. It is well not to put fate to the test until more friendly stars rule.

All the signs appear to presage for women enlarged opportunities in business and the professions.

Wage-earning is to become even more general for girls than it has been in the past, if the stars are rightly read. There is to be a marked increase in the birthrate, it is foretold, and boys will outnumber girls.

New writers are to gain fame and America is to build up a literature of real importance, the seers prophesy.

Again the stars presage decided changes in the fashions, which are to become more elaborate and there is to be a decided increase in the cost of clothing.

Food prices are to rise, it is persistently prognosticated, and farmers will benefit.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be exceedingly conservative in all business matters in the coming year. Love affairs may be peculiarly perilous.

Children born on this day probably will be rarely gifted. They are likely to earn money easily, but without any special interest in financial recognition of their talents.

BLACKHEADS

Blackheads simply dissolve and disappear by this one simple, safe and sure method. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle it on a hot, wet cloth, rub the face briskly — every blackhead will be gone.

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE.

1. Is it impolite for a man to read his paper at breakfast?
2. Should one speak to her hostess' servants during the serving of a meal?
3. If visiting a woman who does not keep servants, is it not an imposition to accept a breakfast tray in bed?

The Answers.

1. No.
2. No, it interrupts service.
3. No. The hostess may prefer this.

MANY USES FOR LINOLEUM

Kitchen and other tables with worn and cracked tops may be reconditioned by covering them with linoleum. If painted, varnished or shellacked, the linoleum makes a smooth, durable top.

Chair seats may be renewed likewise. Linoleum will serve, too, for backing shelves and picture frames. Disks cut from linoleum will serve for hot and cold platters, dishes and flower pots. Shoe soles, waste paper baskets and sewing baskets are other possibilities.—Popular Science Monthly.

FUTURE LAMPS MAY COPY THE FIREFLY

Scientists Reveal the Amazing Economy of Cold "Living Light."

New York.—"Scientists are on the verge of far-reaching discoveries which eventually may make the incandescent electric light as out-of-date as the old-fashioned kerosene lamp," declared Sumner N. Blossom, editor of Popular Science Monthly, today. "Science is learning the secrets of a lighting system used by Nature for ages, yet always a mystery to man—the production of light without heat."

Mr. Blossom cited the fact that in a laboratory at Princeton University, Dr. E. Newton Harvey, professor of physiology, recently has utilized the materials employed by fireflies in the summer to flash their lamps, and by fishes in the seas' depths to light their lanterns, to produce continuous "cold light." He expressed the belief that science will be able soon to create these materials artificially.

"At the Bureau of Standards," Mr. Blossom added, "two other scientists, Dr. W. W. Coblentz and Dr. C. W. Hughes, have just succeeded in analyzing and recording the intensity of the light emitted by various luminou animals and plants. By studying the spectrum—that is, by dividing the light into the rainbow of various colors or wave lengths that compose it—they have demonstrated that this "living light" is virtually one hundred per cent efficient in its radiation. In comparison, our best electric lamps, wonderful as they are, are woefully wasteful.

"The common incandescent electric lamp shares with every other form of hot light the drawback that most of its radiation is in the form of heat, and not light at all. Less than two per cent. of it is visible light. The rest is wasted for the reason that the heat cannot be separated from the light. Luminescence, or living light, on the other hand, contains nothing but visible light, as Dr. Coblentz's experiments have proved. The firefly's light is all visible light. It is fifty times as efficient in light radiation as the finest incandescent lamp.

"Dr. Harvey has measured the lighting efficiency of luminous bacteria so small that it takes 50,000,000,000,000 of them to equal one candlepower of illumination. He has found their overall efficiency as lighting plants to be at least twice as great as that of the average electric lighting plant, in which only one-half of one per cent of the energy of coal burned as fuel is converted into light.

"Science has revealed the process by which this living light is produced. The raw materials are oxygen and water. The 'power plant' which produces the light contains a luminous secretion which can be separated into two distinct parts. One of these, called luciferin, consumes oxygen to produce the light. The other, known as luciferase, is a catalyst, or transforming substance, which speeds the process.

"The amazing thing about luciferin as a light maker is that it never seems to burn out. When you burn coal or oil as fuel, it combines with oxygen and vanishes as gas. But when luciferin combines with oxygen it becomes a luminous substance, called oxyluciferin, which is not lost, but returns again to luciferin when the light goes out. Then it is ready to be lighted again.

"This is what happens when the firefly flashes its light on and off. It is somewhat as if you had an electric flashlight, whose battery would renew itself after every flash, and could continue to do so indefinitely.

"Even now it is possible, scientists say, to devise a lamp in which luciferin is burned continuously over and over again. Future development, involving the manufacture of artificial luciferin, would supply the world with the ideal light, and at less cost than ever before."

Women's New Hygiene

Ends disposal problem—
Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

THE old-time sanitary pad has been supplanted by a new and better way called Kotex.

It ends the embarrassment of laundry and disposal. You discard Kotex as easily as tissue.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, and thus protects amazingly. You wear sheer gowns and gay frocks under the most trying conditions.

Also deodorizes, and thus ends all fear of offending. 8 in 10 better-class women now use it. Great hospitals employ it. Doctors widely urge it.

Most stores have Kotex on counters wrapped in plain paper, ready to be picked up without even asking.

Package contains 12. Be sure you get the genuine Kotex, for only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The violet-covered toque above is in white or purple with ribbon band with intriguing little veil to match. The hat below is of brown and beige straw braid with brown silk bow and "cuffs" to which is attached a thin mesh veil of light brown.

In a book on the art of dressing well that circulated twenty years ago a whole chapter is devoted to the subject of veils—while the subject of shoes and stockings is considered so unimportant that it is only mentioned incidentally. The author of this book remarks that "the veil is the most important detail in a woman's toilet," and probably no woman—twenty years ago—would have gainsaid her. Perhaps it was this very fact—the ability of the veil to make or mar a woman's appearance—that led to the passing of the fashion. After all what was the use of bothering with an accessory that required so much time and attention when it could just as well be dispensed with entirely?

Another thing that contributed to the passing of the fashion for veils was the change in shape and manner of wearing hats. When they were merely laid on top of the head, and anchored there by a hatpin or two, veils were a necessity to keep the hair in trim condition. And the reason that hats changed shape and came to be worn down over the head was because women found that even with veils the old-time top-piece was difficult to wear in an automobile. So in a roundabout way the passing of veils may be said to be due to the coming of automobiles—though during the first few years of the craze for motoring, interest in veils was tremendously stimulated and motor veils of all sorts and descriptions were sold to well-dressed women.

Most women old enough to remember the time and trouble they used to expend on veils will be loathe to see a return of the fashion—but one generation is never willing to learn by the experience of another even in matters of fashion. The time may not yet be ripe for a real revival of the fashion, but some of the French milliners have been playing with the idea and there are hats for summer wearing that make interesting use of the veil idea.

Fortunately for us the milliner takes the burden of the responsibility. She chooses the right sort of veil and drapes it on the hat. The only problem left to the wearer is to keep the hat between wearings so that the veil is not mussed up or disarranged. There is something alluring about these new veiled hats, but the fact should be borne in mind that they are not for the woman who must make two or three hats do for an entire season.

FLIES TASTE WITH THEIR FEET?

That a fly tastes with its feet and not with its proboscis, is the theory of Dr. Dwight E. Minnich, of the University of Minnesota, following interesting experiments reported by Popular Science Monthly. Placed on a tasteless oil, the flies seldom took the trouble to extend their proboscides, or suckers, seeming to know in advance that it was worthless as food. Allowed to walk over wet sugar, however, immediately an array of hungry "suckers" descended to lap up the food.

NOT SUCH A WILD RUSH.

By some papers not favourable to the principle of Government control every effort is being made to convince the people of Ontario that the opening of Government stores has been followed by a mad rush to secure liquor

Toronto, the second largest city in the Dominion, with its population augmented by the racing fraternity and many other visitors, is being served at present by only six stores, manned in some cases by inexperienced staffs.

Under the circumstances, particularly as only a few people secured their permits in advance, a certain amount of crowding and confusion was inevitable, but that there has been no mass movement on the part of Toronto citizens to take advantage of the privilege of buying liquor is conclusively shown by the fact that only two per cent. of the city's population had secured permits up to last Friday.

The local liquor store will be opened in the near future, and Peterborough citizens will have a chance to see for themselves the new system in operation.

If there is anything in the nature of a line-up here a good many people will be surprised.

SCHOOL COSTS.

The education of the children living in the suburban sections of North Monaghan and Smith is giving the people of these townships considerable cause for worry as to the best course to pursue.

While the situation in North Monaghan is to be met by the erection of another school to cost $30,000, Smith citizens have decided for the present not to build a new school, but to pay 80 per cent of the cost of educating each child from the township attending the city schools.

In regard to the North Monaghan situation, it may be of some interest to estimate the yearly cost of the two methods of dealing with the problem.

If a new school is built the yearly cost will run something like this:

Interest on $30,000	$1,800
1 per cent. for repairs	300
Fuel	200
Janitor	500
Staff (principal $1,800, 3 teachers $1,000 each)	4,800
Total cost per year	$7,600

If the pupils received their education in the city schools the yearly cost for approximately 100 pupils, at the rate of 80 per cent. of $47.65 per pupil, or $38 12 per pupil, would be $3,812, just a little more than one-half.

A comparison such as this when considered, together with the probability that within a few years that section of the township may become part of the city, in which case the proposed school might not be of much value, gives considerable food for thought to those who are endeavouring to see the most economical and most satisfactory way out of the difficulty.

ST. JOHN'S CENTENARY.

The celebration of the centenary of St. John's Church, which commenced yesterday and will be continued throughout the month, is an occasion that should be of great interest not only to Anglicans but to all citizens of Peterborough.

St. John's Church and the municipality it serves have progressed together; the history of one is the history of the other.

One hundred years ago when Rev. Samuel Armour, the first rector of St. John's, was carrying on services in a little log school house, Peterborough, founded seven years before by Adam Scott, consisted of but a handful of buildings.

The Peter Robinson immigrants had but recently arrived, and in the townships surrounding the village were making homes for themselves, clearing the land and paving the way for the smiling prosperous farms of today.

The first citizens of Peterborough had many difficulties to contend with, many hardships to endure, but it is worthy of note that one of their first ambitions was to see erected a church capable of supplying the spiritual wants of the little settlement.

And so we read from an early circular issued in 1838 by Rev. C. T. Wade, rector of St. John's at that time, that > "A school house was built in which divine service was regularly performed, but it would contain only about 150 persons. In a few years the anxiety for accommodation expressed by many families forcibly appealed to the better part of the settlers and convinced them of the necessity of making some effort to raise a church. A public meeting was held, and it was unanimously resolved to erect a stone church, and if possible, to add galleries so that it might contain about 800 persons out of a Protestant population of nearly 2,000 souls attached to the Church of England. A subscription was immediately commenced, which, by the blessing of God, amounted to nearly £700. In the early part of 1835 the building was commenced, and in 1836 finished and opened for divine worship."

Such was the beginning of the present church, which was restored in 1877, and which has been as prominent in the spiritual development of the community as the building itself is outstanding because of its commanding site, beautiful grounds and picturesque appearance.

Few places of worship in Canada are more beautiful, practically none is more charmingly situated, and not many have such a rich store of memories.

The members of St. John's have every reason to rejoice and to give thanks for the record of their church during one hundred years of Peterborough's development.

In the words of Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse, the centenary historian: "When we cast our eyes round the walls of the church, rich in memorials of our religion and of loved ones gone to rest, we must be stocks and stones indeed if the sight does not serve to broaden our sympathies and exact our ideals. . . . The church which has been assigned to our care is not of mushroom growth, but is the fruit of the devoted labour of many men and women through years of toil and tribulation, and that we must strive, even as our forefathers have striven, to preserve the glorious principles on which it was founded."

THE WANDERING MR. WHEELER.

The cause of temperance is constantly being injured by extravagant, inaccurate and exaggerated statements by some of its leaders.

For example, Wayne B. Wheeler, General Counsel of the Anti-Saloon League in the United States, expressed his views on Ontario's new liquor law in Washington the other day, being credited with the following:

> "The Province did not have a real dry law, but permitted manufacture and transportation of intoxicants, and aggravated its thirst by legalizing 4.4 beer, so its total eclipse is natural. Canada's most prosperous Province will probably repeat the experience of Quebec and other sections, where crime, pauperism, industrial inefficiency, home-wrecking and prostitution that accompany legalized drink have spread ruin."

That whole statement is so far away from the facts that even such a consistent advocate of prohibition as The Toronto Globe has made an emphatic protest.

In the first place, of course, Ontario did not permit the manufacture and trahsportation of intoxicants; these things are under Federal control, and the Province has nothing to do with them.

Secondly, the sale of 4.4 beer, as everybody knows, did not have any effect upon the situation in Ontario.

And finally, when the spokesman for the Anti-Saloon League refers to Quebec and other sections of Canada as places "where crime, pauperism, industrial inefficiency, home-wrecking and prostitution have spread ruin," he is talking through an article that Mussolini declares men should not wear.

Anybody who knows anything about Canada knows that there is no section where conditions such as he pictures exist to any appreciable degree.

The record of the Province of Quebec, for instance, in the matter of crime or pauperism or industrial inefficiency or home-wrecking will stand comparison with the best sections of the United States, and show a better record.

When the crime figures, the divorce statistics, the homicide record of the United States under the Volstead Act are lined up against the record of any part of the Dominion of Canada there is natural wonder why an American prohibition leader should do any worrying about conditions on this side of the line when there is so much that should keep him busy at home.

THE WORK OF UNIVERSITIES.

Sir Arthur Currie, President of the National Conference of Canadian Universities, pleads for a wider field of education. He believes that university leaders should tackle the vital problems of the nations. Governments, he says, would resent interference, but they would likely accept the consultative services of the conference.

Sir Arthur touches on a vital question in education. It is, in short, a question which affects the very life of the future university. It is a problem of bridging the gap between the academic and the practical. Business and commercial opportunities have become so tremendous in modern times that the university in many senses is no longer a leader. It lays a groundwork, truly, but many of the most successful men of today claim they got along without it. Others, having taken from it all they could or would, have gone ahead and relegated their alma mater to the limbo of forgotten pedagogy. To a large section of the people the university is a thing apart from the real turmoil of life. It is a sanctum, typified by the walls that enclose it, but considered not at all essential to their well-being. This is, of course, an unjust view, but it is a view nevertheless, and is a heavy handicap to future university education. How to bring that institution with all its advantages into the conduct of public life becomes an important problem. Sir Arthur Currie believes he has the solution, at least in part.

It is a hopeful idea. Whether, in the full bloom of partisan democracy, it could be achieved, is not certain. The accusation of "playing politics" is always at hand. If educational authorities can find a way to give Governments the benefit of their learning and at the same time evade the charge of taking sides, they will likely be welcome. But political parties have their own pots to boil and they are a suspicious lot.—Border Cities Star.

THE BANQUET SEASON.

The arrival of straw hats and what we playfully call gentle spring synchronizes with the virtual end of the season of public dinners. Perhaps the statisticians could estimate the quantity of soup, of roast chickens, of coffee and ice cream consumed in public by public-spirited men and women who would have preferred greatly to dine quietly at home, and perhaps a recording angel credits these good people with patience, endurance and altruism, but in the present their reward must consist in nothing more substantial than the consciousness of a duty done.

When it is desired that a man shall be honored above his brethren immediately somebody proposes a dinner, and that in itself would be defensible if the business were permitted to stop with the cigars. Most men welcome a first-class dinner, even when they buy it themselves. But the custom has grown up that testimonial dinners, annual dinners, reunion dinners and all the category shall be followed by speeches, and so we have with us the formidable function known as the banquet, which is a dinner set to oratory and music.

If the words uttered in a single banquet season by speakers who explained that they had nothing to say and proceeded to demonstrate their veracity were set end to end the result would be simply appalling. In cold blood, and it must be from a sense of duty, men and women sit through solid evenings of speeches on ponderous subjects, delivered by people of excellent intentions who give to the art of oratory about as much study as they give the Einstein theory. Night after night, week after week, month after month, the halls of every city resound to declamations on every imaginable subject, and daylight saving is the real harbinger of spring as there comes a time when the most hardy banqueteer welcomes the excuse of long evenings and out-door recreations.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, June 6 (Canadian Press).—A feature of the export grain trade in Montreal on Saturday was the weakness that developed in the market for ocean grain freight to the Continent owing to the marked falling off in the demand of late. The S.S. Swainby was booked on spot to Hamburg-Rotterdam at 11 cents per hundred pounds, which is the lowest rate that has been accepted so far this season.

The foreign demand for grain here was again of a very limited character and business generally was dull with little prospect of any improvement in the near future.

Owing to the weakness in oat futures at Winnipeg on Saturday, spot prices for the cash article were reduced 2 cents per bushel.

The trade in Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour was quiet and prices were unchanged.

A fair amount of business was done in most lines of millfeed and values were steady. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and the undertone was easy.

The egg market continued active and firm. The receipts Saturday were 1,895 cases.

An easier feeling developed in the potato market and prices were reduced 5 to 10 cents per bag. This was attributed to the large receipts coming forward. The trade was active. Sales of car lots of Quebec White B grade were made at $2.35 per bag, and Reds at $1.90 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

Prices for butter were well maintained under a quiet demand. The receipts were 2,748 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the local and export trade in cheese and values were easier. The receipts were 3,162 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 6 (Canadian Press).—Rains across the corn belt from Iowa to Ohio making the fields in many places look like lakes, hoisted the corn market again on Saturday. Heavy selling developed on the upward swings however, and top prices failed to hold well.

Corn closed unsettled, ¼c to ⅝c net higher, wheat unchanged to ⅝c off, oats unchanged to ¼c up, and provisions 5c to 25c down.

Oats displayed firmness, the crop situation leading to talk that all oats available this season will be wanted. Provisions tended downward. High prices for corn were regarded as pointing to liberal receipts of hogs.

GLARING HEADLIGHTS.

The Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Would you kindly tell me and the public in general if there is any law against glaring headlights.

A very few of the motorists have the courtesy to dim their lights when approaching another car, and those few instead of increasing are diminishing in number.

On the Lakefield road especially it is almost impossible to drive safely these nights.

If something is not done about this matter there will be a serious accident and then when too late someone will take the matter up.

Thanking you in anticipation and hoping some one else would give their opinion on the subject.

Yours for greater safety,

A MOTORIST.

FINE CATTLE FROM CAVAN

T. J. Lang's Shipment Tops the Market at Toronto Stock Yards.

BRED AT EARL FARM.

MILLBROOK, June 6.—Councillor T. J. Lang had a car-load of cattle from Millbrook, and another car-load from Cavan, on the Toronto stock market this week. The load from Cavan established a record in that it topped the market both in price and quality.

These fine Durham cattle were bred and raised by John Earl and Sons of Cavan, who followed their usual practice of having an entire car-load ready for shipment to the Toronto stock market about this time each season.

A Thought For To-day

BE A BOOSTER

Boost your city, boost your friend,
Boost the club that you attend.
Boost the street on which you're dwelling,
Boost the various goods you're selling.
Boost the people all about you,
They can get along without you;
But success will quickest find them,
If they know you are behind them.
Boost for every forward movement,
Boost for every new improvement.
Boost the man for whom you labor,
Boost the stranger and the neighbor.
Cease to be a chronic knocker,
Cease to be a progress blocker,
If you'd make a thing better—
Boost it to the final letter.

MILLBROOK C.G.I.T. CLOSES FOR SEASON

Will Not Have Regular Sessions Until Next Fall.

MILLBROOK, June 6.—The Wide Awakes group Canadian Girls in Training held its closing meeting, until after the holiday season, on Thursday evening, a good attendance of members being present. The time of the examinations at school being so close at hand led to the decision to discontinue the regular sessions before the end of June, the usual time for closing; there will, however, be a picnic, under group auspices, in July, and other gatherings of a social nature will be arranged for before September.

"Confession and Forgiveness" was the subject of the Scripture study, the fifty-first Psalm being read in unison.

The study of the adolescent period, from the years 1 to 20, was taken up by the leader, continuing the lesson begun the previous week, when the characteristics of the earlier years, 13 to 16, were covered.

There was some discussion at the close of the talk, and evidence of a general interest being taken. The usual treat was enjoyed during the informal half-hour before the gathering dispersed.

Church Anniversaries.

Church anniversaries are apparently the order of the day at present, the Cavan United church taking the dates Sunday and Monday, June 12 and 13, with Rev R. T. Richards of Peterboro, as the special preacher, and the usual tea and entertainment on Monday evening; Fraserville church will observe its Golden Jubilee on Sunday and Monday, June 19 and 20, with Rev. J. P. Maxwell, of Oshawa, and Rev. Thomas Manning of Toronto, preaching at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. respectively; Rev. Mr. Manning was pastor on the circuit 45 years ago. There will be a "Re-Union" on Monday at 4 p.m., followed by a supper and entertainment. Fairmount church has its anniversary on June 19, and a garden party the Monday following, June 20. The annual Ebenezer garden party is on Friday, June 10.

India and Her People.

The illustrated lecture in "India and Her People," given under the auspices of the Church League last week, was both instructive and entertaining, the attendance being unfortunately much smaller than the excellence of the pictures, and the accompanying talk, warranted.

The fact that most of the Auxiliaries and the Mission Circles have been studying India for the past year lent a special interest to the topic, Miss Mary Howard being the reader for the occasion, and G. Elson managing the lantern. The celebration of the Golden Jubilee of the Central India mission was noted in some of the views shown, and was another reason why the evening had been planned by the League executive, and why a particular interest should have been manifested in a greater degree than the size of the audience gave evidence.

The trip the missionaries make from Liverpool, through the Straits of Gibraltar, the Suez Canal, and so on to Bombay was made clear on the screen, and once they arrived in India the modes of travel by donkey, covered, horse-drawn wagon, and the ubiquitous Ford were also shown.

The bazaars, the travelling singers, the snake charmers, the Parsees, who are the bankers and moneylenders of India, the water-carriers, the potters moulding vases of beautiful shapes from the natural clay, the jungle, sacred shrines, holy men, fields of tobacco, and of poppies in bloom, and a number of scenes depicting native home life, were among the pictures shown, and explained as the lecture proceeded.

The League will discontinue its meetings shortly until after the holiday season, the "book shower" in aid of the Sunday school library, which should have been held this month, being held over until September.

Rebekah's Picnic.

APSLEY PREPARES TO OPEN HOSPTITAL

Committees Working Hard To Make Event Great Success.

APSLEY, June 6.—The thermometer reached freezing point during the early hours of Thursday, June 2, and thin ice was observed on standing water. Early potatoes were blackened by the frost.

Everybody is talking about June 10, the day of the opening of the Red Cross Hospital, and the ladies of the committee are working hard to make it a success. They have been put in sole charge of the commisanat department and the decorating, while the men are to erect booths and tables. The campaign to raise $500 here is in full swing and prospects are bright that the objective will be reached.

NEW WATER POWER DEVELOPMENT.

The records of the Dominion Water Power and Reclamation Service of the Department of the Interior show that a very satisfactory amount of new water power development is now in hand and still more is in view for the future. It is estimated that 400,000 horse power will be completed in 1927 and that the further work, which is practically assured, will aggregate some 1,900,000 horse power in three or four years time.

A CANADIAN HOME OF CHARMING CHARACTER

(By Messrs. Catto & Catto, Architects.)

The accompanying perspective is one of a pair of homes designed and built at the same time for two clients of the architect. The plot plan of both houses is reproduced to illustrate the interesting treatment of the mutual driveway and the consequent conservations of land for other more attractive uses.

The entrance leads to a tiled vestibule and from there to the hall. At the left is a large living-room, 20 ft. 9 ins. x 13 ft. 2 ins., which has the desirable characteristics of having light on three sides. On the opposite side of the hall is the dining-room, 15 ft. 2 ins. x 13 ft. 2 ins. The kitchen is 10 ft. x 11 ft. and provides for every modern convenience, including an electric range, large sink with double drain boards and ample cupboard space. The refrigerator is of the outside icing type and is located in the rear hall, just outside the kitchen door.

On the second floor are three good sized bedrooms with a clothes closet each, a study or den 10 ft. 4 ins. x 13 ft. 2 ins., and a nicely appointed bathroom. Off the study are a sun porch and balcony.

Including hot water heating and hardwood floors, the approximate cost of this desirable home is $10,000.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architects direct. Address, Messrs. Catto and Catto, 200 Bay St., Toronto, Ont. Copyright, 1927, MacLean Building Reports, Limited.

PRESBYTERIES BEING DIVIDED BY CONFERENCE

Cobourg and Lindsay Districts Are Split Into Four Presbyteries.

MINISTERS ORDAINED.

Method of Nomination of Commissioners To General Council Changed.

OSHAWA, June 6.—A congregation of over 1,500 attended the morning service in King Street United Church here yesterday morning when seven students were ordained into the ministry of the United Church of Canada. The ordination service was held in connection with the Bay of Quinte Conference, which opened its sessions last Tuesday, and which will close tomorrow. The students were: W. A. E. Dow, L. W. W. Scott, Milton R. Brown, Richard B. Harrison, B.A.; John W. Claxton, B.A.; B. D. Russell, W. O'Brien and Robert H. Wylie, B.A.

Throughout the city visiting ministers who are attending the Conference occupied the pulpits in the churches. Rev. Dr. Sedgewick preached at the ordination service, while Rev. C. W. DeMille, pastor of King Street Church, and newly elected President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, conducted the ordination ceremony.

Presbyteries Divided.

Division of the Presbyteries of Cobourg and Lindsay, which form a large part of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church, into four smaller Presbyteries, was agreed upon at Saturday morning's session. The recommendation of the Conference Boundaries Committee that the new Presbyteries of Oshawa, Cobourg, Lindsay and Peterborough be so formed, was passed without a dissenting voice. The change will become effective on Sept. 15 next. The change, it is said, will greatly facilitate the work of the Church in this area. The nominations, however, must be ratified by the executive of the Conference. Under the re-arrangement Oshawa Presbytery will consist of 27 charges, Cobourg Presbytery of 25 charges, Lindsay of 28 charges and Peterborough of 25 charges. The charges in each new Presbytery will be as follows:

Cobourg Presbytery, to consist of the following pastoral charges: Alderville, Baltimore, Brighton 1, Brighton 2, Camborne, Campbellford, Canton, Castelton, Centreton, Cobourg, Trinity, Cobourg, King Street, Colborne, Gorge's Landing, Grafton, Hilton, Millbrook, Norham, Port Hope, Roseneath, Norham, Port Hope, Roseneath, Seymour, Smithfield, Stockdale, Warkworth, Welcome, Wooler, 25 charges.

Oshawa Presbytery, to consist of the following pastoral charges: Bowmanville Trinity, Bowmanville, St. Paul, Brooklin, Cartwright, Claremont, Columbus, Hampton, Myrtle, Newcastle, Orono Dark Street, Orono Centre Street, Oshawa Simcoe Street, Oshawa St. Andrew's, Oshawa King Street, Oshawa Albert Street, Oshawa Cedardale, Whitevale, Whitby, Tyrone, Pickering 1, Pickering 2, Port Perry, Scugog, 27 charges.

Lindsay Presbytery, to consist of the following pastoral charges: Beaverton, Bobcaygeon, Breckin, Carnarvon, Coboconk, Cannington, Dunsford, Fenelon Falls, Greenbank, Haliburton, Highland Grove, Janetville, Kinmount, Lindsay 1, Lindsay Queen Street, Little Britain, Minden, Manilla, North Verulam, Omemee, Oakwood, Sebright, Seagrave, Udney, Victoria Road, Wilfrid, Woodsville, Wick, 28 charges.

Peterborough Presbytery, to consist of the following pastoral charges: Apsley, Bethany, Bridgenorth, Cavan, Chemong, Cordova Mines, Fraserville, Hastings, Havelock, Hall's Bridge, Hiswatha, Keene, Lakefield Regent Street, Lakefield Knox, Norwood, Peterborough George Street, Peterborough Knox, Peterborough Mark Street, Peterborough, St. Andrew's, Peterborough St. Jame's, Peterborough Trinity, Pontypool, Springville, Warsaw, Westwood, 25 charges.

The following were appointed to convene the Presbyteries so formed: Oshawa Presbytery, Rev. F. J. Maxwell; Cobourg Presbytery, Rev. J. S. I. Wilson; Lindsay Presbytery, Rev. P. E. Holling; Peterborough Presbytery, Rev. R. F. Stillman.

Election of Commissioners to represent the Bay of Quinte Conference on the General Council of the United Church of Canada will be by a two-fold method, it was decided by the Conference at Saturday afternoon's session. The Conference, it was agreed, shall elect at its meeting prior to the assembling of the General Council, one minister and one layman for each Presbytery in the Conference.

It will not be necessary that those elected be from each and every Presbytery and election shall be by nomination and ballot. The result of this system, it was pointed out, may make it possible for the Conference to rule out more than one minister and one layman from one Presbytery and no names from another. This, however, does not deprive that Presbytery from full representation, for the second clause provides that in order that equality of representation from Presbyteries may be preserved, each Presbytery shall be entitled to nominate ministers and laymen, from whom the Conference shall choose as many as may be necessary to make up the full quota for that Presbytery. The quota for each Presbytery shall consist of those elected on the floor of the Conference from any Presbytery, and those elected on the second method, necessary to make up the full quota.

Enactment Rescinded.

Conference rescinded the enactment of last year whereby each minister was to receive two months' salary in advance upon his entrance into work of the church. Such recommendation was contained in the report of the Committee on Adjustments of Ministers' Salaries, which Conference sanctioned. The report of the committee in full is as follows:

"That in the opinion of this committee, the action of Conference last year was based upon a misinterpretation of the practice of the former Methodist Church, in which it was customary to pay each minister two months' salary in advance upon his entrance into the work. The effect of the resolution passed last year has unfortunately created difficulties, and caused real hardship to some of our men.

"Therefore, we recommend that the Presbyteries investigate the individual cases and deal with them according to the circumstances in each instance."

At the annual meeting of Lay Association of the Conference the following officers were elected: E. J. Smith, President; T. C. Smith, First Vice-President; A. C. Denike, Second Vice-President; C. M. Alger, Treasurer; W. H. Hopper, Registrar; Professor R. O. Joliffe, Secretary.

is an easy matter if you put a teaspoonful of Gillex in a pail of water. Dirt just rolls off, practically without effort. Far less "elbow grease" is required than with ordinary cleansers. TWO FATALITIES IN AUTOMOBILES

Woman Killed When Car Goes Into Ditch—Man Dies at Crossing.

LONDON, Ont. June 6. — Mrs. Thomas Skinner, of Caradoc Township, was instantly killed late yesterday when the auto in which she was riding with her husband and two children went into a ditch near Polar Hill on the Sarnia gravel road. She was a daughter of George Hardcastle of Chatham.

FATALITY IN NORTH.

SUDBURY, Ont., June 6. — A few minutes after leaving home in his coupe for work at the Bell Telephone Company, for which he was senior instrument installer, Herbert Hawthorne, 25, suffered fatal injuries when his car was hit by the C. P. R. Cartier local at the Kathleen street level crossing here.

The auto was carried 600 feet by the engine but Hawthorne was thrown out about 50 yards from the crossing. He was picked up and placed in the express car, but died before reaching the station about a mile distant.

The victim had only recently bought his car, and it is surmised he was so engrossed in the driving of it that he did not notice the approach of the train as the track is unobscured in both directions at the place of the accident.

THIRD FLIGHT OVER ATLANTIC

to talk in person, but that his clothes had to be changed, being "rather soiled."

Levine talked ten minutes.

"We are leaving for Berlin this afternoon," he said, "by a Lufthansa (German Civil Air Line) plane.

Will Drink Beer.

"Our first act on arriving in Berlin will be to drink two glasses of pilsener beer and to eat some sausages or hot dogs.

"When we landed near Forst, we saw that the broken propeller would make continuation of our flight impossible, so we came to Cottabus by automobile.

"During the flight our only sustenance consisted of a few glasses of water and one sandwich between us. We were not hungry when we arrived and both of us ate only a light lunch. We are feeling fine and are not tired, and we are delighted at the result of our adventure."

Through the United Press Chamberlin and Levine sent greetings to their families, friends and countrymen.

Fliers Disappointed.

It was obvious that both Levine and Chamberlin were disappointed that they had fallen short of their goal—Berlin. But even while they talked with the United Press, the airmen began to receive congratulations from Berlin as their whereabouts at the Ansorg Hotel became known here.

Levine said that crossing the Atlantic was smooth most of the time, although the Bellanca monoplane occasionally encountered extreme winds. These necessitated swift dives and plunges as Chamberlin changed his altitude searching for more favorable conditions.

Both airmen were lavish in their praise for the Wright whirlwind motor with which the Bellanca was equipped and for the other equipment of the monoplane.

PATENT LIGHTS

light is a necessity when driving on dark roads, and the brighter the light the better it is for the driver behind it, he goes on to say:

"Glare may be caused by a light that is too bright—that is, one that gives off too great candle-power per square inch of area—or it may be caused by contrast—that is, where the contrast is too great between the light source and the darker surroundings. It may be that some auto headlights are too bright, but by far the greatest cause of glare on the road is from the excessive contrast between the light and the darkness surrounding it. The remedy lies, not so much in cutting down the light but in reducing the contrast by putting other light where it is most needed. If the road at the side of the car you are meeting were illuminated by a light (a hooded light) attached to the left side of that car, you would be enabled to ignore in a great measure the headlight and fix on the very part of the road you are most anxious to see. I believe that this would do much to eliminate the menace of glare. Such a light could be attached to every car at small cost, and would be entirely for the benefit of the other fellow on the road. The thing needs to be properly worked out by experiment but along this line lie greater possibilities of eliminating glare than by cutting down the much needed light."

Jubilee of Confederation Special Edition

AN INVITATION

The Examiner has been requested to supply two copies of its Special Jubilee of Confederation Issue to be preserved for all time in the Archives of the Dominion of Canada.

This special number, marking as it does not only the Sixtieth Birthday of the Dominion of Canada but the Eightieth Birthday of The Examiner, will be the biggest issue of a newspaper ever put out in Peterborough. It will be printed on book-quality paper instead of newsprint, and the reading matter and illustrations will be of a high order in keeping with the occasion.

In order to permit every citizen to participate in the special edition, The Examiner invites signed contributions, not to exceed 200 words in length. These may be messages of goodwill for Canada, inspirational messages, or, in fact, articles of any kind dealing with the general subject of the Jubilee.

They will be printed in The Examiner's special edition — the biggest ever issued in Peterborough — on specially good paper, and preserved with the most treasured records in the Dominion Archives.

Address your contributions to The City Editor of The Examiner before June 20.

This is addressed to everyone who reads it.

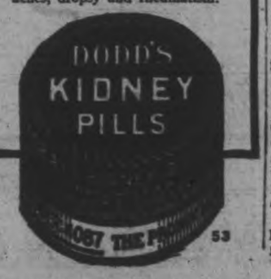
Unsolicited Testimony Speaks For Itself

Mrs. M. Macleod Now Praises Dodd's Kidney Pills

"I have suffered from backache and rheumatism for some time," writes Mrs. M. Macleod, a well known resident of Tarbot Vale, Victoria Co., C.B. "I have taken Dodd's Kidney Pills and found them very satisfactory."

Ninety per cent. of the ills from which women suffer come from weak kidneys. They are the organs that strain all the impurities, all the seeds of disease, out of the blood. If they fail in this work the impurities remain and result in weakness, weariness, nervousness, headaches, backaches, dropsy and rheumatism.



AMERICAN AVIATORS BREAK RECORD

fly slowly during the night, conserving gasoline and waiting until daylight to pick up speed again and select the best route for the plane.

From the time he left Newfoundland at 7.52 o'clock Saturday night until he was about four hundred miles off the English coast, he was not sighted. Then the Mauretania, which was southwest of England, sighted the plane. It came down flying low and circled the ship, so that Chamberlin could read the name and also to make sure he was recognized and would be reported. Passengers lined the rails and cheered, throwing hats, books and other things into the air, and overboard. It was a thrilling moment for them.

Some distance astern was the Memphis, bearing Captain Charles A. Lindbergh on his way home for a triumphant reception. The Memphis was making heavy weather in a high sea and was out of sight of the plane, but the passing of the Columbia, the Bellanca plane, was reported to the warship, so that Lindbergh might know that a second American plane was successfully following his path.

Kept Sharp Lookout

LONDON, June 6 (Canadian Press).—Comparatively few of the many thousands of people in the southern section of the British Isles who kept keen lookout all afternoon and well into the long evening twilight for the approach of the Bellanca plane, Columbia, piloted by Clarence D. Chamberlin, had their patience rewarded. All the Irish coast stations, the South England ports and the coastguard stations were on the watch, and their expectancy was at quite as high a pitch as for Lindbergh's appearance.

Unfavorable Weather

Weather conditions on this side, however, were much less favorable than when Captain Lindbergh flew into vision after conquering the Atlantic single-handed. The sky was overcast and toward evening a slight rain set in.

The London populace yesterday was a holiday crowd, ready to be interested in anything as sensational as another Atlantic adventure, especially with the added interest of a hatless man jumping into the monoplane as though by a spontaneous afterthought to brave the risks of the long flight across the ocean.

There was little hope of catching a passing glimpse of the bold airmen, but for the reason that about every point in Europe has been named as the possible destination of the Columbia, it was felt that anything might happen without the least surprise. And when in the evening radio reports told the glad tidings that the Columbia was sighted 360 miles off the Scillys, and, then, later, was entering the Channel, there were great rejoicings in the west end of London, where the news became known, and expressions of confidence were numerous that the Columbia would even surpass the Lindbergh performance so far as distance is concerned.

Headed for Berlin

Nobody now has the slightest doubt of the aviators' success and ability to land anywhere in Western Europe they desire, and the general impression was that they were heading for Berlin. A curious fact, differentiating from Captain Lindbergh's arrival at the British coast, was the complete absence yesterday of erroneous and misleading reports. This seems to have been due to the extremely plain marking of the figure 140 and other distinguishing symbols on the airplane.

Keeping well in the track of ocean liners, Chamberlin, seemed to be making a direct compass course to Berlin, and from the time he was first reported by the Mauretania, his course was easily followed to the Scillies, then Cornwall and up the Channel.

After the Mauretania's sighting of the Columbia's approach to the coast, there was a long interval. Then suddenly flashed out of the air the announcement from the steamer Transylvania that a monoplane with the Columbia's marking flew over the steamer not far from Land's End, well inside the mouth of the English Channel.

This fixed the conviction that Chamberlin had undoubtedly conquered the Atlantic and the added information that he was going strong gave confidence that he and his companion, Levine, might pierce well into the interior of Europe before their fuel gave out.

A little later, about 9.10 o'clock, the fliers were reported off Plymouth, still heading up the Channel, leading experts to believe that Berlin actually was their destination. When actually sighted, the Columbia was flying at a great height and still heading due east, with visibility bad.

Passed over Boulogne.

NEW YORK, June 6.— Canadian Press. — The report last night that the Bellanca monoplane has passed Boulogne Sur Mer definitely established for the first time that the course was being laid for Berlin.

The time of passing Boulogne, 7 o'clock eastern daylight time, indicated that Chamberlain and Levine would reach Berlin, a little more than 400 miles away, about midnight, E.D.T., which would be 5 o'clock in the morning in Germany. There is a five hour difference in time between Berlin and New York.

Broke Distance Record.

In passing Boulogne the fliers established that they had achieved the main purpose of the flight, to break the long distance flying record of the world. The record they set out to break was made by Charles Lindbergh in flying from New York to Paris.

Chamberlin and Levine were also approaching the endurance record of 51 hours made by Chamberlin and Bert Acosta in the same plane, but were not expected to actually reach it. At Boulogne they had been in the air for 37 hours.

Greet Aviators on Arrival.

BERLIN, June 6. Canadian Press. — Three great junker planes and one giant Albatross, together with fifteen smaller aircraft, are in readiness at Tempelhofer field to start on a minute's notice to greet the Columbia from New York.

A starry moonlit night, provides excellent weather conditions for giving the daring trans-Atlantic fliers a warm reception long before the Columbia reaches the ground.

A big circle of bright red fires marks the outskirts of the field while powerful searchlights of two towers headed to the west stand as beacon lights to guide the aviators. At midnight a circle of white lights encased Tempelhofer field.

The splendid weather lured thousands to the neighborhood of the field, where the crowds found to their disappointment they could approach only to within 1000 yards of the landing ground, but such was their enthusiasm that they patiently remained standing from ten o'clock at night, curiously watching the automobiles with aviation officials and an army of newspapermen as they dashed in and out of the grounds to which admission was by card only.

Searchlight Guides.

ROME, June 6. — Canadian Press. —A chain of powerful searchlights scouring the heavens and extending from the northernmost frontiers as far as Naples, will act as guides for the Bellanca plane if its pilot Chamlin decides to fly over the Alps into Italy. Orders to this effect were issued early yesterday by Signor Balbo, the under-secretary for aviation, on receiving what he considered semi-official information that the fliers will probably attempt to reach the Eternal City.

Aerial Signals Alight.

PARIS, June 6. — Canadian Press. —All of France's aerial signals were ordered lighted last night to show the pilot of the Bellanca plane the way to anywhere he wants to go. The world's greatest searchlight, on Mont Valerian, outside of Paris, three well-lighted air lanes, were ready for the Columbia to come to Paris or to go to Berlin or Rome.

Le Bourget field, where Captain Charles Lindbergh landed, was ready for another long cool night vigil, and every other air field in France was prepared to receive the second contingent of trans-Atlantic fliers.

All along the coast the naval authorities have instructed the lighthouse and emergency signal keepers to have their lamps trimmed and burning. The main air lane lighted is along the regular commercial route between London and Paris.

Fifty men and women students at the Homeopathic Medical College of New York have volunteered to be stung by bees and bitten by spiders in an attempt to determine whether the venom can be put to some useful purpose.

96,000 Women and Children Served by THE RED CROSS

THE future of Canada lies in the Home. In their honest and loving endeavors to build healthy homes, thousands of Canadian mothers are handicapped by lack of knowledge.

Three years ago, the Red Cross organized its first class in Home Nursing. Since then, 12,000 women and girls, in 800 groups, have received instruction.

They have gained a sound knowledge of the principles of good health . . . care of the sick . . . feeding of babies and children. They have become better managers of their homes . . . enabled to instruct less well-informed neighbors.

Since the War
has disbursed
7 Million Dollars
for the Soldiers, Women, Children and Frontier Families of Canada.
"STILL SERVING"

With the aid of local leaders, doctors, women's organizations, the Red Cross Organizing Nurse forms a class. The course of 12 lectures comprises instruction by a nurse . . . practical demonstration . . . talks by the local doctor. It is simple but thorough.

Nor does the Red Cross forget our new citizens from other lands.

At Halifax, Quebec and St. John it maintains Seaport Nurseries. Here immigrant mothers and children are made welcome. For the babies and young children, nourishing food . . . baths . . . a restful sleep. For the mothers, a few quiet hours in a comforting home atmosphere . . . encouragement for the next stage in their journey.

A Registered Nurse notes any needed medical attention. "Follow up" cards are sent to the Province where they are going. On arrival, the Red Cross puts them in touch with health authorities . . . they are started at once on the road to healthy living.

During the past few years, the Nurseries have served over 84,000 women and children, with "follow up" work for over 12,000 families.

In these and other ways, the Red Cross is supplementing and supporting the work of health authorities and doctors, with untold benefit to thousands of Canadian homes. To YOU it appeals for support in this great task.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, mysteriously summoned to the queer little jungle-bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, encounters an old friend, VILAK, who tells him it was he who had sent for him.

Vilak's cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl, owns a coffee plantation and other land near Porto Verde and has received mysterious warnings to get out of the country. Vilak is alarmed, because several deaths already have occurred and the superstitious natives think some supernatural force is at work.

The day Nunnally arrives another man is killed, TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise Marberry's foremen. He had been hit with a club in the hands of LIMEY POTTS, another foreman. Before he died a strange paralysis took hold of him, and Vilak confides to Nunnally that he is certain Limey POTTS, another foreman. Before he died a strange paralysis took hold of him, and Vilak confides to Nunnally that he is certain Limey Potts, though he may have struck the victim, was not the murderer.

That evening Vilak induces Nunnally to come with him on a visit to the house of GAYLORD PRENTISS, a reticent and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise. Vilak believes Prentiss is somehow involved in the mysterious deaths.

Before going to Prentiss' place, Vilak and Nunnally call on Elise Marberry. Vilak refuses to let her go with them. He and Nunnally, on their way to Prentiss', sight a party of natives working on a railroad. Nearby is a fire, though the night is hot. Nunnally regards this as strange.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY.

CHAPTER IX.

Their presence had been noticed. One of the laborers, who appeared to be a sort of foreman, walked behind a dilapidated freight car on a siding. He reappeared in a moment, followed by an immaculately white-linened individual, whose bearing immediately marked him as the chief. His skin was dark, but it was the tan that comes from long exposure to the tropical sun; his face was well molded, the nose long but thin, the mouth sensative and small. On his upper lip was a small, carefully trimmed mustache. He was obviously a white man, and judging by the blackness of his hair and the perfection of his intonation, a high caste Portuguese.

He bowed politely to the visitors. "You would wish something, cavalhieros?" he asked. His manner was unmistakably that of one who could be as much at ease at some stately reception in one of the European capitals as here with twenty-five section hands in the jungle of Porto Verde.

"Nothing, cavalhiero," Vilak replied with equal urbanity. "We merely ride, see the torches, and walk over to look. You come to protect the tracks from the rising river?"

"Yes, senhor. We come from Avilos." He pulled a leaf off a palm tree and began fanning himself. "At Avilos there is fear that the floods will be very bad. Many they think the great dam will burst. I hope it is not so. It is not pretty, a flood, nor cheap. It costs us on the railroad much money. Many, many reis. And it is not a great railroad which runs only a few hundred kilometers to the coffee plantations and the Englishmen's mines in the mountains. Nor is it rich. Each year in the rainy season we come. Here I will raise a track, there I will make strong a bridge, here I will drive a pile. And perhaps shall I start to survey a new line, one which shall go from Porto Verde to Santo Crato. They talk of this, but yet I do not know."

"Do you think you will be here long?"

He shrugged his shoulders. "Two weeks, a month perhaps. I cannot say. There is much to do."

An altercation broke out between two of the laborers driving a stake. One of them jerked out a knife. The Portuguese hurried over. Coolly, quickly, he snatched it away; the argument ended. "They are troublesome, my villains," he said, as he returned to the visitors. "No worse are there in all Brazil. But on the railroad we take what we can."

Vilak offered him a cigaret. The other took it. They chatted amiably a moment, then the two Americans left. They remounted their horses and rode up the narrow lane which led to the higher ground above the town and the parasol pine marking the fatal occurrence of the afternoon. Reaching the tree, they dismounted again and tied their horses.

All about them was a blackness almost Stygian, but though there was little light, the variety of sound was infinite. Here a swelling brook murmured and by its murmur repeated the story of a possible flood; there the pecova whispered as its great flat leaves rubbed against one another in the wind; there a screech owl called shrilly as it swooped through the dense woods ahead; there a fallen twig rustled under the weight of a coral snake stalking its nightly prey. As the chemist's eyes grew accustomed to the darkness, he could make out the opening in the thorn thicket which his companion had told him led to Prentiss' fazenda. "Are we . . . er . . . turning . . . in here?" he whispered.

Vilak nodded. "We are. Button up that second button of your raincoat. And put on that glove as I told you. Keep it on."

Nunnally obeyed slowly. "I insist . . . er . . . insist. Why is it necessary? On a night like this . . . stifling. Yes . . . stifling."

"It's an ounce of prevention. Death's lurking everywhere about here in forms that I don't know. What I've asked you to do may help protect you."

They turned into the path. Towering trees rose as gloomy sentinels above the tangled jungle, while the mats of vines and creepers swinging from the topmost branches showed like gigantic spiderwebs against the sky. The path continued thus wooded for a quarter of a mile, then light showed ahead and they emerged on to the shore of a small lake. Directly before them the land fell rather sharply to a creek, then rose to an elevation on the other side where several similar expanses of water sparkled in the moonlight.

"These are a few of the lakes I was mentioning to you," Vilak whispered. "If it were daylight you could see the brickwork where some of them have been dammed up. This is the section that Prentiss' father developed and that the quarrel was all about. After old Prentiss died the place was deserted—for about ten years, I think. Until young Prentiss came back and occupied it. That's the house down there." He pointed to a shadowy structure below them on the other side of the creek.

They descended the embankment on which they stood, reached the creek and crossed it, carefully picking their way over the wet stones. They saw two faint glimmerings of light which, as they moved forward, they perceived came from two small stone lamps burning smokily over the gate of a high stone wall. "Why has he the . . . lamps?" the old man asked. "And they're singular lamps. Yes . . . er . . . . singular."

Vilak did not answer. He was interestedly looking between the heavy iron bars which formed the massive gate to the dwelling a few hundred feet beyond. They could see it clearly now, a long, low building, its flatness broken by three short squat towers. Even in the moonlight its dilapidated condition was apparent. A fourth tower near the front had fallen and, bringing down the surrounding walls, had left a gaping hole as though the structure had suffered an operation at the hands of an unskillful surgeon. Half the windows were broken and nailed up with boards. One wing was entirely in ruins, only a few broken boards remaining to mark its walln.

There were few signs of decay, however, about the wall through whose gate they were peering, a wall which, massive and lofty, apparently completely encircled the neglected residence. It was so old that in places it was almost obliterated by dense growths of vines. But there were no gaps, no bulges indicative of weakness in the ponderous stones which formed it; they were as securely fixed to one another as when they had first been set there by the mason years before.

The detail, however, which caught the chemist's attention, was the barbed wire fencing, which had been newly fastened to the top of the wall to a distance of three or four feet above it, meshed so closely that it would have barred the way to any creature larger than a squirrel. The bars of the spike-tipped gate, of the same height as the wall, were protected in like manner. Two heavy iron cross-bars showed along the inside.

"It's a . . . er . . . fortress. A positive fortress," the old man murmured. "Has he all this merely to . . . er . . . keep out . . . er . . . keep out visitors?"

"If you ask me another question in the next ten minutes I shall be put to the unpleasant necessity of sending you home, my dear Nanny," Vilak declared, as he began examining the gate. "If I knew the purpose back of the recent improvements on this wall, I wouldn't be here investigating. Incidentally, this is the place where the mastiff came out and attacked Elise. Be on your guard. I'll agree with you that this is an excellent wall. Old Prentiss put it up. He was an eccentric old devil. Like father, like son. Though in those days there was some need for a wall like this. Even wilder here than it is now and it was a very definite protection. Every house of consequence had something of the sort.

"Seems to me they still need walls as far as any improvement in the population goes, Old Prentiss in particular had to have something to keep out unwelcome visitors. He was always getting into trouble with the natives, or his European neighbors, or even the government. Almost stood a siege here once, I've heard. The son had that new wire put on about two months ago, shortly after Elise's first visit to him. Had it sent up from Rio. Must have cost a good bit of money."

He bent over, ran a finger along the edge of the ponderous gate, and gave a grunt of satisfaction. "Thought I might find it. Two copper wires concealed here so that when the gate opens an electric circuit is broken, probably ringing an alarm bell in the house. Good job. Tremendous gate, this. He's spread the story that the barbed wire all about here is carrying a high voltage current. I might believe it, except for the fact that the only respectable dynamo in the neighborhood is on Elise's plantations and I know he's not getting power from that. Still he might have rigged up something. We'd better be careful."

He withdrew a small wire from his pocket and began to pick the massive lock. As he did so, the brush on the other side of the creek crackled loudly. Both men started.

Where Hunting is Good

THE vast forest reserves of British Columbia are Canada's big game sanctuary. In the northern and Cariboo districts and the southern and Kootenay districts, there is splendid hunting and shooting—caribou, moose, deer, cinnamon, grizzly and black bear, mountain sheep and goats, wapiti—geese, ducks, prairie chickens, grouse, partridge and ptarmigan. On Vancouver Island—black tailed deer, pheasants, grouse, quail, geese, brant, ducks and shore birds.

Big game hunters from all over the world draw towards British Columbia as the hunting season opens. The seasons for the different game, of course, vary. But the earliest (moose, bear, mountain sheep and goat) in many districts opens September 1st, and others shortly thereafter.

A non-resident of the province must be accompanied by a licensed guide or a resident when on his hunting trip; reliable guides and camping outfits may be obtained in the various game districts. Non-resident licenses (big game, game birds and fishing), $25. Resident (big game and game birds), $5. In regard to non-resident licenses, in addition to the license fee the following must be paid; $25 for each grizzly bear, moose, sheep, elk or caribou; $15 for each brown or black bear, mountain goat or mule deer; $5 for every deer of any other species.

THE FISHERMAN'S PARADISE

There are few, if any, lakes or streams in British Columbia where the angler may not, at some season of the year, fill the largest creel in a day's fishing—with a myriad varieties of game trout or fighting salmon. Fishing waters are easily accessible by steamer, rail or motor stage, and the roads and trails are exceptionally good. Even the unfished waters of the Cassiar and the Cariboo districts are within easy reach for the angler eager for first-class sport on unfrequented waterways. The non-resident license fee is $5.

A REAL VACATION LAND

When you've bagged your game, and fished the teeming streams, you can enjoy sporting golf on the splendid fairways of the Pacific province; boating on the myriad lakes and yachting and excursioning on the coastal waters; and endless scenic motoring. 17,500 miles of highways will take you touring throughout the province. Something you'll never forget, is the wonderful Cariboo Road—the old wagon-road of gold rush days, now converted into a motorway, plunging through a wilderness of rugged scenic splendor, far northward to the still active mining town of Barkerville. There are, too, the Trans-provincial, Banff-Windermere and Columbia Valley, Fraser Canyon, Harrison Hot Springs, Grouse Mountain, and Vancouver Island Highways to tour.

YOUR RAILWAY JOURNEY

If your time is limited, the most comprehensive route the tourist can follow is entering British Columbia via the Canadian National Railway, taking in beautiful Mt. Robson Park, Prince George, to Prince Rupert; the coast steamship trip down the mountain and glacier-rimmed Inside Passage to Victoria and Vancouver, thence eastward once more via the Canadian Pacific Railway, and through Mt. Revelstoke, Glacier and Yoho Parks. It is truly an inspiring journey.

THE PROSPERITY YOU SEE

The tourist cannot help but be impressed with the great development he sees on every hand in British Columbia; signs of a stabilized and growing prosperity. Each year the provincial production figures mount. Last year every branch of industry showed a substantial increase, the figures being as follows:

TIMBER

Timber, $82,000,000—an increase of 160 per cent. in the last ten years. And still British Columbia has used up less of its timber capital than any other area in America.

AGRICULTURE

Agriculture, $70,000,000—livestock and mixed farming, poultry-raising, dairying, fur-farming, fruit growing and truck farming, tobacco growing, bee-keeping. Approximately fifteen million acres of arable land await cultivation.

MINING

Mining, $67,718,400—1926 was the greatest year in the history of the province. Mining has shown a steady increase over the past 30 years. As yet undeveloped, richly mineralized areas are crying out for prospectors.

FISHERIES

Fisheries, $25,000,000—for the 14th successive year British Columbia has produced more fish than any other province in Canada. British Columbia fish are sold in 70 countries.

MANUFACTURING

Manufacturing, $430,000,000—British Columbia stands third as an industry centre in the Dominion. Unlimited raw materials are available in the province; only 1 per cent. of raw materials are imported. Tremendous waterpower assures reasonable commercial electricity rates. Strategic railway and ocean transportation, open the markets of the world to British Columbia.

AMERICANS TAKE RYDER CUP HONORS

British Are Defeated By Final Point Score of 9½ To 2½.

START WITH LEAD.

Melhorn Defeats Compston For Point That Decided Winner.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 5 (Canadian Press). — Ability to use the putter brought victory to the United States team in the Anglo-American professional golf matches at Samuel Ryder Cup on Saturday. The final point score was 9½ to 2½. The winners were slipshod here and there in getting on the green, but once there they went about their business with neatness and despatch.

Starting the final day's play of the singles with a lead of two points, gained in three victories to one defeat in the two-ball foursomes on Friday, the United States pros won six matches, lost one, and halved one. Although putting won the day, for the home team, it was an able putt from the club of George Duncan, the veteran Wentworth pro., that saved the cup defenders from a rout. They had only half of one point for the singles play when Duncan, standing all even with Joe Turnesa at the 36th hole, slammed a dashing putt against the back of the cup for a birdie three giving him the victory. The other British scoring yesterday was a half registered by Charles A. Whitcombe with Gene Sarazen, the former United States champion.

The glory of winning the match that decided the possession of the cup fell to "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, for his defeat of Archie Compston gave the United States the seventh point of a possible 12. Johnny Farrell, showing himself the "putting fool" that has made him one of the most feared men on the greens in the game, had putted his way to a five and four victory over Aubrey Boomer after they had finished the morning round all square.

Just behind Farrell's triumph John Golden removed Herbert Jolly from the picture seven up and six to play, and Leo Diegel, recovered from a putting slump and very much himself again, had turned Captain Ted Ray back seven and five. With the three points carried over from Friday, the United States team needed only half to win. "Wild Bill" went to the seventeenth green all even with Archie Compston, and won the seventeenth with a four to Compston's five, and made his last drive one up. The drive was not so good, landing in the rought, while Compston was gstraight and far. Bill came out of the rough into a trap guarding the green, leaving and opening which Compston passed up when he placed his approach forty feet beyond the pin. The British giant came back six feet beyond the pin, while Mehlhorn brought a lot of sand and the ball out and up to within seven feet of the cup ,but uphill with a bad slope to combat. Mehlhorn got the putt home, and the golden trophy was domiciled in the United States for a year.

The rest of the matches came along in due cource, adding to the United States score, but furnishing something of an anti-climax. Captain Walter Hagen won from Arthur Havers two and one, Al Watrous stopped Fred Robeson three and two, and George Duncan made his last minute rally giving the British a point soon after Whitcombe had contribu'ed half a point, at the expense of Gene Sarazen.

Last year's informal matches in England resulted in a victory for the British by a score of 13½ to 1½, five foursomes and ten singles being played. Golf history was repeated on Saturday with the ocean and a year between, for Bill Mehlhorn then and there won the only United States victory, defeating Archie Compston, one up ,just as he did in the cup-winning match.

HAMILTON HOLDS CARSTEEL TEAM

Tie Crack Club 1-1 in National Soccer League Fixture.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 6. — Canadian Press. — Hamilton City accomplished a smart feat when they held the much-touted Montreal Carsteal team to a 1-1 tie in a National Soccer League at the stadium here Saturday. Much has been heard of the prowess of the Corsteel team, and they certainly lived up to advance notice. They were easily the best team seen here this season and their neat footwork made quite a hit with the eight hundred or so fans who braved the threatening weather to witness the game. Neat footwork, however, did not score goals and the Montreal team, by far the better footballers, had to be content with but one point. Although Carsteel were the better team they were in a sense fortunate to obtain a draw, for the goal they scored, on the stroke of half time was the result of a free kick awarded against Vickers for what looked like a purely accidental foul on Green. Wilson took the kick and scored with a fast shot from just outside the penalty arena. Hamilton City had scored prior to this within five minutes of the start, Spurgeon having received a delightful pass from Gilvear, and beating McAuley rap n to score with a great shot.

Spurgeon was rather badly injured shortly after, when he appeared to be again headed for a goal. He received a kick in the face from McAuley and was compelled to retire, to return to the game after the interval.

In the second period Carsteel monopolized the play but they were held in check by a magnificent defence, Scanlon, Vickers and Gilvear, the latter having dropped back from the forward line, ably assisted by Gardiner and Totten, performed great deeds and although Carsteel were awarded a penalty, Scanlon topped a great display by saving McKean's fast drive. The line-up:

Hamilton: Scanlon, Brady, Vickers, Cartwright, Gardiner and Totten, Spurgeon, Gilvear, Lawson, Smith and Ashthorpe.

Montreal Carsteel: Nelson; Reynolds and McAuley; Miller, Wilson and McKean; Westwater, Brown, Green, McKenzie and Black.

Referee: A. McCullough.

Physicians, ministers and dentists are too often in contact with disease, the others are included in the "extra-hazardous" class.

RALLY IN 6TH TO WIN GAME

All of Key's Runs Were Driven in By Circuit Blows.

GAMES CALLED OFF.

NEW YORK, June 6 (Canadian Press).—Toronto took the first game of the series at Reading yesterday, 4—3. All of the Keys' runs were driven in by circuit blows. In the second, Dave Barbee hit a home run over right field fence with George Quellich on first, and then in the ninth Quellich hit a long homer over the left field fence.

Toronto hit Freddy Carts hard in the sixth to score three runs and sew up the decision.

Rochester took the first game of a scheduled double-header at Jersey City by a score of 3 to 2. Rain stopped the game in the 7th inning with the Jerseys at the bat. The second game was called off on account of rain.

Buffalo took two tight games from the Orioles at Baltimore by scores of 7 to 0 and 7 to 6. The initial game developed a pitchers' battle between Hollingsworth and Earnshaw. Home runs featured the second tilt. Huber's circuit drive enabling the Bisons to take the lead in the fifth.

Bert Shotten's Syracuse Stars defeated the Bears, 3 to 1, at Newark. Eddie Dyer, former St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, held the Bears to four hits, three being scratches. Conlan's two-bagger in the ninth was the only good hit the Bears made, and saved them from a shutout.

The second game was called because of rain.

CRICKET CLUB SUCCESSFUL IN REVIVING GAME

Enthusiastic Local Members Look After the Ground Themselves.

DESERVE CREDIT.

Are Putting the Fine Old Game on a Solid Footing Here.

No athletic organization in the city is more deserving of support than the Peterborough Cricket Club, which for several years has been successfully striving to revive the fine old game and put it upon a firm footing. The members of the organization are all enthusiasts, and the manner in which they have carried on in the face of difficulties indicates their love for the game. The present grounds at Nicholls Oval, where the club is playing its schedule this season, are being cared for by the members, who last year performed a similar service at the Exhibtion Grounds, putting in many hours of hard work to ensure a proper field. Cricket is making rapid strides in Canada at the present time, and it is gratifying to witness the zeal and interest shown by members of the local club, who deserve all kinds of credit for the progress they have been able to make.

WATER SPOILED SOCCER GAME

King Edward Park Covered With Water in Many Places.

Rain again was the dominant factor that prevented the soccer players from playing the scheduled Holloway Charity Cup final on Saturday afternoon at King Edward Park.

Players All Present.

The Masseys and Quaker Oats players were all in readiness to decide the winner of the trophy but they were disappointed when informed that there would be no game. The reason was very satisfactory in every degree.

Stagnant Water Everywhere

All the officials of the local board were of the opinon that the match could be played, if the city council would endeavour to fill up the holes on the field that become a picture of stagnant water everywhere, which was not assisted by the falling in of the earth at the north end of the pitch where a water pipe had been placed. In fact there was a large hole that would have required earth before the players could play, otherwise it would have meant injuries to the contestants.

In the beginning of the season the city council made many improvements to the park and at an early date the local association intend adding another six feet to the playing pitch by placing the west end goal further back. The tree on the same alignment with goal post has been removed. Before another game is played the grass should be cut because it spoils the control of the ball.

Meeting Tonight.

The Association meet tonight in the Chamber of Commerce rooms to arrange matches for the next few weeks.

ROBINS WIN SECOND GAME

World Champions, St. Louis Cardinals, Are Defeated By Score 6-1.

REDS RALLY FOR WIN.

NEW YORK, June 6 (Canadian Press). — The Brooklyn Robins came back yesterday after an 8 to 0 drubbing by the world champions, St. Louis Cardinals, in the first game at St. Louis, and won the second, 6 to 1. Alexander held the Robins to eight well-scattered base hits in the first game, while his team mates found Petty for eleven hits and scored four runs in the third and sixth innings. A homer by Hafey accounted for two runs. In the second game Jess Haines bowed to Doak in a pitchers' battle.

Sherriff Blake held Boston to five scattered hits at Chicago, while the Cubs bunched hits off Edwards and Werts and shut out the visitors, 7 to 0, before a crowd of about 23,000. President Heydler, of the National League, witnessed the game.

The Reds came from behind with a three-run rally in the ninth to nose out the Giants at Cincinnati by 10 to 9, giving the Reds two straight over their New York opponents. New York used 17 players, while Cincinnati employed 15. Four New York pitchers followed each other, while five Reds' hurlers were on parade.

YANKEES MAKE MOST OF SERIES

Take Two Out of Three in the Series With Detroit Tigers.

NEW YORK, June 6 (Canadian Press)—The New York Yankees made it two out of three in the series with the Detroit Tigers by winning yesterday's game by 5 to 3, Babe Ruth turning out his 17th home run of the year in the sixth inning with none on. Although the Yankees were outhit by 12 to 6, they took advantage of their opportunities. Ruth put New York ahead with his homer and when the Tigers tied the count, his single in the eighth drove in what proved to be the winning run.

St. Louis Brown scored their third straight victory over the Senators at Washington, winning 9 to 1. Braxton, on the mound for Washington, proved no puzzle to the St. Louis batsmen, who found him for twelve hits before forcing him to retire in the sixth. O'Rourke led the attack with four safeties. Zachary was effective throughout, allowing the Senators four hits.

Only two games scheduled.

Favorites Defeated At Fairmount Derby

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ills., June 6 (Canadian Press). — The second annual $25,000 Fairmount Derby to-day proved one of the biggest racing upsets of the year when E. R. Bradley's Buddy Bauer, quoted at 20 to 1, defeated Whiskery and Osmand, winner and place horses of the recent Kentucky Derby. Whiskery and Osmand finished second and third yesterday.

The time for the mile and a quarter was 2.05 2-5. The winner paid $56.20 for $2.00; Jock, Black Panther, Handy Mandy, and Rolled Stocking also ran.

Buddy Bauer won by half a length, and would have beaten Whiskery by six lengths in another seventy yards.

BILL TILDEN LOSES OUT IN TENNIS FINALS

Conquered By Rene Lacoste, French Ace, 6-4, 4-6, 5-7, 6-3.

PLAY SKILFUL GAME.

Women's Singles Championship Won By Miss Kea Bowman.

ST. CLOUD, France, June 6 (Canadian Press).—William T. Tilden's victorious sweep of the European tennis courts came to an abrupt end yesterday when Rene Lacoste, the French ace, conquered him in the final of the men's singles of the international hard court tennis championship, 6—4, 4—6, 5—7, 6—3, 11—9.

The women's singles championship was won by Miss Kea Bouman of Holland, who defeated Mrs. Peacock of South Africa, 6—2, 6—4, and thus took the crown dropped by Suzanne Lenglen when she turned professional last year.

The Lacoste-Tilden match provided every thrill ever imagined in a tennis contest, including arguments between linesmen and players and an outburst from the largest crowd that ever watched a tennis match in France. The victory for a native son over a man who has been regarded in France as a super-man of tennis was achieved in a thrilling uphill battle.

Strategy was the keynote of the match and for the first three sets carefulness dominated the two gladiators of the courts while the 8,000 spectators, failing to understand the beautiful technique of play and the conflict of two well-planned campaigns, were rather somnolent.

Then, with Tilden two sets to one, Lacoste began the gallant fight which squared the match amid enthusiasm such as had been seen seldom if ever in the history of sport in France.

While the crowd was keyed to most intense emotion in the third set with the score at three-all, Lacoste injured a leg in trying to return one of Tilden's cannonballs. Thereafter for the remaining games of the set he limped badly, once hitting down beside the baseline. Courageously resuming play, he finally lost, 5—7.

The third set saw the players resorting to every possible trick of the game, including change of pace and deep lobs. Then came the first foot fault called against Tilden—the first ever called in the history of the French championships. An argument ensued. Twice later Tilden was accused of stepping over the line and each of the three faults was called by an American judge, Alan Muhr, who resides in France and is prominent in French athletics. Heated arguments ensued between Tilden and Muhr, the player being especially upset over a decision in the fourth set.

In this session Lacoste took charge of the situation. He allowed Tilden only three games in the set.

In the fifth set with the score 3—4 in Lacoste's favor, Tilden requested Muhr to watch his service closely, then served four straight aces, making the crucial set five-all. The American finally pushed the count to 9—8 in his favor, only to have Lacoste take the last three games and the match from an obviously dis-spirited and downcast opponent.

"Completely knocked out," was the decision of the spectators as the players limped off the courts after the most gruelling five-set match ever seen in France.

Information For Dog Owners.

Following his recent heavy loss by fire, Mr. Allan B. Mann, breeder of thoroughbred sheep in Smith township, has suffered another loss by the killing and worrying by dogs of two of his most valuable breeding sheep.

The law governing such a case is known as "The Dog Tax and Sheep Protection Act of 1926," by which "Dog" shall mean any dog, male or female; "sheep" shall mean sheep of any age, and "owner" of a dog shall include any person who possesses or harbors a dog.

Section 5, subsection 1, of above Act states that the owners of dogs in a municipality in which a dog tax is levied must procure from the clerk or the assessor a tag for each dog owned by him and shall keep the tag securely fixed on the dog at all times during the year and until he procures a tag the following year.

Section 5, subsection 5, states that every dog which is found off the premises upon which it is habitually kept without a tag and not under the control of any person may be killed.

Section 9 states that any person may kill any dog,—(a) which is found killing or injuring sheep; or (b) which in a township or village is found between sunset and sunrise straying from the premises where the dog is habitually kept; or (c) which is found straying at any time, and not under proper control, upon premises where sheep are habitually kept.

Section 12 provides that a municipality shall be entitled to recover the amount of damage done to any sheep from the owner of the dog in any court of competent jurisdiction without proving that it was vicious or accustomed to worry sheep; and also provides proceedings for ascertaining the owner of the dog.

Owners of dogs in the municipality would be well advised to study the information given above and to see that their dogs are kept on their own property and under control at all times, especially at night, to avoid personal penalties and to eliminate any further losses to Mr. Mann or to any other owner of sheep.

GEORGE YOUNG WILL TRAIN NEAR PICTON

Trainer O'Byrne Signs Contract For Use of Glen Island.

Glen Island is to be very much in the lime-light during the next three months as the result of a contract signed yesterday by Russell A. Williams, Glen Island proprietor, and Henry O'Byrne of Santa Monica, California, trainer and contract holder for George Young, the winner of the Wrigley Catalina channel marathon. Under this agreement Young is to live during July and August at Glen Island and carry on his training there for the World Championship swimming race at the Toronto Exhibition on August 31st.

Young and his party will have set aside for their use three cottages on the island, one of them fitted out as a kitchen and dining room. The agreement stipulates that as many as fifteen persons may accompany Young as his training party, and that training shall be carried on for not less than six weeks preceding the Championship race.

That the youth who leaped into world-wide fame by overcoming the gruelling test of the Catalina Channel swim is to come to Glen Island is a fact of which Mr. Williams is justly proud. Young's presence there will undoubtedly draw hundreds of holiday-seekers to the Island to see him in action, and increased accommodation is planned in the way of boats to take people to and from the Island.

A FINE DISPLAY

Riley and Hickey Had Splendid Window of War Souvenirs.

One of the most impressive and valued displays of souvenirs belonging to returned soldiers was on display in the window of Riley and Hickey's new men's furnishings store on George Street last week. This exhibit not only shows some of the things that the soldiers used overseas, but it brought back memories of the days that Young Canada came to the air of her country and fought for it—yes, and even died for it.

The window contained practically all the smaller material that was used "over there," and this was a very appropriate time for a display such as this, for it reminded the men of the Legion who were at the convention, that the citizens have not forgotten the time when they dropped everything and went to defend the Flag and its People.

MAY REPLACE COTTON.

BELFAST, June 6.—Linen may be made as cheaply as cotton goods if a new variety of flax produced by the Ulster Research Association proves to be all that is claimed for it. The fiber of the new flax is twice the length of ordinary flax; also is of such texture that it may be handled entirely by machinery. American growers will test it.

Theatres

AT THE REGENT.

"HOLD THAT LION" HEADS REGENT BILL TO-DAY.

Lion Hunt Furnishes Laugh and Thrill Climax for Doug. MacLean Farce.

Picturegoers who visit the Regent Theatre to-day are assured of a royal good time. Douglas MacLean, acknowledged king of comedy, will be there with his latest mirthquake, "Hold That Lion," supported, as the title promisingly suggests, by several kings of the jungle.

Besides the smiling funster and his unsociable pets, the picture reveals a number of other personalities who share in the general fun and excitement. Constance Howard, a blonde and petite newcomer, makes an impressive screen debut as MacLean's leading lady. Walter Hiers, who is just as funny as he is fat and vice versa, contributes a goodly quota of laughs on his own account. Cyril Chadwick, Wade Boteler, and George Pearce—all tried and true players—ably second the active and irrepressible star.

As in "That's My Baby," his previous comedy success, MacLean had the directorial help of William Beaudine and the scenario assistance of Joseph Franklin Poland. The story was especially written for him by Rosalie Mulhall.

In "Hold That Lion" MacLean starts out to demonstrate that the way of a man to the heart of a maid is sometimes via the big game hunting route. He ends up by proving that love can laugh at lions as well as locksmiths. The story has its beginning in New York, where the romantic Douglas first sets eyes on the beautiful blonde, who becomes the unconscious cause of all his trials and tribulations.

When the girl leaves on a round-the-world trip with her father, MacLean impulsively follows. The chase leads to Cherbourg, then to Gibraltar, next to Naples, and finally to East Africa. By that time, Hiers, who has accompanied him, is minus his breath and MacLean is minus his trousers. His antics as a trouserless Romeo furnish some of the most uproarious moments in the picture.

But it is in the lion hunting scenes that the film reaches the heights of hilarity. As a big game hunter, MacLean proves that he is in a class by himself. His method of capturing a lion would make even a wooden Indian roar with laughter.

STARTING RIGHT.

FORT MORGAN, Col., June 6.—When a young couple had been married by A. V. Saunders, justice of the peace, the groom asked the charges. "The law allows me $2.50 for a wedding ceremony," said the judge. "Here's four bits," said the groom, flipping over a half dollar. "That'll make you $3." The astonished judge accepted the coin and the couple walked out.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

AS I GROW OLD

As I grow old it seems that I
Grow old as grows the westward sky
When day is coming to its close:
For life takes on a tint of rose
I had not known in life's hot noon.
Now in the night that comes so soon
I see new stars I had not seen,
A surer faith, a peace serene,
As I grow old.

As I grow old, like men at even,
I turn my eyes again to heaven,
That were so busy with the earth:
And there I find the things of worth,
The things most beautiful of all.
Upon the world the shadows fall,
Yet on the world a fairer light,
A golden gleam, a beacon bright,
As I grow old.

As I grow old the winds of life
Die down, the hate, the hurt, the strife.
The waters calm, the waves are still.
I want no triumph, wish no ill
To any man. Now from my heart
The ancient angers all depart.
New friends I know, new songs are sung,
New joys are mine—yes, I grow young
As I grow old!

THE CHEMISTRY OF STOMACH DIGESTION

The digestion of food is mostly a chemical process. The chewing of food does not hurry digestion except as the food is mixed more thoroughly with the saliva which contains a chemical digestant named ptyalin. Only starches are digested by this ferment, and the muscles of the esophagus force the food into the stomach where the next chemical change takes place.

The food does not fall into the stomach, but a certain muscular movement forces it in that direction, and it has been demonstrated that one can swallow food just as well while standing on their head as when they are sitting at the table.

The digestion in the mouth is entirely an alkaline digestion, but as soon as the food reaches the stomach it is immediately mixed with the gastric juice, which is acid in character, containing about one-half of one per cent of hydrochloric acid.

The pepsin and rennin, which are also contained in the gastric juice, cannot act chemically upon the food unless the gastric juice remains acid. Pepsin has the property of converting proteins into peptones, while rennin changes milk sufficiently so that it can be digested. The effect of these digestive ferments is purely a chemical one, and the object is to convert protein food into a form suitable for absorption and assimilation.

Starchy food or the starchy part of protein food is not acted upon by any of the digestive juices of the stomach. If starch is eaten along with protein foods, it simply sours and remains in that state until it reaches the small intestines.

The walls of the stomach contain three sets of muscles, each arranged in a different manner so that when they contract, the stomach twists and squeezes at the same time. Through this churning movement the gastric juice, with its digestive agents, is eventually completely mixed with the different foods. Even though starch is not chemically acted upon, it must of necessity, be mixed with the hydrochloric juice, the same as meats, eggs, cheese, and the other proteins whose digestions is partly accomplished in the stomach.

If the stomach organ is distended by over-eating it will gradually lose its muscular power and will degenerate into a distended sac without the ability to mix food properly with the digestive juices. General bodily enervation will have a similar effect upon the muscles of the stomach, the same as it effects all parts of the body. If one becomes tired after a short walk, it is a positive evidence that the stomach will also become tired after a few minutes of muscular work.

Those who suffer from poor stomach digestion should always attempt to bring up the general muscular tone of the body, knowing that at the same time, the stomach muscles themselves will increase in strength. To improve stomach digestion, also remember to eat a minimum amount of foods of the right quality and be especially careful to avoid mixtures of proteins and starches, which places an unnecessary burden upon stomach digestion.

REVOKE BOY BABY BONUS.

GENEVA, June 6.—The Swiss government, to encourage larger families, for several years has offered a subsidy of 100 gold francs to the parents of ten children when the tenth is a boy. Pro-feminist groups said the discrimination was an insult to their sex. That, coupled with the fact that 2,800 families are potential recipients of the reward, has led to a decision to abandon the sytsem.

PETERBORO SUMMER RESORT DISTRICT

SOUTH BEACH AND BURLEIGH FALLS

On leaving Peterborough by motor it takes but a short time to reach the first of the summer resorts in the Kawartha Lake District, north of here. The drive up is beautiful and one can pass through the pretty village of Lakefield, which in addition to its natural beauty and situation on the water is shortly, it is said, to become a real hive of industry through the operation of the Canada Cement Plant, in which some millions of dollars has been invested.

Going up either side of the river to Young's Point, the scenery is grand, but the east side of the river has much the better road and on coming to Young's Point, right at the doors is South Beach, of which W. E. Brooks is proprietor. This splendid summer hotel is more of a tourists' home than a hotel. The grounds surrounding are pleasant and well laid out. Trails through the woods lead in different directions along lake and river shores. The hotel itself is large and roomy, has extra cottages and summer house for parties, and this year hot and cold water has been added to the rooms with private bath.

There is a new tennis court and two new cottages.

Altogether it is one of the finest properties in the Kawartha Lake district, and this section will no doubht benefit by the increased tourist trade, as it deserves to.

In Young's Point there are several good homey hotels that have had as their guests many tourists who make these places their headquarters from year to year.

The Kearney House especially has catered for years to a number of regular season guests.

The Charlton House, of which Wm. McFarlane is proprietor, also has its share of guests who like this end of the lake.

Young's Point is a very pretty spot. The locks are interesting; it is the junction of Clear Lake and the river, and is particularly attractive to those who like fresh air, fishing, and an interesting and pleasant holiday.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Yesterday being the Feast of Pentecost, Solemn Pontifical High Mass was celebrated at half past ten o'clock at St. Peter's Cathedral by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, followed by Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament for Adoration Sunday. The usual sermon was dispensed with, Rev. P. Costello making the announcements.

The ordination of Rev. Patrick J. Lynch of the Sacred Heart Parish, will take place at the High Mass at the Cathedral next Sunday, and next Sunday will also see the celebration in Toronto of the 25th anniversary of the foundation of the Holy Name Society there.

The Devotion of the Forty Hours commenced yesterday at the Church of the Sacred Heart.

MURRAY STREET.

The pulpit of Murray Street Baptist Church was occupied morning and evening yesterday by Professor J. H. Farmer, B.A., LL.D., Dean of Theology of McMaster University.

Dr. Farmer, conducting the adult class at the morning service, spoke on the various steps from Judaism to Christianity as recorded in the Acts of the Apostles. Most of the stages were associated with names of individuals.

Everything grew out of Pentecost and the working of the Holy Spirit.

After that they were released and were eventually arrested again. Who were troubled by their teaching? Most of the priests were Sadducees who did not believe in resurrection, and when the disciples commenced to preach the resurrection of Jesus the Sadducees did not like it. . . . But the other party in the Sanhedrim, the Pharisees were not troubled by this doctrine and it was probable that they had their tongue in the cheek when they say the perturbation of their opponents. Brought before the Sanhedrim, the disciples found themselves defended by Gamelisl, a Pharisee. After the Sanhedrim heard the counsel of Gamelial they allowed the disciples to go.

In this first stage, the church was sheltered behind the wing of Pharisseism. The Pharisees were quite willing that if the disciples behaved themselves, these Christians could be regarded as another sect of Pharisseism and as allies against the Sadducees.

The next step was associated with another man. Stephen's name showed him to be a Greek. The Pharisees had begun to be alarmed. The Christians had spoken against the Temple and against the law, against Moses and the customs. God they had said, was not tied to any one place. Worse than that, Stephen had said the Jews were uncircumcised in heart and a stiff-necked people. Then the Pharisees turned against the Church. The Pharisees and Sadducees combined in outlawing Christianity.

The next step was associated with Phillip, who was carried to Samaria, a kind of half-way house, to the Gentiles. Then there was Peter, to whom a special revelation was necessary in order to convince him that the Gospel had also to be presented to the Gentiles.

Finally there was the Council presided over by James, the pastor of the church at Jerusalem, from which letters were sent out to the churches urging the preaching of the Gospel to all without regard to racial distinctions.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The preacher at St. John's church in the evening was Ven. Archdeacon Davidson. The church was thronged and the warmth of the service as well as the size of the congregation must have proved a source of thankfulness and joy to the preacher. Mr. Davidson took as his text the words from Deuteronomy 4:34: "For ask now of the days that are past," and based upon those words a lesson in which inspiration and high resolve for the future were the principal keynotes. Everywhere inspiration was to be found, in the memorials around and about the church, in the vast improvements that the past hundred years had witnessed, and, lastly, in the memories of those who in our own lifetime had shown by their lives and by their deeds glorious examples for us to follow. He spoke most feelingly of the wonderful work accomplished by the late Rev. Canon Beck, and stressed the great debt that all church men owed to him, and particularly the congregation of St. John's. It was to him, the preacher said, that St. John's owed its present form of service, for which he had fought manfully in days when sectarian heat was very strong and antagonism to anything that seemed to savour of ritualistic tendencies was held in abhorrence. He fought heroically and manfully for a service of greater beauty, and more reverence, and he lived to see his efforts crowned with success.

Touching on the years of his own long pastorate at St. John's he emphasized as clearly as possible the principles by which he had been animated, viz. the desire to make St John's church the leader in drawing together the whole community in bonds of closer fellowship and co operation.

"The whole policy of St. John's church was and I am sure still is, co operation with all whenever such would tend towards higher ideals of life and community fellowship," he said.

In conclusion, Archdeacon David son spoke in warm terms of commendation of the work being carried on at the present time at St. John's under his successor, Dr. Blagrave, and of the great strides that had been made in every department of church work. It was a sermon full of inspiration and encouragement and could not fail to carry to all hearers the feeling that the welfare of St. John's church was very dear to the heart of the preacher.

GAS CHAMBER FOR ANIMALS

Asphyxiating Device Bought By Local Humane Society.

FOR PAINLESS DEATH.

For the painless killing of stray and diseased animals in the city the local branch of the Humane Society has ordered from Toronto a new and portable asphyxiating chamber to be placed in the care of Inspector R. C. Smith.

The new chamber which will have a glas stop will be able to contain anything from the smallest kisten to a large-sized dag. The method of killing will secure for the animal an absolutely painless end. The chamber will be fastened to the exhaust of the inspector's car. The engine will be set in motion and the carbon-monoxide introduced through numerous perforations will gradually fill the chamber, the animal expiring in five seconds.

When the apparatus comes to hand the Inspector intends to collect some stray cats to give a practical demonstration of the lethal work of the chamber.

TURNBULL STORE HAS FINE DISPLAYS

Visit of Legion Reason For Patriotic Window—Made-in-Peterborough Week.

In connection with the visit here last week of the Canadian Legion Convention, the J. C. Turnbull Company had a special patriotic window display, featuring the crest of the Legion and various insignia of the Order. A Made-in-Peterborough week is also being featured by this store at the present time, with products of local manufacture on view, including carpets from the Brinton Works and bathing suits from the Albion Mills, with a demonstration of particular interest in the elastic machine from the factory of the J. C. Reidel Company. This machine is busy all day, stationed on the main floor, turning out elastic, its whirling bobbins busy with the yards of white material, which is being sold to a special demand for the occasion.

A notable achievement of the Turnbull Company recently was the wining of first prize in a contest carried on by the Fisher Advertising Agency for the Snyder Sani-Bilt Company of Waterloo, Ontario, manufacturers of mothproof chesterfields. In connection with an April sale of their product, the company also ran a window-dressing contest, open to stores from Vancouver to Halifax, the first prize for which was won by the Turnbull store, for a window display designed by A. Wood, in charge of the chesterfield department, and Hector Tarvey, in charge of the window displays.

WHAT THE RED CROSS DOES IN TIME OF PEACE

Dr. Harry S. Thompson Explains Many Activities of Organization.

ASKS FOR SUPPORT.

Rotary Urged To Offer Its Co-operation in the Local Drive.

An eloquent exposition of the peacetime programme of the Red Cross Society by Dr. Harry S. Thomson on behalf of the Ontario Red Cross featured to-day's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club.

Dr. Thomson, a charter member of the Moncton, N.B., Rotary Club, is field secretary of the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council, but his services for the present have been loaned to the Red Cross during the drive for funds that is being carried on this month.

Explaining the origin of the peacetime programme the speaker pointed out that the large percentage of unfit men revealed by medical examinations during the war had led to a conference of health experts to investigate the conditions, and a programme of health education had been considered necessary, the Red Cross being recommended for the task. Incorporated in the Covenant of the League of Nations was the following:

"The members of the League agree to encourage and promote the establishment of national voluntary Red Cross organization, which shall have as their purposes the improvement of health, the prevention of disease, and the mitigation of suffering throughout the world."

Dealing with the features of the Canadian programme, Dr. Thomson first mentioned the work among disabled soldiers, upon which, he said, the Canadian Red Cross had since the war expended $3,500,000 as an augmentation of governmental activities. This work included hospital visiting, provision of comforts, relief for families if needed, Christmas cheer, entertainments, outings that could not be provided by the government. The latter provided the necessities and it remained for the Red Cross to furnish the rest.

The Junior Red Cross work was next explained by Dr. Thomson, who pointed out that the introduction of this movement into the schools, interested the children in personal and general hygiene, which in turn they carried into their homes. They were pledged to practice a set of simple rules of health living, learned considerable about citizenship in the deliberations of the organization and were encouraged to help under-privileged children who needed medical treatment. Since 1920, 5,000 Canadian children had been given hospital treatment as a result of the activities of the Junior Red Cross.

The work of the outpost hospitals, such as is being opened at Apsley on Friday, was another feature of the Red Cross programme outlined by the speaker, who stressed the necessity of such institutions in pioneer settlements. Dr. Thomson also dealt with the activity of the Red Cross in assisting immigrants and to the courses in public health nursing the institution had been successful in establishing.

In pleading for the co-operation of the Rotary Club in the local drive the speaker explained that only six cents out of every $1.00 paid into the Red Cross Society was used up in overhead expenses.

Rotarian J. H. Seels asked for the assistance of the members at the Exhibition Ground on July 1 and 2, the Rotary Club having decided to operate a number of the concessions in connection with the Diamond Jubilee celebration.

KING WELCOMES ROTARY DELEGATES

Albert Describes Himself As Alone in His Rotary Classification.

OSTEND, Belgium, June 6 (Canadian Press). — Belgium's leading Rotarian, King Albert, welcomed the visiting delegates in an address to-day before the eighteenth annual convention of the Rotary International.

The King addressed himself particularly to the more than three thousand Canadian and United States delegates "whose crossing of the Atlantic is indeed an important event," he said. "It proves the strength of Rotarians feeling and co-operative spirit."

"A Rotarian myself,' he continued, "I think I even am alone in the classification to which I belong — I feel how sound and trustworthy our movement is. I am sincerely convinced of the increasing influence of our remarkable organization."

DOMINION DAY IN PORT HOPE

Port Hope's 60th continuous celebration of Dominion Day on Friday, July 1st will eclipse all previous events. A special feature this year will be a monster Confederation Pageant, with Folk Dancing, in which over 700 specially trained children will participate in the Town Park. Another innovation will be a Ladies' Amateur Softball Game, between Toronto's Sunnyside Favorites, the "Pats" and the "Lakesides." The "Midway," conducted exclusively this year by the Port Hope Rotary Club, will provide barrels of fun for young and old. Other events include a Lakeshore League Baseball game, good horse races, vaudeville; music by the Kilties Band of Cobourg and other bands, concluding with a magnificent display of fireworks in the evening by Hand & Co., with special Confederation designs. Port Hope's celebration will be the big event of the district. Do not miss it. Ample parking space for cars.

SACRED MUSICALE.

Park Street Choir and Organist Give Good Programme After Service.

A splendid conclusion to the services at Park Street Baptist Church last eevning was the sacred musicale given under the direction of Cecil Lapp, organist and choir leader. This was very much enjoyed by the large congregation ,special mention being due the exceptionally well-rendered duet on organ and piano by Mr. Lapp and Walter Townsend, playing "In a Monastery Garden."

Several hymns formed the opening of the programme, with a chorus by the choir, in Gounod's "Praise Ye the Father," followed by a vocal solo by Miss Edith Pilling, in "His Grace Is Sufficient for Thee," the organ and piano duet by Mr. Lapp and Walter Townsend, a chorus by the juniors, "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me," an organ solo by Mr. Lapp, a vocal solo, "Abide With Me," by Mrs. Iredale, a chorus by the choir, "O Land of Mine," and the concluding voluntary by the organist.

Delays Send Corn Up; Rains Cause Drop In Wheat

CHICAGO, June 6 (Canadian Press). — Reports of delayed plowing and planting led to active buying and to new upturns early in the corn market to-day, whereas wheat tended down grade. Rains south-west and west were construed as bearish concerning wheat. Opening at ¼ to ⅜ cent gain, corn reacted temporarily, but soon rose higher than before.

Wheat started at ⅛ cent to ⅜ cent decline, and later showed further losses. Oats were easy. Provisions lacked support.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 143½, September 141½. July 103, September 106⅛. Oats, July 50⅜, September 48⅞.

Stocks Turn Easier After Firm Opening

TORONTO, June 6 — (Canadian Press).—After a firm opening stocks turned slightly easier on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning and a number of fractional losses were marked up at the close. Northern Mexico, however, continued the market's strong feature, climbing ten points to 90 in light trading. Brazilian touched a new high at 157½ at the opening, but later sold to 155½, a half point gain. Northern Bakeries, another leader, finished the morning around 32, unchanged. Seagrams suffered a loss of an eighth at 25 1-8, and Hiram Walker, another heavily dealt in stock was down a half at 54½. International Nickel lost more than the other leaders, although Nickel sold down a little more than a point at 68 5-8. Cosmos at 24 was firmer. Massey Harris lost a point at 39.

Upward Move Continues On New York Market

NEW YORK, June 6 (Canadian Press).—Stock prices continued to surge forward to-day, despite intermittent profit-taking and bear selling. There were only a few soft spots, the most conspicuous of which were United States Rubber and the other tire stocks, which were sold on reports of poor current earnings and talk of price cuts, and International Nickel, which slid off sharply on the apparent withdrawal of pool support. Pittsburgh and West Virginia had scored an extreme gain of 7½ points by early afternoon, and 'Nickel Plate,' Chicago and Eastern Illinois Common and Preferred, Worthington Pump, Pittsburgh Coal, Case Threshing Machine, Brooklyn Union Gas, and Union Tank Car sold four or more points above Saturday's final quotations.

Among the two score new highs were St. Paul Preferred, General Motors, American Water Works, Commonwealth Power, American International Corporation, Safety Cable, and Otis Steel.

RENOWN DIDN'T ANSWER SALUTE

Firing of 21 Guns Before Daybreak Not Considered Courtesy.

WASHINGTON, June 6. — His British Majesty's battle cruiser Renown, with the Duke and Duchess of York aboard, failed to return the national salute of the United States battleship off Colon.

Ordinarily ignoring a 21-gun salute would call for an explanation but no inquiries will be addressed to the British Admirality relative to the breach of etiquette.

The navy knows the Renown proceeded on her way as if the Arkansas had not been there because the salute was fired before daybreak, when as it is navy custom to shoot no courtesy guns before 8 a.m., and so far from being edified by the courtesy the British commander was put out because his royal guests were awakened at an unseemly hours by the din.

Moderate Gains To-day In Active Mine Market

TORONTO, June 6. — Canadian Press. — Mine stocks advanced moderately in fairly heavy trading on the standard mining exchange to-day. Amulet, the active leader, was also the strongest issue and closed at noon, 5 points higher, at 188, after touching 193. Kirkland Lake was up 5c at 149; Area up 2 at 47, and Laval Quebec, up 2 at 23½. Vipond closed at the high of 97 for a gain of 5½. Duprat, after an active session, showed a half point gain at 5½.

MERCHANTS FAVOR HOLIDAY FOR JUBILEE CELEBRATION ON JULY 2ND IF ALL CLOSE

Many Would Attend Meeting to Arrive at Unanimous Decision.

ACTION NEEDED

Several Cannot Observe Proclamation if Competitors do Business.

Merchants in the centre of the city are decidedly in favor of keeping Saturday, July 2, as a public holiday in the spirit of the proclamation by the Government marking this year as a special Dominion-wide celebration of Canada's Jubilee. Examiner reporters interviewed all who could be reached, numbering 97, and found that of this number 56 will close their stores if others in the same lines of business do so; 23 more are definitely in favor of closing, without any proviso; 3 are undecided; and 15 will remain open.

Many of those interviewed declared in favor of a meeting to be called by His Worship the Mayor to discuss the matter and arrive at some unanimous decision. The general opinion is that if one store closes, all should close, and that the failure of some to observe the holiday will result in a common disregard of the proclamation, turning Saturday into a regular business day.

It was pointed out by one merchant that there may be difficulty in compelling employees to work on that day, since the Governmental proclamation makes Saturday a Dominion-wide public holiday. Another remarked that in factories where union men are employed it may be necessary to pay the holiday scale of wages, which would make production on that day not at all economical.

In interviewing these merchants, The Examiner reporters were careful not to make suggestions for or against the holiday proposal, so that the following expressions of opinion are not affected by outside factors.

West George Street.

N. Sukloff thought he would prefer to remain open, but was willing to fall into line with the majority.

P. J. Scollard was also ready to go with the majority. .. ..

R. H. Hunter would like to close...

M. Fine proposes to remain open. "We would like to close", he said, "but we can't afford it."

L. Potvin said confectioners usually keep open all the time. The crowds in the city would want drinks, ice-cream, etc. The people would have to be fed.

Harry Gainey said the local Hairdressers' Association would take the matter up. The meeting, Mr. Gainey said, was fixed for Tuesday of next week.

A. W. Cressman did not wish to be quoted.

Schneider Brothers were willing to follow the general lead. Mr. Schneider thought the Retail Merchants' Association ought to take the matter up.

W. J. McCormack, Trebilcock Brothers, said he was quite willing to close up if others did likewise.

Robert G. Kingan said the local hardware dealers had agreed to close. Saturday was supposed to be a holiday, he said, the factories were closing and there was no reason why others should not close.

C. H. Saunders, manager of the Hall Store while, having no official information to give, inclined to the belief that the store would be open on July 2. He thought the merchants should get together and discuss the matter. He was prepared to be guided by what the rest did.

S. C. Warne, of Warne Brothers, also thought the merchants should get together. He questioned very much if merchants could insist on employees working on a day which had been made a holiday by proclamation.

Ethel M. Payton, manager of the Lavoie store said she also would be guided by the general procedure.

B. A. Hickey said he would like to see the celebration properly observed. Both Mr. Hickey and his partner thought that the opporunity should not be allowed to slip. The proposal to open Saturday and keep closed all day Thursday did not commend itself to them. In their opinion, a Thursday holiday could not be regarded as celebrating the Jubilee holiday in the right way. Mr. Hickey made the interesting suggestion that the stores keep open on two evenings of the Diamond Jubilee week, thus leaving them free to close on Friday and Saturday both.

V. A. Selkirk, manager of the Brass stores said he would like to observe the holiday. It was a national affair and should, if possible be observed by all. Were it an American holiday, he said, all U.S. stores would be closed, and he thought Canadians should be equally patriotic.

Retail Merchants Plan To Do Business July 2

After much discussion by some merchants of the city as to whether they would keep their stores open on Saturday, July 2, it was decided this morning, at a meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association, to ignore the holiday. This decision was made because of the big break between Thursday and Monday, members said. There were about twenty at the meeting.

Interviews by The Examiner yesterday disclosed that no meeting had then been called to discuss the matter, and the big majority of the merchants would close if all did likewise. The action of today's meeting, however, makes it practically necessary for all to remain open on the second day of the proclaimed holiday.

FLIERS REACH BERLIN TO-DAY IN OWN PLANE

Chamberlin and Levine Greeted By Great Crowds on Landing.

PLANE REPAIRED.

Airmen Have Not Yet Decided Whether To Go To Rome.

BERLIN, June 7 (Canadian Press) —The monoplane Columbia arrived here at 6.51 this afternoon, after circling over the city for some minutes. Crowds gathered at Tempelhofer Field to welcome the airmen.

Phones to Mother

One of the messages conveyed to Clarence Chamberlin on his arrival here in the Columbia was that the telephone connection was being held open from Tempelhofer Field by way of London so that he might talk with his mother in Iowa.

Plane Repaired

KOTTBUS, June 7 (Canadian Press).—Chamberlin's trans-Atlantic monoplane Columbia took to the air again for a trial flight over Kottbus today after the propeller, damaged in landing yesterday, had been repaired.

The plane was found to be in flying condition and the aviators started for Berlin at 4.15 p.m., accompanied by a squadron of German planes carrying officials and newspapermen.

Chamberlin and Levine have not yet decided whether they will fly to Vienna or Rome, deferring decision regarding their plans until their arrival in Berlin. They may visit Paris, incognito, f possble, and hop totaone incognito, if possible, and hope to be able to accept an invitation to London extended by Sir Alan Cobham, noted British flier.

Citizens of Kottbus

KOTTBUS, Germany, June 7 (Canadian Press)—New aerial heroes, Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine, refreshed by their first night's sleep since leaving Rooseveit Field on Saturday morning, were made honorary citizens of Kottbus with solemn ceremonies today.

Shaved, bathed, and keenly alert, the fliers were conducted to the Rathaus, where the ceremonies took place. The burghers of this little mill town stayed up late last night celebrating the arrival of the trans-Atlantic aviators. Corks popped and there was considerable music in honor of "Die Amerikaner."

Barred in Connecticut

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 7 (Canadian Press).—Clarence Chamberlin, trans - Atlantic flier, was banned from flying in this State about three years ago for flying low over the Yale Bowl while a football game was in progress. The ban has not been lifted, as far as can be learned.

PRESBYTERIAL MEETING HERE

ANNUAL SESSIONS.

Seventy-three ladies registered this morning for the first session of the annual meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, held in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. They came from the surrounding districts and from the city, from Norwood, Bowmanville, Millbrook, Port Hope, Newtonville, Lakevale, Cobourg, Keene, Centreville, Warkworth, Westwood, Brighton, Campbellford, Lakehurst, and Omemee. Mrs. W. M. Kannawin, of Toronto, and Miss Agnes Dickson, returned missionary from China, are also in the city for the convention, to give addresses during to-day's sessions.

This morning's meeting was held in the Guild Room of the church, with the table and piano decorated with lovely vases of lilacs and tulips. The president of the Presbyterial, Mrs. D. Ewart, of Cobourg, was in the chair. The ladies were welcomed by Mrs. Robert Hall, president of the W.M.S. of St. Paul's Church, and by members of the Reception and Billeting Committee, composed of Mrs. W. R. Turner, convenor, Mrs. C. A. White, Mrs. E. F. Mason, and Mrs. G. S. McKee. The Ladies' Aid Society of the church, with the president, Mrs. John Hall, in charge, are looking after arrangements for luncheon for the delegates. This evening, tea was served to them as guests of the W. M.S. of St. Paul's Church. Miss Olive Cullen acted as pianiste.

This morning devotional exercises were in the hands of the Campbellford Auxiliary, with the president, Mrs. Wm. Hume, giving an inspirational reading and prayer and Scripture reading offered by Mrs. J. Battisby and Miss J. Neill.

The minutes of the previous annual meeting were read by the recording secretary, Mrs. R. Mulholland of Port Hope, followed by the appointment of the Nominating Committee, in Mrs. J. Rorke of Norwood, convenor, Mrs. J. R. Eakins of Millbrook, Mrs. W. M. McDougall of Lakeport, Mrs. Wm. Hume of Campbellford, and Mrs. E. F. Mason of Peterborough.

A Resolutions Committee was also appointed, with members in Mrs. G. F. Clarke of Brighton and Miss C. C. Calder of Norwood.

The reports from Auxiliaries, further details of which will appear later, occupied the attention of the meeting this morning, with very encouraging results of last year's endeavours reported in every instance. Much enthusiasm was manifested over the reading of these reports, the roll of which was called by the corresponding secretary, Miss Gertrude Harvey of Cobourg.

A cordial invitation is extended to all citizens to be present at this evening's session in the church at eight o'clock, when addresses will be given by Mrs. Kannawin of Toronto and Miss Dickson of China.

FATAL QUARREL ON SOO STREET

Canadian Held Following Shooting Affray—Opponent Dead.

WOMAN WAS CAUSE.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., June 7. —Peter Wilkinson, aged 27, of the Michigan Sault, is dead, and Ferdinand Douville, 22, 74 Gore street, Canadian Sault, is being held as the result of a shooting affray in front of the Michigan Sault Hotel on Portage Avenue west yesterday morning, when Wilkinson resented Douville's interference in a quarrel he was having with Mrs. Pearl Rickby, drew a gun and fired, the bullet tearing open the side of Douville's chin. Douville returned the fire, the first bullet striking Wilkinson in the arm and two entering his stomach.

The police and ambulance were called by Bernard Strang, the only witness of the affair and the men were taken to the hospital, but the girl has disappeared. Wilkinson died this afternoon. No action has yet been taken against Douville.

NEGOTIATE FOR ESTABLISHMENT OF ALLIANCE BETWEEN FACTIONS

Leaders Seeking to Form Peace Treaty Between North and South.

WOULD EXCLUDE REDS

Insist Upon Expulsion of Russian Advisers of Nationalist Government.

PEKIN, June 7 (Associated Press). —Definite negotiations for peace between North and South China, and the establishment of an alliance of three of the most powerful military leaders in China, with the definite exclusion of Communism, are now going on, said a spokesman for Marshal Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian War Lord, yesterday.

He declared that the leaders negotiating this compromise were Chang Tso Lin, generalissimo of the Northern alliance ;General Chiang Kai Shek, generalissimo of the Nanking or Moderate Nationalists; and General Yen Hei Shan, governor of the Province of Shansi, which is looked upon as the key position in the present struggle between the north and south. It was Chiang Kai Shek who took the initiative in the negotiations, said the spokesman. Chang Tso Lin wanted first to make sure that Chiang Kai Shek was not a follower of Lenine and Communism, the spokesman continued, and then admitted he was anxious to come to terms with the real followers of the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the Chinese Republican leader, whose principles Chang Tso Lin declared he had never opposed.

Made Proposals.

While withdrawing to the north of the Yellow River in order to demonstrate his desire for peace, Chang Tso Lin, it was stated, made certain proposals to the Nanking generalissimo in order to determine whether a compromise between the Manchurians and the Nationalists was really possible.

Realizing that the country was tired of war, Chang Tso Lin was represented as ready to make any concession for the sake of peace with the exception of accepting Bolshevism.

Chang Tso Lin, it was stated, has declared that he will make no compromise with Communism, and that a definite line will be drawn between the Moderates of the Kuomintang (Nationalist political organization) and the Radicals, whose headquarters are at Hankow. Chang Tso Lin, the spokesman said, will insist upon the expulsion of Michael Borodin and other of the Russian advisers of the Nationalist Government at Hankow. A definite line will be drawn by the Manchurian leader between the Moderates and Radicals, it was stated, so that he will know exactly with whom he is dealing.

Hold People's Conference.

In the event of a successful termination of the present negotiations, Chang Tso Lin's next step, the spokesman asserted, will be to declare his willingness to hand over political questions to a people's conference. In this connection, it was added, the Marshal "believed that the military crisis was becoming political, a successful solution depending upon Chiang Kai Shek's decision regarding the preferred alliance."

The spokesman said that Chiang Kai Shek, in his negotiations with Chang Tso Lin, had urged the latter to withdraw north of the Yellow River, as it was impossible for him to cut himself off completely from the Nationalist Radicals at Hankow as long as he was being pressed by the Marshal's troops.

The spokesman further stated that the northern alliance was considering continuing its withdrawal of troops, establishing a new military headquarters at Paotingfu, in the Province of Chihli, 75 miles south of Pekin, and withdrawing the Shantung and Manchurian troops to Tsangchow, 60 miles sout hof Tientsin.

Troops on Move.

Chang Tsung Chang, the military commander of the province of Shantung, it was said, has been instructed to remain at the front while the Manchurians were withdrawing to Tsangchow. This move, observers here believe, would indicate that Chang Tsung Chang, who lost Shanghai to the Nationalists several months ago, was being isolated by the Manchurian war lord who admittedly distrusts him.

General Yen Hsi Shan, it was indicated, has decided to join the Kuomintang, thereby allying himself with the Southern Moderates, but at the same time becoming the third member of the projected combination.

So far as the withdrawal of the northerners is concerend, the northern spokesman stated emphatically that the Manchurians had not been defeated ,and that as a matter of fact, reserves were pouring southward from Manchuria.

"We are not begging for peace," he said, "but believe that the country is tired of warfare. Chang Tso Lin's only quarrel is against the Communists, and he now believes that Chiang Kai Shek represents the real Kuomintang."

The negotiations between Chang Tso Lin and Chiang Kai Shek are generally interpreted by observers as indicating as military pressure by the southerners necessitated some sort of action and as further presaging the possible relinquishment of Pekin and Tientsin to the southerners and the complete withdrawal of Chang Tso Lin to Manchuria in the event that the overtures should fail.

Highbrow Danger To College, Says Massey

SWARTHMORE, Pa., June 7.—(United Press).—The "highbrow" was declared a dangerous influence in college life because he tends to "stifle ideas" by the Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister to the United States, in the commencement address at Swarth more College yesterday.

"The 'highbrow' is to be differentialed from the Philistine, who is wrong, but honest about it." Mr. Massey said. More ideas is a crying need of both the college and every-day life. We need more perspective, more essential proportion and a greater sense of relative values.

"Thinking is a good hobby. It will develop ideas."

"ALL KIWANIS" NIGHT OBSERVED

Local Club Meets Simultaneously With All Others On Continent.

SPECIAL ADDRESSES.

Last night the Kiwanis Club of Peterborough met in the Empress Hotel for the fourth All Kiwanis Night which was simultaneously observed by every Kiwanis club on the North American Continent in connection with the Eleventh Kiwanis International Convention held at Memphis, Tennessee.

"All Kiwanis Night" is unique in that no similar organization has ever attempted such a meeting. This outstanding event in Kiwanis made such an instantaneous appeal to the heart of the Kiwanians when inaugurated three years ago at the Denver Convention, that it was repeated with even greater success at the Conventions at Saint Paul and Montreal.

The purpose of the meeting was thus defined by Kiwanian Harry Boyle:

"All Kiwanis Night."

"All Kiwanis Night" holds the same degree of importance on the Kiwanis calendar as Christmas does on the Christian calendar. This night has been observed during the past three International Conventions and made such an instantaneous appeal to Kiwanians that it has become an institution, and its celebration looked forward to by those not able to attend the convention itself.

"Zero Hour" in France was the most momentous hour in a soldier's life, and our Zero Hour means that 1,625 clubs on this continent are going over the top together. Each Kiwanis Club is earnestly urged to participate in this inspiring example of unselfish devotion to the cause of Kiwanis and its ideals.

The purposes of 'All Kiwanis Night' are:

To enable all Kiwanians to concentrate their attention on the purposes and ideals of Kiwanis, and to harmonize their thoughts and feelings with those in attendance at Memphis.

To strengthen and spread Kiwanis fellowship through joint effort as clubs, as well as individuals, emphasizing the cordiality and fellowship of Kiwanis.

To draw all the units of Kiwanis together in spirit through co-operative efforts, the success of which has been so conclusively demonstrated by the "All Kiwanis Night" observances of the three past International Conventions.

To be a vehicle through which know ledge of the aims, ideals and objectives of Kiwanis are made known to its members and to the general public throughout the North American Continent.

This meeting is so arranged that the Zero Hour feature will be at exactly the same period as scheduled at Memphis. The opening at the convention at 8.15 determines the period in the different time zones. Our period is from 9.15 to 9.30 p.m.

Our participation in "Zero Hour" simply means that we are part of one of the greatest forces in the world to-day, and we are here to-night to catch anew the gleam of the advancing crusade for better things.

One of the most striking features of the meeting was the one minute of silence which was observed by all Kiwanis Clubs during the zero hour—a beautiful expression of the fellowship, mutual understanding and patriotism of Kiwanis.

Toasts to His Majesty King George the Fifth and to President Calvin Coolidge were drank after the dinner and the singing of the National Anthem and "America" demonstrated the part played by Kiwanis in join-

City Names Officers For Liquor Control

Ald. Phelan caused some stir at last night's council meeting when he announced first reading of a by-law under the Liquor Control Act. As his colleagues looked up incredulously he explained that by this by-law all members of the Peterborough police force would be appointed officers under the Act. The city would then be entitled to the fines levied on convictions arising out of arrests they might make under the act.

DAMAGE SUITS AGAINST CITY

Two Ladies Seek Recompense For Injuries Received in Falls.

SLIPPERY SIDEWALKS.

Two claims for damages arising from falls experienced in the city streets have been filed against the City of Peterborough, and will come up for decision at the sitting of the June Sessions of the Peace, which opens on Tuesday of next week.

Mary Catherine Ryan sues in respect of injuries which she alleges she sustained through slipping on the sidewalk on the east side of George Street on February 22 of the present year, fracturing her arm. Margaret Mann, of Peterborough, complains in respect of injuries sustained on February 1, on Dalhousie Street, which, she alleges, was insufficiently protected against ice and snow, resulting in her falling and fracturing her left arm.

Both cases will come before a jury. Each plaintiff claims $500.00, and costs.

WORK ON MANY CITY STREETS THAT ARE NOW IN BAD SHAPE CONSIDERED BY CITY COUNCIL

Alderman Denne's Dog Is Taken By Catcher

Ald. Roland Denne is sure that the City Dog Catcher is active. Not only did he catch the alderman's dog yesterday, but since his appointment the number of tags has been greatly increased. When Mr. Pengelly took office, there had been issued 143 tags; now there are more than 500 out.

BELLANCA WILL FORM COMPANY TO RUN PLANES

Designer of Columbia Has Backing For Trans-Atlantic Liners.

FOR 40 PASSENGERS.

Planes Would Make Journey From New York To Paris in 36 Hours.

NEW YORK, June 7 (Canadian Press).—A company to build multi-motored airplanes, each capable of carrying "not less than forty passengers" to Europe on a commercial basis is being organized by Guiseppe E. Bellanca, designer of the craft that carried Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine to Germany.

Mr. Bellanca said financial backing for the project has been assured, but declined to reveal the names of his associates.

"Experimental work on the planes will cost $175,000, he said. "The planes themselves, probably of biplane type, will cost in production about $30,000 apiece, exclusive of motors, and we can't say yet how many motors there will be."

Mr. Bellanca said although he is planning to send a single motor plane from New York to Rome late this summer, the future of trans-Atlantic flying lies in multi-motored planes. His projected craft, he said, will have about 2,500 square feet of wing space, and will carry not less than forty passengers, allowing an average of 170 pounds per passenger and thirty pounds apiece for baggage.

"Ability to land in and weather rough seas will be one of the essentials of the new machines," he explained. "The total flying time from New York to Paris will be thirty-two hours. There will be a stop at Newfoundland and another at the Azores, where gas will be taken on, bringing the total travelling time to 36 hours.

"My planes will have a cruising speed of 120 miles an hour. There will be room to walk around, comfortable chairs to lounge in, and comfortable berths to sleep in. There will be no hazard and no uncertainty about it."

The designer said it was too early to say when the line would be "open for business."

Present System of Repairing Roads is Wrong, Says Ald. McIntyre.

HOLES LET GO TOO LONG

Committee to Consider Operation of Sewage Disposal Plant.

"We want action," was Ald. Denne's slogan at the June meeting of the City Council, held last night, and so many were his reports of bad spots in the roads in every quarter of the city that Ald. Ackerman suggested that he be appointed Assistant City Engineer, with pay, to inspect the roads and report on them. He was not the only alderman reporting bad spots in the roads, and a deputation also appeared to ask for work on the roads, so that City Engineer R. H. Parsons and Chairman J. O. Fife of the Board of Works were kept busy explaining that the repair work is proceeding as fast as possible.

Ald. McIntyre offered a constructive criticism. He said that it seemed to him that the system used is wrong, and proposed that several wagons and men be used in various parts of the city to patch up these holes before they become too large. The Mayor asked why the holes seem to develop in patches and Ald. Stocker suggested that it is because the traffic is permitted to continue while work is being done. If traffic is heavy just as some part is being finished, the road there is weak.

J. F. Strickland was spokesman for the deputation, which was from the Peterborough Golf and Country Club, asking for improvements on Armour Road leading to the links. He pointed out that there were 600 visitiors last year who would possibly have a poor opinion of the city's roads. W. F. Huycke also spoke for the deputation, which also included C. E. Jamieson, V. J. McElderry, O. A. De Graw, A. J. Reynolds, G. A. Macdonald, and F. L. Bradburn.

Aldermen Stocker and Denne favored doing something to the road immediately, but Ald. Fife was opposed to doing any work without securing co-operation from the Township of Douro.

The grader might be put on the road for a short time and the road oiled, suggested His Worship. Ald. Fife recalled that the work was done the same way last year and there were complaints. He opposed spending money on it until the Douro Council had been consulted.

Ald. Denne asked the City Engineer if the oil bought this year is of the same quality as last year's. He thought it must be too light for the purpose.

He also called attention to the condition of Rogers street and several others and moved that, as the residents desire it, Hunter street from Belmont avenue to the end be paved. This will be advertised at once.

Ald. Phelan suggested that the Department of Railways and Canals be asked to repair the road from the Lift Lock to the Norwood Road.

The C.N.R. crossings at Charlotte and Hunter streets will be paved and the C.N.R. is to be asked to put rails in the crossings as at Weston.

The Sewage Disposal Plant.

Information was sought from the City Engineer by Ald. Denne as to what steps he had taken to carry out instructions given him by the Council about the sewage disposal plant. Mr. Parsons said that he had done nothing about the employees there and Ald. Denne moved that the Mayor and Ald. Fife be added to the committee. He wished to give them power to take whatever steps they deemed necessary to get efficient operation at the plant, but on motion of Ald. Phelan they are required to report back.

Ald. Phelan said that as the council had hired ex-Ald. Crowe for the position of operator, it should take the responsibility of appointing some one else to take charge in his stead. Ald. Hancock asked if all the machinery was in operation.

The City Engineer reported that all the machinery needed was operating; it is not necessary that it all be operated at once. Repairs had been made on broken aparatus yesterday and he had not wanted to make any changes in the staff until this was effected as he had wished to show the men that it was the method of operation that was responsible for the break. He expressed the opinion that no work of importance should be done there at present except under his supervision, and that only a man of considerable technical knowledge would be able to do it without the engineer there.

Ald. Denne pleaded for action, urging that a day be set for a report, instead of waiting for the next council meeting.

U. S. AVIATORS ARE WELCOMED BY VILLAGERS

Given Ovation Resembling Lindbergh's Arrival at Le Bourget Flying Field.

PROPELLER BROKEN

Expect To Leave Kottbus For German Capital Some Time To-day.

KOTTBUS, Germany, June 7 (A.P.). — Clarence D. Chamberlin, Charles A. Levine and the Bellanca plane Columbia were welcomed warmly yesterday at their unexpected stopping place, Kottbus, a little manufacturing town in the province of Brandenburg, one hour's flight from Berlin. The airmen were forced down by sheer lack of fuel at 11.30 o'clock yesterday morning, at Klinge not far distant.

Kottbus, overjoyed at this unimagined honor, completely forgot that it was solidly and stolidly German, and at sundown when Chamberlin returned from an inspection of his wounded plane, gave him an ovation resembling Le Bourget's welcome to Lindbergh in its Latin intensity, and Croydon in its hearty roughhousing.

Only the mightly arms of the Blue Police saved the little blonde airman and his companion from the enthusiasm of the crowds.

This morning, Kottbus will make both honorary citizens in a special ceremony in the Town Hall, presided over by Ober-Burgomaster Kreuz. The city's band was hastily assembled and gave the trans-Atlantic travellers, who were almost worn out by their long flight through sleet and snow, a real thawing out with good old-fashioned German serenades under the windows of the hotel. But repeated cries failed to bring either of the men into the open, for they had wisely taken inside rooms, and when the populace was shouting its mightiest they were immersed in much-needed warm baths.

Leave Today

From their inspection of the injured plane both men returned hopeful that the propeller could be repaired or replaced early today in order to make Berlin under its own power. Arriving almost simultaneously from Berlin was Dewitt C. Poole, Counsellor of the United States Embassy, with mail dispatches of all sorts, the most welcome of which was a telegram of congratulation from Chamberlin's mother.

After conferring with Mr. Pool regarding the plans for their reception in the German capital, and technical talks with the German Air League authorities respecting the repairs to the Columbia, both Chamberlin and Levine, who had been bright-eyed and up and coming all day, suddenly sagged in the midst of benevolent postcard autographing and admitted that they were "rather tired."

Dine With Burgomaster

Levine recovered sufficiently to dine with the ober-burgomaster, but

Chemist Tells How To End Dandruff and Stop Falling Hair

That dandruff is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair is a well-known fact. We appreciate, therefore, the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. For this reason it is a pleasure to give herewith the prescription which a famous scalp specialist states he has found, after repeated tests, will completely end dandruff in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair growth after years of partial baldness. The prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you—6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavona de Compose, one-half drachm Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger tips. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume—you'll be delighted!

James Purdie, a fourth member of the gang, was sent to jail for six months on a charge of conspiracy to rob.

Other members were committed for trial yesterday on similar charges, while one was remanded for a week.

On their return they will reside on the groom's farm in Smith township.

OBITUARY

RUTH LENORA CRAWFORD.

LAKEFIELD, June 7.—The funeral of the late Ruth Lenora Crawford took place on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 at St. John's Church, and was attended by a large number of people, who gathered to pay a token of respect to the memory of a young girl whose life had been spent in the village and whose pure nature and sweet disposition had endeared her to all. The service was in charge of the rector of the parish, Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., who spoke briefly of the young life cut off after such a brief space of life. It seems strange to us that such things should be, but it is God's will and so is right. This life is but a prelude to the fuller, richer life with God.

Two favorite hymns of the deceased were sung, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "Nearer My God to Thee," and as the cortege moved down the aisle the choir followed the coffin and softly sang the Nune Dimittis. The pallbearers were six cousins, Roland Hill, Frank Hill, Joseph Hill, Percy Hill, Harry Hill and Herbert Hill.

Interment was made in the family plot in Hillside Cemetery.

WALTER KIRYLO

MARMORA, June 7.—The funeral of Walter Kirylo, the young lad drowned in Moira River on Friday, took place on Saturday afternoon, at St. Paul's Church. Several cars were in attendance from Deloro paying respect to the little lad who, though only a month's residence in the locality, was not known to many. Boy Scouts, not in uniform, acted as bearers. Appropriate hymns were sung including "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and "There's a Friend for Little Chidren." The rector, Rev. A. B. Caldwell, gave a short, sympathetic address, while Mr. E. N. Grant of Trinity College read the lesson. Interment took place in Marmora Cemetery.

NEW YORK, June 4.— (Canadian Press.)—The departure of the Jeanne d'Arc, the Fokker monoplane to be used in the search over Newfoundland for the missing French fliers, Nungesser and Coli, was postponed until to-day, when preparations were not finally completed until late yesterday.

Sunday Lindbergh will find time to be with his mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, who also is to be the guest of President and Mrs. Coolidge during her stay in Washington.

After attending church with Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and his mother, Lindbergh will lay a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington and then motor to Walter Reed hospital to greet sick and wounded veterans of the World War.

Washingtonians will have their opportunity to see Lindbergh as a pilot after he boards the Spirit of St. Louis for the hop to New York. The aviator is expected to do some stunt flying over the Capital.

Cabinet and semi-official reception committees which have charge of the arrangements for the reception, plan to have everything completed by mid-week.

COUNTIES COUNCIL DECLINE TO MAKE GRANT FOR DAIRY PRIZES

Appeal From John A. Murray, of Campbellford, Before Committee.

SESSIONS OPEN.

Red Cross Society Applies For Financial Aid.

(By an Examiner Staff Reporter)

COBOURG, June 7:—Among the communications which were read at the opening of the Council of the United Counties of Durham and Northumberland Monday afternoon was a request from John A. Murray, dairy instructor, Campbellford, for a grant to a fund for prizes to be offered cheesemakers for the purpose of stimulating their interest in the dairy industry. Improvement in the quality of the chese made in his district and in the condition and appearance of the factories, is the aim of Mr. Murray, whose letter to the Council mentions the gratifying accomplishment of last year. His letter follows:

"You have probably noticed a number of Federal and Provincial members of Parliament in Eastern Ontario have been co-operating and assisting their county dairy officials in an effort to raise the percentage of first grade cheese in their respective counties, also to improve the factories and their surroundings.

"Northumberland County and particularly East Northumberland is not lax or lagging behind in dairy matters, either in the matter of positions of prominence that many of her citizens occupy, or in the quantity of cheese produced therein. Last year 50,377 boxes of chese were offered for grading, the approximate value of the same about $768,0000 We have a representative on the board of the National Dairy Council, also the oldest Breeders' Club in Canada (the Menie Ayrshire Club).

"In the Township of Seymour with an assessed value of $1,131,000 there was manufactured in cheese alone 1,889,947 pounds. A grading centre has also been established in the county at Campbellford with ordinary and cold storage facilities in connection. This will be available to all factories wishing to make use of this service. It will also make at least one export centre in the county.

"We are anxious to offer some inducement to the cheesemakers in the way of prizes, and would like to have your Council among the list of contributors, also any suggestions you care to make as to how the award should be made.

"Yours very truly,

"John A. Murray, Dairy Instructor and Sanitary Inspector."

In spite of Reeve W. H. Nelson's endorsation of this appeal, seconded by Reeve F. G. Parker of Alnwick, it was not granted.

An amendment by Deputy-Reeves Maher of Cobourg and Thickson of Bowmanville, that no action be taken was carried in the Finance Committee by a large majority.

New Bridge Needed

An enquiry was received from Victoria County regarding the proposed construction of a bridge on the deviation of the boundary of Ops and Manvers Townships, known as Pogue's bridge.

At a conference on April 26 of the Victoria Council's bridge committee with Warden Elliott and Reeve F. S. Gray of Manvers, representing the United Counties, it was decided that a bridge of 40 feet span should be built and approaches materially raised.

The cost of the bridge, estimated by E. L. Miles, Victoria County's Engineer, is $5,000; detailed as follows: reinforced concrete bridge, $3,000; approaches, etc., $1,500; guard railing, $200; engineering and contingencies, $300.

This Spring's freshet poured over the bridge to a depth of two feet, disturbed the foundations and left it unsafe.

The Victoria communication concluded as follows: "If it should be agreed to construct the bridge, consideration will have to be given to the preparation of plans and specifications and the financing of the undertaking."

"In a similar recent joint action with the County of Ontario, the plans, etc., were prepared and the work directed and supervised by our engineer, and the financing was done by our county, the other county sharing the interest at 6 per cent."

This communication was referred to the Roads and Bridges Committee.

The Warden's Greetings.

Warden M. J. Elliott, of Bowmanville, cordially greeted his associates after the usual opening ceremony, for which the "Little Parliament" is noted. He expressed the hope that the business of the session would be transacted to the satisfaction of the ratepayers of the twin counties.

The reeves of the municipalities were appointed a special committee for the equalization of assessment. It convened after the council's adjournment and appointed Reeve W. T. Wood of Millbrook, chairman.

Reeve W. C. Wood of South Monaghan, made a strong plea for the reduction of his township's equalized assessment.

The next highest assessed township is Darlington, which is $2.30 per acre under Monaghan. Reeve Wood reviewed the position of his township, but the reeves declined to meet his request.

The existing equalized assessment is continued for this year's taxes with the exception of Darlington, Clarke and Haldimand townships, whose aggregate reduction in assessment amounts to $17,300. This reduction covers properties owned by the Ontario government and therefore exempt from taxation. The boys' training institution in Darlington is assessed at $10,000 in Clarke township the Provincial governments reforestation land is assessed at $5000; and $2300 represents the assessed value of the Ontario forest land in Haldimand township.

Red Cross Appeal.

No action was taken by the Finance Committee last night with a request from the Red Cross Society for a grant, the first application in ten years. The Society's present objective is $300,000. Much of their work of late has been in rural communities. Reeve Bygott of Campbellford, referred to Red Cross assistance in the Apsley district of Peterboro county, as an example of the peace time effort which deserved grateful recognition from the public.

Reeve W. F. Elliott of Murray township, said that the financing of the Red Cross appeared to be an obligation which should be assumed by the Federal government.

DEVICES SAVE TIMBER.

GEM THEFTS BAFFLE POLICE

$300,000 Gone in Schmidlapp and Livermore Robberies Without Clues.

MAKE LITTLE HEADWAY.

NEW YORK, June 7.— "As clean a job as they ever encountered," was the way detectives described the heft of $208,000 in jewelry from the home of Carl J. Schmidlapp, New York banker, in Forest Hill road, Mill Neck, Long Island.

Thirty-six hours' search for clues had been fruitless. Captain King, chief of Nassau County detectives, declared the robbers left him not a thing to work on.

King, as a matter of fact, has two jewel thefts baffling him. He has been able to make little headway in solving the taking of jewelry valued at $92,000 from the home of Jesse Livermore, Wall Street operator, in Kings Point, L.I.

Envoy's Family Has "Lucky" Pearls; Legend Says Goblin Presented Them

BERLIN, June 7 (Associated Press). — A mysterious string of pearls plays a remarkable role in the history of the family of Baron Ago von Maltzan, German Ambassador to the United States, according to Baroness Louise Reibnitz-Maltzan, aunt of the Ambassador.

A legend says the pearls, which are in the possession of the Silesian branch of the family, were presented by a goblin in 1586 to Baroness Eva Regna Maltzan in the ancestral castle at Militsch, in Silesia.

One night, the legend goes, while the Baroness was beside the cradle of her first-born child, a goblin rose out of the ground and asked her to move the lamp to some other corner of the room. He explained that the oil from the lamp was dropping on the bed of his grandchild, which, invisible to human eyes, was directly underneath. The Baroness obligingly complied with the request of the supernatural visitor.

Nine days later the grateful goblin reappeared and made her a present of a string of pearls. He said they would bring luck to the family as long as their colour was unchanged and they remained in the possession of the Maltzans.

"Should the pearls change colour, however," he warned, "it means that the head of some branch of the family will die."

It is claimed that the pearls still continue to change colour when deaths occur in the family. They are treasured carefully at Militsch as a talisman, the continued possession of which is to bring luck to the family.

Similarity Noticed Between Two Planes

NEW YORK, June 7. — Canadian Press. — Great similarity exists between the two monoplanes that have spanned the Atlantic in flights from New York to Europe.

Greater fuel capacity and a larger cabin mainly distinguish the Bellanca monoplane Columbia from the Spirit of St. Louis, the Ryan plane of Captain Chas. A. Lindbergh.

Both planes have Wright whirlwind air-cooled motors. Neither machine carried any radio or gear for landing at sea.

The Columbia carried 455 gallons of gasoline, or three gallons more than Lindbergh.

The Wright motor, designed by Charles H. Lawrence, was used by the Columbia in breaking the world's endurance record here in February, by the Edsel Ford, in which Comander Richard E. Byrd flew over the North Pole, and by the Wilkins polar expedition. The monoplane American, in which Byrd plans to fly to Europe, also is equipped with three Wright Whirlwind motors.

LONDON'S STREET ACCIDENTS GROWING

Fatalities Have Increased 55 Per Cent. in the Last Six Years.

LONDON, June 7.—There has been an appalling increase of street accidents in London since the advent of motor cars, according to the London correspondent of The Journal of the American Medical Association. During the last six years, fatalities have increased by about 55 per cent., and injuries by about 125 per cent., he asserts.

"The rapid growth in the numbers of mechanically propelled vehicles has been accompanied by an ever-increasing use of the streets by pedestrians unequipped by habit, knowledge and experience to protect themselves against the new hazards," he continues. "Until comparatively recent years, Greater London was an aggregation of a number of more or less independent communities. It has now become transformed by the motor car into one single community, with a transportation system bringing all the elements of the population into closer contact. Business and shopping have become more and more centralized, and what were formerly the outer towns and villages are becoming more and more mere dormitories of London.

SMALL CYCLONE SWEEPS QUEBEC

City and District in Grip of Bad Storm For Few Minutes.

QUEBEC, June 7. — The Ancient Capital and the whole district of Quebec was in the grip of a real cyclone yesterday afternoon for 20 minutes. No loss of life was reported, but considerable damage was done to some of the public utilities companies, which saw posts torn down and wires put out of service.

Everything was in good shape last evening, it was learned, apart from a few rural telephone lines which were partly out of order.

At Spencerwood some of the old giant oaks had a hard time to sustain the test of the storm, and two of them succumbed to the attack.

The wind blew at about 50 miles an hour for a short time.

The valley of the St. Charles River suffered considerably, roofs of barns being blown away. Damage was also caused in the surrounding district.

OFFICIAL ORGAN FASCIST PARTY ASSAILS SOVIET

Declares Russia Only State That Threatens Peace of World.

LEADERS "CLOWNS."

Useless To Attempt To Hide Complete Failure of Bolshevism.

ROME, June 7.—In answer to a propaganda manifesto issued by the Third International in which Italy is accused of preparing for war and the proletariat of the whole world is urged to unite to right the Fascist regime, the Foglio d'Ordini, official organ of the Fascist Party, has launched an attack on the Soviets.

Russia is described as the only State in the whole world which seriously threatens peace with its policy of agitation and provocation and with its clearly expressed intention to "impose a social Communist tyranny on the world with the force of bayonets."

Members of the Comintern are referred to as a "half-dozen professional mountebanks," who are trying to prop their tottering regime with heaps of corpses, who have reduced the Russian workers to the profoundest depth of misery and who "expelled and scattered throughout the world all those who committed the crime of loving their Russian fatherland."

It is useless for Russia to attempt to hide the complete failure of the Bolshevist regime, concludes the Foglio d'Ordini's reply, by attacking Fascismo, which has such forces at its command as not to fear the Soviet's wordy warfare.

Charges "Stupid Calumnies."

The text of the reply follows:

"The Executive Committee of the Third International has issued its umpteenth manifesto. It consists of a few pages in which are contained the most stupid calumnies against Italy and Fascismo.

"The manifesto accuses Italy of preparing a new war, and invites the proletariat of the whole world to fight agains tthe Fascist regime.

"All this is both grotesque and insane.

"In Europe, indeed in the whole world, the only one State which threatens the so-called equilibrium is precisely the Russia of the Third International, which everywhere spreads its work of provocation and agitation, affirming its clear wish to impose a social Communist tyranny with the force of bayonets.

"As for the defense of 'oppressed liberty,' our answer is simple and explicit.

"Fascist Italy, which works and toils to build up its economic power in freedom, says to the half dozen professional mountebanks of the Comintern that it cannot tolerate lessons from men who have massacred and continue to massacre whole patient and generous populations in the pursuit of a phantom of mad ideology; from men who attempt to prop every day with heaps of corpses the tottering edifice of their dictatorship, which is no longer a dictatorship of the proletariat but against a proletariat now reduced to the last depths of misery; from men who for ten years have attempted to sow disorder and chaos in all the States of the world with the poison of their anti-social, anti-human, anti-economic propaganda; from men who have suffocated and continue in suffocate in blood every dissentient voice, even if it is raised from the very ranks of the Communist Party; from men who have persecuted, banished and scattered all over the world all those who committed the crime of loving their Russian fatherland.

That the tourist season is opening early and getting away to a good start is shown by the supply boat that left here this morning for Juniper Island. Mr. Lillico is opening his provision store, and went to Juniper this morning to be ready for the Stoney Lake laden with groceries, etc., from firms in this town to supply the first of the tourist traffic that floods the Kawartha district in the summer

Kylsant Wedding Hoax Proves "Reprisal" Bridegroom Known As Practical Joker

LONDON, June 7. — The hoax played in connection with the wedding on Thursday of the daughter of Lord Kylsant, famous shipping magnate, to Gavin Henderson is now stated to be in the nature of a "reprisal" for a practical joke played a year ago on the hoaxers at a country house.

The name of the man chiefly responsible for sending out the bogus invitations to all sorts of people to attend the Kylsant-Henderson wedding ceremony is now known, and he has offered to apologize.

"Gavin Henderson himself," he explained to-day, "holds our admiration as a practical joker. We felt it our duty as his friends to see that the climax and perhaps the finale of his hoaxing career should be celebrated in proper style. We never expected the joke would go so well, or perhaps I should say, so badly.

"One of us in the plot got a real invitation. We had it carefully copied and sent out these fake invitations everywhere.

"We invited the whole cast of Florence Mills' 'Blackbirds,' but only three of them turned up."

Lady Eleanor Smith, Lord Birkenhead's daughter, writing in The Weekly Despatch, denies that she engineered the hoax, which she describes as "idiotic tomfoolery," but she, too, accuses Mr. Henderson of having been a practical joker of note in times past. One of his pranks consisted of setting the Thames afire with gasoline.

Another Discovery in Canadian Laboratory

May even rival Insulin as a blessing to mankind - - Relieves Indigestion

THIS new product of a Canadian laboratory is known as Renzyme. Like insulin it is a natural treatment taken from animals and administered to humans.

For some years it has been known to the medical profession that indigestion or dyspepsia is caused by a drying up of the digestive juices in the stomach.

The active principals of these fluids are known as enzymes. Many efforts have been made to obtain combinations of drugs which would restore the digestive powers of the stomach but without much real success.

Now a method has been found of obtaining enzymes from the stomachs of calves and of making up a bottled solution which keeps indefinitely for administration to the human stomach.

By using Renzyme you actually supply to the human stomach a new stock of enzymes. In other words, you restore the digestive ferments which carry on the process of digestion in the stomach.

No treatment can be so simple and direct. No treatment can be so prompt and effective in affording relief from indigestion and all the disagreable symptoms which accompany it.

Years of laboratory work and numberless experiments have been necessary to perfect this product. Medical doctors have used it in all kinds of cases of indigestion and with marked success.

Renzyme is now available to the public through the druggists. While it does not contain drugs, you will find the druggist enthusiastic in recommending it because of the splendid reports he gets from his customers. Relief is soon obtained even in the most chronic cases.

FARMERS BUSY AT PONTYPOOL

Potato Acreage to be Large This Year—Good Hogs Shipped.

PONTYPOOL NEWS

PONTYPOOL, June 7.—Most of the farmers are busy at their root crops now, and by all indications the acreage in potatoes this year will be larger than last. Some difficulty has been found in securing seed potatoes and those who had not sold their surplus early are having no trouble in disposing of them at $2 per bag, which is double the price realized early in the Spring.

Mr. Dean of Burketon has taken several truck loads of hogs out of this vicinity and is marketing them at Pickering. Some of the farmers who disposed of their hogs were Messrs. L. Jamieson, T. Kellett, T. Scott, and J. Payne. Over 75 per cent of these hogs graded selects and the farmers are highly pleased with the results.

The dance held under the auspices of L.O.L. 82 was not as well attended as was anticipated, but those present claim it was one of the best ever held. The music was of the best and a very dainty lunch was served. Proceeds were in aid of the new lighting system installed a short time ago in their splendid hall. This hall serves as a community hall in this locality and the new system is a great asset to it. The lodge intends having another dance in the near future for which posters will be sent out.

Mr. Thomas Logan of Manvers Station has moved into Mrs. Roy Kellett's house, which has been tenanted by Mr. William Jessop. Mr. Logan has given up farming and his son, Douglas, who was married last fall, is now in charge of the farm.

Rev. A. J. Terril, pastor of the United Church here, is attending the Bay of Quinte Conference, held in Oshawa this week.

MERCHANTS FAVOR

Store, said his attitude would depend on that of other merchants, but he would rather keep open on Saturday.

Robert Fair was in favor of opening on Saturday and closing all day on the following Thursday. Thursday, he pointed out, will be a half-holiday in any case, and it could easily be made a whole day off. "We must consider the farm", said Mr. Fair, "they will be here on the Saturday.

T .H. Adams, of the Dickson Store, also felt that to open on Saturday and close all day Thursday was a good plan.

F. C. Hungerford, manager of the F. W. Woolworth store, said he had made no decision so far, but he was prepared to fall in line with the decision of the majority.

W. H. Meredith thought a meeting should be called for the discussion of arrangements for the holiday. Personally he thought the stores should keep open on Saturday. They would have to bring in the farmers to feed the people. A point which seemed to him to be overlooked was that the people without ice would have difficulty in keeping provisions over three days, which they would have to do, if the stores all closed on Saturday. This, he thought, was a point that ought to be emphasized. The stores would all be closed on Sunday. A Saturday closing would seriously inconvenience many people, he thought.

H. Abramson said if everybody else closed, he would close, but that he would remain open if some others did.

N. Fine took a similar attitude.

F. Black said he was quite willing to close. "Of course," he said, "if all the others open on Saturday, I shall have to open also, but I think all should close. We are Canadians and ought to celebrate Canada's Diamond Jubilee.

W. Lech and Sons were quite willing to close if their competitors do so, said Mr. Lech.

Across the River.

East City merchants are divided in opinion as to the advisability of closing their places of business on the 2nd of July, the Saturday that intervenes between the First, a public holiday, and the Sunday following. Interviewed by The Examiner, they registered, as a rule, approval from the standpoint of an extra holiday basis, and disapproval when they considered the hardships which might be entailed on their customers.

H. Wheeler, butcher, first stop on the right hand side of the street, across the bridge was absent in Cobourg, and J. L. Wyatt, tailor, next door, had no decided views on the matter. It made little difference to him, he said, and he would abide by the wish of the majority.

Boorman's Confectionery stays open on all holidays, so the question did not concern them in any way. Mrs. Boorman was of the opinion that the food stores would serve the public better by keeping open, as it was rather hard for householders to stock enough meat, fruit and groceries to keep them going for three days. The dry goods stores, in her opinion, might not find the double closing a hardship, unless visitors to the town would help to swell their profits on the Saturday following the celebration day.

T. Anthony thought that "people were going foolish" in their demands for extra holidays. He was emphatically of the opinion that the stores should stay open on the Saturday, and had no hesitation in expressing his views.

A. W. Jones, butcher, smiled in anticipation of a "very fine week end", as he phrased it, over the prospect of a three-day absence from business cares, but was obviously divided between inclination and duty when he considered the difficulties entailed on those who, possessing no ice-boxes, would be obliged to buy enough meat to last them for three days. He said he thought the year's profits would not be materially decreased by the three-day interval in trade.

T. B. Maniece was out of the city, as was John Speer, and it was therefore impossible to obtain their views on the matter. The majority of the clerks who expressed an opinion in any of the stores were unanimously in favor of the extra holiday.

J. C. Sullivan, grocer, wouldn't consider the idea for a minute. He thought the public would not like it and said that "the world is going to the mischief with all these people who think of little but sport."

V. Sullivan, druggist, was agreeable to abide by the will of the majority, whichever way the question was decided.

R. A. Castle, butcher, said that, with people buying meat in small quantities, as was the rule nowadays, he thought the closing of the meat shops would be a hardship on those without ice, although personally, the idea of an extra holiday appealed to him immensely. He cast a note of optimism or pessimism, whichever way one wishes to look at it, over the situation by saying that the first of July and days following it would not be very warm days, as the "guage" day for the next three months, the Thursday of last week, indicated cool weather to come.

Should Be Unanimous.

Gleaned from conversation with several of the merchants was the prevailing impression that a matter of this sort, to be successful and fair, should be followed out by all. "People come along and want you to do things of this sort," said one man, "and you agree, just to be sociable and friendly and show a true community spirit. Then, some man who has been coming around to see if you are going to stay open, decides that he will open his shop to give out milk to his customers, and the first thing you know he is open all afternoon. And it has a queer effect on people too. Your customers, like as not, will say he is the best man to deal with all the time, because he gives them service, while you are away down the river or out in a car, enjoying yourself. They grumble about it, when the store is closed. In these days of keen competition every little thing has to be considered. A white man will try to be patriotic and reasonable, and first thing he knows, his neighbor has all the trade. Those people come in here and exist, instead of living for a year or two, when they are able to laugh at the man who closes up his store when he is asked to, because they are working and saving too, while he is off enjoying himself. Why isn't the law operative always? If a George street grocer closes his store on Thursday afternoons, why shouldn't the fruit stores and confectioners close up too? They sell plenty of things that the grocer carries, anyway. This idea of being patriotic and fair-minded doesn't get you much, sometimes. It's like the idea of having another park over here. What's the matter with Nicholls Oval? You can go up there on any holiday or almost any day and you won't be able to find, with a fine tooth comb, more than one or two people, knocking a ball around. Why don't they give the money to soldiers' wives?"

On Charlotte Street.

The merchants as a whole on Charlotte street are willing to close their stores on Saturday, July 2nd. As it is a public holiday they consider as loyal citizens to this fair Dominion and to the Empire of which they form a part they would conform to the federal proclamation.

The fruit dealers and those who sell newspapers proved the exception but nearly all the rest are favorable to closing provided their fellow merchants on the other streets do likewise. Several suggested that Mayor Holloway call a meeting of all the retail merchants in the city and let them come to a unanimous decision as to whether they will take the holiday or not.

Young's Bakery, Boyle's Grocery stores, Loblaws, V. Tully, Routly-Braund, M. J. Roche, S. Whatley, A. Pearson, Maher and Wesley, Home Furnishing Company, McBride and Franks, McClennan Hardware, A. W. Clysdale, Fitzpatrick and Geraghty, Parker Dye Works, Lansfield Cleaners, A. Atkins, Henry Graniero, The Frock Shop, J. McDonald and J. Juby all were willing to close if the other merchants did the same.

J. M. Greene from a business standpoint thought that it would be a mistake to close on Saturday but the Government had declared it a holiday and the merchants ought to come to some kind of agreement. He suggested the stores to remain open on Saturday morning and then close so that the employees might go to the Exhibition Park for the afternoon.

James Geraghty said his firm was willing to close if the other merchants did likewise but he would advise having a meeting so that everything would be unanimous and if it were decided to close the public could be given an opportunity to provide for it.

M. J. Maher said that as it had been declared a holiday it was the duty of public-minded citizens to close their stores. This has only come once in 60 years and on this occasion the merchants ought to put patriotism before business.

The New Centre Meat Market were of the opinion that they would have to be open part of the day to supply the hotels and cafes with meat but if the other meat shops in the city were closed they likely would be also.

Whites Sporting Goods Store will in all probability be open.

One merchant was very strong for the closing idea and thought that every store should be forced to close as it is a great time for thanksgiving and celebrating and the merchants should lead the way in showing the people of Peterborough that they are loyal citizens and are proud of their country.

East George Street.

Merchants on the East side of George street were practically unanimous in their decision to remain closed, providing other merchants in the same business follow their example.

F. R. J. MacPherson remarked that his firm would stay closed if the others did and expressed his opinion that all should stay closed and make it a real holiday for everyone.

W. Petrie, a shoemaker, said that it was his hope that all the stores would close because such a holiday was seldom had, at one time.

J. W. Watson, tire dealer, stated that he thought all stores should close and that he would close except for his gasoline tank as a convenience to the motorists.

Mrs. Rogow is ready to close her store on Saturday if the others will, and make it a good holiday.

Miller, Powell and Watson will also carry out the same plan.

A. Campbell, barber, remarked that it had been his idea to close if other barbers did.

N. Feebo, fruit merchant, stated that although his fruit might spoil, he would be willing to take a chance if only all the other men would close their shops, too.

Louis Green, clothing merchant, said: "I will gladly close my store, for I wish to go away for a short holiday, and can see no reason why all stores do not close."

W. and A. Ingram, shoe repairers, are heartily in favor of holding Saturday as a holiday as well as Friday.

M. Zacks, A. Swartz, H. Zacks, all agree that a public holiday for Peterborough should be declared, and remarked that they would keep closed, providing the others do so.

The following merchants also agreed to keep the holiday on the same terms that others would carry out the same plan for all to remain closed: Grant and Thorpe, electricians; Peter de Carlonis, fruit merchant; Jean Riddick Yarn Shop; J. D. M. Minnicolo, fruit merchant; W. M. Lacey, optometrist; Mr. Howden, shoe merchant; Mr. Cunningham, music store; Chesler's clothing store; Jeanette's style store; Alex Gibson, jeweller.

Mr. Botnick, of Botnick's dry-goods store remarked that he would stay open, for he thought it was only right to stay open on a Saturday, and he stated that he might change his mind later on if many were closing.

Other dry-goods stores to remain closed will be Ennis and Armstrong, Mrs. Wilson's Hat Store and H. Abramson.

The Peterborough Hardware will close, it was stated definitely.

Mr. Loftus said that his dry-goods store would close if the others did.

R. J. Kidd of the Neill Shoe Store stated that it would remain open for he thought that many coming into the celebration would come prepared to buy something and he thought it only fair that his company should remain open, although he remarked that if all the stores closed that day The Neill Company would close also.

"The Dominion Stores are to close" said Mr. Odell of the George street branch.

G. J. Jopling remarked that the meat stores would close if the others would agree.

Roland Denne when asked what he was going to do said that nothing could be done but to put the celebration across and close the stores.

The following merchants are agreeing to keep the holiday a Dominion one: Regent Tailors, Barrie's, Al. Sharpe, Comstock Bros., F. Stenson, Loftus dry-goods, and McWilliams Hat Store.

E. F. Mason stated that all his stores would be open and Roy White of Porter S. White was of the same opinion.

S. Jordon, florist, will gladly close for the whole week-end.

WARSAW CHEESE GOES TO LINDSAY

WARSAW, June 7.—Five factories in this district have contracted to sell their cheese at Lindsay, and Charles Foster has taken the contract to draw it. He has bought a large new truck.

Several farmers have converted their old cars into trucks, or bought small trucks and do their own trucking as they need to.

Saturday's rain was a downpour and the sidelines have suffered. The rain, however, was needed for the ground was becoming very hard.

Corn and potatoes are not getting in much earlier than usual.

There are some fine looking fields of sweet clover. Allan N. Payne has a very heavy crop and it is quite high.

COWARDLY CONDUCT.

The killing of a pedestrian on the Peterborough-Port Hope highway by a motor car, the driver of which did not stop his automobile or make any effort to ascertain the extent of the injuries inflicted upon the victim of the accident, is being closely investigated by the police.

It is to be hoped that they will be successful in locating the guilty driver, and that he will be called upon to explain in court his callous action in driving away from the scene of the accident without endeavouring to assist the man who was cut down.

Whether or not the killing itself was due to carelessness on the part of the motorist or to negligence by the victim, there is no possible excuse for the cowardly and despicable conduct of the slayer in fleeing from the scene.

That action utterly condemns him in the eyes of all right-thinking people as a coward who deserves the severest punishment.

THE LATEST TRIUMPH.

The flight of Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine from New York to Eisleben, Germany, establishes another new chapter in the history of aerial navigation.

By covering an air distance of 3,905 miles the two occupants of the Bellanca plane "Columbia" established a fresh record, surpassing the mark set by Captain Lindbergh.

Their flight lacked some of the spectacular nature of Lindbergh's lone-handed exploit, but it had its dramatic moment when Levine, millionaire head of the Columbia Aircraft Corporation, was disclosed at the last second as Chamberlin's companion, and attired in a business suit and without saying good-bye to his wife, jumped into the plane as it was ready to leave.

The honour of first crossing the Atlantic was won by the British flyers, Brown and Alcock, in 1919, the glory of the first lone air voyage between America and Europe belongs to Lindbergh, but Chamberlin and Levine have to their credit the longest non-stop flight, a distinction that may not, however, last long in view of the rapid development of aerial navigation.

CANADA'S PLAIN DUTY.

The duty of all Canadians toward the Diamond Jubilee celebration is clear and unmistakable.

By an unanimous resolution of the Dominion Parliament, the people of Canada are called upon to observe the occasion as completely as possible, and with this end in view, Saturday, July 2, has also been proclaimed a public holiday, giving two days for the various features of the celebration, which is to terminate with appropriate services on Sunday, July 3.

Not for another 40 years, until the centenary of Confederation arrives, will there be such a demonstration in Canada again, and in view of the significance and importance of the occasion ordinary considerations that might interfere at other times are not expected to carry any weight.

Canadians are asked to allow nothing else to come ahead of the Diamond Jubilee, and to approach the occasion in the same spirit of unity and self-sacrifice that was shown by the Fathers of Confederation.

That the people of Peterborough will show such a spirit The Examiner has not the slightest doubt; as good Canadians they are anxious that their home community shall do its full share in making the celebration a success.

GOOD BUSINESS.

It is difficult to estimate the full value not only to British Columbia but to the Dominion generally of the series of advertisements published in Eastern Canadian papers, including The Examiner, by the Provincial Government of British Columbia.

This campaign has a two-fold objective—first, to attract to British Columbia the Eastern Canadian tourist who now travels in the United States and in Europe, and secondly, to present the opportunities of British Columbia to the attention of those Canadians in the East who are contemplating migrating to the United States.

The attainment of these two aims would mean much to Canada.

If the campaign serves to induce Canadians to see their own country first and to investigate the opportunities offered by the Dominion before taking up residence across the border, it will bring added prosperity to British Columbia, and at the same time will add to the national prosperity.

That it will be successful there is little room to doubt.

Publicity used by the Victoria and Vancouver Publicity Bureaus and assisted by the railways brought more than a million tourists to British Columbia last year, and unquestionably the attractive advertising being published by the Provincial Government of British Columbia will prove effective in increasing the volume of tourist traffic from Eastern Canada.

Particularly in this year of the Diamond Jubilee Canadians should be eager to know more about their own land, and British Columbia's campaign will undoubtedly convince many Easterners who want to travel that they should visit the coast this summer, and many others who are considering the question of leaving Canada that they would be well advised to study what is offered by the Dominion.

Thousands of Canadians who have crossed the border could have been absorbed by British Columbia, which offers rich opportunities to practical, capable, energetic men and women who know how to develop our agricultural, horticultural and industrial life.

CANADIAN HISTORY.

The approaching Diamond Jubilee of Canadian Confederation has awakened interest in the history of this country among its own people that should not be allowed to die of inanition. Most people who have reached middle life and beyond think of their history lessons at school as a succession of attempts to remember a string of dates and of co-related or separate movements in which they had no real interest except that of passing an examination. Investigators say that, on the whole, the students of today are going through the same process in most Canadian educational institutions. There are rare exceptions where a teacher or professor makes history a live, vital, virile and alluring subject. Because he has himself seen it through, so to speak, he uses his imagination and learning to help others. In his hands the events of the past are not only made to appear real and to be full of attractiveness, but they are linked with the present in such a way that their influence upon conditions of today is clearly defined. Thus the student mind is stimulated to research, investigation and imaginative speculation that give him a new and fascinating field of intellectual exploration.

There is another side of the study of history conducted under ideal conditions. It was emphasized at the meeting of the Canadian Historical Association recently closed in Toronto, and is that of the upbuilding of a Canadian national sentiment. Some of the learned men who read papers at that gathering held to the view that the lack of a profound national sentiment in this country was in a very large measure due to its "dry as dust" teaching of history in the schools. They argued that in a country so full of romance as Canada the proper teaching of history should and would be the foundation of a pure patriotic sentiment that would do much toward retaining for Canada the young men and women of ability and energy that it loses to alien lands. That is a point of view worth considering.—Brantford Expositor.

IMPERIAL RELATIONS.

At the meeting of the Canadian Historical Association in Toronto Professor W. T. Waugh of McGill University traced the history of the changing attitude of Britain to the colonies in the last sixty years. Before 1886, he is reported as saying, there was much difference; then for twenty years a strong Imperialism until the defeat of the Chamberlain preferential trade policy in 1906; and since then a period in which the bonds have become looser and weaker, with great extensions to the autonomy of the self-governing colonies:

> "This tendency culminated in the declaration last year that the Dominions were equally autonomous with Britain in the Empire. There is no doubt that if legislation and procedure give effect to the findings of the report, the present constitution of the Empire will be destroyed, and, if nothing is done, and the report is treated as mere verbiage, the result will be still more sensational."

Perhaps Professor Waugh's position is not adequately set forth in this brief report. Judging by that, he seems to have accepted the centralizers' position that the increase of self-government meant the weakening of British connection. Had he gone back twenty years more he would have encountered a fact which signally falsified that contention. The granting of responsible government in 1848 removed a cause of friction between Great Britain and Canada. The tie, instead of becoming looser and weaker, became more elastic and stronger. It is true there was, on the side of Great Britain, a good deal of indifference to the colonies, which were supposed by some to be burdensome and useless. The Hon. George Brown said in a letter to John A. Macdonald, as a result of a visit to England in 1864-65:

> "I am much concerned to observe, however,—and I write to you as a thing that must seriously be considered by all men taking a lead hereafter in Canadian public matters—that there is a manifest desire in almost every quarter, that ere long the British American colonies should shift for themselves, and in some quarters evident regret that we did not declare at once for independence. I am very sorry to observe this, but it arises, I hope, from the fear of invasion of Canada by the United States, and will soon pass away with the cause that excites it."

For some years there was no movement toward either independence or Imperialism. The Canada First movement in the seventies was an assertion of national spirit, but its tendency was not separatist. Disraeli kindled the flame of Imperialism, but his mind was fixed upon India and the East rather than upon the self-governing Dominions. Some one has said that the British Empire was created in a fit of absence of mind, and it is true that until recent years there was a lack of Imperial self-consciousness. That self-consciousness continued to grow until the Diamond Jubilee year of 1897. The long reign of Queen Victoria, the poetry of Rudyard Kipling, the enthusiasm and energy of Joseph Chamberlain, gave a strong Imperial tinge to the celebration.

Powerful efforts were made to enlist the services of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in centralizing movements, but he refused to be driven. His Government had, without any pressure from Great Britain, given a voluntary preference to that country in the tariff. Chamberlain cherished the larger plan of an Imperial zollverein—free trade within the Empire and a protective tariff against the rest of the world. He resigned from the British Government to lead a crusade for that purpose, but failed because of the opposition of the British people to taxes on food. Plans for Imperial federation, for the creation of a central body with governing, legislative and taxing powers came to nothing. Borden followed Laurier in opposing them, and in the Imperial Conference of 1907 Asquith and nearly all the Dominion representatives were on the same side, and a centralizing proposal met with overwhelming defeat.

Professor Waugh's judgment of the Imperial Conference of 1926 is contrary to that of all who took part in it, notably Lord Balfour. The report is not destructive of Empire on the one hand, nor is it mere verbiage on the other. It may fairly be regarded as a recognition of the growth of national consciousness, just as the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria in 1897 was the culmination of the growth of Imperial consciousness. —London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Air records do not last very long these days. Lindbergh's non-stop mark has been beaten before the Flying Fool could reach home after his flight.

They'll soon be advertising week-end trips to Europe.

Citizens generally are expected to assist in Peterborough's Diamond Jubilee celebration. There is something for everyone to do in making the affair a complete success.

Apparently Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., is a bit dissatisfied with the ethics of Canadian brewers and distillers.

Mr. Bourassa doesn't like the action of Premier King in severing relations with the Soviet. But then nobody expected that he would.

Everybody can help to make the Diamond Jubilee celebration an outstanding success. And everybody should help.

The Toronto Star, which didn't want to have the Government sell liquor in Ontario, seems to be indignant now because the customers are not being served quickly enough.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, June 7 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in grain in the Montreal market was dull and featureless. There was some enquiry from New York exporters for Canadian Western No. 3 barley at 12 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, but owing to the limited supply of this grade available no sales were made.

The trade in cash grain in the domestic market showed no improvement, but the undertone was steady.

The feature of the flour trade was the weaker feeling that developed in the market for Spring wheat grades, and prices were reduced 10 cents per barrel. This was attributed to the continued weakness in the Winnipeg cash wheat situation. Business was quiet.

There was no change in prices for Winter wheat flour, but the undertone was easier in sympathy with wheat. The demand was limited.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were firmly maintained with a steady trade passing. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was inactive and price were unchanged.

The egg market was without any special feature to note, prices being steady under a moderate demand. The receipts were 1,122 cases.

A fairly active trade was done in potatoes and the undertone was firm. Car lots of Quebec White B grade were quoted at $2.35 per bag, and Reds at $1.90 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

The butter market was quiet, but values were steady. The receipts were 720 packages.

The trade in cheese was again dull and values were inclined to be heavy. The receipts were 3,606 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 7 (Canadian Press).—Fear that the Kessinger bill in the Illinois Legislature will be advanced today had a depressing effect on grain values yesterday, especially in the late dealings. Neither bulls nor bears showed much disposition to take the initiative, and with speculative trade small, compared to what has recently been the rule, prices underwent an all around sag.

Corn closed unsettled, 1⅜ to 1¾c net lower; wheat 1⅛ to 1⅜c off; oats ⅛c to 1⅜c down, and provisions showing 10 cents to 32 cents decline.

Beneficial rains west and southwest together with bearish aspects of the Illinois legislative situation put the wheat market on the downgrade even when corn tended upward. Dry weather northwest and warmer temperatures in Canada were construed as favoring Spring wheat growth.

Oats ruled easy, influenced chiefly by other grain.

Provisions went lower with hogs and on selling ascribed to packers.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, June 7 (Canadian Press).—Cattle 25,000; fed steers trade steady to 25c lower; mostly 10 to 15c off; not much change on steers scaling 1,200 pounds upward; supply comparatively scarcest of year; mostly $8.00 to $9.25 with thin common to medium stockers downward to $7.25; best heavy steers $13.50; bulk heavies $12.50 to $13.25.

Hogs 67,000; market opened 15 to 25c lower on light and medium weight hogs; opening top $9.35; bulk 170 to 210 pound averages early $9.20 to $9.30; bulk 240 to 300 pound butchers $8.75 to $9.00; few 325 to 375 pound butchers $8.60 to $8.70; most desirable packing sows $7.75 to $8.00.

Sheep 5,000; fat lambs and yearlings active; closing 50 to 75c higher than Friday; medium to good natives $16.25 to $16.75; good natives to packers $17.50; bulk medium and good clipped yearlings $14 to $15.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, June 7 (Canadian Press)—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Demand 4.85 3-16.
Cables $4.85 11-16.

You get 2,000 miles out of every gallon of CASTROL.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

For Wednesday, June 8, 1927.
(Copyright, 1927, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Good and evil planetary influences balance to-day, according to astrology, and for that reason it is well to pursue well-trodden paths.

The early hours may be most unfavorable to any sort of mercantile enterprise and initiative should be postponed, it is believed by those who read the stars.

The summer is likely to be a period of uncertainty and anxiety to all who have ambitions that center in political office or executive positions of any sort.

Human nature, prone to envy, will be peculiarly critical under the rule of the planets this month and next, the seers foretell.

Women may strongly incline toward romance while this configuration prevails, but they are warned not to be too easily convinced of the sincerity of suitors.

There is fair luck for those who wed to-day and they may expect to benefit through careful building of their united fortunes.

Engineers, builders and all who deal in material construction of any sort should profit under this planetary government.

Uranus is in an aspect threatening to many lines of intellectual effort and it is well for brain-workers to take a rest while this rule continues.

There is a menacing sign for aviators who should be especially cautious today when sudden storms appear to be indicated in various parts of the country.

Religious differences may cause serious troubles under this direction of the stars. Secret organizations may be active in disturbing certain churches.

While many sinister forces appear to be active as the summer begins the seers give assurance that the world is throwing off many of its ills.

Persons whose birthdate it is may experience great changes in the year, which sould bring good luck.

Children born on this day may have many social ambitions which they are able to satisfy.

Y.W.C.A. BOARD PLANS FOR TEA

Swimming Pool Committee in Charge of Effort at Celebration.

REGULAR MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association Board of Directors was held on Monday afternoon, Miss M. Hamilton presiding.

The first part of the meeting was given over to arrangements for a high tea to be served July 1 in the main building at the Exhibition Grounds in connection with the Jubilee celebration there. The high tea is under the auspices of the Swimming Pool Committee, assisted by the Board of Directors and friends of the Association, and will be in place of the regular garden party. The general committee was appointed as follows: Miss E. Morrow (convenor), Miss M. Hamilton, Mrs. R. Turner, Mrs. G. Macdonald, and the convenors of other committees. The social committee of the Y.W.C.A., Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner convenor, Mrs. N. D. Buchanan, Mrs. H. M. Yelland, Mrs. W. J. Oke, Mrs. H. F. Foote, Mrs. F. D. Kerr and Mrs. T. Barrie will have charge of the refreshments, and Mrs. H. Beal (convenor), Miss L. Davidson, Mrs. J. A. Robinson and Mrs. J. J. Harkness will be in charge of table arrangements. The publicity and sale of tickets will be in charge of Mrs. E. E. Harvey (convenor), Mrs. N. D. Drummond, Mrs. T. Brown, and Mrs. H. F. Foote. There will also be a candy table. All friends of the Association are asked to keep this in mind and co-operate in any way possible.

Miss E. Morrow presented the financial reports. The following nominating committee was appointed to fill vacancies on the board: Miss E. Morrow, Mrs. W. D. Scott, Mrs. A. Moir, Mrs. G. Wood and Mrs. E. E. Harvey.

The officers of the coming year were elected:

Miss M. Hamilton, B.A., President; Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, First Vice-President; Mrs. E. E. Harvey, Second Vice-President; Miss M. Dickson, Third Vice-President; Miss Annie Wood, Secretary; Mrs. G. E. Porter, Associate Secretary; Miss E. Morrow, Treasurer.

Mrs. T. Brown reported the last meeting of the Local Council, and Mrs. F. D. Kerr gave a very interesting account of the Dominion Y.W.C.A. Conference held in Toronto last week. Mrs. Kerr emphasized especially the extensive work done by the Y.W.C.A. in helping to Canadianize the new-comers to Canada. Canada's population is 9,300,000, and over 2,000,000 are of foreign birth, representing 66 nationalities and over 240 religions. The problem is to build a national structure that will endure. At the ports new-comers are met by Y.W.C.A. port workers and their addresses sent to Associations at their destination. A call is then made on every new-comer and any help the Y.W.C.A. can give is willingly given. The names are passed on to churches they wish to attend, and clubs and classes at the "Y" welcome them and help them in Canadian ways and greatest of all here they find friends. Mrs. Kerr also impressed the Board with the extent of the foreign work of the Y.W.C.A., where in many Associations Well Babies' Clinics have been established with Chinese doctors in charge. The ideal of Association work in foreign countries was shown in the self-sacrificing example of Canadian and American secretaries resigning and taking new Associations as soon as foreign leaders have been sufficiently trained to take charge of the Y.W.C.A.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Kerr for her report and the meeting closed with prayer, after which tea was served by Mrs. E. Morrison.

THIS CANADA OF OURS.

Q. Which are Canada's three big mines?

A. Canada to-day has three mines in the $100,000,000 class. The appreciation in the market value of the securities of the International Nickel Co. has brought the value of this company's capital above $100,000,000 and it now ranks with Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines and the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada, Limited. The total value of the three properties, as placed upon them by investors, is close to $350,000,000. Production of the three concerns includes zinc, nickel, copper, silver, gold and platinum.

Celebrate July 1 in Peterboro'

DRESS

To wear with elbow-sleeved afternoon frock are these gloves of gray kid with embroidered floral design on the long cuffs. At the left are gloves of biscuit color with burnt design, suitable for street wear. Snakeskin cuffs adorn the gloves at the right. The glove shown below is of beige kid with a brown grosgrain ribbon bow on the cuff.

There are women—well-dressed women among them—who have not once yielded to the temptation of buying or wearing the ornate gloves that have been spread so lavishly on the glove counters and in glove shops for the last five or six years. Their prejudice against the ornamental cuff it might be hard to account for. Many women attach a good deal of importance to their own little conservatisms. There are women, you know, who have never accepted the colored handkerchief. They feel immense satisfaction in the fact that they have clung to the fine white linen squares preferred by their mothers. There are women who have never worn so-called costume jewelry of any sort, women who have never worn imitation lizard or snakeskin, women who have never even bobbed their hair—and yet somehow managed to keep well abreast of the mode.

Don't imagine for a minute that the opinion of the woman who discountenances the ornamental glove has really had any effect on fashion—or that her steadfast determination to wear nothing but the simplest sort of pull-on gloves has diminished the interest of other women in every sort of fancy hand-covering. On the contrary there never was a more amazing variety of fancy gloves to choose from. Every day you might find some new way of making a glove ornate.

Gloves for rather elaborate wear are decorated with birds and flowers painted in oil colors on fine kid. For street wear there are gloves finished with a design burned into the leather or kid. Designs are achieved by means of snakeskin cuffs or strappings—also dainty little ribbon bows on the cuffs. There are designs laid on the cuffs of gloves in gold leaf. There are gloves made entirely of snakeskin and gloves with calfskin cuffs. Tassels hang from the cuffs of some of the new gloves. Feathers and rows of tiny artificial flowers made from ribbon are used on others.

HOW TO VARNISH WALL PAPER

When ordinary wall paper is used in a child's room or in any other room where it is likely to become badly soiled, it can be given a coat of white damar varnish to protect it and to allow it to be cleansed with a damp cloth. The varnish may be mixed with turpentine to reduce the gloss. It is best to apply a preliminary coat of glue size made by soaking a quarter of a pound of white glue over night in a little water and adding one and one-fourth quarts of boiling water.—Popular Science Monthly.

Concrete for Paving.

When the by-law for concrete paving was under discussion, Ald. Stocker asked, "Why not build our own pavement?"

Ackerman: "Is that for concrete pavement? I understand that it is just to allow preliminary work to be done; it does not bind the council to build concrete pavements."

Mr. Wearing: "It does."

Ald. Fife: "It went through committee and Council for concrete because we wanted to start laying our own."

Several aldermen objected to binding next year's council to some particular type of paving. It was explained that the name of the type of pavement had to be included.

Ald. Stocker said that all that had to be bought was a mixer, which would pay for itself in one year.

Mayor Holloway advised the council that the engineer of the Highways Department said the cheapest pavement would be the type being laid on the highway outside the city. Mr. Parsons said that an asphalt plant would cost about $20,000.

Mr. Armstrong reminded the Aldermen that notice had already been given in the paper that concrete pavement would be laid on these streets.

Ald. Denne asked Ald. Fife if he thought the concrete pavement best. Ald. Fife replied that he thought it would last as long or longer than any other kind.

Aldermen McIntyre and Greene argued that as the concrete had been advertised and the law provided for binding next year's Council in this way, the by-law should go through.

Ald. Ackerman explained that his contention was that some entirely new type of pavement might be on the market before next year's council is ready to let the contract which the Aldermen might prefer. He withdrew his objection, however, as the other members were willing to leave the word "concrete" in the by-law, and Mr. Wearing pointed out that the Railway and Municipal Board would probably permit a change in the type of pavement if desirable.

General Business.

Ald. Denne and Mr. Armstrong will attend a meeting at the Hydro offices, when the power plans for this system will be laid before the Central Ontario Power Association. Ald. Ackerman said that he was informed that the Hydro was to develop 18,000 horsepower north east of this city at 25 cycle frequency. He felt some protest should be made about developing power at such frequency in Eastern Ontario when it cannot be used here.

The council will ask the Hydro Electric Power Commission for a price on the lot at the corner of McDonnell and Park streets to improve the corner. This is the only one of the Street Railway assets the Council will consider buying.

The Aldermen voted unanimously to attend St. John's church on June 17, when a special service will be held in connection with the centenary.

If the land to be sold for taxes at an adjourned sale is not purchased, the city will buy it.

The question of issuing eating house licenses to people having wooden buildings was under some discussion. Ald. Greene asked if these would be considered permanent buildings. Ald. Phelan said that these would be considered permanent under the Assessment Act and subject to business tax. The lack of sanitary conveniences in one place was also an objection, but the owner assured the council that her landlord had promised her they would be put in. She was warned that the license would be revoked if the conveniences were not installed.

Ald. Greene reported that while considerable money was being spent on James Stevenson Park while most of the teams were playing elsewhere. This, he claimed, was because bigger revenue could be obtained by the teams at the Exhibition Grounds or at Central Park.

U.S. AVIATORS ARE WELCOMED

Chamberlin deemed it best to turn in. Because of the Whit-Monday holiday, with all shops closed, the pilot of the Columbia was forced to go without a shave. With the stubble he had accumulated in forty-eight hours above earth and sea, he ran the gauntlet of enthusiastic frauleins, and quite successfully he thought.

Except for a brief word now and then to questioners, he passed all queries on to Levine. The latter was very much fatigued but told an incident of their sighting Lindbergh's private cruiser Memphis off Cherbourg. "Let us swoop down and have a look at him," Levine suggested. But they did not swoop down, Chamberlin merely remarking: "I want to get on."

Trip Not Monotonous

Both declared that the trip had turned out much more interesting than they had expected, with bleak Atlantic spaces below them. Their continual circling to avoid storms saved them much monotony.

"We were not sleepy particularly," Levine remarked. "We took turns at resting."

Both are extremely anxious that the official record of their non-stop flight from New York to Helfta, two kilometres from Eisleben where they descended, should be established as soon as possible.

Carried on Bicycle

The taking on of 100 litres of petrol, which had to be hauled on a bicycle from a distant garage, delayed Chamberlin for almost three hours yesterday morning. For this also the Columbia met with misfortune by driving into fog and rains which eventually forced her off her route to Berlin.

Chamberlin was obliged to come down for fuel about six o'clock in the morning. He discovered himself in a rural hamlet near Eisleben. An enterprising townsman scented the cause of the plane's difficulty and got in touch with the owner of a garage in a neighboring town who agreed to sell Chamberlin his available supply of petrol. It amounted to 100 litres, which had to be transported in small installments on a bicycle.

The re-stocking process consumed three hours, and there was further delay when the local customs officials demanded to know whether the Columbia carried dutiable commodities.

Propeller Snaps

When the plane lost its way southeast of Berlin, the pilot discovered engine trouble and decided to descend. What appeared to be a good landing spot proved to be a stretch of swamp and when the plane came down nose first, its propeller snapped.

News of the forced landing was broadcast over the countryside and the burgomaster and other officials of Kottbus soon arrived and bade the wayfarers welcome, and escorted them to the Town Hall, where they were accorded the traditional hospitality of Kottbus. This meant enrollment in the city's "golden book" and the obligation to take a deep long draught from the "hune goblet." Although tired out, the two airmen partook of the town's hospitality, then rested for a while.

LITTLE GIRL HURT.

Marjorie Fallis Struck in Mouth With Sledge Hammer.

MILLBROOK, June 7.—The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Sutton, Fallis Line, Marjorie, met with a serious accident last Friday. She was standing behind her father who was driving some posts for a fence, and the latter, ignorant of her presence, drew back the sledge, striking her in the mouth. Several stitches were necessary, Dr. H. A. Turner giving medical attention, but fortunately beyond the cut and a severely bruised face, there was no further injury.

Marjorie is about three years old. She and her mother had been in the orchard with Mr. Sutton, but had gone back to the house. Her return alone, and the fact that she had not spoken, explains why her father did not know of her proximity until the accident occurred. The little girl was unconscious from the blow received.

Jungle Breath

© 1927 by NEA Service

by Ben Lucien Burman

THIS HAS HAPPENED

LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, mysteriously summoned to the queer little jungle-bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, encounters an old friend, VILAK, who tells him it was he who had sent for him.

Vilak's cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl, owns a coffee plantation and other land near Porto Verde and has received mysterious warnings to get out of the country. Vilak is alarmed, because several deaths already have occurred and the superstitious natives think some supernatural force is at work.

The day Nunnally arrives another man is killed, TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise Marberry's foremen. He had been hit with a club in the hands of LIMEY POTTS, another foreman. Before he died a strange paralysis took hold of him, and Vilak confides to Nunnally that he is certain Limey Potts, though he may have struck the victim, was not the murderer.

That evening Vilak induces Nunnally to come with him on a visit to the house of GAYLORD PRENTISS, a reticent and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise.

Before going to Prentiss' place, Vilak and Nunnally call on Elise Marberry. Vilak refuses to let her go with them, and he and Nunnally continue. At Prentiss' gate, which is fortified with barbed wire, they hear a rustling in the bushes nearby.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER X.

The old man paled. Vilak put a finger warningly to his lips. His hand on his pistol, he stepped noiselessly into the shadow of some bushes. The crackling became louder: something was coming down the path they had just descended. A moment later a shadowy figure appeared on the opposite bank of the creek. Nunnally, unused to firearms, nervously fingered the trigger of his weapon. Vilak restrained him silently. The figure drew nearer. Cautiously it began to step over the slippery creek stones.

Suddenly Vilak thrust the old man's pistol into its holster. "It's Elise," he said. He bounded from his hiding place. Elise recoiled. His arms shot out and seized her. "By Jove!" he flashed with bitter intensity. "I could really be pardoned for doing something desperate to you for this."

She tried to draw away. "Let go my hand. Your nails are digging into it fearfully. "You're hurting me. Really. Really."

"Why did you come? Why? Why?"

I told you I was coming. . . . Please let go my hand."

He released her: his voice regained its customary placidity. "You might have been killed. You don't know how close you were to being killed."

She touched his hand with her smooth finger. "I'm sorry if I upset you. You know that. I see now that it was foolish and reckless. But what I said at the house was true and I wasn't joking. I'm not a child. And I'm not going to permit you to risk your life for me with all these sinister things hanging over us while I do nothing."

His eyes turned from her face to her dress, the same gown of yellow silk she had worn at her home. Now the edges were torn and muddy. "You came all the way in that flimsy thing?"

She nodded. "If I had taken time to change I couldn't have followed you."

"My beautiful but foolish cousin you may congratulate yourself that the stars are obviously in your favor."

He took off boots, gloves, raincoat and gave them to her. "Put these on. What I'll do with you now that you're here, Lord only knows. I'd send you back at once only that it would probably be as dangerous for you to go back alone as to come alone with me. You'll probably be safer where I can keep my hand on you. If you knew how nearly you come to being shot by Nanny you'd now be trembling a little instead of trying by your most winning smile to cajole me into forgiveness. Nanny almost took his first lesson in marksmanship with you as the target and first lessons are generally fatal."

His bushy eyebrows contracted sternly. "Frankly, I don't forgive you. You've put me in a very bad situation. In the future, if you choose to disobey me in the slightest particular, fond as I am of you, I'll have to leave. I say that not because of sex prejudice, egotism or anything else. It's merely that your life and perhaps the lives of others are involved and I can't have everything imperiled by an injudicious act like this. I'm speaking to you very pleasantly. But you know that my pleasantest words have occasionally steel linings. Do you agree to do as I say?"

She nodded. "I agree. But with the reservation that I'm to be treated as an individual and not as a decoration. Is that also part of the bargain?"

"Agreed." Vilak retraced his steps to the gate and again began picking the lock. Soon it clicked open. He raised the great steel bars inside, then searched a moment in his pockets. His eyes caught the silver chain about Elise's neck. "Since you're here, I might as well make you useful. Let me have that chain you're wearing. Good of you not to have beads or something of that sort that would not conduct electricity. Otherwise I would have to go to the trouble of searching about for a piece of wire. I want to make a connection between these two copper terminals, so that when we open the gate the current won't be broken and the alarm set off."

When she had taken the chain from her neck, he fastened one end to the gate knob and the other to the iron post supporting it, then swung open the gate until the chain was taut. "All right. You can both crawl through now. Careful. Lucky none of us are fat. Let me know in a second if either of you hear or see the dog."

When all three had entered, Vilak closed the gate once more and carefully relocked it. Then leading the way a short distance toward the house, he halted again in a clump of low trees. "We'll wait here," he whispered.

For ten minutes they stood motionless, Vilak silently chewing betel nut, the old man and the girl fascinated, watching a mussurama, the Brazilian black snake, rising in the jungle grass as it killed and began to devour what in the moonlight appeared to be a jararaca, deadliest of Brazilian vipers.

Suddenly there arose from the bowels of the house a prolonged wail, a wail sinister, uncanny, which to the old man sounded as though it might have sprung from the throat of some unfortunate tortured on the medieval rack. Elise repressed an exclamation. The old man nervously removed his glove and put it on again. Vilak went on quietly chewing betel. The wail was repeated.

Then the wavering light of a candle appeared in one of the windows, the front door of the house opened, and Prentiss, clad in his grimy linens, appeared in the aperture. Stalking through the doorway, he hurried down a short path which led to a low water tower some feet behind the house and disappeared through the small door which led into it.

Vilak signaled the others to wait, then crept silently toward the tower. He listened intently to the archeologist moving within, then took a position in the tangled underbrush along the path the other must use to return to the house.

Shortly after, Prentiss reappeared in the doorway. In his hand he was carrying a bright glistening object, apparently some sort of glass container. Deftly Vilak tossed a loose vine across the path. Prentiss came striding down. Either the darkness or his haste would have sufficed to prevent his seeing the vine snare. His foot caught in the twisted fiber; his body jerked violently; the glass object he was carrying shot from his hand and shattered upon the ground.

Muttering a curse, Prentiss disentangled his foot, looked at the broken glass, glanced about furtively, then returned to the tower. In a moment he came out once more, carrying another similar glass container, and made his way into the house.

Vilak hurried to the scene of the other's misadventure. The liquid which had been in the container, a thick, whitish milky fluid, was rapidly sinking into the ground. He picked up a fragment of the glass and brought it to his nostrils. "Hum," he muttered, then focusing his attention on the house saw a candle move past four windows. An instant after a prolonged, uncanny wail again echoed into the night. A choking, gurgling sound followed. Then silence.

For a few moments Vilak stood immobile, abstracted, only his hollow jaws moving as he chewed the gummy betel. The Oriental cast of his face became more marked; his bushy eyebrows appeared those of a Tartar; a thin film like the inner eyelid possessed by birds seemed to half shroud the pupils of the brilliant eyes beneath. Then he strode to the house and knocked loudly upon the door. The sound echoed hollowly through the interior, the candle burning before one of the windows was swiftly snuffed out.

A dog began to bay fiercely. The baying became a fury. Vilak waited, then knocked a second time. Shuffling footsteps sounded on the floor inside. The footsteps came nearer, halted.

"Who's there?" The voice was that of Prentiss, the snarling, cracked echo of a voice that once must have been deep and powerful.

"Mr. Davis, Miss Marberry's attorney. I want to talk to you."

Vilak heard the other curse. "I don't want a thing to do with her, you hear? Or anybody that has anything to do with her. If she comes around here again, I'll . . . I'll fix her for good."

Vilak's face hardened. "Will you be so good as to open that door, and talk to me sensibly?" he snapped.

There was a brief silence while the man inside seemed to hesitate. Then a bolt was shot, a lock grated, the door was flung open. Prentiss stood in the aperture. He was still wearing round his neck the uncomfortable high collar the chemist had noticed in the afternoon. In his trembling withered hand he was clutching a pistol. "I'll open the door all right. I'll open it," he muttered. "So you're Miss Marberry's attorney, eh? Come to try to drive me off my place, maybe? Well, try it. Try it." His eyes glittered cruelly. "How the devil did you get in here without ringing my bell?"

"When you talk to me civilly I might answer you." Vilak's eyes were darting past him to the dimly lit interior.

"Then you'll wait forever, you hear me?" His voice began to rise shrilly. "This is my property. It doesn't belong to anyone but me. You can tell Miss Marberry that. If she ever comes around here again I'll make her sorry she was born."

His body was trembling with passion. "Get out now! Get out! Get out!"

No Longer Gray!

Fear of crude dyes no longer excuses gray hair. You don't have to use them. Kolor-Bak is a clean, colorless liquid that cannot harm the hair; and it does bring back the color. Not the weird hues women used to get from old-fashioned hair-dyes, but the color your hair ought to be—the color it used to be.

Kolor-Bak acts gently; the change is gradual. That's why your closest friend can't detect it. Hair is left lustrous; only the gray is gone. Blonde, auburn, brown, black—any shade responds to this natural process. The one bottle is right for all.

Why experiment with anything, even on one lock of hair, when Kolor-Bak always gets the same perfect result—on a money-back guarantee!

It is Serious When The Kidneys Go Wrong

These letters tell of two cases in which Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills afforded the desired relief.

"For about half a century Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have been known to the public as an effective treatment for the relief of kidney ills. Before that they had been for years proven in private practice. Surely they have stood the test of time. And to-day they are more popular than ever before. Why? Simply because they produce the desired results. You know when you use them that you are not experimenting with an untried medicine.

Mrs. Fred Martin, Box 61, Bradford, Ont., writes:—

"I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's K. & L. Pills, as I used to suffer agonies with gravel in the kidneys and tried several medicines with no results, until one day I decided to try Dr. Chase's K. & L. Pills and obtained so much benefit from them that I am now never without a box in use and one in reserve. I certainly wish Dr. Chase's Medicines every success."

Miss Mary Pettipas, 158, Upper Water St., Halifax, N.S., writes:—

"I suffered for two years with kidney trouble and tried a great deal of medicines, which did not help me at all. I was so nervous I could not rest at night. A neighbour advised me to try your K. & L. Pills and since taking them I feel like a new person and now sleep soundly at nights, thanks to Dr. Chase."

Rickard Would Take Basque Woodchopper to Court

TEX SEEKS TO PREVENT WILLS FIGHT

Garden Director Insists He Has Exclusive Services of Spainard.

MAKE CONTRACT TEST

No Mention Made of Fights With Dempsey or Sharkey

NEW YORK, June 7.—That he will seek redress in the courts unless Paulino, the Basque woodchopper, abandon his idea of fighting for a rival promoter, was the emphatic declaration of Tex Rickard. The Madison Square Garden promoter declared his intention of instituting injunction proceedings against the Paulino--Harry Wills battle which is scheduled by Promoter Humbert Fugazy for the Polo Grounds on June 29. Rickard will base his petition on the contract he says he holds giving him exclusive rights to Paulino's ring services in this State and New Jersey until Nov. 1 next.

"There is no specific mention in my contract with Paulino about fights against Jack Sharkey, Jack Dempsey or Gene Tunney," declared Rickard in denying claims advanced on behalf of Paulino that since the promoter did not get the Spaniard one or all of these matches the contract was null and void. "The contract simply states that for a consideration Paulino agrees to box only for me here and in New Jersey until Nov. 1. I planned to match him with Dempsey, but my contract didn't compel me to. I had him matched with Jack Delaney and the State Athletic Commission forbade the match. I tried to get the Commission to approve a bout between Paulino and Jim Maloney, but because I didn't have a contract signed by Paulino to fight Maloney this was ignored, although Paulino, under his own contract with me must fight the best man I can get for him.

"I advanced Paulino $2,000 under our contract and the money has not been repaid. I am now on Paulino's bond for $3,000 in the suit of Jack Curley against Paulino. If the contract I hold with Paulino is no good, then my contract with Tunney is no good, nor are similar contracts in other fields."

Seeks To Fix Status of Seal.

"It is to find out just what constitutes a contract that prompts me to take my case to court. I will seek an injunction against Paulino fighting Wills or anybody else, unless it is for me. I have to start proceedings to protect myself and the business I represent. My backers are demanding that I go to court, pointing out that they have a big investment in the Garden, which is not to be kicked around. Another thing, I have been advised by the State Athletic Commission to take the matter to court."

That Rickard is determined to fight the Paulino case in court was indicated last week when he appeared before the commission with Maloney's signed contract to fight Paulino. This was simply a gesture of protection for the promoter, subsequent developments prove. If Paulino accepted the match and it received commission approval, Rickard was prepared to hold the bout on June 22 in the Yankee Stadium. Paulino didn't accept the bout, and the commission didn't approve it, but on his own line of reasoning Rickard is confident he can now go to court with sufficient proof to show that he kept his part of the bargain with Paulino by giving him fights against Knute Hansen and Tom Heeney and by signing Maloney for him after the commission frowned on a Delaney match.

A scramble can be expected for the next world's welterweight championship battle, which is expected to be one of the highlights of the outdoor season. Promoters Rickard and Fugazy already are angling for the services of Champion Joe Dundas, and his rival, if present plans materialize, will be the winner of the Ace Hudkins-Sergeant Sammy Baker struggle to be held at the Polo Grounds on June 15.

MANY ATTEND LEAGUE SESSION

Khaki Team Wins From Blues in Softball at Petherick's.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, June 7—The League service on Thursday evening was in charge of the convenor of the devotional department. Mr. Thomas Fry, with George Brunton as leader. Nearly sixty were in attendance, with the groups about equally represented. The devotional talk was given by Mr. Fry; Scripture lesson by the leader; short readings by Mrs. Fred Barnum and Mr. Fred Barnum. The next meeting is in charge of Mr. Earl Fairman.

Before the League service the first of the inter-group softball series was played between the Blue and Khaki groups the latter winning by 17 to 7 in five innings. The Blues took an early lead, when their opponents had only six men, but after the second inning the Khaki boys forged ahead. Manager Fairman of the Blues took over the pitching burden for one spasm, the fourth, but was inclined to be wild in his delivery, and seven runs were counted. Aylmer Peterick, for the Blues, and M. McKenzie and Don Watson for the Khaki, made splendid catches. Several other players performed feats not recorded in the spectacular column, but no doubt with more practice, the errors will become fewer. The Khaki team meets the combined White and Red organization next week, and this game promises plenty of excitement.

EVENS SERIES WITH TORONTO

Doyle Allows Sixteen Hits for 9-3 Decision for Reading.

SYRACUSE LOSES OUT

NEW YORK, June 7 (Canadian Press).—Harry Mackin's batting with Moose Swaney's fine relief pitching, was largely responsible for the 8 to 6 victory the Bears scored over Syracuse here at Newark. The game was a long drawn out affair, with seven pitchers working. The victory put the Newark club in sixth place.

Reading pounded Jess Doyle, former Detroit hurler, for sixteen hits to take a 9 to 3 decision and even the series at Reading with Toronto. Dave Barbee and George Quellich again hit home runs, the second for each on successive days. None was on base each time the fourply blows were swatted.

Moore's single in the last half of the ninth inning scored Daly and Brame with the runs that enabled the Skeeters to even the score with Rochester at Jersey City, 3 to 2. The Tribe had sent over two runs in the first half of the ninth to take the lead, 2 to 1, but were unable to check the locals in the last half.

Only three games scheduled.

Little Doubt About Better Team in Last Night's Game.

OUTLAWS NEW MEN.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 7. — The Clerks trimmed the Outlaws in a 21 to 10 game yesterday evening. The evening was all that could be desired, and a large crowd assembled to watch the game. PETERBORO CANOE LOSES TO DE LAVAL

First Shut-out Game of the Season Is Registered in Central Park.

The De Laval had a walkover in the game with the Canadian Canoe Company last night in Central Park, the final score being 21 to 0. The winners played excellent ball, both in the field and when at the bat, and the losers were unable to do anything right. Murray had the Paddle Boys completely mistified, and in the last seven innings they only got four men on the runway. Both Dundass and Watkins were hit hard by the De Laval, and twice home runs were knocked out with the bases full.

CHICAGO WINS FULL SERIES

Defeat Braves 10-2 for Fourth Straight Game at Boston.

FIELDING RAGGED

NEW YORK, June 7 (Canadian Press).—Ted Lyons pitched his second victory of the series and the tenth of the season at Boston yesterday and Chicago defeated Boston 10 to 2. It was the fourth straight win for the White Sox, cleaning up their first series played here this year. They have now won twelve out of fourteen starts. Lyons' record for the season now is 10 wins and two defeats, the same as that of his team-mate, Thomas. Clancy made five hits in five times up. The Red Sox fielded raggedly.

With a revamped line-up the Athletics defeated Cleveland at Philahelphia, 4 to 1, scoring three runs on Buckeye, the Indian pitcher, in the first innings. Ehmke was invincible for eight innings.

Manager Connie Mack replaced Poole, his first baseman, with Fox, third string catcher, and benched Bill Lamar, left fielder, in favor of the veteran Zack Wheat. Fox and Wheat came through with run-producing hits, and Wheat made a spectacular catch with the bases filled in the eighth.

YELVERTON WINS FROM PONTYPOOL

Errors Decide Issue in Baseball Game—Rain Spoils Football.

PONTYPOOL, June 7.—Pontypool baseball team played their first League game at Yelverton on Thursday evening. Yelverton were the winners, the score standing at 8-1. Clark, pitching for Pontypool during the six innings struck out 14 men, while his opponent, H. Wilson, struck out 6. Pontypool also outhit Yelverton by securing 8 safe hits compared to their opponents' 5. With the exception of the battery the Pontypool team contributed many errors, poor baserunning, and poor coaching, but with some practice should develop into one of the best teams they have ever had. The line ups were as follows:

Pontypool—A. Mitchell, 1b; M. Clark, p; O. Bannon, c; J. Payne, cf; J. Malley, ss; E. Masters, lf; C. Taylor, rf; W. Walker, 2b; G. Gray, 3b; A. Stewart, ss.

Yelverton—W. Heaslip, 3b; C. McGill, c; J. Wilson, lf; C. Evans, 2b; W. Ken, cf; H. Wilson, p; E. Capstick, 1b; G. Kerr, ss; A. Wilson, rf.

The other game scheduled, Blackstock vs Honeydale, resulted in a win for the former 13-4. The games scheduled for this week are June 7, Yelverton at Honeydale, and June 10, Blackstock at Pontypool.

The weather man has been rather harsh with the football league and Saturday's fixture, Kirby at Pontypool, had to be postponed until Tuesday evening. This is the third game that had to be postponed for rain out of four scheduled so far this season. This should prove to be a real contest.

PIRATES WIN ON HOME FIELD

DODGERS DEFEATED

NEW YORK, June 7 (Canadian Press).—The Pirates came from behind at Pittsburgh to defeat Philadelphia, 7 to 5. The visitors outhit the Pirates, but their misplays helped the home team to gain the victory. With the count deadlocked in the sixth, Sand booted a rap by Traynor. Joe Harris then singled. A sacrifice by Smith scored Traynor. Harris trotted home on a wild pitch by Scott.

The Cardinals defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday afternoon in the final game of the series at St. Louis, 6 to 2. Bob McGraw, former Dodger, outpitched Jess Barnes and helped to win his own game by driving in two runs to break a tie in the seventh inning. In the third he hit a triple that was turned into a run.

The Cubs batted Larry Benton off the hill in the eighth inning to tie the score against Boston, later landing on Mogridge in the eleventh inning to win the final game of the series at Chicago, 4 to 3, thereby breaking even on the series. Brillheart went the route for Chicago, the first game he has finished this season.

FRENCH PLAYERS LOSE IN DOUBLES

Cochet and Brugnon Feature in Closing of Tennis Finals.

ST. CLOUD, France, June 7 (Canadian Press).—An all-French doubles final, fought out sensationally to the five-set limit before Henri Cochet and Jacquest Brugnon downed Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra, featured the closing of the international hard court tennis championships yesterday. The scores were 2-6, 6-2, 6-0, 1-6, 6-4.

The last chance of the United States sharing in the title awards faded when "Big Bill" Tilden and his Spanish partner, Senorita Elia de Alvarez, bowed to Jean Borotra and Mme. Bordes of France in the mixed doubles by scores of 6-4, 2-6, 6-2. Tilden showed considerable let-down after his spectacular losing match in the men's singles final with Lacoste. Both the American and Borotra experimented with their strokes while their partners carried the brunt of the match.

The remaining championship decided yesterday, in the women's doubles, went to the South African pair, Mrs. Peacock and Miss Esther Heine, who conquered Mrs. P. H. Watson and Miss Peggy Saunders of England, 6-2, 6-1.

SOCCER NOTES

League Standing.

Masseys	2	2	0	0	5	1	4
Thistle	2	1	1	0	3	3	2
Quakers	2	0	2	0	0	4	0

Two points for a win and one for a draw.

The Quaker Oats team will hold a practice match on Thursday evening at 6.30 prompt.

The convention of the International Soccer Board meets at Llandudo—a very pleasant venue. But apart from Scotland's proposal to abolish the penalty kick (which has already been turned down by the other countries) there is of little importance on the agenda.

England will propose an alteration in the wording of Law 11 to ensure that a goal can only be scored against the offending side from a free kick under Law 9.

The proposal is the outcome of an incident which occurred in the early part of last season in England when a player taking a free kick within his own penalty area, kicked the ball against the referee from whom it rebounded through the kicker's own goal, thus making a score for the side against which the foul was originally given. That was certainly an exceptional case but the F. A. wish to avoid a recurrence.

Several Women Among Those To Try 25-Mile Trip.

GOODSELL FAVORITE.

LONG BEACH, Calif., June 7. — (Canadian Press).—A final check of the entries for the first known "ocean rowboat Derby," to be held next Sunday between here and Santa Cataline Island, revealed to-day that sixty have registered for the approximately 25-mile pull. Mrs. Lottie Schoemmel of New York and Martha Stager of Portland, Oregon, will forsake for a time their swimming activities to race with boats. Another feminine candidate, Marie Elizabeth Krom, of San Pedro, is not yet out of her "teens." Miss Stager and Mrs. Schoemmel competed in the Catalina swim. Major J. Goodsell, world's sculling champion, is favored to win

SPARKS CIRCUS TO GIVE BIG PARADE

At 11 A.M. on Saturday All the Principal Business Streets of City Will be Paraded.

Sparks Circus, coming to Peterborough next Saturday afternoon and night, will be the only big show to give a parade here this season. The route will cover George street.

All other Class A. shows have abandoned the street parade, but the Sparks Circus still retains this feature, much to the delight of the millions of its patrons throughout the United States and Canada. Mr. Charles Sparks, manager of this famous show, has received many expressions of appreciation of his decision not to depart from the time-honored custom of giving a street parade, his position receiving the unqualified approval of the merchants in the towns in which he exhibits, as well as the city officials, the latter holding that the parade is one of the people's rights, while the retailers believe that whatever brings the country people to the city is certainly an advantage to the tradespeople of the town.

Sparks Circus parade this season is the most elaborate in its history, and all dens of wild animals are wide open to the view of the public.

Theatres

AT THE REGENT.

Daniel in the lions' den had nothing on Douglas MacLean, judging from the funmaker's laughable predicament in his new Paramount comedy, "Hold That Lion," which was screened for the first time last night at the Regent Theatre before a capacity and highly appreciative audience.

In a laudable endeavour to prove himself a hero in the eyes of the one and only girl, the redoubtable MacLean joins what he mistakenly believes is a "cat" hunting expedition. When he discovers that the "cats" are not the familiar and harmless household pets, but wild, man-eating lions, it is too late to withdraw.

As matters turn out, instead of MacLean hunting lions, the lions hunt MacLean. The results are just as funny and exciting as one would imagine. In the end, the comedian has the last laugh on the animals, for he succeeds in capturing a live lion, though in a decidedly unorthodox manner.

Although MacLean's is the outstanding performance, the members of the supporting cast come in for a share of the credit.

AT THE CAPITOL.

BEBE DANIELS IN "A KISS IN A TAXI."

Something in the nature of a French farce is "A Kiss in a Taxi," with the vivacious and good-looking Bebe Daniels as the little waitress, Ginette, a vixenish attendant at the Cafe Pierre, in the Montmarte District of Paris. It is a vivid bit of life from the French angle, with the inescapable American touch overlying its foreign atmosphere. French and German producers appear able to project on the silver sheet somewhat of the national elements of the countries they strive to depict in pictures, but the eagle shrieks triumphant throughout every effort of United States' men.

Ginette is the odd name of the waitress of the Cafe Pierre, who refuses to be kissed by longing patrons, and breaks much glassware over the luckless heads of those who persist in trying to embrace her. She loves a struggling young artist whose guardian frowns on a match with a waitress.

The hero of the piece, however, is Chester Conklin, as Celestian Maraval, a studious and discreet member of the Society of Arts, whose name is taken by the philandering Leon Lambert and used in a flirtation with the pretty Ginette, who strives to induce him to accept her lover's picture for the Salon. Maraval, a small, be-spectacled gentleman with elongated whiskers, is given the credit for the affair with Ginette, and suffers accordingly when matters reach a climax. The farcical nature of the story entangles itself about Lambert's home, when Ginette is brought there as the supposed daughter of Leon, and adopted by his wife. The tale finishes with satisfaction to all, including the little waitress, who receives a dower from her supposed parent and is enabled to marry her lover.

Safety Meeting.

An interesting ceremony took place at the Canada Cement Company's plant at Lakefield No. 7, on Tuesday last, May 31st, when at 5 o'clock the plant suspended operations and over a hundred and thirty employees gathered at the office to inaugurate the June no accident campaign and discuss safety problems. Mr. Bailey, plant superintendent, presided and congratulated the men on their present record of 195 days without a lost time accident. The local plant stands second in the company's rating in this regard and he urged that the good record be continued.

Reeve Tanner was also present and expressed his good wishes for the occasion.

J. R. Hill, the safety engineer, reviewed the duties of the safety committees and urged all to do their bit to make the campaign successful.

The new safety flag was raised by H. G. Armstrong, of the office staff and three hearty cheers and a tiger were given.

Friday was the King's birthday and was observed as a holiday by the Public and High schools. Flags in the village helped to brighten things up and make it a gala day. Even yet the people of the village could improve a good deal in the number of flags displayed.

"The Grove Guild met at "The Grove," the members coming from Toronto, Peterborough and Lakefield. Luncheon was served at "The Grove" on Friday.

BY BILLY EVANS

Connie Mack, famous leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, has experienced about every thrill that comes to a major league manager.

In the 26 years he has directed the baseball destinies of the Athletics, his teams have finished in every position possible from first to eighth.

The first 13 years of his career were far more successful than the last. During that time he was out of the first division only twice and won five pennants.

In 1914, after winning the American League pennant and then suffering four straight defeats to decide the world series at the hands of the Boston Braves, he broke up his pennant-winning aggregation by selling most of his stars.

Then followed lean years, as he finished last for seven consecutive seasons, before his efforts to build another winner began to show results. During the last 13 years of his career as manager, Mack has been in the first division only three times, almost directly opposite to his first 13 years.

It is now 13 seasons since the Athletics won a championship.

However, Mack isn't superstitious and doesn't believe 13 will prove a jinx, rather he regards it in the light of a mascot, for he figures beyond a doubt this is an Athletic year.

Aside from winning six American League pennants, Connie also has three world series to his credit, being nine reasons why he has managed the same club for 26 years.

ADMIRAL DEMANDS APOLOGY FOR FIRE

Will Retaliate if Chinese Fail To Express Regret.

LONDON, June 7 (United Press). Admiral Tyrwhitt, commanding the British Yangtsee River patrol, today demanded a personal apology from a Chinese General for firing from the shores on British vessels. An admiralty communique said the British would feel at liberty to retaliate unless the apology were made.

To Defend Legations

LONDON, June 7 (Canadian Press).—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Tientsin, China, says it is uncertain whether the Peking Legations will be defended, although the British certainly will remain if the others do. This despatch reports that the Japanese have definitely decided to stay in Peking and that there is not the slightest doubt that Tientsin will be defended in any case, no matter what the cost.

ANTI-FREEZE NOT POTABLE ALCOHOL

Government Therefore Not Interested, Manufacturer Claims.

MONTREAL, June 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Transactions in Pyridine, or anti-freeze, manufactured by the Federal Distillery of Montreal, claimed the attention of the Royal Customs Commission to-day. In the manufacture of this product, large quantities of alcohol are used.

G. W. Robb, president of the Federal Company, explained that in the process of manufacture of Pyridine, alcohol must be "poisoned."

After the poisoning process was gone through the alcohol was non-potable, and, he claimed, the government had no further interest in it.

BALKAN BREAK NOT DANGEROUS

Arrest of Jugo-Slav Embassy Man Used To Attract League.

BRITISH BELIEF.

LONDON, June 7 (Canadian Press).—The situation between Jugo-Slavia and Albania, involving the breaking of diplomatic relations, is not regarded in Downing Street as dangerous. Some officials believe the incident of the arrest of a member of the Jugo-Slav Legation staff in Albania has been seized upon as an opportunity to raise the whole question of relations between Italy, Albania, and Jugo-Slavia for discussion by the Powers when the League of Nations Councils convenes next Monday in Geneva.

An Ex-Buck Private Goes Back to France

(Owing to pressure of matter during the Canadian Legion convention, it was impossible to print these letters on Thursday and Saturday last.)

Dear Mac: Just eleven years ago there was in progress here on the Somme a mighty battle, destined to rank as one of the greatest in the history of British arms. It was a battle which many strategists regard as the turning point in the vast struggle we now know as the World War.

But the view of the strategist matters little to us. We who went through the Somme battles worried little about how and why and when—we went ahead when we were told and we dug in and cussed. This was our first chance to advance, a welcome relief from just holding the line. That is, leaving out considerations of the mud, which made it a little less pleasant than a stroll out to the Lift Lock. It was a traffic jam at ration corner. A stone records that in this cemetery are buried seventy-eight soldiers of the Northumberland Fusiliers, "Known to God." Into this cemetery have been brought, for better care, some of the wooden regimental memorials erected, during the war, on adjacent points. A sturdy cross which had once been blown in two by a shell, but is now repaired, records the sacrifice of officers and men of a company of Australian Field Engineers. Another, scarred by shrapnel, bears the name of the 14th Battalion, Royal Montreal Regiment.

These wooden crosses have withstood the wind and the rain of the Somme (and we who were there know just what that wind and rain are like), for eleven years, to say nothing of the hail of shrapnel and steel that beat about them in the battles of 1918. Weather-beaten and war-torn, their blackened forms stand out in striking contrast with the snow-white headstones which surround them. Though many prosperous cities at home have not yet honored their sons who fell here, these simple crosses bear testimony to the fact that the sacrifices of their comrades did not pass unnoticed by the men who went through the hell of the Somme fighting in 1916.

Do you remember the wreckage that strewed the Bapaume Road? To-day we fail to find it.

In this cemetery, as in every other, a story is to be read on every hand. Even as one turns to leave, one sees a stone against the wall marking the grave of a lad of 18, killed within a month or so of the Armistice.

Again, as I opened the metal box by the entrance to the cemetery, wherein is kept the roll of honor, I saw, to my surprise, two or three French coins. Their total value in Canadian money was not fifteen cents, and I was puzzled to know what they should be doing here. I could not ask the warden, because the warden was not present. That is why the coins were there . . . a mite from a small purse, a thank-offering to the gardener for the care devoted to the grave of one dearly loved. Perhaps from some French girl who still remembers the bright young Canadian or English lad who came into her life a decade ago . . . and passed through the battles to the Great Unknown. There were so many, so.

The wardens of these cemeteries are all British ex-soldiers, picked men and good fellows. You come upon them at odd times. Perchance, as you stand contemplating some once-familiar stretch of country, you hear, beyond a hedge, the whirr of a lawn mower. Looking about, you find a cemetery, in which a man, sun-tanned, collarless and jacketless, is pushing the mower over the green sward about the headstones. His bicycle rests by the gate. He may be the only man who will encounter in an hour's walk. Probably he lives among the French peasants in an adjacent village. He works largely without supervision. No foreman stands by to see him work. None is needed. He is doing this for his "pals." That he is employed by the Imperial War Graves Commission is incidental.

The person who sets out to tour the battlefields with a time table will destroy it after the first day. These cemeteries have a way of dissipating time. One lingers in them, looking for the names of men he knew, or for the names of familiar units.

In my next letter I will take you a little further along the road, to La Boiselle and Ovillers and Artillery Lawn.

—Paul Adams.

MILL BURNED NORTH OF SOO

Cause of Blaze at Nestorville Unknown as Mill Wasn't Operating.

PART OF PLANT SAVED.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., June 7. —A very heavy loss, fully covered by insurance, is involved in the burning of the J. J. McFadden saw mill at Nestorville. The fire started between 1 and 2 o'clock, and the entire saw mill was burned. The rest of the plant was saved.

The mill has not been operating since last summer, and the cause of the fire is unknown. At the time of the outbreak a couple of boats were at the dock taking on cargoes of lumber for United States ports and the men were going back and forth.

The mill was built by the Nestor Lumber Company some 15 years ago, since which time it has been controlled by the Thessalon Lumber Co., the Bishop Lumber Co., and the McFadden Co. For the past few months, J. J. McFadden has been negotiating with the new hardwood industry at Blind River for the taking over of the mill by those interests, and it has been inspected by them.

COAL INQUIRY BEGINS TO-DAY

Cost of Hauling Alberta Coal Being Studied By Board.

STATISTICS FURNISHED.

OTTAWA, June 7 (Canadian Press).—The inquiry to find the cost to the railways of transporting coal from the mines of Alberta to the consumers in Ontario opened before the Board of Railway Commissioners here today. The order of Parliament for this inquiry dates back to February 13, 1926, but the Board was engaged much of the intervening time on the general freight rates case and the coal rates inquiry has accordingly been delayed. When the motion to go ahead with the latter came up early this Spring, the railway companies said they would not be able to furnish the statistics which the Board would require until June 7, so the inquiry was put over until today.

YOUNG RUSSIAN KILLS MINISTER

ASSASSIN ARRESTED.

WARSAW, Poland, June 7 (Canadian Press).—M. Wojkoff, Soviet Minister to Poland, was assassinated at Warsaw Central Railway Station today by Boris Kowarda, young Russian student.

The Minister had gone to the station to meet A. P. Rosengolz, former Charge d'Affaires in London, en route to Moscow after leaving London because of the recent breaking off of diplomatic relations between Great Britain and the Soviet.

During the train stop, M. Wojkoff and Rosengolz had coffee and then walked up and down the platform. A few minutes before the train was scheduled to leave, young Kowarda approached and, drawing a revolver, fired six shots.

Although mortally wounded, M. Wojkoff had strength to draw his own pistol, but collapsed before he could use it. The assassin, a 19-year-old student in the Vilna High School, surrendered his revolver, saying "I killed Wojkoff." The Minister was hurried to a hospital, where he died.

Murder Avenged

LONDON, June 7.—The Evening News, one of Lord Rothmere's newspapers, which has conducted an intensive anti-Red campaign in Great Britain, today identifies Russian Minister M. Wojkoff, who was murdered in Warsaw, as Pierre Voykoff, who, the paper says, signed the death warrants of Czar Nicholas and the Russian Imperial family.

"By his assasination at the hand of a Royalist, retribution has come to one of the chief perpetrators of one of the foulest murders in history," the newspaper says.

CHILDREN HURT BY MOTOR CARS

Three Little Ones Hurt in Accidents in Toronto Streets.

TORONTO, June 7.—Five-year-old Ethel Kerr, 56 Arnold avenue, sustained slight injuries when struck by a motor car driven by Dr. D. Philps, 67 Rogers road, when she darted from behind a parked car on Dundas street east, Sunday. She was able to go home.

Dorothy Pearce, aged 5, and her sister, Helen, aged 2, of 390 Dundas street east, were slightly injured about the head when a motor car, in which they were riding, driven by Fred. Brennan of the same address, came into collision with an auto in charge of Harry Waghorne, 718 Gerrard street east, Sunday. The children were removed to St. Michael's Hospital, where their wounds were dressed.

Charlotte Cushman, who gained the Hall of Fame in 1915, was the first person of the theatrical profession to win that honor.

Judge Fights Duel When Wife Wins

PARIS, June 6.— Because his wife, who is a lawyer, won a case tried before him, Justice of Peace Freaud had to fight a duel yesterday morning. "The combat was terrible," one Paris newspaper reported, "but was stopped by the referees when the Justice was touched lightly on the arm, as the combat obviously was unequal after that."

The duel had been in preparation several days since Maitre Coussin in pleading a case against Mme. Freaud in the court over which the latter's husband presided, lost the verdict. Coussin remarked at the time that the justice naturally threw the case to his wife, whereupon the Justice jumped down from the chair and there was a combat with fists.

One member of the bar decided they must fight a duel. It was arranged on the estate of another lawyer at Palaiseau at dawn. Both combatants were practised swordsmen and there were six attacks before the Justice lost. The affair created a scandal in the Palais de Justice as duels are against the law and all involved were sworn to uphold the laws.

BRITAIN READY TO STOP FIGHT

Will Join Other Powers In Intervention in Balkans.

FRANCE BLAMES ITALY.

LONDON, June 7 (United Press).—Great Britain will join hands with France, Italy, and Germany to prevent any conflict between Jugo-Slavia and Albania, the British United Press understands, but naturally she would prefer the League of Nations to intervene, as it is believed the present Balkans crisis comes under its jurisdiction.

France is blaming the trouble on the Tirana Treaty, whereby Italy undertook to protect the interests of Albania as well as her own, and several French newspapers are stressing the fact that Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, congratulated Premier Mussolini when the pact was signed, and although Sir Austen has continually asserted that he never encouraged Italian aspirations toward Albania, it is a fact that he never discouraged them.

The tenseness of the situation is being reflected here in much diplomatic activity and uneasiness.

"ALL KIWANIS" NIGHT OBSERVED

ing in the bonds of friendship the two great English-speaking nations of the North American Continent.

The task of reading the message of the International President, Ralph Amerman of Scranton, Pa., was delegated to Kiwanian Art Reynolds.

Message from President Amerman

Zero Hour—that period of time which precedes the rising of the sun, the dawn of a new day! Before we pass from the old to the new or proceed with any of our deliberate business, we pause with great significance to reaffirm our faith in the principles of our organization and dedicate ourselves anew to the ideals through which our work has grown and prospered. We look back over the year that has intervened since we last met together. We measure our stature and take our bearings, to reassure ourselves that we are following the true course. No part of the entire convention program holds more significance than this. As we think of hundreds of our clubs and thousands of our members in the United States and Canada who are at this moment keeping this observance with us, we pause to pay a tribute to the manhood of our organization, to those whose unselfish service has made possible the accomplishments of the past. They are a living exemplification of the power of the ideals which we sponsor and promulgate. Life has been transformed for countless numbers through their untiring efforts and through this practical idealism we have come to know the true meaning of success. Who can fathom the good which has been accomplished as represented by this body in attendance here tonight? Who can measure the fellowship and good will by attempting to reduce it to any formula or figure?

Through our growth, a new faith has been developed which has brought about a revolution in human relationships, in business and in community life. Our objectives stand out each year with clearer, sharper outline as we reaffirm them with a deeper conviction that the spiritual and human elements of life shall be our primary consideration in all plans. Sympathy and tolerance, which we desire, is a formula which would eliminate the waste of friction and discord at the source and send abroad a spirit of co-operation which would weld us into a solid unit for progressive development. Worked out to its last analysis, this would in spirit include all of our principles in that the ideals upon which these are based are righteousness, justice, patriotism and intelligent citizenship. With our well selected and interested membership, we have put these ideals into practical application with power and strength and supported by united thought and action. You are familiar with each of the objects as stated in our International Constitution and reiterated in our district and club by-laws. They have been printed for your information upon your membership cards, are emphasized in our magazine and in various pieces of literature which are supplied for the information of our entire membership. Every member of every club should avail himself of this educational material and become familiar with these primary principles, for by no other method can we realize the scope and power of our work and have a knowledge of the particular field for which Kiwanis was organized. It should always be remembered that Kiwanis was never intended to supersede the Church, the Chamber of Commerce, or other civic, charitable and philanthropic organizations. It has always been one of our primary principles that all Kiwanis clubs should assist these organizations in their many activities and urge active participation upon their members in developing their various programs which are for the advancement of community prosperity and happiness.

These principles which we emphasize at this "zero hour" are rooted in deep truth. Through co-operation, they offer us the true joy of life, the opportunity of being used for a purpose recognized by others as a mighty one, a part of a great force for good which is one of the outstanding developments of this age. It is a fact that most things are commercial and that there is a parallel of profit and loss or investment and return, whether one sees it or not, which runs through all phases of life. We invest ourselves and our heart interest in these principles which Kiwanis sponsors and we receive in return happiness, friendship and enjoyment of life and that great sense of satisfaction which comes from the knowledge that we have not lived wholly unto ourselves.

Zero Hour—the time of new beginnings, clearer grasp of the principles of Kiwanis, the fresh resolve to achieve a higher goal and finer accomplishments and to carry our banners to a more distant horizon! May we have a little more devotion to the purpose for which we are founded, a little more understanding and patience, a little more charity for all, a brave outlook for the future with more confidence in ourselves and our brothers and we will be worthy of the heritage and opportunity which are our as members of Kiwanis International!

Joseph Wearing recited the International Kiwanis creed.

The following address on Kiwanian ideals was delivered by Kiwanian Carl Browne.

Kiwanis and Fellowship.

In every Kiwanis Club in North America, this evening, men are listening to one of their own members putting forward in oratorical elocutionary or conversational style the illustrious and time honored tenets of Fellowship and Kiwanis.

You have heard the title announcen and no doubt you have speculated upon the subject matter that will be presented in this address. I wonder what you expect me to say? I wonder what is running through your minds at this moment?

I have in mind a city. A city of beautiful gardens where the streets are smooth and shaded where the lawns are trim and tidy. A city in which newly painted houses large and small, proclaim the pride of ownership. Where the names of the streets are plainly and artistically displayed where motorists are courteous and obey the stop signs, where pedestrians are careful, and cross only at the intersections. A city in which vacant lots are parks, and the parks are full of happy, privileged children, who do not have to play in the streets.

In the well-ordered business section of the city stands a prominent hotel. In this hotel meets once a week the Ideal Kiwanis Club.

As Kiwanians we are welcomed to their luncheon. Without ostentation and in a friendly manner we are taken in hand by the reception committee and introduced to the members.

We soon discover that the members of the Ideal Kiwanis Club are men who exemplify the daily living of the golden rule. Men whose true manliness is manifested in their tolerance—and helpful brotherliness in their sympathy and good will, in their fraternal co-operation, and above all in their willingness to participate in any form of civic service for the betterment of the community. Men who realize that no worthy community service can be performed by merely putting the hand into the pocket book—men who are ready to accept individual and personal responsibility for a share in the club's civic endeavours—in a word they are men who are inspired by the high ideals that Kiwanis stands for.

In conversation with the president we find one source of the efficiency of the club. He tells us of his trip to the international convention and of the renewed inspiration he received there.

He tells us how new members are received. We are astonished to find that every Kiwanis morning for the first eight weeks after the new member joins the club, the president calls on the telephone, one of the old guard, one of the older Kiwanians, who meets the new member at the door, takes him to his table, and includes him in the conversation among his friends. After eight weeks of such treatment the new member is ready to take his place as a worthy member of an ideal Kiwanis Club.

The fees of the Ideal Kiwanis Club are sufficient to carry on the club's general business in an efficient and business-like manner.

The Executive of the club are not harassed by adverse criticism from those who do not serve.

The fines in the Ideal Kiwanis Club are paid willingly, in the spirit of good fun in which they are levied.

The singing is more enthusiastic than harmonious. How can it be harmonious with every single member taking part? How can it fail to be enthusiastic for the same reason?

The fun in the meetings of the Ideal Kiwanis Club is uninterrupted save when the chairman's gavel rings forth its call to order. Then the spirit of fair play that pervades the membership, gives every man, no matter how small a part he is asked to take, an attentive and uninterrupted hearing.

Nor do the members of the Ideal Kiwanis Club forget the principle purpose of Kiwanis. Their energies have been crystalized by Kiwanis fellowship into community service. Long after the words of their songs and speeches have been forgotten an ideal city will stand as a lasting monument to the things they have done.

It is not necessary to search for Fellowship in Kiwanis. And I do not wish to speak of "Kiwanis AND Fellowship," because Kiwanis IS Fellowship.

Perhaps you have heard that in Arithmetic Fellowship is a rule for dividing profits among partners based on proportion by composition. You are a partner in Kiwanis. Your investment is the work you do, the co-operation you give, the suggestions you offer, the sympathy you feel, the inspiration you bring as you regularly attend the meetings, the enthusiasm with which you shoulder your responsibilities and attack the problems that confront the club, the friendliness you radiate, the smiles, the laughs, the words of encouragement, the song you have in your heart and the songs you help to sing, the undeveloped and unutilized energies you possess. Potentialities that the spirit of Kiwanis will develop into realities of service and community betterment.

Your profits from Kiwanis are directly proportional to your investment. He who serves best in Kiwanis profits most. Show me the man who is disappointed in Kiwanis and I will show you a man who came into Kiwanis to gratify a selfish interest, a man to whom the Kiwanais creed is an unexplored area, an unintelligible language.

A distinguished Kiwanian has said: Give yourself to Kiwanis and Kiwanis will develop your potentialities and will make them a centralized, concentrated, directed force for the effective production of light and warmth and power in the city in which you live.

Give yourself to Kiwanis in Peterborough and no ideal will be beyond your attainment.

A most enjoyable part of the programme was the music furnished by a talented trio, Frank R. Clarke on the banjo, Adam Livingstone on the guitar and Thomas Curvin on the mandolin.

The following telegram was read from the Kiwanis Club of Sault Ste. Marie:

President Kiwanis Club,
Peterborough, Ont.

Our club extend zero hour greetings to your officers and members.

W. S. Maguire, Sec'y.

The thanks of the club were conveyed to the speakers and musicians by Kiwanian John Allan.

Isaac P. McNabb, president of the club, occupied the chair.

BUILDINGS BURNED BY FIRES IN BUSH

Heavy Losses Reported From Lake St. John District.

QUEBEC, June 7.—Six houses and seven barns were destroyed by bush fires in the Lake St. John district and several buildings were also the prey of flames on the north shore, according to reports received by Henri Kieffer, Director of the Forest Fire Protection Service. The reports, however, added that all these fires are under control. The most serious fire occurred in Labrecque-Begin Township, in Lake St. John County. The fire originated at some distance from the settlement in that township, but pushed by strong western winds the flames soon reached the inhabited section, notwithstanding the efforts of the forest rangers. Six houses were burned down within a few hours and some barns. The fire was checked later through the work of the forest rangers and volunteers, with the help of a heavy rain.

Nothing official has been reported to the Protective Service regarding forest fires said to have threatened the mining district. Even if any fire of importance occurred, however, Mr. Kieffer was in a position to state that the reports on hand indicated that there was no danger now.

Remarkable Accident Occurs in Fraserville

An accident occurred in the village of Fraserville last Friday that will be remembered for a long time by witnesses. A new car was being brought by a local dealer from Toronto. When he approached the village, a runaway horse came out of a lane and, seemingly, jumped right on top of the car. Closer inspection showed that the horse in its blind rush ran into the bumper and broke its leg, and then fell on top of the engine, smashing it.

The body of the horse must have struck the wind shield, for the driver of the car was badly cut on the hands from the broken glass. The horse was shot to put it out of pain from the broken leg.

ANNIVERSARY OF PONTYPOOL CHURCH

Rev. A. Poulter Will Preach at Services Next Sunday.

PONTYPOOL, June 7.—There were no services at the United church on Sunday owing to Conference, but special services will be held on Sunday, June 12, when the anniversary services will be held. Rev. A. Poulter will be the preacher. The choir will look after the music for the afternoon service and Ballyduff choir will take charge in the evening. The services will be held at 2.30 and 7.00 p.m. and the offerings will be in aid of the Building Fund. On Monday evening a good concert by local talent will be given. Also there will be a League game of baseball, Honeydale vs Pontypool, at 6.00 p.m.

Several car loads of local citizens motored to Oshawa one day last week and were the guests of the General Motors, making a tour of the plant.

Pontypool is beginning to look considerably better now. A goodly number of residents have painted their dwellings, built new fences, remodelled their houses, and made many other improvements which tend to make the town a nicer place to live in.

Recent car purchasers are Mr. W. H. Hooper, Mr. O. Dunn, and Mr. T. E. Cain.

Mrs. E. Payne, who spent the winter months with her granddaughter, Mrs. Cecil Ferguson, has returned to her home again.

Some of the farmers are preparing some land for buckwheat and are having some trouble to secure the same.

MAN SWALLOWS 'IRON' RATIONS

Side-Show Exhibit Demonstrated Before X-Ray This Afternoon.

EATS ANYTHING.

The well-known query, "Have you had your iron to-day?" can be answered in the affirmative by William Bartell, now of Arnprior, Ont., a native of the County of Perth, who is in this city with the Harry Lottridge Shows, which are at the Exhibition Park this week. He is known in showman's parlance as "The Human Ostrich." He gave seven amazing demonstrations last night, and has attracted large crowds and the attention of the local medical men. His diet includes such delicacies as tacks, nails, bolts, safety pins, china, glass, buttons, and electric light bulbs, and his strength as demonstrated is of the Samsonian order.

Naturally when such news of an iron man is noised abroad, it is received generally with sceptical smiles, but to-day a genuine test before qualified practitioners proved the man genuine in his claims. Bartell gave a demonstration of his unusual powers to Doctors McNulty, O'Brien and Neal in the X-ray room of St. Joseph's Hospital to-day at noon. A representative of The Examiner was invited to witness the examination that took place.

Bartell is short and stocky, and 27 years of age. He has been practising these unusual powers since about four years of age. He claimed to have already in his stomach seven meals from the seven shows that were put on last night, and which later proved to be true when the X-ray apparatus was put over his body.

The real test came, however, when under the X-ray apparatus he proceeded to swallow a number of tacks, bolts, buttons, nuts, washers, safety pins, and bullets. Most remarkable of all was his mastication and swallowing of an electric light bulb, which he crushed with his teeth and devoured with evident enjoyment. Such was the texture of the lining of his digestive tract that he came to no harm from it, though the feat would have resulted in the death of an ordinary man. As he swallowed each article, its course through the stomach could be traced on the X-ray screen. An X-ray photograph of his stomach was taken, which, on being developed, showed 110 articles in his stomach. This will be presented to interested medical authorities. All three doctors expressed their amazement at Bartell's abnormal physique, and of his powers to swallow these articles.

Press clippings of stories by unusually sceptical newspaper men record similar demonstrations in other parts of Canada and the United States. Bartell claims—and his claim is substantiated by news reports and photographs in the daily press—to be able to pull seven automobiles linked together and carrying five passengers each. He pulls the train by means of a cable attached to his long braided hair. The only stipulation is that the automobiles must be on a hard level surface. Another stunt is to pull a six-ton fire truck with 14 men on board. This is also pulled by the man's hair. Another feat is to hold his hand on the blue flame of a Bunsen burner, suffering absolutely no harmful effects as a result of the experiment, which would cause burns and pain to the normal person. Investigation by medical men shows that he does not apply any acid preparation before attempting this stunt.

He was employed for some time as a subject in the research clinic of the famous Mayo brothers in the United States.

CROPS LOOK GOOD AROUND BONARLAW

Seeding All Finished—Pastures Are in Fine Shape Now.

BONAR LAW, June 7.—Crops in this vicinity at present look very promising, seeding is all finished and planting has begun. Hay is looking good owing to the abundance of moisture. The pastures are making great headway and the supply of milk is fastly increasing. Maple Leaf Cheese and Butter Co. made thirty-two cheeses on Monday, that being a large number of this time of the season.

The fruit trees are all in bloom and a good yield of fruit is in evidence.

The farmers in this district have almost quit raising pigs owing to the low price paid for selects and the high price asked for mill feed. There are a few shorts being bought but unless the market changes there will be fewer pigs furnished for market this fall.

Because "youthful typists are seldom strong on spelling and have a multiplicity of other than business affairs on their minds," no woman stenographer under 30 years of age is to be employed by the Canadian parliament in its legislative halls.

Fine Tulip Display In Victoria Park

Many remarks have been made upon the splendid showing of tulips in Victoria Park. These flowers planted last fall by the caretaker, Mr. Card, show tasteful arrangement in every bed. The colors of the various varieties blend well and the display is one well worth seeing. The tulips are remarkable for their great height and beautiful colorings.

Wheat Prices Firm On News From Abroad

CHICAGO, June 7. Canadian Press —A firm undertone was shown in wheat in the initial transactions today on the Chicago Board of Trade. This condition was established despite a further decline in corn, the July option of which broke below $1. Reports that Liverpool wheat was resisting further declines coupled with Argentinan reports of delayed seeding and a probable reduction in acreage, because of drought, were back of the wheat developments.

Wheat started 3-8c lower to 3-8c higher. Corn was unchanged to 1-4 cent off, and oats and provisions were weak.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July, $1.42 3-8; September, $1.41 1-8; corn, July, $100 3-8; September, $103¼; oats, July 49½, September, 47¾c.

Dividend Declared By International Nickel

NEW YORK, June 7. — Canadian Press. — The regular quarterly dividend of fifty cents on the common stock, payable on June 16, to the shareholders on record on June 3rd, was declared by the International Nickel Company, at a meeting here yesterday.

Strong Buying Offsets Last Week's Selling

NEW YORK, June 7.— (Canadian Press.)—Strong buying support came into the stock market to-day to counteract the selling inspired by the huge increase in brokers' loans last week.

While several new weak spots developed during the session, major speculative activity was again on the upside, more than two score new high records being established in the early hours of trading. Trading was in fairly heavy volume with indications that the 2,000,000 share mark would again be crossed by a comfortable margin.

Motors came to the fore again when Chrysler and General Motors touched record high levels, the former touching 49 early in the afternoon and the latter crossing 203. Nash also was heavily bought.

Cuba Cane Sugar preferred broke to a new low following another sharp drop in raw sugar futures. American Woollen preferred extended its early loss to 3 points in reflection of the omission of the preferred dividend. Real Silk Hosiery, National Distillers common and preferred, and National Tea also were conspicuously heavy.

Moderate Losses To-day On Toronto Stock Market

TORONTO, June 7. — Canadian Press. — Moderate losses were widespread on the Toronto stock exchange this morning, coincident with a decrease in volume of trading. Trade, however, was still fairly heavy. Brazilian, International Nickel, Industrial Nickel, Industrial Alcohol and Hiram Walker's, strong leaders of the past few days, were downward leaders today. Brazilian lost 1¾ at 155; Alcohol 1 1-8 at 31 7-8; International Nickel ¾ at 67¼, and Walker ¾ at 53¾. The last two named were leaders in activity. SAFEGUARDING MILK BY PASTEURIZATION

(Report of M.H.O., Toronto, Continued from Saturday.)

Perhaps the most striking testimony which has ever been given this Dominion in favor of pasteurized milk is that of Dr. E. W. Stapleford, President of Regina College, at a public meeting called by the City Council of Regina a few months ago to hear the views of citizens and persons interested in dairying, previous to its decision being reached as to the passing of a compulsory pasteurization bylaw in the city of Regina.

Dr. Stapleford described how the directors of the college in their desire to supply a high-grade milk for the resident students arranged to obtain the college milk supply, not from one of the city pasteurizing plants, but from a raw milk dealer who had an excellent farm a few miles outside of the city and who was willing to deliver it daily to the college. The directors of the college were not then educated in the matter of milk pasteurization as they are now, and Dr. Stapleford, in appealing to the Council of the city and to the raw milk dealers present at the meeting, said: "If you people here tonight had seen nine coffins being carried from Regina College, nine young men and women cut down on the threshold of their lives, and could realize the responsibility which we felt in having permitted the sale of raw milk in the college, you would never wish again to drink an ounce of raw milk." The outbreak of typhoid fever to which Dr. Stapleford referred has been mentioned earlier in this report.

No intelligent stock-raiser or agriculturist thinks of feeding his calves or hogs, milk from cattle that are not known to be free from tuberculosis, without first pasteurizing it. Are not our infants entitled to at least the same consideration?

TWO AVIATORS PLAN TO VISIT MANY PLACES

Will Probably Fly To Vienna, Rome, Paris and London.

MAY FLY BACK HOME.

Offered $100,000 For Non-Stop Flight West Across Atlantic.

(By Frederick Kuh, United Press Staff Correspondent. Copyright, 1927, by United Press.

BERLIN, June 8.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine may fly back to the United States, Chamberlin told the United Press today, in an interview.

"An American organization has offered $100,000 if we fly back to Roosevelt Field," the flier said. "The offer is so attractive that we are again considering the possibility of returning home by aeroplane." Chamberlin discussed his future plans in Europe and told of offers he had received.

"I believe it is quite likely we shall leave Berlin in five or six days and fly to Vienna," he continued. "We have accepted an official invitation from the Austrian Government to visit them by air at their capital."

"We are also planning to fly to Rome, Paris, London, and are considering a flight to Moscow, possibly pausing at Pojand on the way."

Chamberlin said he was not yet certain about Moscow and Poland. He spoke of his mother and the talks he had with her over radio-telephone immediately after arriving at Berlin, yesterday.

"I have suggested to my mother that she sail immediately for England and meet me at London, which is her native city," he said.

"Among the hundreds of offers we have received, one is to appear at a circus at home. There are many offers to go into the movies, vaudeville, on the stage, and lecturing platforms, and others."

Chamberlin said he was going to be received by President von Hindenburg and that he would have to go wearing the knickerbockers and the leather sporting jacket which he wore on the flight over.

"You see I took absolutely no luggage with me," he added, "no clothes, not even a clothes brush or a razor."

The flier said well-meaning people had loaded charms and fetishes on him as tokens of good luck." I am not superstitutious," he assured the correspondent. "I took them along merely to please the donors."

Many Ceremonies.

BERLIN, June 8. Canadian Press. —The new aerial heroes, Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine, were up fairly early this morning, prepared to undergo the round of ceremonies, of which yesterday's welcome at Tempelhofer field was but the beginning.

Although they did not retire until late they were up at 9.15. Chamberlin was still in the tub when the first newspaperman got in touch with Levine. "We didn't get to bed till the wee hours of the morning" he said. "I don't know just when, but it was already daylight. We were so busy going through hundreds of cables that that it was very late before we went to sleep."

The airmen went to bed after an informal dinner at the embassy with "hochs" and songs of all Berlin ringing in their ears, for, had they flown directly from New York to Berlin the welcome given them could hardly have been more enthusiastic than the demonstration when they landed at Tempelhofer field last evening.

LONDON, Ont., June 8 (Canadian Press). — Locked for four days in a Canadian Pacific Railroad box car filled with merchandise billed from Montreal to London, John Allen, 25 years old, of Montreal, made himself heard in the local yards of the railroad, and was taken out, only to be arrested and charged with vagrancy yesterday. CHILDREN ARE LEADING ASSET SAYS SPEAKER

Mrs. W. M. Kannawin Gives Interesting Address To Presbyterial W.M.S.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK.

Many Reports Presented at Afternoon Sessions at St. Paul's.

"I am sure that we all feel that the children of the world are the greatest asset we have—because they are the living—they represent the life to come, and life is our most valuable asset. As the poet Longfellow said of children; "Ye are living poems." We need children in our church work at present. "Heaven lies around us in our infancy." Then we are nearer to God than we ever can be again—for in later years the world enters into us and dilutes within us our unadulterated worship of the Divine."

The above were the opening words of Mrs. W. M. Kannawin, of Toronto, Provincial Welcome and Welfare Secretary of the W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church, speaking to the afternoon session of the thirteenth annual meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial, holding its meetings in St. Paul's church.

Speaking on Young People's Work, with especial reference to Mission Bands, Mrs. Kannawin went on: "These young children bear messages to us straight from the Divine, and I implore you to see that there is a Mission Band in every church, so that we may not lose that divine inspiration that is in the children."

Going on to recommend as a child's prayer in the Mission Bands, the last three verses of Hymn 809, commencing with the words: "We are only little children, kneeling here, and we want our Loving Father always near," and quoting the words that "God couldn't be everywhere, so He made mothers," the speaker said; "It is our responsibility as mothers, particularly in the first five years, that makes the whole world live in the little child."

"I think," she said, "that one of the things that keeps us from being a success in the Christian life is worry and lack of trust. And then we should take our individuality into our work. Women who have never held an office in the society should be approached to do their part, no matter how they shrink from it, as they may be able to bring a new contribution and a new viewpoint to the work."

Mrs. Kannawin spoke in terms of great appreciation of the fine work done by C.G.I.T. groups and Young Women's Auxiliaries, and of the necessity, "if the Presbyterian church, or, better still, the whole Christian world, is going to advance, to set a little child in the midst. There is a great demand for ministers and doctors and nurses. Where are they to be found, if not in the coming generation? It has been said that we do nothing very easily after the age of twenty-four years. This is not so, but it is a psychological fact that we do our best between the ages of eighteen and twenty-four."

The speaker alluded to the great conflict going on at the present time between the Moslem faith and the faith of Christ, and the necessity of preparing the young minds for this struggle.

"Children are like arrows in the bow of a strong man. Pretty soon we must lay down our work. We are growing older. But we may have our

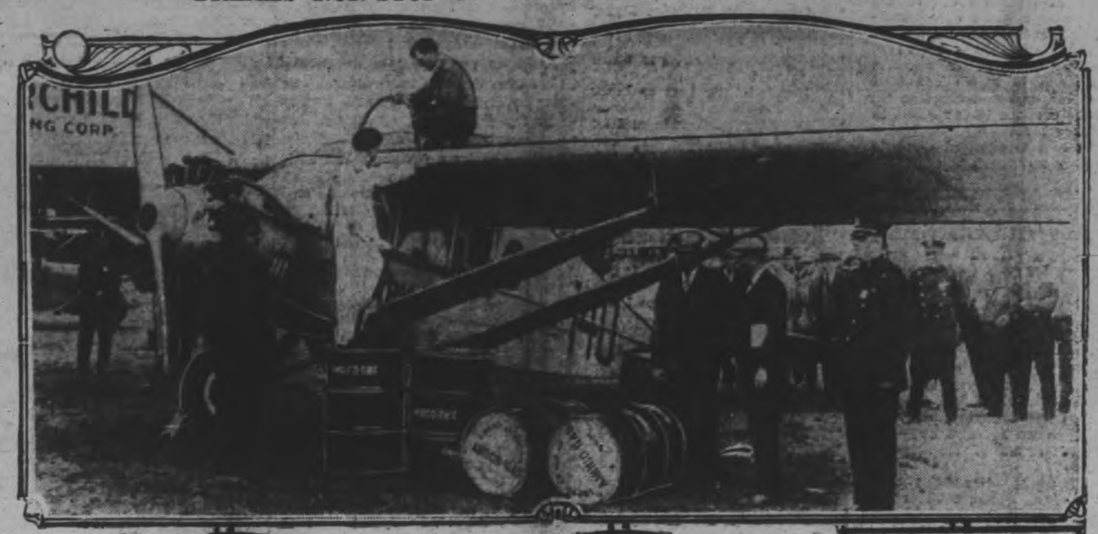
BREAKS NON-STOP FLYING RECORD SET BY LINDBERGH



Clarence D. Chamberlin, with his backer, Charles Levine, as passenger, who arrived in Germany on Monday morning, left America by plane on June 4 for "somewhere in Europe." They kept their destination secret. The start of the Bellanca monoplane at 6.05 a.m. from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, was the dramatic denouement of the distatesful bickering and litigation which has plagued the plans for what Levine has described as "something big in the way of aviation." The "Columbia", the plane carrying the two fliers, is shown ABOVE. Below, RIGHT to LEFT, are Charles Levine, Chamberlin and Mrs. Chamberlin.

Collegiate Pupils Leave Studies June 17—Public Schools June 29.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS.

The Collegiate Institute will close, as far as regular classes are concerned, on June 17, in order that the Departmental Examinations may begin on June 20. The public schools will close on June 29, the statutory date. This was decided at the regular meeting of the Board of Education, held last night.

The police will be asked to take action against those breaking windows at the schools, and the Chairman of the Property Committee of the Board, Trustee E. F. Reid, was instructed to report to the police any names of boys breaking windows which came to his attention.

Trustee W. R. Turner reported for the special Building Committee that the plans for the extension to the Collegiate Institute are still in the hands of the Department of Education, but will be approved shortly, probably this week, and tenders will be called for immediately this is done.

The recommendation of Fire Chief George Gimblett that separate bells be used for fire purposes will be carried out. At the recent fire drills, one class was reached about recess time and no special attention was paid to the alarm.

A letter of appreciation will be sent to Q.M.S. Instructor T. Thomas for his work in connection with the training of the cadets.

James Abraham, School Attendance Officer reported fourteen applications for adolescents wishing to leave school, with seven working and two home permits granted. Twenty-seven cases of absence from sickness, eleven of truancy, ten of irregularity, and six from lack of clothing were dealt with.

Police Officer Rushing to Sister's Deathbed Runs Down and Kills His Superior's Child

CHICAGO, June 8 (United Press).—Hurrying to the home of his parents, following the death of his sister, Patrolman Frank Lynch last night ran down a child, playing on a kiddie-car in the street.

The patrolman carried the child to a rospital where doctors despaired of the boy's life.

Sergeant Ralph Bunde, his superior, entered the hospital.

"My motor car just struck a little boy, Sergeant, and I'm afraid he will not live," Lynch reported.

The two walked into the operating room, and Bunde looked at at the boy.

"My baby," the sergeant almost shouted. The patrolman and his commending officer stood sobbing as the little boy, Ralph Bunde, Junior, died.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 8.—Nine years ago, parents of Manderson Lehr had word from friends that he had been killed in the war while a member of the Lafayette Escadrille. AVIATOR VISITS LOCAL AIRPORT

Will Return To-day or To-morrow To Inspect Planes Here.

FROM CAMP BORDEN.

This morning the hum of an aeroplane engine was heard over the city and people thought that one of the planes of the Canadian Air Services Company had taken to the air. The plane which was seen by many, was one of the Canadian air fleet stationed at Camp Borden and the aviator was out reconnoitering this district. He circled the city and then flew to the air field on the Keene road, but did not make a landing. He is expected back either this evening or to-morrow morning.

BOMBS INJURE.

MOSCOW, June 8. — (Canadian Press). — Twenty-six persons were seriously injured when two bombs were thrown in a business club at Leningrad last night while a meeting of the members of the debating section of the Communist party was in progress, it was learned to-day. The premises were badly damaged.

HE CRIED—AND CRASHED.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 8.—Very much under the influence of onions, Martin Williams drove his truck into another car. To the judge he said: "I like onions; I seem never to get enough of them. PREPARE PLANS FOR RECEPTION

Arrangements Nearing Completion of Governor-General To City.

GO OVER LIFT-LOCK.

The Reception Committee of the City Council is progressing rapidly in the preparation of a programme of welcome to be extended to the Governor-General and Lady Willingdon who are coming this month.

At a meeting held last night a letter of approval of the program submitted to the secretary at Ottawa some time ago was read. It also requested that, if possible, the Council would arrange to have Boy Scouts and Girl Guides form a guard of honor. As there is no Girl Guide organization in the city, it was decided to get in touch with J. J. Turner to have the Scouts out on that day. It was then moved by Alderman Denne and seconded by Alderman Cotton, that the City Clerk would see if the cadets of the Public Schools would turn out too.

Mr. Armstrong read the following route that will in all probability be followed by the party in the drive from the station and around the city: From the C.N.R. Station to Charlotte Street, to George and then down to the George Street Wharf. From here about forty people will go for a short trip on the 'Bessie Butler' over the Lift Locks and get off at the Golf Links. Cars will be placed at their disposal here, and then a short trip will be made through the Nicholls Oval down Concession Street to the Westclox Factory, over the Hunter Street Bridge to the Empress Hotel for lunch at 12.30 p.m.

Immediately after lunch a tour will be made around the city, starting at the hotel and then going to Princess Street to Park, up Rubidge to Hunter, to Weller and then out the Monaghan Road to Jackson Park. After going through the park the party will return down Monaghan Road again to Homewood Avenue, to Hunter Street, to Gilmour, on to Charlotte, and in Charlotte to George. A north trip will then be conducted, going around the filtration plant, out the rear communication road and then to Argyle Street, to Wolsey and Benson, coming finally to Central Park, where the speeches will be made.

Lady Willingdon will be presented with a bouquet of roses by little Margaret Eleanor MacDonald at the close of the ceremony. It was also decided to arrange for rooms for the party at the Empress.

This year is going to be a banner one for Peterborough, having this momentous occasion as well as the great celebration to be staged here July 1st.

Nothing Heard of Changes in Plant

SUDBURY, Ont., June 8 (Canadian Press). — Nothing is known here of the report published in Toronto to-day that the International Nickel Company would scrap their smelter here and erect a new one at a cost of $20,000,000 in which to develop an entirely new process of smelting. President Stanley announced in New York recently that, owing to the high copper content of frood ores, the company would install an electrolytic refining process when developments reached the production stage, but nothing has been heard of the erection of a new smelter. Any announcement of such an important character would, of course, come from the head office in New York.

CANADA'S NOTE IS DELIVERED IN WASHINGTON

Ground For Concern in Termination of Border Agreement, It Says.

TIME UNREASONABLE.

Objection Taken To Use of the Term Immigrant For Daily Transients.

WASHINGTON, D. C.; June 8 (By Canadian Press).—Canada's reply to the United States note on border immigration was delivered to Frank B. Kellogg, United States Secretary of State, to-day. It submits that the termination of the long standing arrangement whereby Canadians and Americans have freely commuted across the border in the course of their business is ground for concern. It points out that there is no precedent for application of the term "immigrant" to citizens legally domiciled in another country and retaining their citizenship in that country. It submits that six months can not be called a "reasonable time" in which non-native Canadians can secure quota visas in the United States and that sudden dislocation of the long established border crossing privilege can not fail to have grave results in the Windsor area, where the community has been permitted to build itself up on the basis of freedom of movement across the border in daily business.

Jay Treaty Quoted.

The Jay treaty of 1794 is quoted to illustrate the broad principle of free border intercourse "to promote a disposition favorable to friends and good neighborhood," and the note points out that the laws of Canada make no distinction between its citizens on the strength of birthplace any more than do the laws of the United States distinguish between native or naturalized citizens.

Recognizing that the United States has the right to impose immigration regulations the note nevertheless suggests that the retroactive principle of the recent border ruling is bound to impose hardship and suggests that those who have already established employment across the border should be exempted from the more drastic provisions of the order, either by an extension of the exempted classes in section two, or by elimination of the six months time limit in section three, or by some other means. The note indicates that Canada will accept Mr. Kellogg's invitation to continue the negotiations which have been in progress for some months with the Canadian legation here.

Gratification Expressed.

The note expresses gratification with promises given by Mr. Kellogg that "steps will be taken to avoid inflicting hardship on individuals so far as may be possible and more particularly by your undertaking to ask the Secretary of Labor to extend the time during which those who have to secure quota visas must comply with its terms."

The promise given by the Secretary of Labor that he would co-operate in this and in any recommendation to Congress which may be decided is also a source of gratification to His Majesty's Canadian Government, says the note. Canada, however, regrets that the United States Government "has not considered it possible to modify in any respect the terms of the order at the present time and that in consequence the long standing and reciprocal arrangements between the two countries have been suddenly terminated."

The unique conditions of border intercourse, involving the daily life of a larger number of people than in any other two countries in the world, has existed since 1794 when the Jay treaty was concluded between Great Britain and the United States, says the note. That treaty provided freedom to pass and repass across the border to "His Majesty's subjects and citizens of the United States," and the broad principle was then laid down that "this article is intended to render in great degree the local advantages of each party common to both and thereby to promote a disposition favorable to friendship and good neighborhood."

This principle had existed and was recognized until the issuance of Order Number 86, Border Crossing Regulation, on April 1. The termination of this long standing arrangement "under which economic interests have developed and communities grown up in Canada is a legitimate ground for concern," especially as it gives retroactive application to laws passed years ago. Since 1924, the note points out, the borde

POLICE RAID PARK PESTS

WERE INVADING NESTS.

Sergeant Thomas went up this morning with a 22 rifle and four cartridges and came back with five owls. Being an exceedingly good shot he killed one with a stone.

RED CAPITAL UNEASY OVER ASSASSINATION

Authorities Appeared Convinced Capitalistic Countries Are Leagued Against Them.

FIRST GUN IN WAR.

Is Regarded By Officials in Moscow as Sinister Affair.

MOSCOW, June 8 (Associated Press).—The assassination at Warsaw yesterday of M. Voikoff, Soviet Minister to Poland, is regarded here as a sinister affair, closely linked with the recent anti-Soviet activities of Great Britain. The Russian authorities appear to be convinced that it is part of a definite campaign carried on by capitalistic countries against the Soviet Union.

In some quarters it is even regarded as "the first gun" in a war, which they profess to believe the enemies of the Soviet are attempting to foist on Russia. The killing of M. Voikoff, it is pointed out, is reminiscent of the opening act of the world war — the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand at Saravo, and bears out Russia's contention that recent events constitute a menace to European peace.

Depends Future Relations.

Upon Poland's attitude, it is declared relations between the two countries, ed in unofficial circles, depends future in the present temper of the Russian people, who assert they have been goaded by Great Britain and the Chinese, the latter supposedly under British guidance.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, says it is stated in Government circles that Peter Voikoff, who at the time of the execution of the former Czar at Ekaterinburg was the Soviet Food Commissar in the Ural district was in no way responsible for the death warrants of the Romanoff family.

Voikoff was born at Kertch, in Crimea, in 1888, and was associated with the revolutionary movement in Russia since earliest youth, it is added. He left Russia in 1907 to avoid prosecution in connection with the charge that he was organising an attempt to assassinate M. Dumbadee, prefect of the Yalta police.

Had Many Appointments.

Voikoff studied at the Universities of Paris and Geneva. He returned to Russia in 1917 and joined the Communist party after the October revolution. He was elected food commissary of the Ural district. In 1919 he went to Moscow and became director of the central union of co-operative societies and later was a member of the Collegium of the People's Commissariat for foreign trade. In 1921 he was appointed chairman of the Soviet delegation to the Soviet-Polish commission on evacuation, and, in 1924 was named Soviet Envoy to Poland.

Handed Protest.

Maxim Litvinoff, acting Foreign Commissar, late yesterday handed the Polish Minister in Moscow an "emphatic and indignant" protest regarding the assassination yesterday of the Soviet Minister in Warsaw, declaring that the Polish Government cannot repudiate responsibility in the matter.

"Poland," says the note, "will be held responsible for any assassination. The Government of the Soviet Union considers this an unprecedented criminal act, bound up with a whole series of acts aimed at destroying diplomatic representation of the Soviet Union abroad, and creating a direct menace to peace.

"The raid on the Peking Embassy, the blockade of the consulate at Shanghai, the police attack on the Soviet trade delegation in London and the provocatory rupture of diplomatic relations on the part of Great Britain —all this series of acts has unloosed the activities of terroristic groups of reactionaries, who in their blind hatred of the working class are seizing the weapon of political murder.

"The Union Government also sees in the murder of the Minister the result of the Polish Government not having taken necessary measures against the criminal activities in Polish territory of Russian counter-revolutionary terroristic organizations, which are particularly dangerous to the cause of peace in the present tense international situation.

Warns Polish Government.

"The Soviet Government has called the attention of the Polish Government to the activities of White Guard terrorists repeatedly and has warned the Polish Government of its responsibility for the provocatory criminal acts of these elements. Consequently, while indignantly protesting and holding the view that the Polish Government cannot repudiate responsibility for what has happened, the Soviet Government reserves the right to revert to the question after receipt of fuller and more exhaustive details bearing on the crime."

Co-operative Party Joins With Labor

LONDON, June 8 (Canadian Press Cable). — The British Co-operative movement, with a membership of five million, has approved political alliance with the Labour Party. The alliance has been mooted for some time, but hitherto the Co-operatives have always preferred to remain independent despite attempts at amalagmation.

The Co-operative congress announced that the vote on the question of alliance resulted in 1,960 in favour and 1,843 against.

This brings a great accession of strength to the Labour Party headed by Ramsay MacDonald, former Premier. The Co-operative movement is a vast trading body for the benefit of the working classes and is a wealthy body. The alliance would mean a common political policy and joint working in general political questions, and electoral organization.

Did Everything Possible For Infants Declares Hull Woman On Trial For Murder

HULL, Que., June 8 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. Diana Lacroix, who is on trial for murder at the Assize Court here in connection with the death of three illegitimate infants at her "baby farm" in West Hull, yesterday afternoon entered the witness box and protested that she had done everything possible to care for nameless infants left in her charge.

The 63-year-old woman showed signs of the strain of her trial, and occasionally broke out in tears. She told of feeding the infants regularly and properly. Part of their diet, she said, consisted of milk of various kinds, including condensed milk. The children, in many cases, were brought to her in a sickly condition, she said.

Under cross-examination, the aged prisoner testified that she had conducted a "baby farm" in Ottawa for four years before coming to Hull. During that period, only one of her charges had "died on her." She admitted that during the period from July, 1926, when she moved to Hull, and February last, seven infants had died at her "baby farm."

Two note books found by the police at her home were identified by Mrs. Lacroix as the books in which she kept a record of babies placed in her charge. She said about 15 babies had been cared for by her during the six months previous to her arrest in February last.

The case is expected to go to the jury to-morrow afternoon.

WEDDING BELLS.

FERGUSON—FEIR.

OMEMEE, June 8. — Trinity United Church was the scene of a quiet wedding on Wednesday, June 1st, when Ruby Maye, youngest daughter of Mr. Isaiah Feir, of Omemee, and the late Mrs. Feir, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to William Lorne Ferguson, of Camas, Washington. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. E. W. Rowland, in the presence of the immediate relatives.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was unattended. She wore a dainty frock of apple green silk crepe de chine, a coat of natural shade kasha cloth, matching shoes and hose, and a pretty rose blonde hat completed her smart costume.

The church was prettily decorated for the event with tulips and apple blossoms.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson left on a short motor trip, and upon their return a reception was held on Friday at the home of her sister, Mrs. R. H. Johnston, when many relatives and intimate friends gathered to express good wishes to the bride and groom, who were assisted in receiving their guests by Mrs. Johnston and Miss Elizabeth Johnston.

The house was artistically decorated for the occasion with purple and white lilacs and apple blossoms.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson left on Tuesday morning for their new home in Camas, Wash., where many good wishes will follow them for their future hapiness.

THE FLYING FOOL.

Resolve went hurtling tho' the skies
A thousand leagues or more away,
Where triumph waiting his emprise,
Turned friendly eyes to light his way.

Forever, he that wins must woo
The unkind fates, who know no rule
But fearlessness in those who sue,
Such as in him, The Flying Fool.

Not earth, nor air, nor ocean vast
Imposed their bars to break his flight,
But swung them wide and let him past,
And made obeisance to this knight.

He had no fear—the trackless air
Thro' countless ages man defied;
The winging road would take him there,
And onward to the goal he'd glide.

Resolve came humming thro' the dark,
And found there triumph bathed in light,
To greet him at his glad debark
And crown his victory with its might.

LAKEFIELD, June 7.—On Tuesday evening, May 24, the C.G.I.T. group, Tuxis Boys and Trail Rangers of Regent Street United Church gathered to present Miss Hazel Darling with a kitchen shower in honor of her approaching marriage to Mr. Stanley Millage, of Smith.

Miss Merle Orawford, President of the C.G.I.T. group, read the following address:

"Miss Hazel Darling:

"Dear Friend Hazel,—According to certain reports which have been circulated in regard to your future plans, we felt it wise to call the clan together in order to offer to you its sympathy and support. We have heard you are about to assume the heavy responsibility of matrimony and we wish to assure you of our interest in the event, as well as to offer to you our best wishes for your future home and happiness.

"During the past two seasons you have acted as President of the C.G.I.T. group, and if you succeed as a housewife as you have succeeded as a group leader, you will make your mark in the domestic world and prove yourself worthy of the finest type of a man.

"We are very anxious to demonstrate to you our interest in your future home, and so we have decided to have some little part in your kitchen equipment and decorations. We have ordered a car-load of these conveniences to be shipped to Lakefield for this evening, and we are now delighted to present this shipment for your inspection. We trust that they may all be useful in the setting up of your home, and that they may serve to remind you of the many happy times we have spent together, and of the many friends you have made amongst the boys and girls of the Regent Street Church, Lakefield.

"We wish you a long and happy life with plenty of friends, and we trust that you may feel that in taking this step you are not in any way breaking the link that has so splendidly united our hearts in purpose and in aim.

"Signed on behalf of your friends."

Miss Darling and Mr. Millage replied in suitable terms for the evidence of good feeling and comradeship expressed in the address. The affair was a surprise to them, but a very pleasant one. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening's programme.

LEGAL BATTLE IS LAID OVER

Consel For Certain of Breweries Had Asked For Postponement.

UNTIL TO-DAY.

MONTREAL, June 8 (Canadian Press).—The legal battle over submissions by counsel for the Customs Commission in regard to Ontario breweries and liquor export houses has been deferred until today. Yesterday, Hon. N. W. Rowell, counsel for the Commission, announced that counsel for certain of the breweries had asked for a postponement. After consultation with the Commission, he had agreed to this. He also said that certain lawyers representing the breweries were interested in the submissions in respect to the export liquor houses, so it had been thought proper to postpone argument on these also. They will all be taken up today, if time permits.

Yesterday afternoon, Chief Commissioner J. T. Brown made it clear that the suggested findings published were not those of the Commission. They were the submissions which counsel for the Commission thought it proper to make. In this connection he suggested that counsel might use the word "submissions" instead of "findings" when speaking of these conclusions of counsel. The use of the word "findings" gave the impression that the Commission itself had made definite decisions in respect to matters referred to, he said, and this was incorrect.

Paid Money by Brewery

Mr. Rowell assured the Commissioners that he would see that the submissions of counsel were referred to as such in future.

Further evidence in respect to the case of J. U. Piche, sub-collector of Customs at Sandwich, Ont., was offered to the Commission by Robert H. Bernard, Inspector of Customs and Excise, yesterday afternoon. During the Windsor sittings of the Commission, W. R. Bonds, of the British American Brewing Company, Windsor, stated that Mr. Piche received money from the brewery and that payments sometimes went as high as $150 a month. During the same sittings Mr. Piche denied that he had been paid the money.

Investigated in 1923

Yesterday, Inspector Bernard told of an investigation which he made into conditions at Windsor and Sandwich during the summer of 1923. He had gone there on the instructions of E. S. Busby, Chief Customs Inspector at Ottawa, and he had seen Mr. Bonds. Mr. Bonds, he reported to the Customs, had told him that Mr. Piche was paid money, and that it sometimes amounted to $150 a month. Then he saw Mr. Piche, and was met with a denial. He could not see anything about the way in which Piche was living that indicated that he was in receipt of large sums of money in addition to his salary.

Investigation of certain transactions of the Federal Distillery of Montreal was deferred after a number of the officials of this company had testified yesterday morning.

Harry Rabinovitch, sales agent for the products of this company, was not available for examination yesterday, and counsel for the Commission asked that the matter stand over until he is able to come. This company manufactures an anti-freeze known as Pyridine, in which large quantities of alcohol are utilized. In order to store the alcohol, an excise bond was established on the premises of the company. The alcohol was released by an excise officer as required.

Trace Entries

Counsel for the Commission attempted yesterday to trace entries covering large quantities of Pyridine which apparently left the plant of the company. G. W. Robb, President of the company said that after the alcohol was "poisoned" the government had no further interest in it, and the distillery was at liberty to remove it from the plant and store it elsewhere if it saw fit to do so. The process through which the alcohol was put made it non-potable. It was brought out, when Andrew Pollock, Secretary-Treasurer of this distilling company was on the stand, that the Federal Distillery also dealt in whisky to a certain extent. This whisky was imported and blended here, and then sold, he said. There will be further evidence in regard to the Federal Distillery during the Montreal sittings of the Commisison

INSPIRING SERMON GIVEN AT MARMORA

Rev. A. B. Caldwell Gives Suitable Address on Whit Sunday.

MARMORA, June 8.—The Whit Sunday festival was fittingly observed at St. Paul's with bright services. The chancel and altar were prettily decorated with lilac and other blooms. A very earnest discourse was delivered by the rector at the 11 o'clock celebration, his text being, "They were all filled with the Holy Ghost." The day of Pentecost, he reminded his hearers, witnessed a wonderful outbursting of the Holy Spirit. That little company which had been waiting several days suddenly became conscious of a new power within themselves. The power of the Holy Ghost was given to the church for a better and higher purpose than the working of miracles as first needed in the preaching of the gospel of Jesus Christ. That power is needed just as much today as in the days of the Apostles. The best and highest work of the Spirit is to sanctify mankind. It is better to be holy and love God and man than to work miracles. Rev. Caldwell quoted St. Paul's statement in 1 Corinthians, 13, in support of this. Continuing, he referred to the passage, "If a man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His." This, said the preacher, was a fearful saying, for if we are not Christ's we cannot be saved. For there is no other name under heaven given among men whereby they may be saved. How few can say that they possess the Holy Spirit! The fruits of the Spirit make up the sign men look for. What is seen in us? Fruits of the Spirit or carelessness and indifference? It is a different thing to be given the Spirit in baptism and to have it now. We may retain the Spirit or allow it to drift out of our lives. We need the Holy Ghost as our sanctifier as much as Jesus Christ as our Redeemer. We are altogether saved or not at all. We are called as the Apostles were to show forth the life of Jesus Christ to the world. If we, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto our children, how much more shall our Heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask Him? A duet, "Love Divine, All Loves Excelling," was rendered by Mr. W. M. Lester and Mrs. F. S. Pearce.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 7.—District No. 45, I.O.O.F. visited Stirling on Monday night.

Mrs. A. Auldhouse has had a new cottage erected at Healy Falls.

Campbellford Bear Cats go to Petherick's Corners this evening to put on a game of softball.

St. Andrew's and Millionaires clash to-night on the local diamond. There is considerable talk of St. Andrew's being the team likely to carry away the league cup at the close of the season. The game to-night will, therefore, be watched with a great deal of interest.

Garnet Kerr is leaving shortly with 18 head of thoroughbred Jersey cattle for Quebec.

While returning to his home about ten miles south of town, Mr. Dinner had the misfortune to lose control of his new sedan, resulting in the car being badly wrecked by coming in contact with a telephone pole. Fortunately Mr. Dinner did not sustain any serious injury.

FINGER PRINT EASILY FIXED

Doctor's Chance Discovery of Chemical Effect Aids Police.

NEW YORK, June 8. — Dr. Maurice A. Aaronson of Long Branch, N. J., believes he has discovered something new in finger printing. By accident he found a finger print could be brought out to show clearly on the human body, and remain until washed off. He announced his intention of turning his invention over to the police.

"Five months ago," the doctor said, "I was treating a patient with a chemical solution and a violet ray for an abscess. I found the solution had dropped on his back and when the violet ray was applied, my finger print was brought out well defined in a dark, brown color.

"I realized that I had discovered something new, although I do not know how useful it will be."

The doctor brought out finger-prints on paper, cloth and wood, and said they would remain as permanent records, because they could never be erased. This, he said, he believed also to be something new in finger printing.

At the finger-printing bureau at the New York police headquarters it was said the bringing out of a finger-print on human flesh was a new discovery and that making a permanent record on the object holding the print also was new.

A report of the discovery was sent to the journel of the American Medical Association.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 8.—Reeve Bygott and Deputy C. Davidson returned from County Council meeting at Cobourg last night. Owing to pressure of business they are foregoing the pleasure of the Warden's excursion to Rochester to-morrow, and will return to Cobourg on Thursday morning, when the Council again meets to transact county business.

In conversation with the Deputy Reeve, The Examiner learns that paved streets for Campbellford are pretty well assured. It appears to be the Council's intention to pave Millbrook, Campbellford and Hastings all at the same time.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1927

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as a day of divided influences—good in the morning and evening and uncertain during the hours between.

Men who promote big enterprises should benefit by this sway which makes for vision.

It is well to abide by first impressions today, for as the hours pass the aspects encourage uncertainty and doubt.

There is likelihood of nervous excitement and lack of cool judgment, owing to certain planetary influences that are strong after the morning has passed.

The rule is threatening for aviators and seems to presage danger from electrically propelled vehicles.

After sunset there should be just the right stimulation toward courageous projects. The sway foreshadows enterprises of magnitude.

This is a direction of the stars most favorable to the high ambitions of statesmen and should benefit the President of the United States and his Cabinet.

Bankers and financiers have the forecast of new responsibilities and extraordinary calls upon their generosity.

Astrologers predicted at the beginning of the year floods and earthquakes, and they give warning again that nature has additional calamities which will take place after this month.

Impetus to the preservation of the forests, given through the period of unprecedented floods, will result in benefits not now visioned by even the most far-seeing, astrologers prophesy.

It is foretold that the beauty culture of the future will extend to listing character standards as well as face muscles.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful lest loss be sustained through deceit and intrigue.

Children born on this day probably will be impulsive and self-reliant. They should be taught to safeguard their speech.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

A navy blue and white polka dotted handkerchief is used as a girdle for this sports frock of white crepe de chine. The white hat is banded with ribbon, showing white ground with navy blue polka dots.

You may have seen the new fashion of tying large handkerchiefs around the waist or hip, knotted at one side This is an outcome no doubt of the fashion for wearing handkerchiefs or square scarfs, if you like to call them so, folded diagonally and then laid loosely round the neck or shoulders and tied at one side. There is nothing especially new about that fashion. Two or three years ago the subject of one of the large and important masquerade balls in Paris was the costumery of the French West Indies—recollections of Empress Josephine, most charming of Creoles, playing an important part. Some of the women who appeared in costume on that occasion wore Directoire frocks of the sort that were in vogue in France in Josephine's prime—also worn by French colonists in the West Indies and elsewhere at the same time. Some of those in costume appeared in the dress assumed by the colored population—a manner of dress which until recently had changed but little since the days of Josephine's girlhood.

There were men in cotton trousers and shirts with bright cotton squares tied round the neck in lieu of collar, and sometimes with one of these scarfs tied around the waist instead. That was—and still is—a trick of the colored Creole in the West Indies. When he finds his scarf in the way under his chin he takes it off and ties it jauntily around his hips. It may be that the fashion was revived through this use of the square kerchief.

Many of the new frocks are made with squares of silk to go with them—squares that may be tied around the neck or around the hips as desired. Some of these squares are quite large so that when folded and worn knotted over one arm they actually provide no little protection for the girl who wears them.

CHILDREN ARE LEADING ASSET

horizons stretched beyond those we can reach ourselves and our contracts fulfilled by these children of the rising generation. We can shoot our influence through these young people."

Speaking of the advisability of reaching the child through the means of suitable stories, "the method that Jesus used," Mrs. Kannawin quoted the verse; "My life must touch a million lives in some way as I go from this dear land of promise to the land I do not know. But this is the wish I always wish and the prayer I always pray that my life may help the other lives that touch it on the way."

Speaking of the 10,134 children who are joined in the 395 Mission Bands of the 1248 preaching stations of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Mrs. Kannawin said; "There is lots of room to increase this membership, and I hope that the Peterborough Presbyterial will do its share in bringing little children to the feet of the Master."

The afternoon session, which was presided over by Mrs. D. Ewart of Cobourg, was opened with Devotional Exercises led by the Warkworth Auxiliary, with Mrs. W. A. Logan at the organ. Prayer was offered by Mrs. E. Meiklejohn, and a Scripture reading given by Mrs. J. A. Armstrong.

Ladies' Auxiliary To Canadian Legion Hold Meeting and Supper

Preceding a supper with about 30 members in attendance the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legions, held their last meeting of the season Monday evening, June 6th, in the Legion Rooms.

The guest of the evening was Mrs. Frank Lynch who delivered a very interesting and much apreciated talk on some of her experiences when a nurse overseas during the Great War, and pointed out the wonderful work which was accomplished by the different Auxiliaries here in the aid of relief, the women sacrificing social life in order to fulfill their duties in the noble work. Mrs. Lynch spoke of how the boys serving overseas during the war, apreciated the parcels sent from home, and how it helped to cheer them up in their great trials. Our returned men, said the speaker, as well as the ones who gave up their lives on the battlefields, played an important part in the war, and people are beginning to realize more every day what the war has meant to these men, especially those who returned disabled, some for life.

Mrs. Joseph Mills, president of the Auxiliary, in behalf of Mrs. Lynch, tendered a vote of thanks.

Mrs. W. R. Morris complimented the members of the Auxiliary in charge of the recent banquet held by the Legion, for the arrangements being so well carried out, and the hard work accomplished by the ladies in charge of the supper.

A letter was received by the Auxiliary from the Secretary of the Provincial command, Toronto, thanking them for the wonderful reception given to the delegates during the convention.

The event of the fall bazaar was discussed and the work in connection with the same distributed to the different members.

The Auxiliary are now applying for their charter and names have been submitted for the same.

At the conclusion Mrs. Mills thanked the ladies for assisting so ably at the recent convention.

Saint and Sinner

EVERYONE LIKED "SAINT AND SINNER"—BUT SOME PEOPLE THOUGHT THE INSTALMENTS WERE TOO SHORT.

The Examiner is sorry that nothing could be done about it, because when the story is purchased a date is marked on every instalment, and this date must be strictly observed. It would not be right for one newspaper to print two or three instalments a day ,and thus beat the other newspapers that are also paying a high price for the story. So all must observe the dates.

Well, as everyone knows, marriage and a baby don't end life and adventure. Cherry Lane has had a rough voyage, and her adventures are just starting. As might be imagined by one who read "Saint and Sinner," she gets into some astonishing domestic complications. And Faith, too, has new troubles.

The Examiner will publish this new phase of "Saint and Sinner" if readers desire it. It will start on Wednesday next, if enough readers signify their desire for it, with big instalments for a week, and will then continue with the same length instalments as heretofore.

If you wish to follow the Lane family and Cherry through their further tangles and escapades, you must write The Examiner right away and say so. Otherwise the instalments now on hand will be thrown in the waste paper basket and the order will be cancelled. And remember, if you say "yes," it will run about ten inches a day—no matter how many object. The Examiner can't print more after the first week.

Anne Austin has written an absorbing tale of intermingled love and hate, laughter and tears, joy and sorrow.

Do You Want to Read It?

MR CITY EDITOR:

I want to read the further adventures of Cherry and the others in "Saint and Sinner." I recognize the fact that you cannot print more than ten inches or so of the story every day, and I will not holler in a few weeks for more.

THE DRUNKEN DRIVER.

A Toronto magistrate intimates his intention of sentencing all persons convicted of driving a car while under the influence of liquor to twenty days in gaol.

With that policy the general public will be heartily in accord.

Furthermore, there will be a strong pressure of opinion in favour of taking away from such drivers the privilege of operating a car.

An individual whose judgment is beclouded by excessive use of liquor is too great a menace to the public safety to be permitted to drive a car under present-day traffic conditions, and the sooner it is generally understood that a drunken driver can expect nothing but a gaol sentence and the suspension of his license the safer will be Ontario's highways.

There can be no half-way measures in such cases.

The man who attempts to drive while he is drunk forfeits all right to the privilege of operating an automobile, and under the drivers' licensing system, which comes into force in Ontario soon, it will be a simple matter to make it impossible for such a man to again endanger the safety of the public.

TOO EARLY TO JUDGE.

It is much too early to judge of the merits or the defects of the new Liquor Control Act.

Until the whole system of stores throughout the Province has been in operation for some time, attempting to judge the results of Government sale is taking on an impossible task.

The number of arrests for drunkenness in Toronto over the week-end was larger than for a long period, but that in itself proves very little unless a similar condition is found to exist over several months.

As a matter of fact, the number of arrests on the same count in Peterborough where the legal sale of liquor has not yet commenced was larger over the last week-end than it has been for months, and the arrests here were not accredited to Government-sold liquor.

The new legislation must be given a chance to demonstrate that it is an improvement over the Act it replaces, if that can be done, and certainly it is a little early in the day to arrive at a decision.

A few months' trial will tell the story; certainly it is impossible to judge from the showing of the first week.

THE DECLINE OF LACROSSE.

It is a matter for regret that in the programmes of sports arranged as part of the Diamond Jubilee celebration lacrosse matches are found scheduled in but a small percentage of municipalities throughout the Dominion.

That this vigorous and lusty game, Canadian in its origin and its development, should have declined so far that on the anniversary of the sixtieth birthday of the Dominion it will be only played in a few centres is a condition that rather saddens old-time Canadians as they recall the lacrosse of yesterday.

A game that calls not only for skill and cleverness, but for stamina and gameness and endurance, that contains action and excitement for the spectators, lacrosse might reasonably have been expected to enjoy a permanent popularity in this country.

Yet lacrosse has given away before the much less strenuous game of baseball, and that in turn seems to be threatened by the still more gentle pastime of softball, a development along lines that suggests that Canadians are getting far away from the spirit of the pioneers.

The absence of lacrosse from jubilee programmes cannot be prevented, but it is a pity nevertheless.

1867-1927 CITIZENS.

An interesting feature that might well be added to the Diamond Jubilee procession would be to have all citizens of Peterborough who have lived here during the sixty years of Confederation ride together as a section of the parade.

The total of such residents cannot be large, and it would not be a difficult matter to secure transportation for these old citizens who have seen Peterborough grow from a small town into a flourishing and prosperous city.

Many of them would like to feel that they had a share in celebrating the sixtieth anniversary of the birthday of the Dominion, and no simpler way of making this possible suggests itself than to arrange for them to ride together in the procession with their section headed by a suitable banner.

In any case, as a matter of great public interest, The Examiner would like to secure the names of all citizens who were living here in 1867 and still call Peterborough their home.

The list will be published as a roll of honour in The Examiner's big Diamond Jubilee special number, and old residents can materially assist by letting us have the names as soon as possible.

A FORTUNE IN THIS.

Man's day is triple; a work day which has been shortened; a leisure day which has been correspondingly lengthened; and a sleep day which, so far as is definitely known, has been neither shortened nor lengthened with the progress of mankind.

Greater mental activity, artificial light, more diversions, and the noises and distractions of the city may have subtracted something from the sleep period of millions. But it may be that modern man needs more sleep to knit up "the raveled sleeve of care," for the ravage is greater in this day of high-speed living than when man found it easier to make a living and less to do when he wasn't in the actual business of earning money.

It would be interesting to know how many hours the savage sleeps as compared with the chemist who proposes a chemical substitute for sleep.

Science has come to look upon the body as a collection of elements whose reactions determine the physical state of man's being. This has led the chemist to consider the diet which may best supply what the body needs and has suggested to them the idea of discovering or creating a catalyst that will so resolve and combine the elements which sleep alone has been able to convert from the poisonous to the benign that man may have longer days without lessened years.

No other discovery would work such a revolution in human society. It would fatigue the imagination to try to think of the social changes which would follow the discovery of a synthetic substitute for sleep.

Though man for ages has assumed that sleep was foreordained as a blessing to mankind, the scientist who makes sleep unnecessary will be blessed even more than "the man who first invented sleep."—Kingston Whig-Standard.

FISH STORIES.

From time immemorial fish stories have been the butt for incredulity and jeers on the part of the mocker and the scoffer. It availeth their narrator naught to impart an air of veracity to his tales and to bring forward incontestable proof of his wondrous experiences; he is still unhesitatingly condemned to membership of the Ananias club.

Yet here in our midst is a scientist who, taking nothing for granted and making it his business to trace effects to their ultimate cause, springs on us some facts regarding fish which throw into the shade the reports of any angler, however imaginative, and remind us by no means remotely of the marvels chronicled in the "Travels" of Sir John Mandeville. It becomes easy to believe that light-bearing denizens of the deep living two or three miles below the surface of the water carry their illuminating apparatus in little electric bulbs scattered over their bodies, if we first accept it as proved that there exist fish which knock cows down by wireless. It appears, however, that this extraordinary phenomenon is no rare occurrence in southern seas. The aborigines of Brazil, who know nothing of radio-activity in theory, have brought it to a fine point in practice, for they drive cattle into the water, and when the bovines are bowled over by electrical discharges at long range from the fish, the fish themselves, with their powers of offense and defense removed by the exhaustion of their electric supply ,become a facile prey to the humans.

After that, one is willing to take it on the word of the said scientist that there is one species of fish which eats a meal three times its own size and another that climbs trees and robs birds' nests! Neither will anyone be disposed to cavil at what he says about eels, for the eel is so naturally depraved a customer that you never know what he will be up to next.

Great is Diana of the Ephesians, and great, too, are the wonders of science!—Kingston Whig-Standard.

MR. EULER MEANS BUSINESS.

Various collectors of customs and excise taxes report that as the month of May closed there was a last minute rush to pay sales taxes and avoid the recent penalties imposed. Business men appreciate now that Hon. W. D. Euler's intention of correcting the evils of looseness in sales tax collection is a most serious one and that his campaign to bring defaulters to book will be most thorough and aggressive.

When The Financial Post exposed the serious condition of affairs existing in the sales tax branch at Ottawa and indicated that the Government was losing enormous sums through its failure to enforce prompt payment of sales tax, Mr. Euler was very quick to take action to end the situation. It is becoming increasingly apparent that his action will add considerably to the governmental revenues and tend to put honest and the conscientious and the business men and the would-be defaulters on a more even basis.

* * * *

In his speech in Kitchener this week, Mr. Euler gave some very gratifying information as to the efforts now actively being prosecuted in his department to improve the system of tax collections. When it is realized that practically all of Canada's revenue is collected under Mr. Euler's jurisdiction and that his staff of 5,000 people handle some $300,000,000 a year, it will be appreciated that his work of cleaning up the department and putting it on a business basis is an accomplishment of immense national import.

Mr. Euler in his address promised complete collection of sales tax arrears. On this subject, he said:

"Unfortunately, it is true that the sales tax is over four million dollars in arrears. Some two thousand business firms were in arrears six months ago. This number has been reduced to about 1,500 and is lessening rapidly. Of the amount outstanding two millions is owing by the breweries and distilleries, part of which is in dispute and in the courts. Every dollar owing will be collected. Our auditors are now preparing to make demand, and if necessary, to take legal action.

"It will be naturally asked why does not the department take legal action to collect all these old arrears. May I say that 519 cases are now in the hands of the law branch, 326 firms are in liquidation, and the balance of 76 are being collected as rapidly as possible.

"Unfortunately, it is found that in cases where a large amount is still due the enforcement of the decision of the court would send these firms into bankruptcy, and the department would receive very little, if anything. In these cases it has been thought wise to nurse the accounts in the interest of the revenue of the country. Where a claim is made that a business would be forced to bankruptcy the department sends its auditor to make an investigation, and if the claim of inability to pay is well founded we make the best arrangement possible for payment, by instalments. While this is necessary, the department has taken such steps as will make any further addition to the arrears impossible. Also from June 1, 8 per cent. interest will be charged in all overdue sales tax. Every collector now has instructions to see that payment is made promptly, failing which the matter will be taken to the courts. I feel that in this matter the department should have the support of all business men. Under the practice at present, the man who paid his taxes promptly was brought into unfair competition with his competitor who declined to pay his."—Financial Post.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The worst feature about most of our Ontario highways is that the safety of the pedestrian has never been considered.

Ald. Denne is voicing the general opinion in demanding action in repairing the city's streets.

The National Committee reports Canadians everywhere enthusiastic over the coming jubilee. Peterborough's celebration should be second to none.

The German Air League had a keg of Pilsener beer on ice for the American flyers. More attempts at a New York to Berlin flight are now expected.

It does not at all indicate, points out The Globe, that the Canadian National Exhibition is a back number because it holds a fiddling contest in the era of radio and a swimming contest in the days of flying.

Not the least wonderful thing in connection with the trans-Atlantic flight of the plane Columbia is the fact that people in Canada could sit at home and follow the progress of the flyers by means of the radio.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF THE MOON

Shaded streak shows the line of observation of the moon's total eclipse, visible in Northern Canada on June 15. As a result of messages of instruction broadcast by the mounted police, traders and missionaries will make observations and report what they see for the benefit of astronomers. There is only one point on the whole North American continent at which the total lunar eclipse can be properly observed according to the astronomers. Exactly at 3.24 a.m., on the morning of June 15, the centre of the moon's shadow will cover a small area about thirty-five miles south of Bear Lake, which is in the vicinity of Chesterfield Inlet on the northeast coast of Hudson Bay, just below the Arctic Circle. The shadow will cross this region from a point west-northwest of Hudson Bay, and travel so rapidly toward the Atlantic coast that important observations may only be accomplished in a few minutes of time before and after 3.24 o'clock on that morning.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, June 8 (Canadian Press). — There was some demand from foreign buyers for Canadian Spring wheat in the Montreal market yesterday and sales of a few odd loads were made.

The only business of importance reported in cash grain in the local market was the sale of a few loads of No. 3 Northern wheat for export account. A stronger feeling prevailed in the market for Canadian Western oats and prices were advanced 1 to 2 cents per bushel.

In sympathy with the renewed strength in the Winnipeg cash wheat market, the local situation for Spring wheat grades of flour was stronger and prices were marked up 10 cents per barrel. The demand was quiet.

Wheat Flour Quiet

The demand for Winter wheat flour continued quiet but the undertone was firm.

A feature of the millfeed trade was the inquiry from the United States for bran and shorts, and as the prices bid were from $1.50 to $2 per ton higher than local values, some business was transacted. There was no change in the condition of the local market, prices being unchanged with a moderate trade passing.

Owing to the recent weakness in oats, prices for standard grades of rolled oats were reduced 10 cents per bag.

The undertone to the egg market was firm and the trade was moderately active. The receipts were 3,493 cases.

A firmer feeling prevailed in the potato market under an improved demand. Car lots of Quebec White B grade were sold at $2.35 to $2.40 per bag, and Reds at $1.90 to $1.95 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

The butter trade was inactive, but prices were about steady. The receipts were 861 packages.

Owing to the continued indifferent attitude of English importers the cheese market remains very quiet and prices are inclined to be easier. The receipts wer 9,471 boxs.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 8 (Canadian Press). — Wheat and rye scored a sharp advance yesterday, news indicating that Europe will be dependent upon breadstuff imports much longer this season than expected. Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 2¾ to 3¾c net higher; rav 2½ to 5¾c up; corn showing ¾ to ⅞c gain; oats unchanged to ¾c off, and provisions varying from 22 cents decline to a rise of 7 cents.

Corn rallied with wheat but not until July delivery of corn had dropped to 98¾c on account of improved weather conditions and because of early disturbing legislative reports from Springfield. Oats sagged with corn, and later became bearishly affected by warmer temperatures and by curtailment of cash demand.

Provisions went lower with hog values, but subsequently received good buying support.

CHICAGO CATTLE

ABOUT GETTING MONEY.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—"One Interested" writes a sensible letter on the fact that, as he says, the Children's Aid Society has had to begin spending its capital for current expenses, and he says truly when he says that intending benefactors will think twice before giving money to build up a permanent fund for this society when the public lets its contributions go behind and prefers noise and demonstrations and the pay of a permanent staff and large quarters to doing work such as this society does. Once this idea gets a hold on the public the quick benefactor will say as one said to me yesterday: "If people want to waste large sums of money in the upkeep of expensive concerns and in spending ten dollars for fun and noise to one given to the cause, I say let them spend their own money. I am not going to help to keep up societies where their money ought to go while they cost a fortune to do the little good they are doing." I would suggest that the C. A. S. hold another tag day soon, and we will try and do better. Like many others I would like to see all societies asking for public moneys compelled to furnish a statement. It would then be shown where the money goes. Several movements in the United States have broken down lately because it was found that it took $5.00 to collect and distribute as many more. It was found that a very large number of "good" people are actually living on the public. It is a new way of getting an easy living. It is a mighty easy way to keep a society going, when all we have got to do is to go out and beg and then spend most of the money enjoying our lazy selves. It is the meanest form of begging.

THE LEAST OF THESE.

CHURCH AND HEADLIGHTS.

The Editor of The Examiner:

Last night I happened to be at a street corner when the congregation was coming out of one of our large churches, and I was amazed to notice the number of cars with glaring headlights starting out. So strong was the light that turning my eyes away was not sufficient. I had to cover my eyes with my hand to avoid the sensation of being blinded.

I wondered greatly to see all those good church-going people doing such a thing, especially as we have read recently of a precious life being crushed out by the action of an oncoming car, the glare in the lamplight being so strong that the driver of the other car could not see distinctly, and consequently there was an accident, and a little limp form lying dead on the road.

One cannot help thinking that the christianity of people who carry such glaring head-lights is of a purely theoretic type, and that men and women who are culpable of bringing such grief and heartbreak to another are certainly not fit for church members, and should have their names taken off the rolls of their church.

"NUGGET" SHOE POLISH

INTERESTING BOOK ABOUT OLD DAYS

Letters of John Langton, an Early Settler, Have Been Published.

An interesting book, "Early Days in Upper Canada: Letters of John Langton," which describes pioneering life in this neighborhood nearly a hundred years ago, has just been published by the MacMillan Company.

John Langton was a young Englishman who, in 1833, settled at Sturgeon Lake, where he bought 500 acres for 200 pounds. Until his father joined him in 1837, he wrote long diary letters home. These letters are of value to the historian and of interest to the many who find journals and correspondence the pleasantest form of reading. Settling in the newly-opening country behind Peterborough, Langton found must that was new and strange to his English eyes and ears.

Philologists may find it hard to believe that the Indians there had a word, pronounced "shosh," which meant "a litle bird passing rapidly between you and the sun"; can a language be so rich? Langton engaged some untrustworthy labor, traced his boundaries, built a house, and cleared part of his farm. His hopes of fortune dwindled as the settlers, who had flowed into the township, ebbed out again, disappointed with its slow growth. Storekeepers mopped up most of the loose money in the country, exports were few, markets far; comfort might be won, but not wealth. But Langton held on, lived alone for a winter, yet found time to travel by water all day to Peterborough, and to dance there all night. He led a full life, if often a lonely one; by turns architect, trader, sportsman.

After 1837 his correspondence slackened, but in 1849 he described the lumbering trade, then a small scale affair; he hoped to make 100 per cent. from a modest venture. In 1855, when he had been for a few years in politics, he set about creating a government audit department, and wrote fully of his problems. Egerton Ryerson, whose spirit still haunts Ontario schools, was Superintendent of Education ,and a prime difficulty; he gets more caustic criticism from Langton than is to be found in most histories.

Farmer, lumberman, auditor, Langton next became Vice-Chancellor of the University at Toronto.

Langton was thus one of the first of the many Old Country immigrants for whom their coming to Peterborough County eventually spelled fortune.

A Thought For To-day

BUILDING THE BRIDGE.

An old man, going on a lone highway,
Came at the evening, cold and gray,
To a chasm vast and deep and wide,
Through which was flowing a sullen tide.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim,
The Sullen stream had no fear for him;
But he turned when safe on the other side,
And built a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man," said a fellow pilgrim near,
"You are wasting your strength with building here;
Your journey will end with the ending day,
You never again will pass this way;
You've crossed the chasm, deep and wide,
Why build you this bridge at evening tide?"

The builder lifted his old gray head—
"Go friend, in the path I have come," he said,
"There followeth me after today,
A youth whose feet must pass this way.
This chasm that has been as naught to me,
To that fair-haired youth may a pitfall be;
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim—
Good friend, I am building this bridge for him!"

AUDITORS CRITICIZE HOUSE OF REFUGE ACCOUNTING AT COBOURG

Business Arrangements Describe as Lax in Report.

TO COUNTY COUNCIL.

Records in the Treasury Office Are Very Satisfactory.

(By an Examiner Reporter.)

COBOURG, June 8.—After an address Tuesday afternoon by Walter Smith, of Colborne, Northumberland representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, on the advantages of adopting the accredited herd system, the counties council instructed its agricultural committee to bring in an informative report indicating particularly the action necessary to establish this system.

Mr. Smith referred to the example of Prince Edward county and spoke at some length upon the results in other parts of Canada and the United States from weeding out tubercular cattle from dairy and beef herds.

Deputy-reeve Maher of Cobourg, said that four men who had come from Rochester on an excursion last week had asked him to direct him to farmers owning accredited herds. The demand for such cattle was much greater than farmers realized, and although the chief advantage would accrue to them, a great benefit would be derived by the country as a whole.

Reeve Nelson of Percy township, explained that the Dominion government would not undertake the testing of herds unless two-thirds of the cattle owners requested it.

A petition would have to be circulated among the farmers, Reeve Elliott said, to ascertain the wishes and attitude of all the owners of cattle. The higher prices paid for accredited stock should appeal to every progressive farmer in Northumberland and Durham.

The motion by L. H. Giddy, of Port Hope, seconded by Fred Gray, asked the Agricultural committee to bring in their eport this season

Picture of Ex-Warden.

The Council gratefully received an enlarged and framed photograph of the late C. L. Owen ,ex-M.P., who was Warden of the United Counties in 1894. It was presented by Mrs. Owen and her family through Deputy-reeve C. H. Davidson, of Campbellford, who conveyed their good wishes to the council.

Reeve Bygott, of Campbellford, moved, seconded by Reeve Hess, of Hastings, that the picture of ex-Warden Owen be formally accepted, and acknowledged with council's thanks, and also that it be hung in the council chamber, where many other Wardens of the counties are similarly commemorated.

Request From Judge.

A letter from Sheriff Nesbitt communicated to the council a request from His Honor Judge McGlade that much needed improvements to the court room be made as soon as possible. Judge McGlade supplemented the recommendation frequently emphasized in the reports of grand juries by suggesting a general renovation of the chamber with special attention to ventilation, flooring and the seating accommodation for the public.

Warden Elliott remarked that he understood the Property committee was dealing with this matter and would probably submit a report this week.

A New Representative.

F. C. Patterson, of Port Hope, the representative in Durham of the Department of Agriculture, announced that he had been transferred to Norfolk county and would be succeeded by John Kellough, the present Norfolk representative. He thanked the members for their co-operation during his seven years in Durham and bespoke for his successor the same harmony and good will. As a final appeal he asked the council to appoint the advisory committee which had been urged for several years, and also that the counties' exhibit at the Toronto exhibition be continued this year.

On behalf of the Council Warden Elliott expressed to Mr. Patterson the council's wishes for successful work in his new field ,and also complimented him upon his excellent record in Durham.

Information Wanted.

The Committee on Schools, with Reeve Hess presiding, was not convinced that the Blackstock Continuation School in Cartwright Township was entitled to the entire amount of the grant its secretary applied for. The Blackstock Board asked for $2,603.26 from the counties for students who were not residents of the school section. The Government grant is $783, making a total of $3,383 in grants. The school's expenditure for the year is set out at $4,200, of which the counties and Government would pay $3,383, leaving $817 to be raised by the Blackstock school ratepayers. And of this $817, it was said that $700 was required for interest and principal on debentures.

Members of the committee were inclined to believe that the application might not be entirely correct, and especially that an error might have crept into the listing of resident pupils as non-resident. The application was referred back to the Blackstock Board for an explanation to be received for the December sessions.

Those Extra Grants.

Owing to the lack of explicit information from some High School boards in regard to their requisitions for the extra grant as allowed by the 1925 amendment to the School Act, the committee finally emerged from the fog of confusing figures by deciding not to entertain those applications for the special grants covering 1925, and that the High School and Collegiate Institute Boards notified to that effect.

It was recalled that the deputation from the Boards last January had intimated that they would not take advantage of the retroactive clause in the amendment, and would forego the sums they were entitled to for 1925.

At this present session several Boards did not apply for the 1925 extra grant. Colborne's claim for $50 was interpreted as being their allowance for last year.

Of the aplications for 1926 Reeve Wood, of Millbrook, suggested that the clearest and most presentable form be referred to the Department of Education for its confirmation as being in accordance with the new amendment, and, if an affirmative reply is returned, that this application be used as a guide in dealing with the others

Reeve Bygott said Campbellford Board submitted their claim for 1925 on the understanding that it was not to be pressed unless the other Boards did so

Reeve Nelson's motion, seconded by Deputy-Reeve Sykes, of Percy Township, that Keogan's Bridge be assumed by the county was referrre to the special roads and bridges commission.

Deputy-Reeve Hooten reported Dunlop's bridge in good condition, with minor repairs ordered.

Deputy-Reeve Richardson, of Manvers, found six yards of gravel needed to level an approach to the Pigeon Creek Bridge.

Reeve Grills reported slight repairs to Healey Falls Bridge.

Reeve Nelson inspected Thompson's bridge on June 1 and found it in good repair; and Deputy-Reeve R. Peake of Seymour announced a similar finding for Sedgwick's.

Wilson's Island bridge required six new planks and gravel for an approach Reeve Bygott advised, and Deputy-Reeve Davidson gave a detailed statement of the Campbellfard bridge, which is in satisfactory condition.

Reeve Fallis of Cavan said that a pier of the Wallace Point bridge had been shaken and twelve planks were replaced.

Deficit from 1926.

The following are extracts from the audit made by Oscar Hudson Company of the counties' finances:

The following summary will enable the Council to visualize the financial position of the years 1925 and 1926:

Jan. 1, 1925. Surplus.....	$30,451.00
Income, 1925	347,102.00
Income, 1926	332,356.00
Deficit, Dec. 31, 1926.....	16,085.00
	$725,994.00
Expenditure, 1925	$373,262.00
Expenditure, 1926	352,732.00
	$725,994.00

In preparing the estimates for 1927 and striking the tax, it will be necessary to provide for the above deficit of $16,085.

We recommend that, as the greatest expenditure that the Council is called upon to meet is that on high schols, a special rate should be levied for the purpose. The High Schools expenditure should not be treated as a general purposes item such as the county rate is intended to cover.

In Good Condition

We are pleased to report that we found the records and vouchers in the Treasurer's office in a very satisfactory condition.

Since our last audit a general ledger has been provided as suggested by us and posted up to date.

This is a great step in advance and facilitates ready reference to any item that may be required.

We observe that very many items of expenditure passed by the Council or committee or authorized by by-law or statute do not find their way into the minutes. We regard it as highly important that every member of the Council should have information through the minutes of all expenditure made by the Council during his term of office and have suggested to the Treasurer that printed account sheets be adopted, containing columns for voucher number, name of payee, date and nature of accounts with suitable headings such as House of Refuge, jail, county roads, administration of justice, etc., in which like items would be segregated. These sheets would ultimately be signed by members of the finance or other committee passing the accounts for payment and eventually passed to the printer when the minutes are being published. Every cheque issued would be accounted for on these sheets and the omissions referred to above would thus be avoided. The sheets would be prepared as accounts were required to be passed between sessions and there need be no congestion of work at the Council's sessions in this respect.

As far as possible all accounts affecting any years should be paid that year, and the Counties' cash book kept open for this purpose for a couple of weeks each January to take care of same.

Road Accounts

We found the road accounts in good order and that our suggestions on various matters made in our last report had received attention.

One recommendation, however, we desire to make is that payment of any due accounts should not be held over to another year for the reason that the estimates would otherwise be exceeded.

We appreciate that it is often unavoidable to exceed the estimates but the fact should be faced in the year affected.

We might add that items amounting to approximately $5000, were passed on from 1925 to 1926 and approximately $3000 of 1926 expenditure carried over to 1927.

House of Refuge.

We regret to report that the business arrangements at this institution leave much to be desired. We had occasion in our last report to call attention to at least one duplication of payment to George Perrin. So far as we know, no satisfactory explanation was received from Mr. Perrin, and during 1926 he has continued to supply the House with meat as usual. During 1926, a similar occurrence took place in respect to an account of James Gillard.

An account for $17.05 was rendered dated July 1, 1926, and paid by cheque, on August 10, 1926, a further account was rendered dated November 1, 1926, for $17.95, which contained the same items plus an additional item of 90c; this account was paid by cheque on November 22, 1926.

Were Certified Correct.

Both accounts were certified as correct by Mr. McMillen. Mr. Gillard refunded the over-payment on request.

We noticed in respect to Mr. Gillard's business that a previous account dated January 2, 1926, contained as far back as Jan., 1925.

It is obvious to us that there can be no efficient check of an account 12 months old, and we suggest that unless a purveyor is prepared to render his accounts monthly, the Board of Management give orders that the House cease to deal with him.

Laxity in Accounts.

Another instance of laxity in certifying accounts is in a case of Wm. Jennings & Co., where an item "account rendered $38.40" was certified correct, with no details given as to the supplies this item covered.

We spoke to Mr. McMillen in respect to these matters, and suggested that he keep a book (as required by the House regulations) of all goods received, and make a notation against the items of the date same were passed for payment. Mr. McMillen arranged to adopt the suggestion forthwith.

The above items create a certain apprehension as to whether the expenditure of the counties' fund in behalf of the House of Refuge, is made with sufficient care.

In our last report we had occasion to refer to the regulations of the House which required that contracts for supplies be entered into where possible, but up to the present no action appears to have been taken.

We noted haphazard the business done by a number of firms supplying the House for the year 1926, and give the figures below:

C. G. Armstrong, $2655; J. Gillard, $352; G. H. Perrin, $930; J. D. Burnett, $1215; Dundas Bros, $723.

From the above it would appear to be quite practicable to enter into contracts for supplies, giving all eligible taxpayers an opportunity to tender."

FOUR-LEGGED DUCK.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Ebenezer Anderson, a Long Island farmer, has a young duckling with four legs and three wings. "Neez" says he thinks it ought to "get along." It has two normal legs with an extra full-size leg on the right side and an extra claw on the left side. The third wing is on its back just forward of the tail. With such profuse propelling powers we agree that "it ought to get along."

CONVENIENT NEW TRAIN SERVICE TO POINTS WEST OF TORONTO VIA CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS.

The popular fast afternoon train of the Canadian National Railways from Montreal to Toronto, the "Inter-City Limited," is now operating daily instead of daily except Sunday, as heretofore. This train, arriving Toronto 8.30 p.m., makes excellent connection with the New Toronto-Chicago train, the "Maple Leaf," leaving Toronto 8.55 p.m., arriving Chicago 10.15 a.m., the following morning.

It also provides convenient additional service from points east of Toronto, such as Brockville, Gananoque, Kingston, Napanee, Belleville Trenton, Picton, Cobourg, Port Hope Oshawa and Whitby, to points in Western Ontario, such as Hamilton Brantford, Woodstock and London.

The "Inter-City Limited" carries a standard sleeping car Montreal to Chicago for the benefit of through passengers and a radio-equipped observation parlor car Montreal to London, which latter will be attractive to those not going farther west Both these cars operate on the "Maple Leaf" from Toronto.

The poem in the book reproduced above is from "Flint and Feather," by E. Pauline Johnson. Published by the Mussen Book Company Limited, Toronto.

TIME was, when Home was East, and Adventure lay West. Civilization had a Frontier in those days, sometimes not far behind the great centres of population. The railroad has changed all that. Whether heading towards the Atlantic or the Pacific, today's trains are always carrying the Outward Pilgrim as well as the Homeward Bound.

The Canadian Pacific has fostered travel, not only for business, but for pleasure and education. Its elaborate passenger service has often included special trains for those who desire to know more about their own country.

Personal contacts and first-hand information promote that wide sympathy and appreciation, that breadth of thought, which must underlie national harmony. Travel aids towards a better understanding between the people of our widely separated areas.

What sagacity it was that built spacious hotels in the just-reclaimed wilderness, and what energy it was that promptly filled them!

Moreover, the Canadian Pacific, by thus providing comfortable transportation and attractive resting places, and by acquainting the world with the wonders of the Dominion, has induced thousands annually to visit this country, carrying back to their own lands a personal knowledge of Canada; investors and settlers have been created; and, thus, a deeper sympathy has been established between Canada and other nations.

And the Canadian Pacific has stimulated Canadians to travel in foreign lands, and has provided Canadian ships to convey them to the ports of the world, and to carry the Canadian flag over the seas.

WELCOME GIRL WINS CONTEST

Miss Ida Clare Adjudged Best in Orations on Canada's Achievements.

AT PORT HOPE H. S.

WELCOME, June 8.—An oratorical contest under the auspices of the Canadian Club of Port Hope was held in Port Hope Town Hall on Thursday evening.

All students of Port Hope High School were eligible to compete. The subject chosen was, "Canada and Its Achievements Since Confederation." The judges were Messrs. R. D. Davidson, Principal of Cobourg Collegiate Institute; G. L. Wagar, teacher of Cobourg C. I., and S. S. Horsley, of Trinity College.

The decision was based on subject arrangement, language, delivery and poise and gestures and power to impress.

On account of the few competing, the time limit of ten minutes was withdrawn.

At eight o'clock, after the singing of "O Canada," Mrs. Snider made a few introductory remarks concerning the contest and the rules concerning it, and introduced the judges. The order of speaking for the contestants was decided by draw.

Miss Ida Clare, of Welcome, was the first speaker. She spoke of the Fathers of Confederation and the wonderful work accomplished in the unifying of Canada. Then in graphic language, she sketched the growth in industries, manufacturing, education and noted men and women. She spoke of the character of Canada and her place in the League of Nations; also the loyalty of her subjects at the time of the Great War.

In closing she made a strong appeal that we celebrate Confederation, not by boasting, but by making the future of Canada greater than ever, by brotherhood to the stranger within our gates, by religious growth at home and abroad, and willingness to accept our share of the responsibility and being true to the high traditions of our fathers.

Mr. Fred Ough was the second speaker. He took each letter of the word Confederation and dealt with it.

C—Canada.
O—Ontario.
N—National emblem.
F—Federal government.
E—Empire.
D—Dominion.
E—England.
R—Railways and religion.
A—Aims and attitude.
T—Thrift.
I—Industries.
O—Oceans.
N—Nation.

In this unique way he dealt with Canada, its greatness and achievements of the last sixty years.

Mr. Foster Hamilton gave a very eloquent and dramatic address on the glories of Canada, of the present compared with the past and the wonderful achievements of that period.

Miss Jean Hawkins of Canton, was the fourth speaker. She traced the steps leading up to Confederation, both in England and Canada. She told of Confederation and what it meant, and ended with a humorous comparison of conditions in the country of sixty years ago as compared with to-day.

The judges later gave their decision. Miss Ida Clare was declared winner of the contest and awarded first prize, which was $5. Mr. Foster Hamilton was second. Miss Jean Hawkins third and Mr. Fred Ough fourth.

During the evening Mr. Snider, on behalf of the Canadan Club, presented the High school with a framed picture of the Fathers of Confederation.

Judge Ward received the gift in behalf of the school.

A bright musical programme was given during the evening.

PAVILIONS OPEN AT TRENT RIVER

Whitehall Gardens and Coral Gables To Operate As Usual.

TRENT RIVER, June 8.—Whitehall Gardens was opened with a return engagement of Townsend's syncopated orchestra of five pieces. The floor was in excellent condition and dancing was kept up till the usual hours. Cars were parked in every available place on both sides of the main thoroughfare.

"Coral Gables Casino", under the management of Harold E. Burgess, opened on the holiday night for the season with the Varsity Entertainers supplying music. The musical numbers were excellent and in splendid time for dancing.

The color scheme for the orchestra platform is black and white, the background being of many colors representing the rising sun. The decorations are not yet complete but will present a brilliant effect when the work is finished. There were some very fine prizes given away for lucky spot dances, and life savers were distributed throughout the night to everybody.

This popular place of amusement will be open on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays throughout the season with Friday nights as special prize nights.

Mr. Burgess gave out the announcements, and he wished to contradict a false rumor that has been circulated concerning the building not being safe, as an engineer from Toronto pronounced it perfectly safe and sound, as there are large cement pillar supports in the basement.

Sirius, often called the dog star, is the most brilliant star. It is thirteen times as large as the sun.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, mysteriously summoned to the queer little jungle-bordered town of PORTO-VERDE, in west central Brazil, encounters an old friend, VILAK, who tells him it was he who had sent for him.

Vilak's cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl, owns a coffee plantation and other land near Porto Verde and has received mysterious warnings to get out of the country. Vilak is alarmed, because several deaths already have occurred and the superstitious natives think some supernatural force is at work.

The day Nunnelly arrives another man is killed, TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise Marberry's foremen. He had been hit with a club in the hands of LIMEY POTTS, another foreman. Before he died a strange paralysis took hold of him, and Vilak confides to Nunnally that he is certain Limey Potts, though he may have struck the victim, was not the murderer.

That evening Vilak induces Nunnally to come with him on a visit to the house of GAYLORD PRENTISS, a reticent and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise. Vilak believes Prentiss is somehow involved in the mysterious deaths.

Before going to Prentiss' place, Vilak and Nunnally call on Elise Marberry. Against Vilak's wishes, she insists on going along. When Vilak knocks at Prentiss' door saying he is Elise's lawyer, Prentiss orders them away.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XI.

Vilak shrugged his shoulders and returned to his companions.

"Did you learn anything?" Elise asked eagerly.

"Perhaps a little. Perhaps too much," he answered.

The moon disappeared behind a cloud. The path became shrouded in misty darkness. They were slowly picking their way toward the gate when they heard a click as of a door being opened in Prentiss' house. A moment later something bounded through the brush toward them.

"He's let the dog out on us," Vilak murmured. "Run to the gate."

The girl took the old man's hand and darted off to the fence. Vilak halted and tranquilly taking a vial and a large handkerchief from his coat, saturated the cloth with the pungent liquid.

The dog came nearer, then burst through the bushes, a huge black monster with fiery blazing eyes. It leaped upon Vilak. He crumpled under the impetus of its massive body. It sprang at his throat but he caught its neck in his strong fingers and while its black body writhed violently and its ugly jaws struggled to reach his flesh, thrust the handkerchief against its moist nose.

In a moment its struggles began to lessen; it gave a convulsive gasp and lay stretched on the ground, breathing heavily. The others came up to look. Vilak brushed the mud off his clothes. "He won't bother anyone else for at least half an hour. I gave him a good dose of chloroform."

The old man looked at the long fangs, white in the rays of Vilak's flashlight. "Er . . . are you sure you haven't killed him?"

"I don't kill unless I have to. Not even a dog."

They crawled through the gate in the fashion they had entered. Vilak took a wax impression of the lock. They crossed the creek and climbed the sharp slope to the lake above. Elise stooped to pull out her boot which had sunk deep into its muddy shore.

"I don't see why I should want his property even if it is mine," she said thoughtfully, as she gazed out over the misty expanse of water. "Why he lives in that wretched spot is utterly beyond me. There's far too much of this water above it. It's bad enough on my fazenda, being threatened every rainy season by the dam at Avilos, but in his house I'd be constantly afraid that one of these lakes would overflow and start trouble. The ground where his house is situated is so extremely low. The lakes probably aren't large enough to do much damage; nevertheless it wouldn't be pleasant if they broke through. I've been in one flood and don't care to be in any more. I repeat that why he lives there is absolutely beyond me."

She was about to speak again when a warning pressure of her cousin's hand checked her.

"I thought I heard a noise," he said softly to her and to the chemist behind. "It's quite possible we are being followed. Come toward me and halt. Keep absolutely motionless."

They obeyed quickly, and close to Vilak waited, the girl listening to catch the faintest trembling of the brush. Nunnally, glad of the opportunity to rest from his unusual exertions, leaned lightly against the tree under which he stood. Suddenly he gave a sharp ejaculation of pain.

For the first time the old man saw his friend lose his coolness. He wheeled violently and spoke in a fever of anxiety of which Nunnally had not believed him capable. "You hurt, Nanny? Quick! What's the matter?"

"Er . . . nothing. Er . . . really nothing."

Nunnally's voice was humble and apologetic. "I'm sorry I cried out. Er . . . sorry. I forgot about the er . . . glove and took it off and stuck my hand on a . . . er thorn."

"Never mind about that. Let me see it!" He seized the old man's withered hand and disregarding any followers who might be stalking through the trees, snapped on his flashlight and under its brilliant rays examined the tiny wound.

He drew a breath of relief, then extinguished the light. "It's all right, I thought it might be something else. But if you value your life, keep on that glove. Let's start walking again."

They proceeded in single file a few hundred feet. Vilak again halted. "I'm fairly certain now we're being followed," he whispered. "You and Elise walk ahead and talk to each other as loudly as you like. The louder the better. Keep talking. Have your pistol ready, Nanny, but don't shoot unless I tell you."

The old man and the girl moved obediently down the path. Vilak crept into the brush and waited, listening intently. But he heard nothing. After a few moments he stepped out and rejoined the others. "I was certain something was there," he remarked. "It's quite possible my ears tricked me out here in the jungle where there are so many noises. Don't often do it, though."

They reached the tree near the thorn thicket where Elise, like the others, had tied her horse. She looked back at the black hole through which they had just come. "Well, we got through there without any trouble, after all," she said. "Your ears are playing tricks with you, aren't they, Vilak? You've been smoking too many of those Chinese cigarets. It's a wonder to me that your nerves haven't completely gone to pieces. I'd hear a great many things that didn't exist if I smoked even two of them."

Vilak smiled, and took out his fantastically carved cigaret case. "Perhaps that's a hint that you'd like one now?" She made an indignant gesture of refusal. "You, Nanny?"

The old man rather timidly took out his own modest, milk-flavored package. "Er, thank you very much. But I think . . . er . . . think I'd rather have my own. I will take a . . . er . . . match though."

"You mean to say you've lost those two boxes I gave you this afternoon?"

The old man looked at him humbly. "Not lost exactly. Er . . . Not lost. They just slipped down into that lining of my coat again."

"You're hopeless. You're positively hopeless, Nanny." Vilak shook his head. "If Elise is still the good creature she was when she was a child she'll sew up your pockets tomorrow. Here's another box of matches. Don't lose this one."

They lit cigarets, mounted, and rode toward the town. As they reached the spot where the bridge crossed the river they saw the light of the torches at the railroad encampment, and upon Elise's expressing a wish to see it rode nearer. From the top of the embankment they could look down and see the laborers still at work pitching their camp, their black shadowy forms flitting about spectrally in the ruddy light of the torches and the fire.

They were close enough to the encampment to be clearly seen by those below; the handsome, white-linened chief with whom Vilak had spoken several hours earlier walked over to gaze up the embankment and ascertain the identity of his visitors. Recognizing Vilak and the chemist, he smiled and waved his hand cheerily. "You ride late tonight, senhors," he called out in his clear, robust voice. "Will you not come down and chat a little?"

"No, thanks a lot!" Vilak called in response. "We're on our way to bed."

"Ah, indeed are you most lucky," the engineer answered. "Myself I shall be up all the night before the camp is done. Ah, the life of the engineer is not easy. But at least you will smoke with me a cigaret. It would pass for me a few moments pleasantly. Too often am I lonely." He waved a comprehensive hand toward his vicious-faced workingmen. "With my villains, helas, there is not much o talk."

"Sorry. We've really got to go," Vilak responded. "Some other night, perhaps." They chatted a moment from the heights, then the three called out a good night and touched spurs to their horses.

"Boa noite, senhorita, senhors," the engineer called out after them. "Have a care of the roads. They are not too safe."

"Charming fellow," said Elise as they turned into the highway leading to her home.

"Delightful," Vilak responded.

They rode a dark quarter of a mile without seeing either beast or traveler except a belated ox-cart driving to town, which the cursing Brazilian driver told them had broken down fifteen kilometers up the road and the powers of evil only knew when he would get into the city. Then they heard a sound of men's voices in argument and nearing the spot saw the two Italians who had been there earlier in the evening, Pasquale Branza of the patched cheek and enormous Adam's apple and the one-armed Dette Cicerone of the broken teeth.

The Latins stopped arguing immediately on seeing the travelers and swiftly snatching off their hats and bowing unctuously, murmured a salutation. The old man caught a glitter of steel at their belts.

MAN FOUND GUILTY OF CARELESSNESS

Cecil Toms Fined $20 For Driving in Dangerous Manner.

HAVELOCK, June 7. — Cecil Toms was fined $20.00, and costs, by County Magistrate O. A. Langley yesterday afternoon on a charge of unlawfully driving a motor vehicle in a manner dangerous to the public on the Marmora Road on the morning of May 24th, 1927, when the motor car he was driving struck and injured Mellon Ellis, who was walking to his work at Blairton. Toms pleaded not guilty.

Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton called as the first witness Mellon Ellis, the injured man. Mr. Ellis testified that he was walking to his work at Blairton Station, accompanied by his son Henry, between 7 and 8 o'clock, on the morning of May 24th. It was a clear morning, and he did not see or hear the car coming. He was walking on the north side of the travelled part of the road and his son on the south side, when he was struck and knocked down by a car, and he did not regain consciousness until after his son had taken him to the home of Henry Riley. He has been unable to work since, as his hip, back, and head were injured. The accident occurred about three miles east of Havelock, and all parties were travelling in the same direction.

Henry Ellis, his son, was the next witness for the Crown. He stated that the travelled part of the road at this particular place was about eight feet wide, and he and his father were walking five or seven feet apart, and he thought there was room for a car to pass between them. He also testified that he did not see or hear the car coming, and could not say what speed it was travelling, as it slowed up after hitting his father. His father was standing up when Toms came back to them, and that Toms did not offer to take his father any place, and that he did not ask him to. He could not remember any of the conversation as he was paying more attention to his father. He said that Toms had tried to go around his father on the north side, and when he saw he could not do it, he shot across the road and struck him on passing.

Dr. Donald Holdcroft, testifying as to the injuries that Mr. Ellis had received, said that he was called on the morning of the accident and found the muscles of the left hip bruised, physical signs of fracture of one rib on the left side, an abrasion and swelling on the forehead, and condition of shock. He had not seen Mr. Ellis since May 26th, and could not say as to the condition of the man now.

Charles Dewey, county constable, was the last witness for the Crown. Mr. Dewey said he knew the roads in this district well and had been over the road where the accident occurred last Saturday, and that the road at this spot was twenty feet wide, and level.

Cecil Towns, in conducting his own defence gave his version of the accident. He was going to his work in Marmora on the morning of the accident and was accompanied by his wife who was going with him as far as his father's. He saw the two men walking on the road. He had a good clear horn which he blew some distance from them. When he was quite close he swung out to pass on the north side he gave the horn another blow and the old gentleman stepped right in front of the car. He put on the brakes and swung back to the centre of the road and the left hind fender struck Mr. Ellis, knocking him down. He stopped the car at a distance of thirty to thirty-five feet and went back and asked Mr. Ellis is he was hurt and he replied, "Yes, hurt all over" and added, "I am going to see what I can do about this." He also asked the injured man where he was going and offered to give him a ride to Blairton or bring him back to Havelock, but he did not accept the offer.

When cross-examined by Mr. Hatton, Mr. Toms stated that he was from 200 to 300 yards away when he first blew the horn and that the men did not appear to hear it as neither one looked up. He was within 25 or 35 feet of them when he blew it the second time. He also stated that he was travelling about twenty to twenty-five miles an hour when he first saw them and did not slow up until quite close to them. He thought he had been as careful as need be on a road as wide as the Marmora road is at this place, but acknowleged that he might have slowed down more.

Mr. Toms then called his wife and she confirmed her husband's testimony.

Mr. Hatton, in his address, thought it was criminal carelessness on the part of the defendant as his evidence showed that he saw the men three hundred yards away. Pedestrians have as much right to the way, he said, as the motor car. The old gentleman may be deaf but they knew he had not heard the horn, and the speed as admitted was twenty to twenty-five miles an hour. Mr. Ellis had suffered he said and he thought the defendant should be punished.

Mr. Toms made an offer to the Crown to pay the doctor's fees and the costs but Mr. Hatton thought Mr. Ellis was entitled to pay for his lost time. Mr. Ellis would not settle unless he got pay for three weeks' work at $2.25 a day in addition to expenses. Mr. Toms would not agree to pay the wages but assumed the doctor's fees.

Mr. Langley, in summing up the case, said that the question before the court was whether the man charged was guilty or not of driving recklessly or carelessly, endangering pedestrians on the highway. Accidents will sometimes happen where care is exercised, he said. When the defendant attempted to pass on the left hand side when all parties were gong the same direction he was taking the correct and proper side. Mellon Ellis was the man who was on the wrong side of the road but Toms showed carelessness in not slowing down. On the whole Mr. Langley found that Toms' driving was dangerous to the public in coming up at that rate of speed when he knew they had not heard the horn. He placed the fine at $20.00 and costs $17.15 and suspended the defendant's license for one month.

KIWANIS WIN SECOND GAME

Rotary Team Are Defeated 13-4 in City League Fixture.

TAKE EARLY LEAD

The Kiwanis Juniors defeated the Rotary team last night at the Exhibition Park for the second time this season in the City League baseball series, by the score of 13-4.

The Kiwanis, with Hardill pitching, took a lead in the first innings and were never in danger afterwards. Hardill had everything his own way in six out of the seven frames. The Rotary boys connected for eight hits but Hardill was able to keep them well scattered except in the sixth inning when three hits yielded two runs.

Howden got off to a bad start with the first man up being walked, the second struck out, and then followed a series of hits and errors which allowed seven men to cross the plate before the third man was put out trying to steal third base.

In the next four innings the winners got only three hits off Howden, which gave them one run. The sixth innings saw a second break and four runs were added to the total. In the last frame one run was scored. The winners got thirteen hits. LeBarr's hitting was the feature of the game. In four times to bat he got a triple, a double, a single, and was walked.

The Rotarians got their first run in the fourth, one in the fifth and two in the sixth. Hardill had 14 strike outs and had the players for the most part mystified.

The Play.

LeBarr, for the Kiwanis, was walked. Baker struck out. Sturgeon singled. Hall made first when Walton muffed the ball. Hollingsworth sacrificed, scoring LeBarr, and Sturgeon, Graham and Gillespie singled, and Hardill doubled. Guiry made first when Bevis dropped the ball. LeBarr double but was caught making third. 7 runs, 5 hits, 2 errors.

For the Rotary, Walton, Bevis, and Swanger struck out in a row.

In the second the Kiwanis failed to get a man on and the Rotary got two. McGee made first when LeBarr let the ball go through him, and Smith was walked.

The third innings was three strike-outs for Hardill and one for Howden, with two infield flies.

In the fourth the Rotary boys bunched three singles for one run, and Hardill added two more strike-outs to his belt. The Kiwanis got one run in this inning on LeBarr's triple and Baker's single . ?

In the fifth and sixth the Rotary got three runs on five hits which were well bunched together. The Kiwanis got four more in the sixth and one in the final frame. Hardill struck out the first three men up in the seventh.

Cruickshank Stands Out As Real Threat

OAKMOUNT COUNTRY CLUB, Pa., June 8.—Of the entire field entered here for the U.S. open few can be regarded as a more genuine title threat than Bobby Cruickshank, the sturdy, little New York pro.

Away back in 1923 the wee thistle, then comparatively unknown, startled the world by tying Bobby Jones for the championship only to lose in the play-off.

In 1924 he finished fifth. Last season at Scioto he wallowed in the depths of place No. 48, but this winter his putting touch became gentler, his irons more deadly and a complete change came over him. He set world's record by winning five major tournaments in the winter season and topped off a brilliant spring by flashy work in the Metropolitan open.

No other golfer, not even Walter Hagen, has ever matched Bobby's winter feat.

The Los Angeles open, the Texas open, the South Central open, the Miami four-ball international matches and the North and South are the scalps he carries.

Bobby, long a "second-place pansy", seems to have conquered that eleventh hour habit of wilting away under hot fire. He has the will-to-win and proper frame of mind now to do his game justice.

Wonder how far it will carry him at Oakmont?

INCREASE LEAD OVER WHITE SOX

Many Homers Clouted in Yankees' 4-1 Victory Over Chicago.

CARDS LOSE OUT

New York, June 8 (Canadian Press). — The New York Yankees increased their lead over the second place White Sox to two full games by triumphing over Chicago here yesterday by 4 to 1 in a contest replete with home runs. Ruth hung up No. 18 in the fourth, and following him at bat Gehrig affixed his No. 14. Pat Collins slashed a homer later. Bud Clancy of the Sox hit a four-base blow for the only run of his team.

Al Thomas, Chicago pitcher, met his third defeat of the season. He has won ten games.

The Athletics defeated St. Louis at Philadelphia ,11 to 9, although the Browns gathered 18 hits to Philadelphia's 14 . St. Louis knocked Walberg out of the box in the third inning, making five runs with six hits. The Athletics pounded Gaston for four runs in their half of the third. Wingard relieved Gaston in this inning, and as the latter walked towards his dugout he leaped into the stands and punched a spectator who had been "riding" him. Police and umpires dragged the pitcher out of the stands and escorted him from the field.

Red Cox Win 6-5.

Detroit made a ninth inning bid for victory at Boston, scoring four runs, but failed to overcome Boston's earlier advantage, and the Red Sox won, 6 to 5. The big stick of Gehringer paved the way for the Tigers' rally when the Detroit infielder drove out a home run with two men on base. Wiltse held the visitors to two hits until the ninth, when the opposing batters found him, and he was relieved by Welzer.

Timely hitting gave the Senators a 10-8 victory over the Indians at Washington. In the second inning, singles by Speaker, Ruel, Bluege and Reeves, a base on balls and a homer by Thurston added up to six tallies. A four-run rally followed in the fifth. Cleveland looked dangerous in the ninth when a last-minute rally produced four runs. Three of them were due to Hodapp's home run.

CARUSO STILL SEEN.

NAPLES, Italy, June 4.—The body of Enrico Caruso still can be seen at the Caruso Chapel. About the casket of the once famous singer candles burn, and a flag covers the remains. He has been embalmed by a special process, which it is said, preserves his body as it was in life.

Class of Bobby Jones Stands Him Favorite To Retain National Open Title at Oakmont

NEW YORK, June 8.—Speaking of this year's open, and almost every golfer at some time or other chins a bit about it, one can't overlook this fella Jones.

Robert Tyre has never failed to break 80 in the national classic. At the same time, he has never broken 70 Kick that around for consistency

He never deviates by more than a few strokes over a long period of years from his everyday average of about 73 Once in a great while he permits himself the luxury of dipping into the 60's—and when he does, it usually is a breath-taking splurge such as characterized his world's record thriller at Sunningdale in the British open qualifying.

Scores of the last seven United States Opens lend a remarkable slant to the backbone of this story Neither rain, nor snow, nor wind, nor bunker could stay the remorseless Atlantan. For seven years he has been as steady as a Swiss chronometer—a record unparalleled in golf.

The weakest round Bobby has ever shot in an Open?

Oddly enough, it did not prevent his winning it. It was the second round at Scioto last year, a 79. That 79 is his low water mark for all his championship quests.

He does not like short holes and has a tendency to pull his irons off the line. He messed up the ninth with a wobbly five. On the fifteenth his ball turned over while he was addressing it, and it unruffled him. He mussed up the short seventeenth and collapsed on the home green taking seven strokes to get down. He blew a club length putt for a 5 and capped the climax by rimming the cup coming back.

He pulled himself together gloriously though, and finished with 144, an average of 72.

Here are his scores for the seven famous Opens. You will note his middle rounds are the best. He is inclined to be a bit off, opening and closing. On five occasions he has had sparkling 70's and Fate played him a dirty trick twice when his two lowest cards, 289 and 291, did not win the title!

Davis' Single Scores Wilkie For 8-7 Victory For Keys.

NEW YORK, June 8.—(Canadian Press).—Virgil Davis' single, scoring Harry Wilkie, who had led off with a double, gave Keys an 8 to 7 twelve inning victory over Toronto at Reading yesterday afternoon. Reading used six and Toronto three pitchers in the contest, Freddy Carts finally stopping the Leafs. Dave Barbee hit his third home run on successive days in the first inning. He drove home two runs ahead of him.

Herb Thormahlen bested the team representing his home town in the International League again yesterday and Rochester took the lead in the series at Jersey City. Yesterday's score was 6 to 3. Jersey scored all her runs in the first frame but Rochester kept pecking away at Parks and Buckalew to win the game.

Sensational pitching by Al Mamaux and Jack Bentley gave the Newark club two victories over the Syracuse Stars. The scores were 3 to 2 and 2 to 1. The two wins placed the Newark club in fifth place. Wes Kingdom, Newark shortstop, won the first game with a home run and two-bagger. In the second Bentley pitched invincible ball after the first frame, when the Stars scored their only run. Cliff Lee's two-bagger and his fine fielding featured the second tilt.

BELMONTS WIN OUT IN NINTH

Score Two Runs in Last Frame to Beat Knights 3 to 2.

A SNAPPY BATTLE

A last-minute rally started with two hits and helped out by a couple of errors enabled the Belmont Club to nose out the Knights of Columbus 3 runs to 2 in the best softball game of the season at Central Park last night. The winners went into the last frame a run behind, but got the tieing and winning markers over the plate with nobody out.

The Knights, playing a great defensive game behind steady pitching by Joe Murphy, were in front until the ninth inning jam. The losers pulled off a fast double play in the second frame, and in the sixth, after Murphy had walked the first two batters, a triple killing, Murphy to Lebarr to Rose, saved the situation. For Belmonts, Harrison and Holyman did some fine fielding, while Kane handled eight chances for the Knights.

Both Carruthers for the winners and Murphy for the Knights pitched fine ball.

The Knights scored their pair in the second on safe bunts by Lebarr and Kane, two infield outs and Haskill's error.

Hits by Holyman and Carruthers paved the way for Belmonts' first run in the seventh, and in the ninth singles by Delaheye and Carruthers and errors by Lebarr and Rose won the game for the Belmonts.

GIANTS LOSE OPENING FRAY

Pirates' 9-6 Victory Runs String of Consecutive Wins to 5.

TAKE EARLY LEAD

NEW YORK, June 8.—(Canadian Press).—The Pirates defeated New York by 9 to 6 in the initial fray of a series at Pittsburgh to run their string of consecutive victories over the Giants to five. Grimes started for the visitors and although he was given a two run lead he was not able to hold it as the Pirates went in front by two runs in the first inning. Hornsby and Terry with successive homers tied the score in the third but Paul Waner blasted the spitball hurler off the mound in the fourth to score a run and break the deadlock after which the Pirates were never headed.

The Boston Braves landed on three Cardinal pitchers at St. Louis for fourteen hits, including several extra bases, and won, 12 to 5. Jimmy Ring was taken out after six runs had been scored in the fifth. High got two home runs.

Bunching five hits in the eighth inning enabled the Cubs to score three runs and overhaul the Robins to take the first of a series at Chicago by 7 to 6. Brooklyn batted Root out of the box in the fifth when five runs crossed the plate. The Robins tried hard to score in the ninth and had the bases filled with one out when Butler ended the struggle by hitting into a double play.

Jakie May outpitched Lefty Pruett yesterday and the Reds won the opening game of their home series with Philadelphia, 5 to 1. Both pitchers got away to a bad start but after the first innings settled down to steady work. May let the bases get full in the first inning and Thompson scored Philadelphia's only run while May was throwing Wilson out at first. Three singles off Pruett in the opening frame also gave the Reds a run. May held the visitors to six hits.

SPARKS RIDERS ARE FEATURED IN SHOW

Equestrian Acts Make Strongest Appeal To Lovers of the Circus.

Sparks Circus, coming to Peterborough next Saturday afternoon and night, this season features in its arenic displays the bareback riding acts, which no matter what innovations may be made in the program of the modern circus, America's greatest outdoor amusement, still make the strongest appeal to the millions of lovers of the sawdust ring. In the opinion of many, is just isn't a circus without the riders, any more than it would be without the clowns, and in the old days of the one-ring circus the clown himself was a most important adjunct to the riding feature.

Bareback riding acts have always been identified with the circus, the first great stars being European artists. More than 140 years ago the first bareback rider to perform in this country appeared in Boston, and he introduced the riding act to America. Since then there have been many stars whose names have been inseparably connected with circus history. America has produced many of the greatest riders, though some of these artists, like those with Sparks Circus, simply "have it in their blood," being descended from noted European riders.

The horses—the "ring stock"—used by bareback riders, are known in the vernacular of the white tops as "resin-backs", this name being applied to them for the reason that powdered resin is sprinkled on their backs to give a better footing for the rider. As a rule white horses are chosen for this purpose because the resin will not show on their backs as it would on a bay or black horse.

MILLIONAIRES WIN SOFTBALL GAME

Beat St. Andrew's 11-10 in Hotly Contested League Match.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 8. — The Millionaires and Saint Andrew's put up the finest game of softball seen on the local diamond this year. The game was a real battle from start to finish, ending in a score of 11-10 in favour of the Millionaires.

Two decisions of the plate umpire were heatedly protested—one which was given in favour of St. Andrew's and one which was given against them. The one in St. Andrew's favour was the allowing of a foul catch which the majority of the fans claim was picked off the ground, the catcher claiming that his hand was on the ground and the ball hit his mit and not the ground. The other disputed decision was in calling a St. Andrew's runner out at the home plate. If the umpire gave a wrong decision here it was clearly the fault of the crowd and not the umpire. Fans at these games, and particularly so last night, want to roost on the line between the plate and third. The umps, it seemed, was trying to clear this line for the man coming home, and did not see the man's feet touch the plate before the catcher touched him with the ball. It was a dandy slide. The line-up was as follows:

Millionaires — Darling, p; Bush, c; Davidson, 1b; Weston, 2b; Ferris, 3b; Free, st; Callaghan, rf; Osborne, cf; Mitchell, lf.

St. Andrew's — Storey, p; Fox, c; Bailey, 1b; R. Blakely, 2b; W. Blakely, 3b; Little st; Bland, rf; Dunk, cf; Irwin, lf.

Umpires—Farrell and Daniels.

CUP DONATED FOR LONG SWIM

Grove Boys To Race Across the Lake For Strickland Trophy.

ONE MILE ACROSS.

A new feature will be introduced at the Grove boys' annual regatta at Lakefield this year by way of a swim across the lake. A fine loving cup has been presented by Harry P. Strickland, one of the originals, who it will be remembered made the swim from Lakefield to Peterborough some 20 years ago in record time.

It is nearly a mile across the lake at the Grove and no mean swim for a boy.

Mr. Strickland has always shown a keen interest in the Grove school, being one of the original boys under the late Mr. Sparham Sheldrake, and has on former occasions donated medals for swimming.

Mr. Strickland says every boy should be taught resuscitation from drowning and better still expert swimming and such calamities as Balsam Lake would not be chronicled.

He says that Mr. Sheldrake always insisted on every boy learning to swim and took every means to rid boys of cowardice in the water by personally being present at all swimming times and he has never known a boy from the school that did not succeed in learning to swim fearlessly and well.

Judging from the interest now taken at the Grove, Mr. MacKenzie has always expressed his pleasure that the useful art is still well developed and encouraged.

The race will no doubt create a keen interest all round and show the stuff the Grove boys are made of.

It's the gangplank that extends right into fairyland—the only fairyland in the heart of the ambitious girl—the land where dreams come true— Hollywood! Famous Players Canadian Corporation are making it so delightfully easy.

Hollywood of the movies— Hollywood of fashion, beauty and interesting studios, with its colourful movie colony, its wide, well-shaded boulevards and the magical charm of artists, writers, directors—what girl has not longed to go there? What girl will not thrill at the announcement made by Famous Players Canadian Corporation of their intention to conduct a "Screen Opportunity Contest" throughout the Province of Ontario during the week of June 18th?

This contest is one of the greatest opportunities ever offered a Canadian girl. The qualifications are beauty of face, figure, poise, personality, carriage and general appearance, consistent with the characteristics of a motion picture star.

Theatres

AT THE REGENT.

"BLUE EAGLE" ACTION FAST AND FURIOUS — O'BRIEN STARRED.

New Fox Film Is Tale of Sea and Big City Gang Fued from Beaumont Story.

Two of the screen's most popular players will be seen together again when George O'Brien and Janet Gaynor, Fox Films headliners, open a three-day engagement in "The Blue Eagle" at the Regent Theatre on Thursday.

O'Brien is cast as George D'Arcy, a fightirig wardman, while Janet is sweet and enticing as Rose Cooper, sweetheart of the ward.

Although O'Brien had won distinction long before he appeared with Miss Gaynor in "The Johnstown Flood," film critics were a unit in declaring that he did some of his finest work with the little Philadelphian in that great release.

Miss Gaynor, it will be recalled, was cast as Ann Burger, the girl who made the wild ride against the breaking dam.

In "The Blue Eagle," a John Ford production based upon Gerald Beaumont's dramatic story of land and sea, "The Lord's Referee," both Geo. and Janet are called upon to give the best that is in them.

Critics who have previewed this release claim that these young favourites contribute the finest characterizations of their careers.

It is a story of two gang leaders and a girl, and the action switching rapidly from the wards of New York to the decks of Uncle Sam's battlecraft during the World War, is fast and furious at certain stages of the development.

Father Joe, as portrayed by Robert Edeson, veteran character actor, is one of those kindly disposed parish arbiters who always shoulders the other fellow's burdens and carries his own uncomplainingly.

He settles the feud in the end and Director Ford, with his broad human touches, has made him intensely human.

Others in the cast are Margaret Livingston, David Butler, Ralph Sipperly, Harry Tembrook, Lew Short, Jerry Madden and others.

W.M.S. ELECTS

Miss Alison Cameron of Peterborough, Library Secretary, reported just one call during the year, for a box of books, suitable for children. In the discussion which followed, it was suggested that the offices of Glad Tiding, of Literature and of Library Secretary be combined, especially in smaller centres.

Mrs. E. E. Cox of Peterborough, Press Secretary, reported sending various reports to the Provincial offices, also inserting notices in the press and writing several letters.

Miss Gertrude Harvey of Cobourg, Exchange and Life Member Secretary, read correspondence from the Provincial Secretary with regard to her department, also a letter of thanks from the South Porcupine Hospital, acknowledging receipt of the electric plate sent.

In the absence of Mrs. J. Rorke of Norwood, convenor of the nominating committee, the report was then read by Mrs. J. R. Eakins of Millbrook.

Mrs. D. Ewart of Cobourg, re-elected to the office of president, spoke in grateful terms to the members, asking for their support and co-operation throughout the coming year.

The time and place of the next annual meeting were left over for consideration by the executive.

The report of the committee on resolutions was presented by the convenor, Mrs. McCullough of Colborne, who expressed thanks to all who had helped in any way to make the convention a success; to the managers of St. Paul's Church, to the organist, soloist and choir, to those providing beautiful flowers for decorations, to the ladies who supplied refreshments, to the hostesses for their entertainment, and to the two special speakers, Mrs. Kannawin and Miss Dickson.

Mrs. G. F. Clarke of Brighton pronounced the closing words of the annual meeting, suggesting as a slogan for this year, the words: "Willingly More Service," as following out the abbreviated "W.M.S." of the organization. The closing prayer was offered by Mrs. William Hume of Campbellford.

The president, Mrs. D. Ewart of Cobourg, during the morning session, took occasion to make a few remarks on the assistance that may be given in the work by minister's wives interested in the endeavors of the W.M.S. and hoped that such assistance would be forthcoming in the ensuing year.

HORSE MUST BE GIVEN PASTURE

Rest For Month Ordered By the Humane Society Inspector.

MAY BE DESTROYED.

Humane Society Inspector R. C. Smith yesterday returned to its owner, a farmer in North Monaghan, a 22-year-old horse which the society had taken under its care, with instructions that the animal has to be put on pasture for a month, during which it has not to be put in harness.

Acting on a complaint received by the Society, Mr. Smith this week visited the farm on which the animal was being used and found it in a terrible condition. Two great sores were to be seen on its back and an unsightly wound on the shoulder, while the horse was in a generally emaciated condition. Mr. Smith at once removed the harness from the animal and led it to a livery stable in the city. The owner is in rather poor circumstances; consequently the Society has been loath to order the immediate destruction of the horse. After the expiry of the month of grace which has been granted, the horse will again be inspected and if there is no sign of improvement, the officer of the Society considers that he will have no other alternative than to order its destruction.

THE CHEMISTRY OF INTESTINAL DIGESTION

As little by little the food from the stomach enters the small intestine it is drop by drop, mixed with bile which enters the intestine just below the exit from the stomach. The mixture of food coming from the stomach is in an acid condition, having been made so by the hydrochloric acid of the gastric juice.

No digestion can take place in the intestine unless an alkaline change take place, and Nature supplies such alkali in the form of bile. The bile is secreted by the liver and is really made out of waste products from the body which are thuy thrown back into the alimentary canal to assist in the food's digestion. Bile itself has no effect upon the food except to change it to an alkaline condition. This it is sometimes unable to do because the stomach has secreted too much gastric juice and the normal acidity, of one-half of one per cent. has been increased because of the use of wrong foods, condiments, alcoholic drinks, etc.

If the bile cannot be produced in large enough quantities to counteract this over-acidity, the immediate effect will be the formation of intestinal gas because of the improper mixture between the alkaline bile and the acid gastric juice. This is the reason why you often start to have intestinal gas within a few minutes after eating. If such chemical battles continue for a long time, with the acid juices always winning you can expect to develop inflammation of the upper portion of the small intestine.

This first section of the intestine is called the duodenum, and when it becomes inflamed the disorder is called "duodenitis." From such "itis" or inflammation, intestinal ulcers readily develop.

Those whose intestinal assimilation is very poor always have an acid condition of the intestine in place of the normal alkaline. Those of the bilious temperament do not assimilate their food because the bile is retained in the liver and does not flow freely into the intestines. If the proper alkalinization does not take place, the other digestive ferments of the small intestine can not work upon the food. If the stomach digestion has been perfect and the bile is properly mixed with the digested food, the other digestive juices of the intestines can get in their work. There is one kind that further changes the proteins into peptones, another ferment which chemically digests the starches, and still another which converts fats into a soapy-like substance which can be assimilated. Rennin is also present in the small intestine, and acts upon milk which has not been completely digested in the stomach.

The whole alimentary tract is a great chemical laboratory and each chemical agent can do its work properly only if certain dietetic rules are observed. If you, day after day, insist upon mixing protein foods with those containing a large amount of starch, you cannot expect your digestion to be perfect, and the result will be more biliousness, intestinal gas, coated tongue, pains in the stomach and intestines and all of the other attendant symptoms which come with injudiciou eating.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

HOMESICK

I thought that homesick meant to be
Away from home, across the sea,
Or 'way off on a railroad train
To Manitoba or to Maine,
I thought that homesick was to leave
The place you live, and grieve and grieve,
I thought you really had to roam,
That homesick meant away from home.

But here I am, in my own bed,
My own chintz curtains overhead,
My own bright carpet on the floor,
My own red rocker by the door.
Outside I see the same green grass,
Outside I see the neighbors pass,
And yet I'm just the lonesomest
That anybody ever guessed.

You see, Aunt Molly's taken worse,
And so they left me with a nurse,
And kissed me twice, and said be good,
Hurried as fast as people could
When someone brought a telegram,
And they're away, and here I am,
And her hat's gone, and so is his,
And now I know what homesick is.

For homesick isn't being far
Across the sea, like some folks are;
It isn't when you're east or west
You really get the homesickest.
It's when you're home, but home like this,
And—well, when lots of things you miss;
It's when you're home, like me today
And Mother and Father miles away.

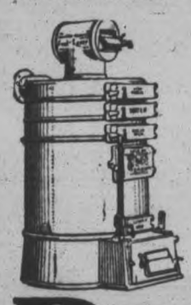
"Maintains an even Temperature of 75 degrees"



MRS. W. G. NEWMAN, 430 SOUDAN AVE., TORONTO, ONTARIO, writes:

We are very pleased indeed with our Pease Mogul Boiler, and we can offer nothing but highest praise for our heating equipment. There is nothing like it. We can keep all the house an even temperature of 75 degrees. We could get it much higher than that, but that is what I call comfortable. It is so clean, to what any other heating system is. We are very pleased with it in every way.

EAST DURHAM W. I. MEETING AT MILLBROOK

Mrs. T. A. Skitch, of Bailieboro, Is Re-elected President.

REPORTS SHOW PROGRESS.

Various Branches Have Done Great Deal During Past Year.

MILLBROOK, June 7. — The annual meeting of the East Durham Women's Institute was held in the town hall, Millbrook, on Monday, June 6, at 2 p.m., with about forty delegates in attendance, including representatives from all of the eight branches, with the exception of Beth any and Charlecote.

The president, Mrs. T. A. Skitch of Bailieboro was in the chair, and in her address, after thanking the various branches for their helpful co-operation during the year, urged using the suggested topics from the official programmes each month at the regular meetings. "No Institute should exist simply for the purpose of making money; remember our motto "For Home and Country" makes service our objective."

The president also commended highly the charitable work which each branch carries on as part of its regular activities, and reminded the delegates that "we are one of 1050 Institutes with a total membership of 35,000 in the province of Ontario.

The need and helpfulness of each member feeling the obligation to enter readily into the discussions either of the topic or business items at the monthly meetings, and the aid this would be to the ofiicers, was given due emphasis. "No unkind criticism is a rule in all Institute work," was the President's reminder, "and this should make it easy for any member to prepare a paper, or talk, or express her opinion on any matter coming up for attention."

The recent visit of the official delegate, Mrs. Lowe of Toronto to the district, and the help she has given when addressing the various branches, was mentioned by Mrs. Skitch.

Disposal of Funds.

After the reading of the minutes by the secretary, Mrs. J. R. Eakins, there was considerable discussion regarding the disposal of funds in the district treasury, amounting to $50. Last year the annual meeting decided to send $25 to the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, and $25 to the Port Hope Hospital; the new handbook, however, contains regulations forbidding money received in grants from being used for other than Institute purposes special funds having to be raised to help outside objects.

Later in the proceedings it was moved and seconded that this money be divided equally between the eight branches each to use it for either charitable purposes locally or in connection with a picnic outing to promote sociability and better acquaintance among the members branches in fairly close proximity to each other to unite for such a gathering. At the next annual meeting a report will be made of the way in which this money was expended.

The reports of the different branches were read by the secretary and including the following items all of a most encouraging nature

Elizabethville reported 19 members, 10 meetings held, total attendance of 116. The amount raised during the year was 143.78; expenditures $28.88; balance on hand $114.90. May helpful activities in aid of local families, and projects, and financial and other assistance sent outside municipality, were included in the report from this branch.

Bailieboro has 100 members, nine meetings were held, total attendance 113. Five papers had been given at the regular sessions, $297.36 raised, deducting expenses amounting to $114.89, the balance on hand is $182.47.

Clothing and money for needy families in the vicinity, and help in improving the pavement, and other municipal undertakings, were among the activities of this, one of the largest and most prosperous branches, in the district.

Membership Reports.

Millbrook reported 42 members, 11 meetings held, attendance 204. A piano had been purchased for the Town Hall at a cost of $350, with $4.50 insurance on same, and there is now on hand $339.85. Flowers have been bought recently to place around the Soldiers' Memorial, this being the peculiar care of the Institute each season. Fruit was sent to the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, and Christmas cheer given needy families. Several of the branches reported the last two items as part of their regular budget each year.

Cavan Institute, has 58 members, held 9 regular meetings, with an attendance of 208. A total of $171.88 was raised during the year, $107.12 expended, leaving a balance on hand of $64.76. The Institute gave $8.00 in special prizes at the school fair, donated $10.00 to the Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, gave $10.00 to the local Community Hall, and also dishes costing $15.80, the free use of the hall during the domestic science course prompted the gifts. Fruit and jellies were sent to the Sick Children's Hospital, a needy family helped locally, and fruit and flowers were sent to sick and shut-in members and others in the village and vicinity.

The domestic science course had 34 members enrolled, with an average attendance of 30, and had proved most helpful.

Charlecote reported 49 members, 10 meetings, held, attendance 183, $171.59 raised, $131.94 expended, with a balance on hand of $39.65.

Among other activities, this branch, the latest organized in the district, donated $25.00 to five schools in its district, and a similar sum to the church at Morrish.

Garden Hill branch built, and maintains, the local Community Hall, raised $225.87, expended $135.80, and has on hand $90.07. It assists the school fair each year, conducts the booth on the grounds, and is actively helping the community, and other outside interests and institutions in many ways.

Mount Pleasant reported 21 members, 13 meetings, attendance 140, 7 papers prepared, and 2 debates held. It raised $161.18, expended $146.02, and has on hand $15.16. Like the other branches its activities include local improvements, and help for outside interests,

Bethany reported raising $469.82, with expenses of $228.25, and a balance of $241.56. This branch pays for the oiling of the streets, installed the street lights, maintains same, paying caretaker and replacing breakages, besides supplying the gasoline, alcohol, etc., required. It built the fence around the Town Hall this year, had the fire-bell rescued from some barn where it had been left after the fire which destroyed the hall some years ago, and again put in place for service, planted shrubs and flowers around the hall, and had a bee when the grounds were raked and put in proper shape. Furniture and other household necessities were supplied a Welsh family recently settled in the village, which came out under the British Empire Settlement Immigration scheme.

Financial Report.

The financial report for the district was given by Mrs. Eakins and showed $78.95 on hand at the beginning of the year; county grant of $25; legislative grant of $34.00, making a total of $144.94; the expenses include the secretary's salary of $25.00, and amounted to $73.81, leaving on hand $71.13. Each branch was reminded to pay the $1.50 towards the expenses of the delegate from Toronto, the latter being entertained in Millbrook during the time she is visiting in the district, and going from here to the various points each day. It was decided to continue this arrangement, and to refund to any branch anything over the $1.50 which her entertainment had entailed.

The tax of 15 cents per member asked by the Federated Women's Institute came up for discussion, the unanimous vote being to continue under the superintendency of Mr. Putnam, and refuse the tax since the branches are not under the jurisdiction of the Federated organization.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. T. A. Skitch, Bailieboro.

Vice-President — Mrs. R. J. McKnight, Millbrook.

2nd Vice-Pres.— Mrs. Ira Lowes, Mount Pleasant.

3rd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. (Dr.) Beatty, Garden Hill.

Secretary-Treasurer — Mrs. J. R. Eakins, Millbrook.

District Director—Mrs. A. Muldrew, Elizabethville.

Auditors—Mrs. H. A. Earle and Mrs. A. J. Henderson, Millbrook.

District Representatives: Miss Jackson, Bailieboro; Mrs. R. J. McKnight, Millbrook; Bethany (to be heard from); Elizabethville, Miss Viola Blanchard; Garden Hill, Mrs. H. Gardiner; Mount Pleasant, Mrs. Norman Fee; Charlecote, Mrs. Davidson; Cavan, Mrs. Ida Keegan.

Under the head of new business it was decided, on motion, and after considerable discussion, that each branch be urged to send a delegate to the annual convention in Toronto, and no district delegate will be necessary.

The suggestion of Mrs. Lowe on her official visit, that the Institute provide chaperones for the local dances came up for discussion, and also the need of electing a lady member on the trustee boards of the schools, and forming a "home and school" committee to look after sanitary conditions, and help in other ways, with school conditions and needs. It was felt, while a real need existed in these matters, each branch knew local conditions best, and should make its own decisions on these vital matters.

The local branch served tea during the social hour at the close, Mrs. Lowes and Mrs. J. D. Hunter moving and seconding the hearty vote of thanks for the hospitality extended. The gathering was dismissed with the National Anthem.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

The reader will please let his mind's eye picture a man standing erect, with outstretched hand, crying aloud, "Excelsior." This meaning to him, and those that hear him, a reaching out after higher attainments in all worthy things pertaining to life. Again, picture two men, one of them crying out authoritatively to the other these words: "Agitate man, agitate." This meaning for the individual addressed, to rouse the minds of others to action, not by aggravation, but by continued, persevering persuasion and argument. There are two lessons of great value to be learned from the above picture, for both young and old. It is ours to ingrait the meaning of the above picture into our very being, and we will not only be blessed ourselves, but bring blessing to our fellow-man.—M. T. Butcher. 1d-134-6090

W.M.S. HEARS FINE ADDRESSES

Mrs. W. M. Kannawin and Miss Agnes Dickson Give Talks.

AT EVENING SESSION.

Last evening's session of the annual meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial W.M.S., held in St. Paul's Church, was marked by two fine addresses, delivered respectively by Mrs. W. M. Kannawin of Toronto and Miss Agnes Dickson of China.

Rev. William Allan presided, giving the prayer and Scripture reading, also extending to the ladies the greetings of the Presbyterial, in place of Rev. Mr. Riddell, of Millbrook, unavoidably absent. There was a fairly large attendance, the delegates, eighty-six in number, being supplemented by people from the city. Mr. M. B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., officiated at the organ, and the full-robed choir, in fine voice, sang an anthem during the progress of the evening.

"The Church," said Rev. Mr. Allan, in his words of welcome, "has received a mandate rfom highest heaven to carry the glad tidings to the uttermost ends of the earth, and she is at her best at home when she is at her best abroad."

Greetings from the city were eloquently voiced by Rr. R. R. Hall, K.C., who spoke of the unbounded pleasure with which he extended the welcome of the city to the delegates. "The work you are engaed in,' he said, "is one that must be inspired by a love of humanity and a high conception of the duty you owe to your fellow-men. At the time the command, 'Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every living creature' was given, it was difficult to carry it out, but modern means of transportation have changed conditions to a great extent, and the progress of the radio will soon make it possible to transmit the human voice to the uttermost parts of the globe. It is not so hard now for missionaries to implement this command of Christ, when the time seems to be upon us now of which the poet dreamed when he spoke of the age when a 'universal tongue would fill the air,' and words be spoken in a universal speech."

Secretary's Report.

The report of the corresponding secretary, Miss Gertrude Harvey, of Cobourg, was also given at last night's meeting, showing 24 auxiliaries in the Presbyterial, eight of whom are in minority groups, and there are three Young Women's Auxiliaries. The memebrship totals 655, an increase of 136 over last year, with a decrease of 21 in the total of 45 members in the Y. W. Auxiliaries, making a total membership of 700, with an increase in the year of 115 members. The average attendance was 366 in the auxiliaries and 46 in the Y. W. Auxiliaries. The thank-offering totalled $1,684.11, with remittances to the Presbyterial treasurer of $4,814.77 from the auxiliaries and $190 from the Y. W. Auxiliaries, making a total of $5,004.77. The sum of $4,482.00 was allocated to this Presbyterial, which went over the top by $322.77 in its remittances.

Miss Harvey also gave a brief review of the work of the departmental secretaries, treated of more fully in this morning's meeting.

Inspirational Address.

An inspirational address of a high order was then given by Mrs. W. M. Kannawin, of Toronto, who spoke in the afternoon of her association some years ago with this Presbyterial, when she came to Omemee as a bride, and was interested in its endeavours then.

In 1876, said Mrs. Kannawin, the women of Knox church, in Toronto formed the first Auxiliary, the nucleus of the present huge society of missionary endeavor, with their wonderful motto in "The whole wide world for Christ." And year by year since that time, the ideals of the organization have been beckoning to further and renewed achievement. Since the war years, it has been true that a realization has come to the members of the relation of individual effort to the life of the society, the life of their land and the life of the world they live in. "I believe that is when the men and women of the church march side by side onward that we will be able to win the world for Christ. And I sometimes think that we women forget our duty as mothers when we do not insist on more religious education being given in the Public schools, and on the teaching staff of those schools being men and women who are worthy of the great work of instructing our children as they should be instructed."

The speaker went on to outline the three-fold work of the society, in its evangelistic, educational and medical aspects, and to emphasize in all its endeavors the constant need of prayer. She spoke of the necessity of inculcating the very highest type of ideals in the new Canadians coming to our shores and went on to speak of the work being carried on in the church's schoolhouse, where education and home life is supplemented by a thorough grounding in the Bible.

Referring to the 1,438 branches of the society in Canada, with 41,533 members and 1,248 preaching stations, she spoke of the need of new members for increasing endeavor ,and went on to outline some of the work being carried on in Canada and in the foreign fields, concluding her fine discourse with a quotation entitled "Broken Lilies," with the closing lines, "Lord ,at Thy feet I yield my whole life's being—life's broken lilies to uplift for Thee.'

Miss Agnes Dickson's Address

Miss Agnes Dickson, a returned missionary from China, gave an informative talk outlining the work being done among the Chinese residents in Canada. Forty-five years ago, she said, about 2,000 Chinese men were brought to the Dominion to engage in construction work for the Canadian Pacific Railway. In the interval since, over twenty million dollars has been paid by Chinese in head tax to the Government of Canada. Now there are 40,000 Chinese in the Dominion, about 750 of whom are women. The Canadian imigration law, altered three years ago, now forbids any Chinese entering the country except students and bona fide merchants, so that the character of the missionary work among Chinese will gradually change as time goes on.

Although these people are intensely patriotic, they have a great affection for the land of their adoption, and the speaker mentioned several instances of returning Chinese who had voiced sentiments of gratitude to the country they were leaving to return to their native land.

She spoke of the Sunday School work carried on among the men, for many years done in a desultory fashion, but now increasing in vigor, so that each year conferences are carried on between the Chinese converts and their teachers, discussing problems that arise in the work. A conference of this type wil be held at Thanksgiving time this year in London, Ontario.

Many Chinese are returning to their native land, year by year, six hundred going from Toronto alone between the months of October and December of last year, and many of these are enabled, through missionary work carried on here among them, to take back to their own land a fresh viewpoint and a consecrated influence that will have its effect on their countrymen.

Miss Dickson also spoke of the work being done among Chinese women, of whom 150 are located in Victoria alone and about 300 in the city of Vancouver. In Ontario, there are 120 of these women, with about 60 in Quebec, and several groups in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

At the close of yesterday afternoon's session, a service commemorative of the late Miss Jean Dulmage, a missionary of Hong Kong, was held, presided over by Miss Dickson.

New York Trading Shifts; Early Gains Are Wiped Out

NEW YORK, June 8 (Canadian Press). — Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment imparted widespread irregularity to to-day's stock market. The firm opening was followed around noon by a heavy selling movement which wiped out many of the early gains, but prices were headed upward again by early afternoon as a pool started energetic movements for a rise in some of the oil and automotive shares. Reduction of the call money rate from 4½ per cent. to 4 per cent. stimulated the afternoon recovery.

Seagrams and Nickel Lead Trading At Toronto

TORONTO, Ont., June 8 (Canadian Press). — Seagram's and International Nickel developed into strong and active leaders on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, both registering considerable gains. Nickel climbed 2½ at 69⅝, after touching 71 during the session, and Seagram went to a high mark of 27, 2½ higher. Hiram Walker and Northern Bakeries were traded in very actively, but tended lower. Walker lost a quarter at 29¾. Brazilian was one of the frequent firm spots, gaining a half at 155¼, and Cosmos was up a point at 25½. City Dairy, Alcohol, and Arnold all gained slightly.

Mine Exchange Firm; Quebec Stock Leaders

TORONTO, Ont., June 8 (Canadian Press). — The market as a whole held firm in active dealings on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, though occasional recessions were shown. Quebec stocks were leaders and firm, Laval Quebec advancing ¾ at 28¾ and Duprat climbing 1¼ at 11½. Castle Trethewey firmed 1½ at 84½, and Corona was up 2¼ at 17. Vipond firmed four at 109 and Amulet two at 202. Tough Oakes Burnside softened 2½ at 53.

European Crops Poor; Wheat Advances Sharply

CHICAGO, June 8 (Canadian Press). — Unfavourable European crop reports led early to-day to sharply higher prices for wheat. Advices from Italy, Poland, Jugo-Slavia, Czecho-Slovakia, and Hungary all told of deterioration. Opening unchanged to ¾c higher, wheat soon scored a decided general advance.

Corn was relatively weak, starting unchanged to ⅛ cent off, and later undergoing a material setback all around. Oats were easy. Provisions tended upward.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 145½, September 144½. Corn, July 101⅝, September 104⅞. Oats, July 49⅝, September 48.

C. N. R. Bond Issue Bought By Canadians

NEW YORK, June 8 (Canadian Press).—Dow, Jones, and Company's ticker to-day carried the report that the sixty-five million dollar issue of thirty-year 4½ per cent. bonds of the Canadian National Railways had been awarded to a Canadian syndicate of bankers, headed by the Bank of Montreal and the Dominion Securities Corporation. Bids closed at noon on Monday but announcement of the successful bidder was deferred owing to the closeness of the bids.

FAMILY REUNION AT CARTWRIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. E. Benson Among Descendants of David Johnston.

ABOUT 100 PRESENT.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Benson of 59 George Street have returned from Cartwright, where they took part in the first anniversary celebrations of the Johnston family reunion. Mrs. Benson is one of the descendants of David Johnston of Cartwright, who was one of the pioneers of Cartwright Township, and Mr. Benson is president of the Johnston Association, being elected to that office at its inception last year.

At the initial celebration there were over 150 descendants and relatives in atetndance, but owing to the inclement weather which prevailed at this year's function there were only in the neighborhood of 100 present. As it was, however, the contingent from Toronto numbered 50, and there were representatives from many other parts of Ontario. Sports were held outdoors; indood games were played and community singing enjoyed when the weather became unfavorable.

It had been the original intention to hold the event on July 1 every year, but the gathering of this year was fixed for an earlier date on account of the Dominion Diamond Jubilee celebrations falling on July 1 and 2.

A history of the family and founder has been prepared by a grandson of David Johnston and will soon be in the hands of the various descendants.

The family reunion will be held next year at Bowmanville on July 1.

CANADA'S NOTE

crossing privilege has been enjoyed by citizens of both countries with no suggestion that the privilege would be withdrawn.

Objection to "Immigrant."

Canada's note then takes exception to the application of the term "immigrant" to one who is permanently domiciled in Canada and who enters the United States only for eight or ten hours a day. This application gives the term a "special sense in contradiction to customary usage," the note suggests. "No other instance is known in which persons who retain their full domicile and citizenship in one country are, at the same time, treated as immigrants to another country." Status of border commuters which existed prior to the issue of the United States order was "eminently fair and reasonable."

Going on to deal with non-native Canadians involved, the note says that it is for these, "numbering probably between four and six thousand that His Majesty's Canadian Government feels especial concern." The border ruling, having promised a "reasonable time" in which non-native Canadians may obtain quota visas, the ruling specifies six months,says the note, for those who have to secure quota immigration visas. Six months can hardly be regarded as a "reasonable time" except, perhaps, in a small number of cases in which the persons' names have for some time been on the waiting list.

No Distinction Made.

"The laws of Canada made no distinction between citizens of Canadian birth and those of foreign birth who have acquired citizenship by domicile or naturalization," says the note. "Unless some modification is made now or later, the effect of this order will undoubtedly be to exclude from the United States a very large majority of those four to six thousand Canadian citizens who will be unable to secure quota visas before December 1, 1927." The note points out that the number affected is a very small proportion of the population either of Canada or of the United States, but is a very substantial percentage of the population of the Windsor area, especially when the dependents are taken into account. "In the Windsor area," says the note, "the sudden dislocation of the long established relations could hardly fail to have grave results."

In conclusion, the note appreciates the earnest desire of the United States Government "so clearly manifested in discussions which have taken place on this subject, to preserve by practical means the traditional friendly relations between the United States and Canada."

Enthusiam Shown At Northumberland Liberal Convention

Amended Constitution, To Cover Union of Two Constituencies, Adopted—Amendment Calling For Committee on Patronage Defeated.

FRED J. SLADE, OF CAMPBELLFORD SUCCEEDS ROBERTSON AS PRESIDENT

New Executive Appointed, With Two Members From Each of Sixteen Divisions—Prominent Members of Party Give Addresses.

WARKWORTH, June 9.—What the Liberal Convention at Warkworth, yesterday afternoon, lacked in numbers, was more than made up for by the enthusiasm of those present.

Dr. Robertson, in opening the convention, stated that he had offered his resignation to the executive, but that body though it better for him to continue in office until the convention would decide on his resignation. "I am always for the good of the party, and that is why I am holding on," he said.

The secretary not being present, F. J. Wilson of Cobourg was appointed secretary pro tem.

T. F. Hall, K.C., of Cobourg, then presented the following report on constitution:

Whereas the former constituencies of East Northumberland and West Northumberland, prior to the Redistribution Bills were separate constituencies, and whereas they are now united into one constituency for Provincial purposes, and whereas, with the exception of the Township of South Monaghan, they are united for Federal purposes, your committee, appointed by the executive of the association, beg to report as follows:

1.—The Association will be known as the Liberal Association of Northumberland.

2.—The officers will consist of: Honorary Presidents, President, Vice President, Secretary-Treasurer, and an Executive Committee.

3.—The Executive Committee shall comprise the above mentioned officers together with two vice presidents, one lady and one gentleman, from each of the districts comprising the constituency. The districts shall be: South Monaghan Township, North Hamilton Township, and South Hamilton Township, Alnwick Township, North Haldimand Township, and South Haldimand Township, Cramahe Township, Percy Township, Seymour Township, Brighton Township, Murray Township, Hastings Village, Town of Campbellford, Brighton Village, Colborne Village, and the Town of Cobourg.

4.—The various officers shall be elected annually at a meeting of the Association called for the purpose.

5.—The Executive shall be called together from time to time by the president when matters affecting the Association require consideration.

6—Matters affecting patronage shall be in the hands of the sitting member or the defeated candidate as the case may be, but your committee strongly recommends that he should be guided by the best interests of the Liberal party in the district affected.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) Thomas F. Hall, W. G. Robertson, J. G. Wilson, D. W. Douglas.

Amendment Defeated

Mr. Harding: "Everything seems to be all right with the exception of patronage; there should be a committee to act with the defeated candidate." An amendment calling for a committee to act with the defeated candidate, when put to the meeting, was snowed under, and the recommendations of the committee as stated above carried amid applause. Sam Clark, in speaking against the amendment said: "I don't know what Mr. Fraser thinks—and I don't much care. I stated at one executive meeting, that I did not favor this advisory board. A member is going to do what he thinks is in the best interests of the people. I would not appoint an advisory board; I would leave it in the hands of your executive to volunteer advice." Mr Fraser: "Where are you going to pick two men out of East and West Northumberland without a lot of jealousy?"

Officers Elected

The convention then proceeded with the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

Hon. President—Sam Clark.

President—Fred Slade.

Vice President—Mrs. S. D. Dudley.

Secretary-Treas.—John Morrow.

Executive. — South Monaghan, Harry Dawson and Mrs. Barnard; Hamilton Township (north part) George Henderson and Mrs. Chas. Cole; South Hamilton, W. J. Jibb and Mrs Albert Harper; Haldimand (south), Harry Burnham and Miss Murray; North Haldimand, Arthur McFeggins and Mrs. Albert Nill; Alnwick Township Robert Varcoe and Mrs. Bert Healstead; Percy

BRITISH WOULD HAVE WON WAR WITHOUT U. S.

Field Marshal Haig Says Result Might Have Been Delayed, However.

GRATEFUL TO ALLIES.

Deplores National Tendency To Belittle Part Played By Britain.

LONDON, June 9 (Canadian Press).—The belief that the British armies would eventually have gained victory in the World War even if the United States had not intervened, is held by Field Marshal Earl Haig, Commander in Chief of the British Expeditionary forces in France and Flanders from 1915 to 1919. Addressing the British Empire Service League last night he strongly protested against what he described as a national tendency to belittle the part played by Great Britain in winning the war. He referred gratefully to the share of the Allies but contended that although without United States intervention the result might have been the same.

C.G.E. WORKERS FORMING CLUB

Social and Athletic Activities To Be Handled By New Organization.

PICNIC FIRST EFFORT.

A number of employees of the local factory of the Canadian General Electric Company, Limited, feeling that in Peterborough there is a decided want in the matter of organized recreation, have formed an association composed entirely of fellow workers which will be known as the Canadian General Social and Athletic Club. Though the organization is still in its primary stages, so popular is the idea that already over eleven hundred employees have joined.

The main objective of the club is the encouragement of any form of sport in which groups of members may be interested, and also to promote social and educational relationships among its members. It is expected that in a short period all sports under the direction of the club will be held within one great enclosure and so further develop the friendly nature of the organization. All sports will be handled by members interested in a particular sphere, the duties of the executive lying in supplying equipment to the various groups and giving suitable trophies where leagues are formed.

The first effort of the new club will be a picnic to be held in Cobourg on June 25. A special train has been arranged for and the local factory will be closed the entire day so that everybody will have a chance to attend.

The first meeting of the club will be held in the Canadian Legion Hall next Tuesday, June 14, when the constitution will be submitted to the members for adoption.

In order that every department may have equal representation on the executive board, the entire factory has been divided into zones with approximately one hundred members to each zone. Each zone is entitled to two nominations with one to be elected.

The following temporary executive has been appointed to officiate until the regular election of officers:

E. Hardie—President.
H. Foster—Secretary.
S. O. Shields—Eng. Dept.
N. E. Crowe—Cost Dept.
H. Turner—Inspection Dept.

Will Be Represented At Naval Conference

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(Canadian Press.)— Canada has notified the United States Government that the Dominion will be represented at the naval limitation conference at Geneva.

Responding to President Coolidge's invitation, which was addressed to the British Empire, Canada will send Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, to Geneva, where he will join the British delegation as a minister of the crown specially representing Canada.

Mr. Lapointe is at present enroute home from a visit to Australia via Europe.

NO UNEASINESS FELT IN PEKING

Felt That Internal Disorders Among Chinese Has Passed Over.

KEPT WELL POLICED.

PEKING, June 9. — (Associated Press). — Last week's uneasiness among foreigners in Peking has considerably abated. The city is orderly and well policed. It is felt that there is a minimum danger from internal disorders since the anti-foreignism such as existed in South China has never gained a real foothold here. Although some of the British residents are moving into the Legation quarters and the Japanese are sending many women and children home, the Americans and other foreigners generally are sticking to normal life in the city.

Brigadier-General Smedley D. Butler has gone to Tientsin, where the United States marine force yesterday was disembarking after its trip from Shanghai. Although it is known that the United States military authorities are in favor of removing the Peking Legation to the coast and that the diplomatic representatives are in disagreement with this, feeling that such a move might be misinterpreted, advices from Washington received here indicate that it is felt there that a wholesale evacuation of Peking would be necessary only if the situation should threaten to trap foreigners as in the Boxer uprising of 1900, fear of which is small.

Negotiations Continue.

Negotiations for a combination of North and South China military leaders with peace as its goal are still in progress, while the military situation has reached a stalemate. Marshal Chang Tso Lin, the Manchurian warlord, General Chang Kai Shek, the moderate nationalist generalissimo, and Yen Hsi Shan, military governor of the Province of Shansi, are still in communication, but nothing further of their plans has been made public.

Observers believe that Chang Tso Lin will remain in Peking for at least several weeks and that when he turns the city over, as is ultimately expected, the process will be peaceable and will be by arrangement among the principal war lords concerned, with little danger of a new Boxer situation, or even of such disorders as took place at Nanking last March.

The various southern armies thus far have shown no disposition to cross the yellow River on the Honan front, being content merely to conciliate their positions south of the river.

Hold Conference.

The northern alliance still holds the southern Shantung border despite Chang Tso Lin's recent announcement that he intended to withdraw all real Manchurians from Shantung, leaving the defence of the province to the Shantungese under Chang Tsung Chang. The latter is now holding a conference with General Sun Chuan Fang, once the defender of Shanghai against the Nationalists. The conference, which is concerned with the further defence of Shantung, is being held at Lincheng.

THE WEATHER

Showers and thunderstorms, and as if we had not had rain in abundance, more is promised. Rainfall last evening, .22. Apparently we did not get the full fury of the storm as it passed northwest of us. There has been little occasion to use the lawn sprinkler this season, as nature has not required any assistance. Straw hats for the men are supposed to be in season on May 24th. They are only commencing to make their appearance now, and the few men who have bravely set the fashion are anxiously looking for others to don the lighter headgear, so they may not be so noticeable.—W. BOARD FAVORS LAYING CHARGE AGAINST EGAN

Opinion Expressed By Commissioner Regarding Certain Parts of Submissions.

ARGUMENT OFFERED.

Should Prosecute Those Who Made False Tax Returns.

MONTREAL, Que., June 9.—(Canadian Press.)—W. M. Egan, former Windsor, Ont., lawyer, connected by evidence before the Royal Customs Commission with a so-called "rat fund" collected from certain export breweries and liquor dealers, should be prosecuted "good and plenty" if the Canadian authorities can lay hands on him. This was the opinion expressed from the bench yesterday by Chief Commissioner J. T. Brown. The Chief Commissioner advocated this when Hon. N. W. Rowell, counsel, was making his submissions in regard to prosecution for criminal offences which, he claims, certain of the Ontario breweries appear to have committed. Commission counsel made the Egan matter the first in his submissions with regard to criminal offences. On the evidence, he asked that the commission find that Egan, while an agent for the Attorney General of Canada accepted money "to do or to refrain from doing" certain things. This constituted a very grave offense, and he felt that the persons who were a party to payments to Egan could not have been ignorant that they were violating the law.

"Was it bribery or blackmail?" Commissioner W. H. Wright asked counsel.

Mr. Rowell replied that he could not say, and he doubted whether it would be wise for the commission to make any pronouncement on that point. When an agent of the government accepted money in return for doing something, it would appear to come under the head of bribery.

"It might be conspiracy to defeat justice," suggested Commissioner Wright.

Matter For Jury.

Mr. Rowell submitted that the offense was a matter for a jury to determine. He thought, however, that the evidence taken should be submitted to the Justice Department with a recommendation that Egan and those who contributed to his fund, be prosecuted. His own opinion was that S. A. Griggs, former president of the Walkerville Brewing Company, should be exempted in view of the frank way in which he had come forward and revealed the story of the payments to Egan.

Chief Commissioner Brown asked why the commission should recommend prosecution of brewers who had paid money to Egan.

"The evidence is that Egan held a gun up to them and told them to come through,' he said.

Then Mr. Rowell suggested that the evidence be sent to the Justice Department, leaving it to the Department to determine just who shall be prosecuted in connection with the Egan payments. Their Lordships gave no indication as to what they will do in the matter.

Laying of Submissions.

The entire day was devoted to the laying of submissions by Mr. Rowell in regard to Ontario brewers and export liquor houses before the commission ,and argument against them by counsel on the other side. The submissions in respect to the export houses were disposed of in the morning, but there was more argument against those affecting Ontario breweries. These were still undisposed of when the commission rose after a late sitting. Argument on them will probably be concluded this morning. Ontario brewing firms represented here yesterday were the Carling Brewing and Malting Company, John Labatt's, Ltd., the British American Brewing Company, and the Walkerville Brewery. Counsel for the three last mentioned brewing companies presented thier argument, and counsel for Carling's will go on to-day.

Mr. Rowell submitted that the evidence with respect to camouflaging of beer brewed by the Carling Brewing and Malting Company, and by the Kuntz Brewery, of Waterloo, should be sent to the Jusitce Department with a view to criminal prosecution of those involved. Also, without naming any breweries specifically, he submitted that criminal prosecutions be taken against those which, according to the evidence deliberately made false sales tax returns to the government.

No Part in Payment.

The first argument in opposition to submissions of counsel for the Commission, was presepted by H. L. Barnes, of Windsor, appearing for the Walkerville Brewery. He emphasized that payments to W. M. Egan by S. A. Griggs, former president of the brewery, were made before the formation of the new company which is now in control of this organization. The new company, he asserted, was carrying on a proper business which was well conducted.

"We don't want a finding made that the present company entered in-

600 'PHONES OUT OF ORDER AFTER STORM

Bell Telephone Lines Damaged By Lightning and Falling Trees.

MANY IN WEST END.

Rural Lines Out of Lakefield Suffer Heavily—Damage on Chemong Road.

More than 600 telephones in the district were put out of commission by last night's storm, said W. H. Northgrave, District Manager, when questioned on the subject by The Examiner this morning. Within the city the number affected is in the neighborhood of 400. The damage seems to be confined almost entirely to the west of Park street, on Albert and Chamberlain streets, and Monaghan Road.

In the Lakefield area all the rural lines beyond the limits of the village, are out of action.

In some cases lightning has been the cause of the trouble although some lines have also been snapped by falling trees. This happened at two adjoining houses on the Chemong Road. On the farm of Harvie Sanderson a large tree was blown over, and fell almost entirely across the roadway bringing down the line to the house. Farther up the road, a similar mishap occurred at the Gilmour Memorial Parsonage, where a high willow tree was overturned by the storm and fell across the telephone lines.

Gangs of men have been engaged in the work of repair since six o'clock this morning, and it is expected that most of the lines will be in working order before the close of the day.

On the lines of the Bell Telephone Company, the use of the up-to-date air gap lightning protector is now the rule. Formerly a type of fuse protector was in use which while it protected the fuse, often resulted in the telephones in houses being damaged. The new protector conveys the lightning to the ground and obviates damage to the apparatus within doors.

CARS COLLIDE; DRIVERS AGREE

Settle Matter of Costs For Damages To Two Automobiles.

NOBODY INJURED.

Evidently losing control of his car as he passed another last night, John Herd smashed into a touring car parked next to the curb on Hunter street last night. The small car was facing east when Herd came up behind and smashed into the rear end, damaging one fender beyond repair, smashing the spare tire holder, and bending the rear axle slightly.

Nobody was injured ,and the matter of costs for damages was settled between the drivers.

Routine business was transacted and arrangements were completed for the annual school picnic. The attendance picture was won jointly this month by Junior Second and Junior Fourth classes, taught by Miss Burgess and Mr. F. H. Dearborn.

Victoria Park Now Very Beautiful Spot

Victoria Park is at present one of the most beautiful spots in the city. The tulips are in full bloom and the arrangement in the beds is most unique. The trees are in full leaf and the grass is at its greenest.

Very many comments have been made on the beds of red, pink, purple, yellow and white tulips, and every person who has seen them agrees that they are the best ever. Outsiders are heard to say: "Oh, what a wonderful park you have here, and what fine flowers!" Hundreds of people go in the early evening every day to see the beauties of the park.

Aviators May Fly Back to the States

BERLIN, June 9.— (Canadian Press.)—Clarence Chamberlin reiterated yesterday afternoon that he had not decided on his future plans.

"An American consortium has offered me $100,000 if I would fly back to the United States,' he said, "but naturally I can only begin to think about it now."

The offer of $100,000 to Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine by American interests if they would fly back to the United States was made by the Hearst newspapers, Bradford Merrill, general manager of the Hearst newspapers, said yesterday.

CONSIDER RULE NEXT SESSION

Convention of Women's Institutes Hears Report of Committee.

ASSIST DEVELOPMENT.

Libraries and Research To Aid Desire For Continued Peace.

WASHINGTON, June 9 (Canadian Press).—That the United States immigration laws will come up for review and amendment at the next session of Congress is foreshadowed by Immigration Commissioner-General Harry E. Hull. Speaking in Iowa City, Hull reviewed the workings of the immigration law and suggested some amendments. He would apparently favor giving discretionary powers to the Immigration Department in the matter of strictly applying the quota law. "Another matter which I feel should be adjusted by legislation," he said, "is that of providing means that will allow a certain number of aliens to be admitted annually in situations peculiar and distressing, without regard to the existing quota restrictions."

Commissioner Hull also thinks that the immigration department should have discretion in re-admission of expatriated Americans, particularly American women who have married men who come within the purview of the quota system.

Apply to Birthplace.

Commenting on the quota system, the Commissioner favored continuation of the interpretation whereby the quota applies to the birthplace rather than to racial origin, but he made this comment: "Admission of people from Germany, England, Northern Ireland, Irish Free State, Scotland, Wales, Netherlands, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland is strictly limited while many people utterly alien to us racially and ethnologically and holding little in common with us in the way of ethical standards are permitted to enter without limitations as to numbers."

Asked by the Canadian Press if he would favor distinction between Canada and Mexico in any proposed extension of the quota laws, Hull said he would prefer seeing Canada left free of quota-even if the United States Congress decided to extend the quota to other American countries.

The general belief here is that Mexico and possibly South American republics will be placed on the quota list within a year or two.

SOVIET ACCEPTS POLISH REGRETS

Letter of Thanks For Note of Sympathy Sent To Warsaw.

WARSAW, June 9. — (Canadian Press.)— M. Litvinoff, Acting Soviet Foreign Commissiar, sent a note of thanks to-day to M. Tragedy Follows Playful Threat; Boy Fatally Shot

Jack Seney, 7, Instantly Killed By Accidental Discharge of Shotgun in Father's Home Near Ida—Hired Man Handling the Weapon.

GUN USUALLY KEPT UNLOADED IN HOUSE OWNER OUT HUNTING CROWS YESTERDAY

Boy Was Playing With Hired Man, Jack Elliott, Who Threatened To Shoot Him—Jury Brings in Verdict of Accidental Death.

IDA, June 9.—A threat made in fun was tragically carried out this morning when Jack Seney, 7, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Seney, was instantly killed by the charge from a shot gun in the hands of Jack Elliott, his father's hired man.

The accident occurred in the kitchen of the Seney home, half a mile west of Ida, at about eight o'clock this morning. Mr. Elliott was changing his clothes in his bedroom which adjoins the kitchen. The bedroom door was partly closed and the little boy who was playing around started to play "peep" with Elliott, who was in his bedroom. They played for some few moments and then Elliott in fun told him to go away or he would shoot him with the shot gun, which was in his bedroom. With that Elliott picked up the shot gun and pointed it at the boy and in so doing the trigger was accidentaly pulled and the boy was shot in the side of the head, being killed instantly.

The pellets tore the side of his face open and also blew off one ear. Other pellets pierced the table at which Mrs. Seney was sitting, and broke the glass in two of the window panes.

Members of the family said it was the first time the gun had ever been left loaded. Mr. Seney yesterday afternoon had gone to the orchard to kill some crows which were stealing the chickens, but when he got there he could not find the crows. He had put a shell in the gun and when he returned to the house he put the gun in its usual place in Elliott's room, forgetting to unload it.

The little boy was seven years old on the eigth of April, and had just started to attend school. This morning when the accident occurred he was waiting for his father to take him to school. He and Jack Elliott had been great chums and often spent much time playing together. He had a very lovable nature and the tragedy has been a great shock to the community.

Dr. H. A. Turner of Millbrook was summoned, but the death had been instantaneous. Dr. Turner, being coroner in the Township of Cavan, immediately empanelled a jury which, after hearing the evidence, brought in a verdict of accidental death.

The jury consisted of Roy Lough, J. Armstrong, A. Kennedy, I. Huston, R. McCamus, P. Stewart, W. Finnie, H. Bradburn, J. Kennedy, J. Douglas, and B. Sharpe (foreman).

SOVIET BLAMES GREAT BRITAIN FOR OUTRAGES

Charges British Complicity in Terrorist Plots For Several Years.

"SPY'S" CONFESSION.

Government Announces Admission That Churchill Gave Him Orders.

MOSCOW, June 9 (Canadian Press).—Soviet indignation at the assassination of the Soviet Minister in Warsaw on Wednesday has turned against Great Britain almost to the exclusion of Poland.

The Soviet Government has issued a communique alleging British complicity in terrorist plots and outrages in Russia, while the entire press to-day, following the tone of the Government's declaration ascribing Russia's counter revolutionary difficulties in the past few years to British leadership, directed verbal batteries against Britain.

The Government communique makes reference to an English spy, described as Sydney George Riley, a captain of the Royal Air Force, who is declared to have confessed to have been sent on a terrorist mission to Russia and that Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, personally had given him his instructions.

U. S. AVIATORS ARE WELCOMED BY HINDENBURG

President of Germany Congratulates Pair on Their Gallant Feat

WILL VISIT VIENNA.

Chancellor Marx and Cabinet Members Also Honor Airmen.

BERLIN, June 9. — Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine began filling the first of a series of engagements yesterday in which the people of Germany sought to express their admiration for their record-breaking flight from New York.

The fliers were received at the presidential palace by President von Hindenburg. About ten years ago, Chamberlin then an inexperienced youth, was joining the United States army balloon corps, hoping to soar above the armies led by von Hindenburg. All such was forgotten yesterday. Chamberlin and Levine were welcomed as emissaries of peace, whose flight would add to the friendship already existing between Germany and the United States.

The aged soldier-statesman received the fliers at 11.30 a.m. From von Hindenburgs home in Wilhelmstrasse Chamberlin and Levine were to go to farther honor and acclaim. Hindenburg congratulated Chamberlin and Levine, expressing admiration for the flight, which 'was more than a sporting feat, because it brings the United States and Germany, always bound in friendship, closer together. The achievement will be an example of peaceful progress to both nations."

Presents Photos.

The interview lasted 40 minutes, during which the president asked scores of questions, and gave each of his guests silver framed photographs of himself. Hindenburg wanted to know whether they met any snow; did they sleep; was their hunger annoying, and all manner of things about the flight.

United States Ambassador Jacob Gould Schurman interpreted between Hindenburg and the fliers.

Received by Mayor.

Chancellor Wilhelm Marx received the pair at 4.30, and all the cabinet members in Berlin attended the reception. In return for New York's bestowal of honorary citizenship on Dr. Hugo Eckener, pilot of the Los Angeles from Germany to Lakehurst, N. J. the municipality of Berlin will confer citizenship on Chamberlin and Levine.

To Vienna.

WASHINGTON, June 9. — Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine will visit Vienna at the invitation of the Austrian government and and probably will leave Berlin for the purpose on Sunday morning. Ambassador Schurman notified the state department yesterday.

TELLS HOW TO MAKE THE HAIR BEAUTIFUL

Simple Home Treatment Works Wonders. Stops Dandruff, Itching, Falling Hair, Makes Hair Soft, Lustrous, Fluffy.

Better than all the so-called "Hair Tonics" in the world is this simple old-fashioned home recipe of plain Bay Rum, Lavona (de Composee) and Menthol Crystals. These three mixed at home or by your druggist, in a couple minutes' time, work wonders with any scalp. Try it just one night and see!

Get from your druggist 2 oz. Lavona, 6 oz. plain Bay Rum and½ drachm of Methol Crystals. Dissolve Menthol in the Bay Rum, pour in 8 oz. bottle, add the 2 oz. Lavona, shake well, let stand for one hour—and the greatest hair dressing you have ever tried is ready for use. Ask your druggist.

Itching ceases, dandruff soon disappears and within a few days, you will notice that loose straggling hair takes on new life and stops falling out.

Four-Legged Gosling Hatched Near Keene

Eric Kimball of R.R. 3, Keene, reports an interesting oddity in the form of a baby gosling with four legs and four wings which hatched out this week with nineteen brothers and sisters. The head was normal and the extra wings and legs were well-formed. The featered freak died soon after hatching, the only casualty in the family.

BOARD FAVOR

to a corrupt agreement with Egan," Mr. Barnes protested. If an agreement had been entered into, Mr. Griggs was the moving spirit in the Walkerville Brewing Company at the time it was done. The directors of the new company had nothing to do with it, Mr. Barnes maintained.

There were some references to the evidence of Mr. Griggs that he had gone down to Ottawa and given an understanding that brewers would pay sales and gallonage taxes if certain restrictions on export were removed. A number of the brewers have not paid sales tax on exports. Mr. Rowell suggested that the Government might take cognisance of this fact when it came time to renew licenses again.

"If they will come forward and pay sales and gallonage taxes, they will have redeemed their pledge," suggested Commissioner W. H. Wright.

"Quite so. That is what I want them to do," replied counsel.

"Your opinion is that withholding a license is a much better way of collecting taxes than holding Court," Chief Commissioner Brown interjected with a smile.

"Well, it's quicker," responded Mr. Rowell.

Made No False Returns.

J. M. McAvoy, of London, appearing for the John Labatt Company, said he wished it made clear that his clients had not made false returns to the Government. With respect to the submission that the Labatt Company made payments to the Provincial Police, he admitted that a sum of money was provided by this company for helping to get beer across the line and similar purposes. General Manager Burke, however, had stated that he himself had never given a dollar to the Provincial Police and that he knew of no payments to them. As the general manager did not know of the final disposition of the money set aside, he could not say what was done with it. Payments to W. M. Egan were very much in the same category.

Mr. McAvoy declared that the Labatt Company had never entered strong beer in their books at 2.5 per cent. He also insisted that not a pint of Labatt's beer had ever been shipped as anything but beer.

"There is evidence that some of Labatt's beer was camouflaged," Chief Commissioner Brown told him.

Mr. McAvoy said that because a car of Labatt's beer was found camouflaged, the Commission was being asked to find that the brewers had done the camouflaging. There was no evidence of that. If beer was camouflaged by a purchaser, surely it could not be argued that the John Labatt Company was implicated. The suggestion was that the brewery had been a party to bribing officials and doing other irregular things to get camouflaged beer across the line to the United States. There was no evidence of this, he said.

"Neither was there any evidence that the Labatt Company paid money to W. M. Egan 'to secure immunity from prosecution,'" Mr. McAvoy said.

There was evidence that some of the unidentified money distributed by the brewery went to Egan. The inference was that somebody in the Labatt Company heard, "It would be a good thing to take care of Egan," and so they did it.

Paid Sums to Egan.

Appearing for the British-American Brewing Company, of Windsor, Ont., Alex. Smith, K.C., of Ottawa, also dealt with evidence offered in respect to the Egan payments. To make a submission that this company paid sums of money to Egan "to obtain immunity of prosecution and to secure freedom of export," was to declare something that was not in evidence, he asserted. Evidence before the Commission was that some payments were made to Egan in the form of a legal retainer, while others were contributions for "campaign purposes." The evidence of all witnesses from the British-American Brewing Company had been perfectly frank and open. The submission that the British-American Brewing Company had exported beer to a man using the fictitious name of "Ohms" Mr. Smith met by saying that this consignee no doubt used the name to protect himself in the United States. Also, he said, use of the name of the Foreign Exporting Company by this brewery in connection with its export business was not for the purpose of evading the law.

WEDDING BELLS

TIMLIN—PARKER.

A quiet wedding took place at the United Church parsonage, Hastings, on June 1st.

The contracting parties were May Kathleen Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Parker, Roseneath, and Leo Timlin, of Roseneath. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. L. Hinton.

The bride was beautifully attired in Nile green georgette, trimmed with jade green.

The young couple motored to Toronto and points west. On their return they will reside near Roseneath.

LONGLEY—PICK.

The following account from The Montreal Daily Star is of local interest. The bridegroom was a former resident of the city and is a son of Mrs. Frank Parker, of Norwood:

"The marriage of Dorothy, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Pick, Northcliffe avenue, to Mr. Reginald Frank Longley, son of the late Mr. Frederick Longley, and of Mrs. Frank Parker, of Norwood, Ont., is taking place on June 1st at six o'clock, at Trinity Memorial Church, the Rev. Canon Almond officiating. The church decorations will be carried out with palms, ferns, roses, hydrangeas and snapdragon, the guest pews being marked with bows of white ribbon.

"The bride, who will be given away by her father, will wear a gown of ivory French crepe satin, made ankle length, with long tight-fitting sleeves and two large silver bow knots outlined in crystal beads ornamenting the skirt and bodice. Her veil of Brussels point lace will be worn in cap effect with clusters of orange blossoms at either side, and the train lined with shell pink shirred georgette, embroidered with a bow knot of silver and crystal beads. Her shower bouquet will be composed of butterfly roses, lilies-of-the-valley and baby's breath.

"She will be attended by Mrs. James E. Wright, as matron of honor, and by two bridesmaids, Miss Mary Longley, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Norah Boak, little Miss Barbara Pick acting as flower girl. The three attendants' gowns of shot taffeta are made alike in bouffant style with shadow hems of silk net and trimming of French flowers on the skirt, the matron of honor wearing rust color shade, the bridesmaids being attired in peach color. They are wearing bandeaux of Oriental leaves in their hair, shoes and stockings to match their gowns, and carrying bouquets of pastel shaded sweet peas. The little flower girl will wear a frock of buttercup yellow with shoes and stockings to match and a wreath of Oriental leaves in her hair, carrying a basket of sweet peas.

"Mr. Alex Boyd will be best man and the ushers, Mr. Stanford MacKerrow and Mr. James E. Wright. Mrs. Pick, mother of the bride, is wearing a French model of pearl grey crepe Elizabeth with hat and shoes to match and carrying a bouquet of Columbia roses. Mrs. Parker, mother of the bridegroom, will be gowned in navy blue crepe romain with a hat to match, carrying an arm bouquet of Templar roses.

"A reception follows the ceremony at the Victoria Hall, Westmount, which will be decorated with palms, ferns and spring flowers for the occasion. Later Mr. Longley and his bride are leaving on a motor trip to various points in Ontario and the United States, the latter wearing an imported cloth coat of brown and fawn plaid with a large collar of Lucille fox over a two-piece gown of Queen's blue French crepe, a crochet straw hat of the same shade, blonde shoes and purse to match. On their return they will reside at 117 34th avenue, Upper Lachine."

MRS. E. BICKEL.

LAKEFIELD, June 9.—A large number of friends attended the funeral of Mrs. E. Bickel, which took place from the family residence, Queen street, on Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., was in charge of the service, and gave a brief address stressing the blessed hope of everlasting life which awaits those who died in the faith and fear of God. In so many passages in the Bible death is referred to as "falling asleep." Even in the case of St. Stephen, the first martyr who suffered a terrible death by stoning, we read of his seeing our Lord in the sky and then "he fell asleep."

Death is the end of the day, and there will dawn a brighter day for those who have gone. In every Christian country people are buried with their feet to the east, typifying the rising of the sun of righteousness in the east just as the sun rises there each morning. Death is but the end of a day, and for some the day ends sooner than others and they are called to be with God who cares for all.

The pallbearers were Messrs. S. J. Charlton, A. H. Clarke, N. S. Higgins, C. Lake, W. W. Leonard and Bruce Preston.

The funeral proceeded from the house to Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough, for interment.

Mrs. Bickel's death was a great shock to the community as the fact of her illness was not generally known, although she had been in poor health for some time. A couple of weeks ago she went to St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment, and her death occurred there on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Bickel had lived in Lakefield about eleven years, having lived in Dummer near Hall's Glen for many years previously.

The deceased lady was sixty-eight years of age and is survived by her husband, Mr. Ephraim Bickel.

Of a quiet retiring disposition, Mrs. Bickel was always a friends to the poor and needy, never failing to respond to a call for aid. Mrs. Bickel was a member of the local Liberal Ladies' Committee and was a member of the Church of England. She was a good wife, a kind neighbor and a loyal friend, and the village is the poorer for her passing.

ROSENEATH W. I. TO ERECT SIGNS

Much Business Transacted at Regular Meeting of Branch.

ROSENEATH NEWS

ROSENEATH, June 9.—The regular meeting of the Woman's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Marcena Davey. This being the first meeting since the election of officers, the new president, Mrs. Lottie Nichol, presided in her official capacity and brought back memories of other years when Mrs. Nichol was the president. The attendance was extra large, with several new members, and the programme committee furnished an excellent programme. The opening song, "The Maple Leaf," was heartily sung, and brought a cheerful atmosphere into the meeting.

After the reading of the minutes of the May meeting, a discussion followed regarding the taking of children from the Neighbourhood Workers' Association for a two weeks' holiday, 'and proved very successful in having seven volunteers.

Mrs. Ingham, of the Sick Committee, gave a report of her visits among the sick, also that six boxes of fruit had been sent to the homes of the sick.

Moved by Mrs. (Dr.) Hershey, seconded by Mrs. Andrew Brown, that the Women's Institute erect sign boards at Roseneath, wording to be arranged by a committee of Mrs. Lily Turner, Mrs. M. Davey, and Mrs. Albert Halstead.

Mrs. J. R. Nichols, Mrs. A. Halstead and Mrs. E. Brown were responsible for the program of the afternoon which was as follows;

Mrs. Delbert Brisbin gave a very interesting paper on "The Spirit of Canada."

Reading by Mrs. George Ingham, "A Great Ambition."

Reading by Mrs. A. Halstead entitled "A Garden", and was very humorous.

Reading by Mrs. Orra Varcoe, "Unfading Flowers", and conveyed many good lessons.

Next on the program was a flower contest, which was most amusing besides being a brain twister.

Mrs. (Dr.) Hershey was the winner of a box of candy.

Mrs. Lily Turner was responsible for the guessing contest. Everyone was to guess the weight of a parcel. This was done quickly and Mrs. Davey was asked to open the parcel, when to her great surprise she discovered it to be a beautiful jardiniere, with a card attached wishing her many happy returns of the day. Mrs. Davey was completely overtaken but later thanked the members for the beautiful gift. This being the first time in history where the hostess had a birthday and the Woman's Institue at her home the same day, the Society felt a real good surprise would add pleasure to the afternoon's gathering and every one took part in the fun.

The next meeting will be at Mrs. Mary Brown's in the village in July.

A delicious lunch was served and a pleasant half hour was spent.

On information laid by Game Overseers Shearer of Roseneath and Hills of Port Hope, two residents of Alderville Indian reservation, Fred Simpson and Stephen Smoke, appeared before the magistrate this week on the charge of having fish in their possession out of season. Simpson was fined $12 and costs, and Smoke $15 and costs.

Rev. J. N. Lovelace and Mr. S. A. Tucker attended Conference at Oshawa and were away over Sunday, therefore there was no service in the village on Sunday but an extra large attendance at Sunday school in the morning.

The first report of Roseneath United church for the year 1926 and three months pf 1927, has been issued and shows a nice balance on hand. Officers are:

Pastor—Rev. J. N. Lovelace.

Members of Session—Messrs. R. Campbell, D. Gray, G. Ingham, R. Mouncey, W. J. Roberts and S. A. Tucker.

Stewards—Messrs. W. Arnold, A. Brown, A. J. Campbell, M. Davey, A. Mouncey and C. W. Varcoe.

Owing to the heavy rain on Saturday there was no Mission Band meeting in the afternoon.

GROUNDS WELL KEPT.

Beautiful Tulips Set in Green Lawn at Lakefield Post Office.

LAKEFIELD, June 9.—The grounds at the post office present a very attractive appearance and are a great credit to Mr. Thomas Watson, who is in charge. At present the tulips are a glowing mass of color and the green lawn and the bright hued blossoms make a picture well worth seeing.

The post office, standing as it does, on the most important corner in the village at the junction of Queen, Bridge and Albert streets is on the main highway by which tourists motor through to the increasingly popular north land and many complimentary remarks are made about the well kept grounds and the display of beautiful blooms which are to be in the flower beds and borders at the post office.

BOMB OUTRAGES SHOCK MOSCOW

Twenty-six Injured When Bomb Explodes in Communist Club.

INCREASE VIGILANCE.

MOSCOW, June 9 — (Associated Press).—Two terrorist outrages within twenty-four hours has shocked the Soviet, particularly Communists, and given cause for increased vigilance. Not since the winter of 1918, when an attempt was made by social revolutionists to bomb the Moscow committee of the Community party, have the terrorists dared to defy that dreaded organization.

Late Tuesday night 26 persons, including 10 young women, all members of the Leningrad Communist Discussion Club, were injured when two bombs were thrown into the hall where they were meeting. The bomb-throwers escaped, firing revolvers as they ran.

That no one was killed was due apparently to the fact that the bombs merely contained light gas and a few missiles. Most of the injured suffered contusions and asphyxiation.

Three Killed.

The Leningrad bombing was followed by the blowing up of a conveyance in which Vice-Chief Opansky of the state political police of White Russia, with two assistants, was conveying Lieut. Yani of the Polish intelligence service, suspected of espionage, to Minsk from the Polish frontier.

Opansky and his assistants were killed and Yani was seriously injured by the explosion of a bomb which had been placed on a railway by which they were travelling in a gas-driven repair car. Investigations appeared to indicate that the work was that of counter revolutionaries.

TRAIN COLLIDES WITH PRIVATE CAR

Open Switch Carries It On To Siding Where Car Is Standing.

SAULTE STE. MARIE, Ont., June 9.—C.P.R. train No. 18, eastbound, had a narrow escape from a serious wreck at Blind River, when an open switch carried it on to a siding at Algoma Mills, where the private car of President Jaffray, of the Soo Line Railway, was standing. Fortunately the engineer noticed the open switch as he passed, and although he had only about 80 yards to stop in, put on the brakes, with the result that while the locomotive crashed into the standing car the damage done was not serious

Four people were slightly bruised, but the injuries were not serious. Mr. Jaffray had gone north from Blind River on a fishing trip along the Little White River, with President Carpenter, of the Carpenter-Hixon Co., Ltd.

The chef and negro porter on the private car, Nina, were bruised. On the passenger train, Dr. A. Moody, of the Sault, was slightly bruised, and Ed. Charters, also of the Sault, had his right hand sprained. The platform of the car was demolished and some dishes broken by the crash.

FLOAT CORRECTIONS.

Royal Arthur Lodge is Not in the List—Add Well Babies' Clinic.

In the list of clubs entering floats in the Jubilee celebration here, published last night, Royal Arthur Lodge was included by mistake. At the same time, mention was omitted of the float to be supplied in the parade by the Well Babies' Clinic.

OLD MASTERS

Great God, I ask Thee for no meaner pelf
Than that I may not disappoint myself;
That in my action I may soar as high
As I can now discern with this clear eye.

That my weak hand may equal my firm faith,
And my life practice more than my tongue saith;
That my low conduct may not show,
Nor my relenting lines,
That I Thy purpose did not know,
Or overrated Thy designs.

HUNT NATIVE ELEPHANT.

WASHINGTON, June 8. — Hundreds of thousands of years ago, elephants roamed this continent, savage beasts of twice the bulk of any living elephant. But they became extinct after the glacial period and now the Smithsonian Institution is sending searchers through Florida and Oklahoma to try to find a complete fossil.

FIGHT ON WOOL TARIFF LIKELY BEFORE BOARD

Vigorous Fight Coming Next Week Before Advisory Board.

DISCUSS SHOE TARIFF.

British Manufacturers Oppose Higher Duties—Send Representatives To Hearing.

OTTAWA, June 9.—A battle royal is promised here next week before the Tariff Advisory Board in regard to the protective tariff on woollen goods.

Some time ago the woollen manufacturers submitted a brief to the Board, asking it to advise such adjustments of the tariff as would practically make the general tariff applicable all round and eliminate the British preference. The hearing then was only tentative and it was put off till next week.

Two representatives of the British woollen manufacturers have just arrived in Ottawa to resist the application of their Canadian colleagues, and both sides will be heard.

The Canadian woollen men represent their industry as being seriously hampered and unprofitable for lack of a more adequate protection.

Britain a Consumer.

On the other hand, the British manufacturers insist upon the maintenance of the preference and object to any obstacles to imperil trade when Britain is such a large consumer of Canadian products and—as their brief states—is spending large amounts in developing a market for such commodities.

Consumers' League.

The Consumers' League, a low-tariff domestic organization, intervenes with the argument that if statistics of production mean anything, the Canadian woollen industry is more prosperous than it ever was.

G. H. Phippen, K.C., has been retained by the Canadian woollen manufacturers to present their case.

Shoe Tariff.

Another matter which is pending is the somewhat similar case of the shoe manufacturers, who ask an increased duty and the elimination of the preference, which British manufacturers likewise resist. Here also the Consumers' League comes in with an application for a reduced duty on shoe machinery and raw materials for shoes, although the industry using them does not in its application seek anything of the kind.

GRASS CLOTHES.

LONDON, June 9.—Dr. Dinshaw Nanji of Birmingham University has found a new process for turning tropical grass into clothing. Chemicals are used to separate the fiber from the raw material. The fabric may take the place of cotton in many places where the grass is available.

Saint and Sinner

EVERYONE LIKED "SAINT AND SINNER"—BUT SOME PEOPLE THOUGHT THE INSTALMENTS WERE TOO SHORT.

The Examiner is sorry that nothing could be done about it, because when the story is purchased a date is marked on every instalment, and this date must be strictly observed. It would not be right for one newspaper to print two or three instalments a day ,and thus beat the other newspapers that are also paying a high price for the story. So all must observe the dates.

Well, as everyone knows, marriage and a baby don't end life and adventure. Cherry Lane has had a rough voyage, and her adventures are just starting. As might be imagined by one who read "Saint and Sinner," she gets into some astonishing domestic complications. And Faith, too, has new troubles.

The Examiner will publish this new phase of "Saint and Sinner" if readers desire it. It will start on Wednesday next, if enough readers signify their desire for it, with big instalments for a week, and will then continue with the same length instalments as heretofore.

If you wish to follow the Lane family and Cherry through their further tangles and escapades, you must write The Examiner right away and say so. Otherwise the instalments now on hand will be thrown in the waste paper basket and the order will be cancelled. And remember, if you say "yes," it will run about ten inches a day—no matter how many object. The Examiner can't print more after the first week.

Anne Austin has written an absorbing tale of intermingled love and hate, laughter and tears, joy and sorrow.

Do You Want to Read It?

MR CITY EDITOR:

I want to read the further adventures of Cherry and the others in "Saint and Sinner." I recognize the fact that you cannot print more than ten inches or so of the story every day, and I will not holler in a few weeks for more.

STIRLING PEOPLE ON I.O.O.F. EXCURSION

Council Passes By-law For Debenture Issue For New Hall.

STIRLING, June 9.—The excursion to Rochester last Friday under the auspices of District 45, I.O.O.F., was enjoyed by all those who patronized it. The weather was ideal for a trip across the lake, and there were no cases of sickness to report. Five hours was spent in the sail from Cobourg, and six hours in the city of Rochester. Thirty-five tickets were sold at Stirling. The boat, Ontario No. 2, was given over to the excursionists. They were permitted to examine all parts of the boat. Nearly all took advantage of this and went down below decks, even to the stokers' room where two men were continuously shovelling coal into the furnaces. All those who examined this part of the vessel were amazed at the intricate machinery required to keep in motion the two propellors which drive the boat through the water at a speed of twelve miles an hour. On the return trip all the lady passengers were interviewed by excise officers, some of them perhaps more closely than they desired.

News Briefs.

At the Council meeting on Monday night all the members were present. After routine business and the passing of several accounts, the bylaw for the new hall debenture debt was advanced a stage and given its second reading. The Campbellford Oddfellows, 30 strong, visited Stirling Lodge, No. 239, on Monday night and exemplified the initiatory degree in a highly creditable manner. Hulin as toastmaster: The King, National Anthem; our country, P.G. Harold Ashley, Stirling, and P.G. McGuire, Campbellford; Grand Lodge, P.G. M. W. Sine, Cataraqui, No. 10, and P.D.D.G.M. D. On completion of the election of officers, the president-elect, F. J. Slade, was called to the chair. Mr. Slade (who had been sitting on the platform) said he did not take a seat on the platform to be convenient, but he was only too pleased to be whatever help he could be to the great Liberal party. He thought that every era of prosperity and any reductions to the National debt had been during Liberal party rule. Without further remarks, he called upon Mr. Fraser, the late candidate.

Mr. Fraser.

It is needless for me to say that it affords me very great pleasure to come back to Northumberland to meet friends I met last September. I found them a lot of good honest-to-God friends. You become acquainted with the people of Northumberland, and then they are your friends. Each and every person that has a vote should realize what their franchise means; what it cost their grandparents to get it, and how they should exercise it at the right time. At election time, it is not a question of the silk hat, nor the man in overalls. The thing to decide is, which man you would want to go on the job if you were paying him. You pay your pro rata shares, and you should, therefore, pick a representative who can best administer the affairs of your country, and my country.

The only man who can afford to go into politics is a man who sits in the opposition—he has nothing to do but endorse a cheque once a month. I personally have only one object in politics, and that is to serve my country. My only object now is to look after the people who stuck with me. A Liberal is a Liberal, and a Tory a Tory. I wouldn't give a Tory a job, but I would fire a Tory and put a grit in his place. (Applause).

Voice—"What's the matter with the machine?"

Mr. Fraser, continuing: Mr. Massie asks, "What's the matter with the machine?" The Civil Service came into being by an Act of the Union Government. That Act has to be administered, and Grits are honest. We can have the commission appoint a Grit where a Grit should be appointed. A Tory, whether he has a job or not, does not forget his politics. I voiced my interest in the matter of patronage. I'm not looking for anything. All I want is to know what man is looking for a job, and I'll see he gets it. All Grits are the same to me. I will continue to work on the advice of the executive.

Please convey to my Tory friends that I'm still Mayor of Trenton in 1927, without a man sufficiently strong enough to contest the seat with me. It was a case of acclamation. A man came to me a short time ago and said two of my friends have come to understand that Northumberland is not represented in the Federal House and that they were done with the way things had been going.

Bonds Falling Due.

Mr. Guthrie is still trying to ride the blue moon horse, stating that there are $25,000,000 of bonds falling due without a cent to pay them. There is the strongest administration in Ottawa this country has ever known. The best Prime Minister, bar none, that Canada has ever had; the strongest Cabinet, every member, or successor, is going to sit there for the next 20 years. (Applause). National prosperity means individual prosperity, and individual prosperity, national prosperity.

I stood here some months ago with Hon. Tom McGarry. What does the Honorable Tom think of Mackenzie King now? Mackenzie King today, in not taking five minutes to decide to sever connections with the Soviet has raised him in the estimation of the people of Canada 100 per cent. I thank you for the invitation out to Warkworth. I will come whenever invited; I have my stake and friends in this country.

Hon. Nelson Parliament

It is a great pleasure to be at this annual meeting. Coming from a neighboring county—the banner county of Ontario—I was greatly surprised with the grandeur of the scenery and the appearance of the crops in this county. Out of the top six inches of the soil comes all the wealth. I would like to see a little more pride taken in this country. We are one of the foremost nations in the world. Take our wheat fields—are they not an incentive to pride in this great country of ours? We have not only the territory, but the resources, and better than all, the citizenship.

Our desire should not only be to elect a Liberal because he is a Liberal, but for all that Liberalism and the Liberal party stand for.

Some people say, it doesn't make any difference what party is in power, but from 1900 to 1911 and this year of prosperity, the Liberal government has been in power. Government has a lot to do with it. The people are prosperous under a democratic Government. This Government has made more treaties with other countries. The Liberal Government appointed a tariff commission. This commission is digging into the very heart of things. The tariff is to be so regulated that it will be in the best interest of the country.

Here, Hon. Mr. Parliament complimented the electors in sending Dr. Robertson to the Provincial House. There are some men, said the honorable gentleman, who are not much in debate, but good on committees, but Dr. Robertson is not only valuable on committees but can ably take his place in a debate. He is a credit to Northumberland.

You just get the king of government you vote for, continued the speaker; pick men like Dr. Robertson and Mr. Fraser. Let us live by principle and have that principle as high as possible.

I have not desire to say anything about Government Control. Mr. Ferguson had one thing to say one time and another thing to say another time. When he has time to take stock, Mr. Ferguson will find that he is the man fooled more than anyone else. Mr. Ferguson was long on promises. Don't be stampeded in Northumberland — take a straight course. Don't be drifted about by every wind. Cut to the line, let the chips fall where they may.

Tories tell you that the Liberals increased the expenditure—the Tory Government was spending $51,000,000 a year. A Conservative Government never reduced expenditure. I will make this statement: Liberals will reduce the expenditure if elected. The Northern Ontario Development Branch was voted $5,000,000 in a lump sum. Liberals had a resolution asking for the items that this five million dollars were to be spent on, and the money to be voted for on the floor of the House.) It was voted down. The school system does not fit the conditions of this great province. The Minister made many promises, but has come short. We need a change in the system of education in the rural parts.

What Will Canada Do?

Mr. Guthrie, in referring to bonds coming due, says: "What does Canada intend to do?" What right has Mr. Guthrie to suggest that Canada would repudiate her debts? asked Mr. Parliament. The speaker then read from Hansard as follows. (Mr. Robb, Hansard, Feb. 17): "On the 15th of November, 1927, the three-year 4 per cent notes amounting to $8,000,000 will mature. We hope to be able to redeem this loan in cash, thereby making a further saving in annual interest of $320,000. On the first of November, 1927, the 5½ per cent renewal loan of 1922 amounting to $29,068,400 will also mature. If our finances permit we will redeem at least a portion of this loan in cash; the balance, if any, will be redeemed by the flotation of a new loan at a reduced rate of interest. On the first of December, 1927, a portion of the 1917 Victory Loan 5½ per cent tax free, amounting to $63,437,250 will mature. This loan will be redeemed by the flotation of a new loan at a reduced rate of interest. Such refinancing will result in a further annual saving in our interest charges of approximately $1,000,000."

Continuing, Mr. Parliament asked: What do you think of a leader of a party who will try to mislead his party? Hasn't the time come when only gentlemen should be in politics? The greatest constitution ever written should at all times make us strive for national unity. On the Plains of Abraham both commanders were slain—there are not two monuments there—just one monument to the two leaders. No race cry. We have a great country, rich in natural resources. Let us discharge our duty in the best possible manner and leave this world a little better than we found it.

Dr. Robertson

Much of Dr. Robertson's address was of importance only to some of the convention to whom he spoke in a confidential way. He recalled old times, and stated that he felt it a responsibility as well as a pleasure to serve Northumberland. Any person who goes to the Provincial House and sits in the gallery will come away with the feeling that it is a one-man house. Dealing with Government Control, Dr Robertson said, that it was impossible to enact legislation to please both the people who wanted liquor and the temperance people. He thought Mr. Ferguson would be glad to go to Ottawa. Last election, said the speaker, Mr. Ferguson was holding the liquor vote and reaching out for the temperance vote.

Credit was given to Warkworth for the best results at the polls at the last election Concluding Dr. Robertson said: "No one will ever be able to point a finger at me and say, 'Robertson, you were not true to the Liberal party'."

The convention closed with three rousing cheers and a tiger for the King.

AUSTRALIA CAN USE U. S. PLANS

Journalist Says Piece Work Could Be Adapted, But Not Mass Production.

NOT ENOUGH PEOPLE.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., June 8.—(British United Press.)— Interviewed at Wellington, New Zealand, H. G. Adam, journalist, who accompanied the Australian Industrial Mission to the United States, declared that the dissimilarity between Australian and American methods should prevent any attempts in this country to blindly and slavishly follow American practices.

He believed that piece work was one of the few things Australia could adopt but said that mass production was impossible here because it was based on a huge home market, and a "wonderful machinery, docile labor, and docile consumers."

ELDERS ORDAINED LAKEFIELD CHURCH

Messrs. J. W. Simpson and Alex. Graham New Members of Session.

LAKEFIELD, June 9.—The Presbyterian Church in Lakefield, although without a church building, are progressing, and there is steady growth of members and interest. From October, 1925, till June, 1926, services were held in the Baptist Church on Sunday afternoons, but for the past year the congregation has worshipped in the Queen Street Theatre, having both morning and evening service. A Sunday School was organized at the beginning of the year and has proved a great asset. Rev. and Mrs. Ross are resident in the village, and there is the additional comfort of pastoral visiting. Up to last Sunday the session court has consisted of two elders, Messrs. A. Fairbairn and —. White. On Sunday morning two more elders were ordained and became members of the session court. These were Messrs. J. M. Simpson and Alex. Graham. On Sunday next, June 12, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be held.

The Board of Management consists of Messrs. R. Duff, J. W. Ridpath, J. M. Simpson, R. Garbutt and Dr. J. C. Smith.

U. S. WILL HAVE LARGE SURPLUS

Mellon Estimates Excess Revenue for Year at 600 Millions.

YEAR ENDS JUNE 30

Washington, June 8 (Canadian Press). — In regard to the statement of Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the United States Treasury, that there would probably be a surplus of six hundred million dollars in the treasury at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, it is stated in well informed circles that the surplus may reach seven hundred millions, as Mr. Mellon's estimates are usually conservative. Reductions in the public debt will probably approximate to one billion two hundred million by virtue of the surplus.

TRANSPARENT METAL.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 9.—A process for making metal foils less than a millionth of an inch thick has been developed in the Sloane Physics laboratory at Yale University. Dr. William Swann, professor of physics, says these foils are perfectly uniform and nearly completely transparent. The foils are being used in investigation of the relative ease with which electrons of different velocities pass through metals.

"Quality higher than Price"

"Why, Doris, this dessert tastes like fresh wild raspberries"

"YES, Bob remarked the same thing the other evening at dinner and he's getting to be quite an enthusiast for McLaren's 'Invincible' Jelly since he learned the secret of its distinctive flavor."

In the conversation that followed, Bob smilingly admitted his conversion to delicious, healthful desserts that contain the actual juices of choice, fresh fruits and have the tender, quivering texture that instantly identifies them as McLaren's "Invincible" Jellies.

Bob was interested—as most husbands will be—in knowing that Muskoka wild raspberries supply the juice that flavor "Invincible" Raspberry Jelly. That the actual juices of selected, fresh strawberries, cherries, currants, grapes and pineapples account for the natural, "fruity" flavor of other McLaren's "Invincible" dessert jellies—and that repeated tests assure uniform high quality. Good grocers recommend

"O CANADA."

The National Committee for the celebration of the Diamond Jubile of Confederation has the opportunity to be of service to this country by endorsing a standard version of "O Canada" and recommending its adoption.

Various organizations have tried their hand at this task with indifferent success, but they had not the opportunity that the Diamond Jubilee gives the National Committee to choose a version that can be generally used throughout the country.

At present there are at least a dozen different sets of words in use, and the result is confusion, worse confounded when an audience is called upon to sing this most popular patriotic song.

The jubilee would be a very appropriate occasion to standardize "O Canada," and the National Committee seems the proper body to make the choice and announce to the Canadian people the verses considered most suitable for use.

ENCOURAGING SMUGGLING.

The evidence given by H. S. Bourke, sales manager of the Imperial Tobacco Company, before the Royal Customs Commission to the effect that close upon a billion cigarettes are smuggled into Canada each year should give the Federal Government something to think about.

The exorbitant taxation on Canadian cigarettes is, of course, responsible for this wholesale smuggling.

So long as cigarettes can be purchased in the United States for 40 per cent. less than in Canada the smuggling will go on to the detriment of Canadian business, and with a heavy loss in revenue.

The present tax that has to be borne by cigarette smokers in this country can scarcely be justified upon any count, this type of smoker being taxed for the benefit of the man who smokes tobacco in some other form or who doesn't use the weed at all.

There are several excellent reasons that suggest themselves as to why it would be good business to cut down the tax on cigarettes, which is encouraging smuggling and thus is not earning the revenue that might be expected.

Mr. Robb can increase his popularity by including a slash in the cigarette tax when he brings down his next Budget.

THE TRESPASSING MOTORIST.

Judging from the comments in several Ontario newspapers, the conduct of some city motorists is bringing the whole army of car-owners into disrepute among the farmers of the Province.

This complaint is an annual one, but, unfortunately, there is no reason to believe that any improvement is being shown by the offenders, who seem to regard the countryside as a public park which they are privileged to misuse and ill-treat just as they please.

Private property everywhere is trespassed upon by motor parties who picnic there, scatter waste paper, empty tins and other refuse over the grounds, and usually finish by carrying off a few apple blossoms.

The Kitchener Record covers the situation neatly when it asks what would the city dweller think if the tables were turned and motor parties from the country invaded the city, camped on private lawns, ate their refreshments there, left the litter from their lunch baskets lying around, and finished up by picking a few flowers from the garden for good measure?

That is something for the city motorist to think over.

Rural property must be respected, and those who refuse to recognize that fact may be informed of in a harsher manner if there is no improvement.

A JUBILEE PROBLEM.

Figures given out as to the exports of Canadian ores and chemical raw materials to the United States ought to be considered seriously by Canadians at this time, not from a political viewpoint, but as citizens of a great country just about to celebrate its sixtieth birthday.

Each year ores and raw material containing $150,000,000 in gold, silver, lead, zinc, copper, nickel, asbestos and other metals are exported from Canada to be manufactured in the United States.

To produce these ores in Canada costs $25,000,000.

Yet out of them the industries, workers and transportation systems of the United States make $125,000,000 every year.

In a word our neighbors manage to get five times as much out of these ores as the country which produced them can make.

We in this country buy $600,000,000 worth of goods annually from the United States, and we attempt to pay for them in raw materials that are worth five times as much to Americans as Canadians can get for them.

Diamond Jubilee year should be a proper time for Canadians to take stock.

Is a situation that is bleeding the Dominion of her raw materials and enriching the United States at our expense to be continued indefinitely?

THE BATTLE AGAINST DISEASE.

News comes from Paris of the keen interest which has been aroused by the investigations of still another Canadian scientist in the great offensive against disease. Even the major contribution of Dr. Banting will be far eclipsed if the studies of Dr. D'Herelle of Quebec bear fruit. This French-speaking Canadian has made the claim that he has discovered a germ so small that it cannot be seen by the most powerful microscope, and he and others believe that it has the remarkable ability to attack a great many varieties of disease germs and destroy them.

The discovery of this germ parasite which may mark another epoch in the battle against disease calls attention to the wonderful progress which has been made in the ceaseless warfare against infection during the past 30 years. The efforts of our modern crusaders have been so successful that we are soon to have the pleasure of bowing out some of the most dreadful scourges that mankind has suffered. Bubonic plague has become unknown in communities wise enough to couch their prayers in the language of the bacteriologist; yellow fever is practically an extinct disease; diphtheria which formerly choked thousands of children and adults to death is so nearly eradicated that groups of physicians and health workers have undertaken the task of stamping it out completely by 1930; while typhoid fever has become a comparatively rare disease when proper attention is paid to pasteurized milk, filtered and chlorinated water and adequate sewage and garbage disposal.

Not less encouraging are the reports from the front which is attacking what are known as the contact diseases and victories are being registered in the offensive against tetanus (lockjaw), gas gangrene, anthrax, wound infection, hydrophobia, smallpox, whooping cough and measles. In some cases these diseases have almost entirely disappeared, in others complete mastery is in sight.

In some other directions appreciable but not as striking progress has been made. Tuberculosis, scarlet fever, common colds, pneumonia, influenza and some other sinister names still make up a regiment whose bulwarks we must continue to storm with every resource that money and science can mobilize. But it is encouraging to know that tuberculosis now kills one where it formerly killed five and has dropped from its position as "Captain of the Men of Death" held as lately as 1910 to become the fifth most common cause of mortality.

Certainly the pessimist is confounded when we realize that the average length of life has risen from nineteen years in the dark ages to 58 years at the present time. We honor the men who fought to gain for us our precious freedom from the tyranny of kings, let us honor those who have won for us freedom from the tyranny of disease. These death fighters in their laboratories are greater benefactors than all the conquerors whose deeds have filled the pages of history.—Ottawa Journal.

HOOVER ON FISHING.

In the June Atlantic, Secretary Hoover voices a fisherman's lament that the time is getting longer and longer between bites. It isn't for lack of tackle. We have journeyed far from the happy golden days of the "willow pole with a butcher's string line, fixed with hooks ten for a dime, whose compelling lure is one segment of an angle worm, and whose incantation is spitting on the bait." Our tackle manufacturers are nothing if not ingenious. They have invented all manner of roposterous lures that would be laughed off the face of the waters if some fish weren't fool enough to fall for them. They have scoured the world for bamboo, lacquer, tin, nickel, feathers and all the other ingredients of rod and reel and fly. Yet to what purpose? The millionaire in all his glory has no more chance than the boy with his worm, and for both these are dark days.

Yet there never was a time when men's souls stood in greater need of that refreshment which anglers know. It is as hard to say anything new about the excellencies of fishing as it is to make an original Fourth of July speech, but Mr. Hoover has managed to give literary form and contemporary flavor to an ancient philosophy:

> "The fishing beatitudes are much amplified since Izaak Walton, for he did not spend his major life answering a bell. He never got the 'jumps' from traffic signals or the price of wheat. The blessings of fishing include not only Edgar Guest's 'wash of the soul' with pure air, but they also now include discipline in the equality of men, meekness and inspiration before the works of nature, charity and patience toward tackle makers and the fish, a mockery of profits and conceits, a quieting of hate and a hushing to ambition, a rejoicing and gladness that you do not have to decide another thing until next week."

No wonder the part about not having to make another decision for a week appealed to Mr. Hoover, who has to make one a minute all the rest of the year. And yet, really, fishing is not free from decisions. Far from it! But they are decisions in the making of which there is only joy. Shall it be a red Ibis or a Montreal? Dry fly or "garden hackle?" Nor is it wholly accurate to say that "all men are equal before fishes." Mr. Hoover would probably be the first to admit that the lord of the creek is the Small Boy. It is not the traditional cut pole and bent pin that give him the advantage over the city chap, however, as Bliss Perry has pointed out. Tackle is only a minor element: "If the Lord made that country boy a fisherman to begin with, and he knows the brook, he has already won more than half the battle." Besides, he has more enthusiasm than his elders and often more patience. He is less doctrinaire than they. Cynics may scoff at the idea of catching a bass with an apple, but he scoffs at the cynics.

To restore the ancient interval between bites, and even possibly to diminish it, Mr. Hoover has a definite program. Mass production, at least as it has been practiced in our hatcheries until lately, is a failure. We turn out millions if not billions of fry and fingerlings every year only to have them starve to death or get eaten up by their cannibalistic brethren. Mr. Hoover would not abandon mass production, but he would make the process more intensive. He wouldn't turn the fish loose in a wicked world too young. He would keep them in training until they are old enough to fend for themselves. Undoubtedly that is the only way to restore the country's game fisheries, and it is good news to learn that many States are already taking up the new technique.—New York Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Alberta coal may not be a seasonable topic, but a lot of Ontario people are glad to know that it is being officially talked about.

Mr. Hanna claims that the liquor rush is over. But the main body of the army of tourists has not yet arrived.

Ottawa reports only one arrest for drunkenness during the first five days of Government control. But that doesn't prove the Act a good piece of legislation any more than the Toronto week-end record proves it a bad one.

Kingston police are getting after the motorists who drive with one arm on the wheel and the other round a girl. The course of true love never did run smooth.

It is funny to hear men who never complained of the high cost of living grow excited over the high cost of beer.

A natural question is, how the Toronto papers are able to pick out the bootleggers in the line-up in front of the liquor stores.

BISHOP FAVORS INDEPENDENCE

U. S. Clergyman Say Protestants Would Free Phillipines From U. S.

FEARS RUBBER GROWERS.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., June 9. — British United Press. — Criticizing the domineering policy of the United States government, Bishop Mitchell, Methodist Episcopal dignitary of the Philippines Islands who is here on a holiday, expressed himself as sympathizing with the Philippiners in their agitation for national independence.

He feared that the growing eagerness of the United States to raise its own rubber supplies would delay complete freedom for the islands, owing to the desire of American capitalists for government protection for their interests. Protestant missionaries stationed in the Philippines he said, were championing the natives' cause, because "no strong nation has the right to impose its will on a weaker one."

BALKAN CRISIS LEFT TO LEAGUE

Jugo-Slav Government Unwilling To Express Regret For Note.

ITALY PEACEMAKER.

BELGRADE, June 8.Canadian Press —Jugo-Slavia, it was announced today, is willing to thresh out the Albanian difficulty through the League of Nations, and there is nothing to indicate undue excitement or a basis for the rumors spread abroad of martial law in Belgrade.

It was learned from authoritative sources to-day that the Italian Minister to Jugo-Slavia intimated that his country would seek to have Albania comply with the Jugo-Slav conditions, if Jugo-Slavia expressed regret over the alleged sharpness of its note to Albania, in connection with the arrest of an attache of the Jugo-Slav legation at Tirana.

It is said, however, that Belgrade is unwilling to do this, considering its position right and dignified.

TWO KILLED AT CROSSING

Train Hits Motor Car, Hurling It Two Hundred Feet.

TWO OTHERS HURT.

GUELPH, Ont., June 8 (Canadian Press).—Two people were instantly killed and two others seriously hurt to-day when a large sedan was struck by the Canadian Pacific Toronto to London train at Puslinch crossing, near here. The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Foster Hutchinson, Chicago, and the injured A. A. Colquhoun, member of the Legislature for South Perth, and Mrs. Colquhoun. Mrs. Colquhoun was reported to have suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and had several ribs broken. Mr. Colquhoun was also badly hurt but the extent of his injured could not be ascertained. So great was the impact that the car was thrown two hundred feet after being struck.

A Thought For To-day

AND THAT'S HOW IT WAS.
By WIHLA HUTSON

I did a favor yesterday,
A kindly little deed . . .
And then I called to all the world
To stop and look and heed.
They stopped and looked and flattered me
In words I could not trust,
And when the world had gone away
My good deed turned to dust.

A very tiny courtesty
I found to do today;
'Twas quickly done, with none to see,
An then I ran away . . .
But someone must have witnessed it,
For—truly I declare—
As I sped back the stony path
Roses were blooming there!

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, June 9 (Canadian Press).—Owing to the absence of any demand from foreign buyers, the export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was extremely quiet. The domestic market was also inactive and prices were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of Spring and Winter wheat flour were well maintained under a moderate demand.

The millfeed market continued active and firm. A moderate amount of business was done in standard grades of rolled oats and values were unchanged.

A feature of the potato trade of late has been the stronger feeling in the market and prices scored advances amounting to 35 cents per bag. This was attributed to the steady increasing demand from the South and other outside sources, and the small receipts available. Sales of New Brunswick Green Mountains were made at $3.00 per bag of 90 pounds, and Quebec White B grade at $2.75 per bag, and Reds at $2.30 to $2.40 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

The demand for eggs was fair and prices were steady. The receipts were 1,503 cases.

The butter market was again inactive but prices were unchanged. The receipts were 1,020 packages.

On account of the continued discouraging advices from abroad on the cheese situation, the steady accumulation of stocks on spot and the absence of any important demand, a weaker feeling prevailed in the local market, and prices were reduced another ¼c per pound. The recipts were 6,561 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 9 (Canadian Press). — All grain prices worked downward yesterday at the last, uncertainty over proposed trade legislation at Springfield having a depressing effect. There was much bullish news in regard to wheat, but sustined buying failed to follow up the turns. Wheat closed weak, ⅝ to 1⅛c net lower; corn ⅝ to 1c off; oats unchanged to ¼c up, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to a rise of 7 cents.

In addition to misgivings relative to the Kessinger bill at Springfield, the fact that the government crop report is due today tended further to bring about late selling of wheat.

Enlarged seeding operations attended by more auspicious weather did a good deal to ease down the corn market. Oats were steadied by assertions that the crops show a spotted condition in many places. Provisions displayed a firm undertone owing to signs of a fair investment demand for September and October lard.

WORKMAN KILLED BY FREIGHT TRAIN

Failed To Hear Approach of Engine While Cleaning Track.

PEMBROKE, Ont., June 8.—When he failed to hear the approach of a freight train ,owing to the noise of a road roller, John Tierny, aged 55, was instantly killed at five mile C. P.R. crossing, near Pembroke, at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. Deceased had been sent to clean the flange ways of the crossing of gravel upon hearing the train, but apparently failed to realize its closeness. He was stooped down at work when struck by a light westbound freight. The body was brought to Pembroke.

Deceased was a member of a road gang on the provincial highway and had been at his work only a few days. He was a life-long resident of Allumette Island and of recent years had been living with his son, William, who is at present farming the homestead. His wife survives.

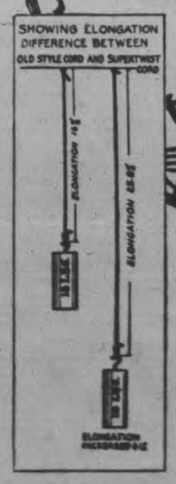
Greatest Because of Longer Mileage— Greater Traction—Finer Appearance



Announced only within the past month, the New Goodyear All-Weather Tread Balloon Tire, prior to its announcement, had proven itself the greatest tire ever offered. Greater even than the previous Goodyear Balloon which, as proved by its sales, had established itself firmly in the premier position.

In actual service on thousands of cars and for 5,400,000 tire miles on the Goodyear test fleet—this Great New Goodyear Balloon had vindicated in no uncertain manner its claim to being—The World's Greatest Tire.

SUPERTWIST Balloon Carcass

Never has Supertwist Cord had an opportunity to so thoroughly demonstrate its superior worth as in the New Goodyear Balloon.

Never has performance of a tire so clearly established the wisdom of Goodyear's foresight in developing in its own mills a Cord with inherent elasticity—a cord which itself stretches under road-shocks, and springs back without breaking. Supertwist is Goodyear's own product, reserved for use in Goodyear Tires alone.

Supertwist is 61% more elastic than old-style Cord (see chart to the left). It, therefore, absorbs shocks which would break old-style Cords, thus, of course, adding immeasurably to the life of the tire.

ALL-WEATHER Balloon Tread

This newest All-Weather Tread —the greatest tire tread ever devised—presages greater mileage and more efficient traction than has been given by any earlier type of balloon tire.

Selected from 86 tread designs —each exhaustively and impartially tested—this new design was chosen because:

It overcomes the typically rapid tread wear of Balloon Tires.
It "pinches" the road and grips and hangs on.
It runs smoothly and quietly.
It adds to the appearance of the car.
It carries the car safely around curves and even on wet pavements.

The great New Goodyear Balloon—The World's Greatest Tire—offers you the opportunity of at once enjoying the greater all-'round economy and satisfaction which the world's largest tire manufacturer now offers you at a price no higher than is asked for other tires.

TWO DIRIGIBLES FOR OCEAN USE

Trans-Atlantic Line Will Connect Great Britain and Canada.

PLANS ANNOUNCED

DETROIT, Mich., June 9. — Plans for inauguration of a trans-Atlantic air ship service between England and Canada for which the British government is now constructing two mammoth dirigibles, will include Detroit as a port of call, Major G. Herbert Scott, noted English dirigible pilot, announced here. At the same time plans were set on foot to another quarter to provide a prize for a commercial flight between Detroit and London.

The giant airships being built in England for this service will have a commercial capacity of 100 passengers and a cruising speed of 62 miles per hour. The first flight, tentatively scheduled from Croydon, will take place early in the fall of 1928, when the ship probably will end its initial voyage in this city.

Major Scott was a guest of a group of Detroiters interested in aeronautical developments at the Detroit Athletic Club yesterday. He has been in Canada several weeks inspecting sites for the construction of an airport terminal for the inter-ocean service.

Decision on the Canadian location of the airdrome will not be made until after Major Scott returns to England, he said.

Regardless of location of the Canadian airport, Detroit will be but a few hours farther west on the route laid out by the British government, Major Scott said. The strategical location of this city will undoubtedly make Detroit an important, if not the principal, United States terminal of inter-ocean service, if adequate development of a suitable airdrome is carried out here, he said.

While cruising speed of trans-ocean ships will be 62 miles per hour, they will have a maximum speed of 80 miles, he said. The air travelling range will be 5000 miles.

The ships will have a diameter of 130 feet and a length of slightly less than 800 feet. They will be powered by Diesel motors, thus eliminating what is considered one of the principal hazards of dirigible navigation. Helium will not be used because it reduces the commercial load approximately 50 per cent.

OMEMEE W.M.S.

Regular Monthly Meeting of Trinity Church Society Held Thursday.

OMEMEE, June 9.—About twenty ladies attended the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity Church on Thursday afternoon, in the Sunday School room. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Rowland, who conducted the opening exercises, after which a short business session followed. The assistant treasurer, Mrs. J. Shield, read the names of the new members, and an opportunity was given any to join for the ensuing year.

Correspondence was submitted by the secretary, Mrs. E. Bradburn, which had to do with the finances. As the church year has only commenced and in future will end with the calendar year, it will be necessary to increase the givings in order that at the close of the year the finances will total that of previous years. After a short discussion it was decided to use the monthly envelopes for systematic giving. Miss Eva Race, Mrs. Bradburn and Mrs. J. Widdiss having been appointed a finance committee.

Mrs. Rowland kindly offered to be responsible for the missionary talk in Sunday School the first Sunday in July.

The president reported that the five quilts were completed and ready for the bale.

The devotional meeting opened with the Scripture reading by Miss Eva Race, followed by the devotional leaflet entitled 'Faith and Its Obstacles," by Mrs. J. Bushnell. A full report of the W.M.S. Presbyterial held in Peterborough recently, was splendidly given by Mrs. F. G. Sandy and Mrs. Widdis, which was followed by a hearty vote of thanks endorsed by the gathering.

Miss Lila Parsons rendered a pleasing solo, "Lord, I Would Clasp Thy Hand," after which the meeting closed with prayer.

A social half hour was then enjoyed with Mrs. J. Bushnell, Mrs. P. Race and Miss N. Rutherford as hostesses.

THE LURE OF THE MOUNTAINS

Many people in these days are like the Psalmist in wishing to lift up their eyes unto the hills. In all ages mountains have had a fascination for the people of the earth. Early races worshipped up hills or looked to the mountains as the dwelling places of their deities. In these days the mountains have an increasing lure to all classes who are in a position to make the necessary trip to reach them, and in Canada we are indeed fortunate in having mountain scenery which in variety and extent cannot be surpassed anywhere.

The Rocky Mountains with the Selkirk and Coast Mountains form a veritable mountaineer's paradise. Its extent is so great as to provide fresh trails and deeper thrills each season for those who have the hardihood year after year to seek out the secrets of the hills. Many of these adventurous playgrounds have been mapped by the Topographical Survey, Department of the Interior, and very excellent maps are available. Some of these maps of park areas have been issued in co-operation with the Canadian National Parks Branch of the Department and may be obtained from either office. Other map series which may be obtained from the Topographical Survey comprise the interprovincial boundary map sheets extending from the United States border to the crossing of the Canadian National rail way at Yellowhead Pass with other sheets north of this being issued from time to time, the Banff, Donald and Calgary sheets of the Sectional Map of Canada in the new revised series, and the Lake Louise and Kamloops sheets of the National Topographic Series. Indexes of any of these series and information as to prices of the maps will be gladly furnished upon application ot the Topographical Survey, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

MORE CANADIANS READ GOOD BOOKS

Toronto Librarian Finds Bigger Demand For Better Type of Literature.

TORONTO, Ont., June 9 (Canadian Press). — Commenting recently on Canadian public statistics for the past year, Dr. George Locke, chief librarian of the Toronto Library, remarked that the figures proved conclusively that the automobile, the moving pictures, and the radio are not presenting the serious competition to reading which many people feared they would.

"Canadians are reading more assiduously than ever before ,and they are reading better books," said Dr. Locke. "While, of course, the demand for the cheaper popular fiction continues to be heavy, reports from all the libraries show a steadily increasing demand for biographies and books of travel. People are demonstrating an ever-growing curiosity concerning those few sections of the world which are not yet fully known; and such books as Lawrence's "Revolt in Arabia' are being eagerly sought after.

"The more expensive products of the bookmaker's craft are treated by library users with a greater respect than are the cheaper editions. Of course, a certain number of volumes are lost, stolen, or mutilated each year; but it is clear that the public regard for books is on the increase.

"We may lose 20 books out of a quarter of a million in circulation," continued Dr. Locke, "but book vandalism is dying out. The reader who insists upon writing comments such as 'rotten' or 'great stuff' in the margins of borrowed volumes is no longer so constant a source of annoyance.

"The child particularly gives a beautiful book the care which it deserves. He quickly learns to realize the part which artistic binding and printing, good paper, and fine illustrating play in the worth of a volume. We can feel more secure in trusting children with expensive editions than adults."

Juvenile readers also display better taste in the reading matter which they prefer, according to the librarian. The patrons of the Boys' and Girls 'House connected with the Toronto Library, manifest an omnivorous appetite for solid British classics which are not generally supposed to appeal to the childish taste. Eagerly they gobble up Dickens and Stevenson, then call for more in the line of the latest books of travel and science. They often display a supercilious scorn for the more frivolous fiction consumed by their elders. They appreciate good writing, particularly when combined with vivid action.

So, through the work of the public libraries, the rising generation of Canadians promises to be made up of discriminating readers. Certainly there is no indication that reading as a pastime will be overwhelmed by the more hectic amusements which, during the past decade, have become available.

SAFEGUARDING MILK BY PASTEURIZATION

One of the most valuable advances towards the more general control and safeguarding of the milk supply in the United States and Canada was the appointment of the "Commission on Milk Standards" of which I have the honour to be a member. The appointment of this Commission was the direct result of the observations of the New York Milk Committee, that there was great incompleteness and lack of uniformity in the milk standards, milk ordinances and rules and regulations protecting public milk supplies. There was a need that health officers be furnished conclusions drawn from much experience and matured judgment, and that ordinances should be free from erroneous statements and as uniform as possible.

A special committee of the New York Milk Committee was appointed to consider names of more than 200 men of prominence in medicine, sanitation, public health and laboratory work, particularly those recognized as authorities on the milk question. Since regulations are based on standards and standards are based chiefly on laboratory analyses, the sub-committee selected 20 names of men distinguished for their knowledge of the bacteriological and chemical examination of milk to comprise a committee to formulate standards of milk production and handling which could be incorporated in the regulations of a state, provincial or municipal department of health.

In a report issued by this Commission on Milk Standards, standards were published to govern milk supplies in the various municipalities, permitting of modification to meet local conditions. The one recommendation, however, which was universal was that all milk not coming from tuberculin tested cattle and procured under conditions necessary for the production of certified milk, should be efficiently pasteurized. The majority of the committee were of the opinion that regulations should require that all milk, including the certified milk, be pasteurized, before being used for infant feeding, but inasmuch as it was not unanimous, it was decided to forego the regulation governing the pasteurization of certified milk, leaving this optional.

Oats were easier. Provisions tended downgrade.

Artificial Life to Be Produced By Scientists Is View of Sir Oliver Lodge, Noted Physicist

LONDON, June 9 (United Press), — Sir Oliver Lodge, noted physicist, believes life may some day be created in laboratories by biologists, he told the Oxford University Phychological Society last night. "From some points of view I regard it as inevitable," he said.

Sir Oliver said life is dependent on matter and chemical and physical energy for its manifestation and development.

"Many organic compounds," he continued, "found in living organs or secreted by them have already been made in the laboratory, beginning with urea and continuing up to sugar, starch, and numerous other compounds.

"For that reason, it has sometimes been said by students of organic chemistry and by biochemists studying protoplasm that if we could contrive in the laboratory to continue manufacturing those organic compounds until we made a mass protoplasm and were able to subject it to suitable treatment they would expect that artificial protoplasm to exhibit vitality and manifest one or other form of life.

Mrs. Coolidge Donates Long Skirt to Museum

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(United Press.)—In this age of knee length skirts, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge has elected to go down in history as wearing hers touching the floor. The dress by which the Coolidge administration will be remembered in the collection of costumes worn by Presidents' wives in the National Museum here, has just been put in place beside the contributions of Mrs. Warren G. Harding and the second Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

This dress is of the vintage of 1924 and already looks a trifle out of date. It was worn by Mrs. Coolidge at one of the first State receptions over which she presided as mistress of the White House.

WINDSHIELD BROKEN.

A tourist en route for Pigeon Lake had a narrow escape this morning on the Chemong road, when his car overturned in the ditch just outside the city boundary.

The car, a coupe, was heavily weighted in the rear by a large number of tools and utensils for use in the cottage. On coming to the uneven ground beyond the city a large crosscut saw began to wobble and the motorist, intending to remove it, slackened his pace and turned his head to the rear.

The car, moving very slowly, ran along a patch on grass near the side of the road, from which, despite the application of the brakes, it skidded into the ditch and completely overturned. The driver managed to clear himself and escaped unhurt. Beyond a broken windshield, the car, on inspection, did not show any signs of damage.

UNTAMABLE LIONS PERFORM IN ARENA

Sparks' Group Among Finest Specimens Now Being Exhibited.

Sparks' lions, eight in number, are acknowledged to be the finest specimens of jungle-bred beasts now performing in the steel arena. These animals, while trained, are still untamed, and to handle them requires a degree of skill and daring possessed by few trainers.

"Bearding the lion in his den", has always been considered the supreme test of daring, and no one will doubt this who witnesses the intrepid trainer of Sparks' lions step into the immense steel arena and close its barred door behind him.

From the moment the trainer shuts himself in with these ferocious beasts, it is only his indomitable will power coupled with his nerve that makes the man the master of the beast. Any sign of fear on his part would by some instinct be immediately sensed by the great, shaggy maned animals, any one of which could with a stroke of the paw end the much vaunted dominion of man over beast. But the animal instinct is overcome by the sheer will power of the man and his unflinching gaze.

There are always a few people—a very few—who watching the daring trainer handling the lions, and making them jump through a loop, like well-trained grey hounds, say to themselves, "any man with nerve enough could step in and do that." But you will notice the qualification, "with nerve enough." If you asked for a volunteer "with nerve enough" you wouldn't get a single response, even among daring performers who risk life and limb in midair, and see these same lions perform twice a day.

Sparks Circus, with the largest collection of trained wild animals now being exhibited, comes to Peterborough next Saturday afternoon and night.

Tickets, both general admission and reserved seats, will be on sale circus day at Bond's Drug Store, 399 George street, at same price as at grounds—children under 10, 35 cents; adults, 75 cents.

EUROPE LOSING SAYS MUSSOLINI

Brother of Italian Premier Refers To Conflict of Continents.

PLEASED WITH ITALY.

MILAN, June 9 (United Press).—Arnaldo Mussolini, writing in Il Popolo l'Italia on the general European situation, says:

"If with American power, wealth and energy there ran a parallel universal idea, we would immediately face the possibility of readjustment in directing the elements of Europe toward the other side of the Atlantic. This does not seem imminent and perhaps may never happen. Meanwhile Europe is losing ground without knowing it, either through characteristic uneasiness of various peoples or because other people full of new energy and life, are rising with more arduous conceptions than Europeans. This is a conflict of continents, not of nations."

The brother of the Premier referred to Jugo-Slavia's exploiting of ancient concepts and uselessly attracting the attention of the entire world because Albania jailed a dragoman.

"Italy sees the world without any preconceived ideas," he said "We have reason to be pleased with our political life and new corporative system."

CANADA DINNER SOUTH OF DIXIE

Canadian Delegates To International Convention Fraternize at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 9. (Special) —In the galaxy of district dinners held in connection with the convention of Kiwanis International, that of the Ontario, Quebec and Western Canada district at the Peabody Hotel held a unique and honored place. The memory of an all-Canadian dinner in the atmosphere and hospitality of good old Dixie will long linger.

Eighty-five persons were in attendance, including a representation from British Columbia, which province forms part of the Pacific North-west District of Kiwanis. Gov. W. R. Cockburn, Ontario-Quebec District, presided. To his right was Governor Darker of the Western Canada District, who was presented with a pair of framed pictures, views of old London the gift of Governor Cockburn, on behalf of his district. H. Stanley Higman vice-president Kiwanis International, made the presentation, and Governor Darker gave fitting acknowledgment. Travelling minstrels, orators, whistlers, quartettes, and others who journeyed from one dinner party to another, kept the entertainment at a very high point. International officers brought words of greeting.

A feature of special interest was an exchange of flags San Bernardino Club, California, and Riverdale, Canada, the latter club being represented by president F. M. Johnston. Inspirational and in keeping with Canada's part in the great Kiwanis movement was the address by Harry W. Whitlaw, past governor of Western Canada and chairman of the International committee on Public affairs.

"Rinso is by far the most wonderful laundry soap I have ever used. All the rubbing, scrubbing, and boiling are eliminated. "No matter how soiled the clothes a few hours in Rinso suds makes them clean and white. "The wash takes little effort on my part and the clothes last lots longer for not having to be rubbed so hard. "Rinso is the best washday friend I have. I am always glad to speak of its good qualities." MRS. G. LIMMON, 278 Henny St. Peterborough, Ont.

It's a revelation! Such sweet-smelling cleanliness, such snow-dazzling whiteness, colored clothes so bright and unfaded! And all by soaking!

The new, easy way to wash is to soak clothes clean—in Rinso. No hard rubbing, no boiling necessary.

HAVELOCK COUNCIL TAKES OUT POLICY

To Insure Village Against Accidents on Public Property.

HAVELOCK, June 9.—The regular meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening in the Council Chamber, with all members present.

A communication was received from W. G. Perks, civil engineer of Peterborough, enclosing a petition for drainage system. This petition is to be circulated and should have the signatures of the majority of the property owners where the drain passes through before the council can get an engineer to take levels and make a report of what it will cost to fix the drain. The petition is merely to request the council to procure an estimate. It is then up to the property owners and council if they care to go on with the work or not. The drain in question is the main drain of the village, and runs from Quebec street east through private property, crossing Ottawa street in front of A. Derrett's property. A few had signed the petition and the matter was left over until another meeting in order to get the required number of signatures.

A communication from A. E. Wilson and Co. of Toronto, re Globe Indemnity policy taken out b ythe council at May meeting on approval for thirty days, enclosing an invoice for $100 the amount of premium. "This insurance is protection against injuries from accidents on streets, ways and parks, etc.

On motion of Councillors Leeson and Gordon the policy was accepted.

A communication was received from the Toronto Globe requesting the village to advertise in the Tourist number. The clerk was authorized to send an advertisement one and a half inches long by a column wide.

Moved by Councillors Leeson and Maig, that council purchase ten tons of calcium chloride at the car-load rate.

Moved in amendment by Councillors Spencer and Gordon: That Council use the amount of money it would take to purchase the calcium chloride and put rock on the streets. The Reeve was in favor of the calcium chloride, but thought it was more than the Council should spend and suggested that half of the amount be purchased for use around the business section from Quebec Street to Orange Street, the carload price of the calcium chloride is $35 per ton The Councillors who made the motion thought it would require as much as last year to give satisfaction, so the Reeve voted in favor of the motion The Clerk was authorized to send the by-law for traffic regulations to the Highway Department for approval, with a view of having the traffic laws enforced in the village

The traffic signs for the corners which have been newly painted were ordered to be placed.

On motion of Councillors Spencer and Haig, the following accounts were passed:

SHOWER BOR BRIDE.

Miss Doris Hill Recipient of Many Gifts From Lakefield Friends.

LAKEFIELD, June 9.—On Thursday evening last the Misses Kidd were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Doris Hill, who will be a bride of June. About thirty young ladies were present and a very delightful evening was spent. Mrs. McMillen sang a topical song which contained several allusions to the sad tale of matrimony and little Alice Chappell, a pretty little maiden, clad in dainty white, drew into the living room a decorated wagon containing a clothes basket filled with a large assortment of gifts for the popular bride. Miss Elta Garbutt played the bridal chorus as the little girl was bringing in the wagon.

Miss Hill thanked her friends for their kind thoughts and good wishes and assured them of her appreciation of both.

During the evening Mrs. D. H. Webster and Mrs. McMillen sang solos which were much enjoyed and Miss Ora Dunford gave a recitation.

An Ex-Buck Private Goes Back to France

Children waiting for teacher at a school door. Both school and church were destroyed by German shells; the old Army hut shown in the picture is being used for both.

DEAR MAC:

I am making this note just above the "Post" on the Bapaume road, where a branch goes off towards Contalmaison. There is a memorial here to the Tyneside Scottish and Irish Brigades, unveiled by Marshal Foch. It is in granite, designed in the form of a semi-circular seat, and is the first permanent regimental memorial upon a road which has many. Its site is the entrance to La Boiselle, and today La Boiselle is a village. When we were here in 1916 it was a nullity, without form and void. Bright brick houses have been built on exactly those sites upon which houses stood before. This actual replacement is almost the general rule, though how the sites of houses were identified is a mystery to the visitor. Old communal maps rescued from Mairies, and others stored in Amiens helped the returning refugees and the local authorities to locate the sites of the old homes.

In much the same way, the former Canadian soldier who served on the Somme may look about for his old home, but with much less chance of success. Except for two sections of trench line "preserved" as war memorials, you will find no trenches on the Somme. Grass grows, and "Reparation" cows feed where once, below ground, was a battalion headquarters, complete with telephones, typewriters, maps, papers, and, perchance, a gramaphone. All are gone without a trace. Green grass, or beet, or corn, is growing on top. Was the war, after all, only the hideous nightmare it seemed?

In much the same way, we who visited the battlefield of Waterloo in 1918 wondered that the famous ravine should have disappeared. Here it was that hundreds of men of both armies were buried, and it was in 1918 level ground.

Near La Boiselle, a recently-ploughed field gives the answer. The plough has gone deeply, and, strewn over the surface is a miscellaneous assortment of corrugated iron (rusted, crumpled and thin), old wire, bits of shell, fragments of wagons and limbers. In a day or two, all this debris will have been collected, and dumped by the side of the road, and the particular metal buyer who has bought all the scrap metal in this area will, in due time, collect it. It is strange to think, Mac, that these sheets of corrugated iron that we carried miles to build a dugout in 1916 are again to be handled after eleven years, and this time they will be carried to the scrap-heap!

This process has been going on for years, and still the plough throws up these relics of battle and camp.

Sometimes an unexploded shell is found, and the Maire will be notified. Later, a government expert will come round and, while the farm workers are at their mid-day meal, he will explode the shell electrically. But there are imported Polish labourers hereabouts, the rear-guard of those civilian labour corps who filled in the trenches. These men covet the copper bands and nose-caps to be found on unexploded shells. They will think nothing of attacking the nose-cap of a "dud" shell with hammer and chisel! Usually the shell has so far deteriorated as to be harmless, but, occasionally, their luck fails them. Casualties still occur on the Somme battlefields.

While the visitor may look in vain hereabouts for trenches, he will find two familiar features of the landscape much as they were in the War. They are the great mine craters near La Boiselle. The better known crater, to the left, and in full view of the road, is much visited, but away to the right is a larger cavity. By the left crater stands a hut inhabited by vigilant young people ready, at the sound of an approaching car, to bring out postcards showing the considerable alteration made in the appearance of La Boiselle by two artificial earthquakes invoked by the British on 1st July, 1916. On the other side of the road, the "Cafe de la Grand Mine" testifies to the pride of the inhabitants in the new possession of La Boiselle.

At Ovillers.

"Away in the distance, Ovillers nestles in the valley, while a bright white patch marks the British cemetery. If you are tempted down Artillery Lawn which, in the winter of 1916-17 was "stiff" with British guns, but is now so peaceful that your own footfalls are the only sound, you will find Ovillers rising from its ruins. A large Nissen hut stands where once stood the notice "This WAS Ovillers Church." And the hut is now the Church, complete with a respectable bell. Farms and houses, substantial brick structures in place of the old timber and plaster buildings, now occupy the sites of such once-important places as the bath house and the light railway headquarters. The light railway is, of course, no more, and Wolfe Huts which nestled so securely with their backs to a bank below the Bapaume Road, have left no trace of their former glories, even the scars in the chalky bank having been obscured by grass.

And now, Mac, we are getting up to more familiar ground. The Bapaume road was known to us principally as a way of getting somewhere else. It was farther up that we got ours—Poizieres we know well; Thiepval and Courcellette better. And I shall have something surprising to tell you of Poizieres in my next letter.

—PAUL ADAMS.

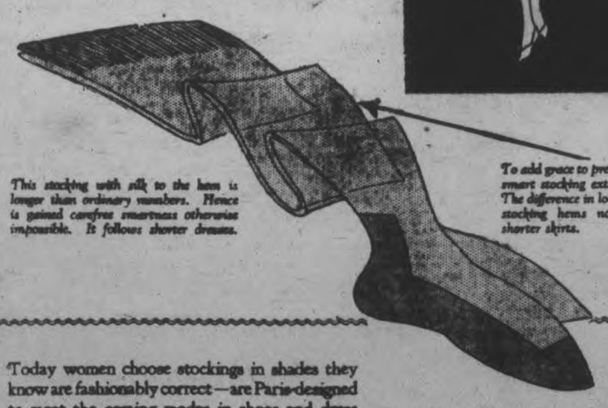
This Chic Stocking Coloured by LUCILE, Paris

GIVES THE 2 NEW HOSIERY FEATURES WOMEN ASKED FOR—IN PARIS-CREATED SHADES

"Original Lucile—Paris Fashion Sketch"

NEW styles in shoes, the new dress fabrics call for harmonizing shades in hosiery. In this new stocking you may choose from shades specially designed for Holeproof. And in hose that provide 2 unique features. Now with shorter skirts the stocking hem must be concealed—the top kept higher. Note how both are accomplished in this new number. Pure thread silk gives it distinction. Run stop, reinforced heel and toe give greater wear. Be sure to see it.

$1.50 Ask for No. 991



This stocking with silk to the hem is longer than ordinary numbers. Hence is gained comfort smartness otherwise impossible. It follows shorter dresses.

To add grace to pretty legs the silk in this smart stocking extends above the knee. The difference in looks is amazing. Now stocking hems no longer show with shorter skirts.

Today women choose stockings in shades they know are fashionably correct—are Paris-designed to meet the coming modes in shoes and dress materials. So Holeproof, in its colours, offers you the world-famous authority, Lucile, Paris. Each shade Lucile creates and sends exclusively to Holeproof. A new and all-important feature added to these stockings known to 2,000,000 women by their famous fashion points.

Exquisite clearness. In sheer weights clearness comes only through uniformly even thread. The lack of it in cheaper silks causes unsightly shadow rings. So at greater cost Holeproof selects silk judged the world's finest.

Superlative transparency, even in the heavier weights. There is no cloudiness, no streaking. First the silk is tested, then it undergoes the special Holeproof treatment.

No loose ends. Loose threads mar appearance. So Holeproof carefully trims the inside of each stocking by hand.

No imperfections. Style vanishes with imperfections. And here Holeproof safeguards you by nine separate inspections. It is a fact that few other fine hose are so uniformly perfect.

Could Not Sleep Heart and Nerves Were So Bad

Mr. Geo. Mosk, Windsor, Ont., writes:—"I suffered with my heart and nerves and could not sleep at night for noises in my head, I managed to keep at my work somehow, until I began to have dizzy spells which got so bad I could not go to my work. I was afraid to go out any place, for very often I would stagger on my feet, and everything in front of me would turn black and fade away. While I was home sick a friend told me to take I got four boxes and by the time I had used them the pains and noises in my head ceased and I was able to get a good night's rest. Y.P.U. CONDUCTS CHURCH SERVICE

Takes Charge of Omemee United Church During Pastor's Absence.

OMEMEE, June 9[illegible] Conference Sunday, the morning service was dispensed with in Trinity United Church. In the evening the Young People's Union had charge of the service, and the programme was in the hands of the Leaguers. The president, Miss Violet McBain, conducted the meeting. The Scripture lesson was read by Miss Marion Rea, while prayer was offered by Mr. F. G. Sandy and other members of the group.

The choir rendered a pretty carol, entitled "The Universal Song," and the hymns used were familiar numbers chosen from the Canadian Hymnal.

The service was unique for a Sunday evening gathering, and was bright and cheerful. The following paper given by Miss Mary Faulkner speaks for itself and delighted the audience.

"Cheerfulness."

God bless the cheerful person — man, woman or child, old or young, illiterate or educated, handsome or homely. Over and above every other social trait stands cheerfulness—what the sun is to nature, what the stars are to night, what God is to the stricken heart which knows how to lean upon Him are cheerful persons in the house and by the wayside. Man recognizes the magic of a cheerful influence in woman more quickly and more willingly than the potency of dazzling genius, of commanding worth or even of enslaving beauty.

If we are cheerful and contented, all nature smiles with us; the air seems more balmy, the sky more clear, the ground has a brighter green, the trees have a richer foliage, the flowers a more fragrant smell, the birds sing more sweetly, and the sun, moon and stars all appear more beautiful.

Cheerfulness! How sweet in infancy, how lovely in youth, how saintly in age! There are a few noble natures whose very presence carries sunshine with them wherever they go; a sunshine which means pity for the poor, sympathy for the suffering, help for the unfortunate and benignity toward all. How such a face enlivens every other face it meets and carries into every company, vivacity and joy and gladness. But the scowl and frown, begotten in a selfish heart and manifesting itself in daily, almost hourly, fretfulness, complaining, fault finding, angry criticisms, spiteful comments on the motives and actions of others, how they ruin the cheek, shrivel the face, sour and sadden the countenance! No joy in the heart, no nobility in the soul, no generosity in the nature; the whole character as arid as an iceberg, as hard as Alpine rock, as arid as the wastes of Sahara! Which of these countenances are you cultivating? If you find yourself losing all your confidence in human nature, you are nearing an old age of vinegar, of wormwood and of gall; and not a mourner will follow your solitary bier, not one tear-drop shall ever fall on your forgotten grave.

Look at the bright side, keep the sunshine of a living faith in the heart. Do not let the shadow of discouragement and despondency fall on your path. However weary you may be, the promises of God will never cease to shine, like the stars at night to cheer and strengthen. Learn to wait as well as labor. The best harvests are the longest in ripening. It is not pleasant to work in the earth plucking the ugly tares and weeds, but it is as necessary as sowing the seed. The harder the task, the more need of singing. A hopeful spirit will discern the silver lining of the darkest cloud, for back of all planning and doing with its attendant discouragements and hindrances, shines the light of Divine promise and help. Ye are God's husbandmen. It is for you to be faithful. He gives the increase.

Be cheerful, for it is the only happy life. The times may be hard but it will make them no easier to wear a gloomy and sad countenance. It is the sunshine and not the cloud that makes the flower. There is always that before or around us which should fill the heart with warmth. The sky is blue ten times where it is black once. You have troubles, it may be, so have others. None are free from them. Perhaps it is as well that none should be. They give sinew and tone to life — fortitude and courage to man.

That would be a dull sea and the sailor would never gain skill, where there was nothing to disturb the surface of the ocean. It is the duty of everyone to extract all the happiness and enjoyment he can without and within him, and, above all, he should look at the bright side of things. What though things do look a little dark? The lane will turn and the night will end in broad day. In the long run, the great balance rights itself. What is ill becomes well. What is wrong becomes right. Men are not made to hang down either heads or lips; and those who do, only show that they are departing from the paths of true common-sense and right. There is more virtue in one sunbeam than a whole hemisphere of cloud and gloom. Cultivate what is warm and genial—not the cold and repulsive, the dark and morose.

We always know the cheerful man by his hearty "Good morning." As well might fog and cloud and vapour hope to cling to the sun illumined landscape as the blues and moroseness to remain in any countenance of the cheerful one with a hearty "Good morning!" Don't forget to say it and say it cheerfully, and with a smile. It will do you good and do your friends good. There's a kind of inspiration in every "Good morning," heartily and smilingly spoken, that helps to make hopes fresher, and work lighter. It seems really to make the morning good and a prophecy of a good day to come after it. And if this be true of the "Good morning," it is also, of all kind cheerful greetings: They cheer the discouraged, rest the tired one and somehow make the wheels of time run more smoothly.

Be liberal then and let no morning pass, however dark and gloomy it may be, that you do not help at least to brighten it by your smiles and cheerful words. The cheerful are the busy. When trouble knocks at your door or rings the bell, he will generally retire if you send him word "busy." And a busy life cannot well be otherwise than cheerful. Frogs do not croak in running water, and active minds are seldom troubled with gloomy forbodings. They come up only from the stagnant depths of a spirit unstirred by generous impulses or the blessed necessities of honest toil.

What shall we say by way of commending that sweet cheerfulness by which a good and sensible woman diffuses the oil of gladness in the proper sphere of home.

The best specimens of heroism in the world were never gazetted. They play their role in common life and their reward is not in the admiration of spectators, but in the deep joy of their own conscious thoughts. It's best exhibition is in the dark background of real adversity. Affairs assume a gloomy aspect, poverty is hovering about the door, sickness has already entered, days of hardship and nights of watching go slowly by, and now you see the triumph of which we speak. God bless that bright, sunny face! says many a person as he recalls that one of mother, wife, sister or daughter which has been to him all that these words have described.

The industrious bee stops, not to complain that there are so many poisonous flowers and thorny branches in his road, but buzzes on, selecting the honey where he can find it, and passing quietly by the places where it is not. There is enough in this world to complain about and find fault with, if people have that disposition. We often travel on a hard and uneven road, but with a cheerful spirit and a heart to praise God for his mercies, we may walk therein with great comfort and come to the end of our journey in peace.

Let us try to be like the sunshiny member of the family, who has the inestimable art to make all duty seem pleasant, all self-denial and exertion easy, and desirable, even disappointment not so blank and crushing; who is like a bracing, crisp, frosty atmosphere throughout the home, without a suspicion of the element that chills and pinches. You have known people within whose influence you felt cheerful, amiable, and hopeful, equal to anything. I do not know a more enviable gift than the energy to sway others to good; to diffuse around us an atmosphere of cheerfulness, piety, truthfulness and generosity. It is not a matter of great talent, not entirely a matter of great energy; but rather of earnestness and honesty, and of that quiet constant energy which is like soft rain gently penetrating the soil. It is rather a grace than a gift; and we all know where all grace is to be had freely for the asking.

"The Lord hath made this world of ours
Most beautiful and bright;
The golden sun to rule by day,
The moon and stars by night;
But souls are wand'ring far from Him
In darkened paths astray,
So make us, Saviour, more and more,
A light along the way.

So many need a helping hand,
A kindly word of cheer;
To tell them of the Mighty Friend
Whose grace is always near.
Oh make us prompt to hear Thy voice,
And ready to obey,
That we may be, to saddened hearts,
A light along the way.

Some lives shine out like beacons grand,
Some seem but candles small,
But if we truly shine for Him
The Lord hath need of all.
Oh may His spirit fill our souls,
And lead us, day by day,
That, tho' unworthy, we shall be
A light along the way."

New Treatment for Indigestion

A Drugless preparation which restores the digestive juices to the inactive stomach.

This new treatment is after the nature of insulin, since it supplies to the stomach the active principle which brings about the digestion of the food, just as insulin carries on the work of the pancreas.

Again it is like insulin because it is taken from the digestive organ—the stomach—of animals and after suitable preparation administered to the human stomach.

Digestion is brought about in the stomach by means of digestive juices, which attack the food in the stomach and break it down into ingredients which can be absorbed by the blood.

For one reason or another, these digestive fluids become dried up and you suffer from indigestion. The active principles of the digestive fluids are known as enzymes. By introducing new enzymes to the digestive fluids of the stomach, you positively remove the cause of indigestion.

This is exactly what this new discovery, which is known as Renzyme, does. It supplies enzymes to the digestive fluids and therefore immediately restores their effectiveness in digesting food in the stomach.

Someone has said that the soul of man is in the pit of his stomach. One thing certain, one cannot accomplish much or enjoy life while suffering from indigestion.

For centuries scientists have sought relief from stomach troubles. All sorts of drug combinations have been tried without affording more than temporary relief.

Now the problem has been solved by the discovery of Renzyme. It is only after years of work in the laboratory and almost endless experiments that this product has been perfected in a form that will keep indefinitely when bottled.

The merit and effectiveness of Renzyme has been thoroughly established in hundreds of cases and medical doctors who have watched its action in chronic indigestion are most enthusiastic in its praise.

It is nature's relief for indigestion. It is immediately effective and cannot fail because it transfers from one stomach to another the active principle which brings about digestion of the food.

LAWYER THINKS U. S. CITIZENS OPPOSE TREATY

J. H. Clark Says They Don't Want Smuggling Agreement Lived Up To.

ARGUES FOR EXPORTERS.

Submission of Customs Commission Counsel and Answers Being Heard.

MONTREAL, June 8 (Canadian Press). — "I honestly think that the Americans are not at all desirous of seeing the provisions of the anti-smuggling treaty lived up to," J. H. Clark, Windsor, Ont., lawyer, declared to the Royal Customs Commission to-day. Mr. Clark was arguing on behalf of certain Windsor liquor export houses against the submissions made by the Hon. N. W. Rowell, counsel for the Commission.

"If the United States wanted to stop the flow of liquor across the sixteen miles of water front, it could be done very easily," Mr. Clark said, referring to the Windsor situation.

Commissioner W. H. Wright asked Mr. Clark if he was suggesting that Canada should follow the example of the United States, assuming counsel's contention to be right. The treaty was a solemn agreement between the two countries, and should be fulfilled.

While agreeing with this, Mr. Clark said that if the people of the United States ignored the treaty the question arose as to whether Canadians were bound to continue observing it.

The whole of the morning sitting was occupied with submissions by counsel and argument.

About $60,000 in cash and negotiable inclosures, received annually in the dead letter office, goes into the exchequer of the office. Each successful claimant for advertised unclaimed letters is assessed one penny.

AUBURN MAN SLAIN BY BULL

John Arthur Thrown Through Opening Into Pump House.

IN FRIEND'S YARD.

AUBURN, Ont., June 9. — John Arthur, a life-long resident and prominent merchant of Auburn, was found dead in a building adjoining the barn of E. H. Robertson's farm, near here, about 10 p.m., on Monday evening. Mr. Robertson had been away during the evening, and when he returned about ten o'clock he found his Jersey bull and a strange cow loose in the yard. He put the animal in the stable and did not find him anyway excited, then made a search of the barn and yard without finding anything, and was about to give up the search when he opened a small door opening into a pump-house in connection with the barn, and discovered the remains of Mr. Arthur lying in that building. Dr. Weir was summoned but life was extinct.

The bull had apparently thrown the body through a small opening over the water trough and was unable to follow. Mr. Arthur had evidently attempted to lead the beast from his stall when he found Mr. Robertson was not home, as the lead stick was later found in the yard, but being strange the animal had turned on him. Mr. Arthur who has conducted a boot and shoe business in Auburn for some years, leaves a widow and five small children.

Montgomery, Mo., June 9 (United Press). — T. W. Allen, of Richland Church, near here, claims a Leghorn rooster with a maternal instinct. The rooster has been sitting two weeks on a nest of 21 eggs, and promises to hatch out a fine family.

"He is as faithful on the job as any hen would be," Allen said.

The farmer plans to enter the Leghorn and his family in the State Poultry Show.

Jungle Breath

© 1927 by NEA Service. by Ben Lucien Burman

THIS HAS HAPPENED

LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, is summoned to the little jungle-bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, by his young friend, VILAK, who is concerned for the safety of his beautiful cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, owner of a coffee plantation and other property near Porto Verde.

Several mysterious deaths have occurred, including that of TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise's foremen, and the girl herself has received warnings to get out of the country.

Vilak, who poses at times as a barber and at others as ATTORNEY DAVIS, believes GAYLORD PRENTISS, a reticent and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise, may be involved some way in the deaths. Accordingly, he and Nunnally set out for Prentiss' house, which is guarded by barbed wire fences and a vicious dog. Elise insists on joining them. Prentiss sets the dog on them and Vilak saves his companions' lives by chloroforming it into unconsciousness.

Returning to Elise's plantation, they run across two notorious characters of Porto Verde in the midst of a violent quarrel. Both men snatch off their hats and bow politely as Vilak's party approaches.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XII.

Vilak saluted them amiably. "You still look at the moon, Detto, Pasquale?" he queried.

"Si, si, Meester Davis," they chorused eagerly.

"But there is no moon."

They looked at each other in bewilderment, then at Vilak, and grinned sheepishly. "Meester Davis, he likes makka da joke," said Pasquale, the grin making the great gap in his teeth more apparent. "Pasquale and Detto lika make joke, too."

Vilak gazed at the Italians quizzically. "Laugh and grow fat, and live a long time. And sleep, also . . . at nights, Detto. This also helps to live longer. Much, much longer, Pasquale."

A few moments later they turned into the driveway which led to Elise's house. A light rain began to fall, swiftly becoming a down-pour. "Very helpful for a flood," Elise declared as she leaned over in her saddle and with her riding crop struck futilely at a cascavel, the Brazilian rattlesnake, which was wriggling across the gravel. "Well, if the dam must break I hope it does so in the daytime. I'm not at all enthusiastic about being routed out of my bed and riding up to the mountains a la Lady Godiva. Here, here!" she broke off suddenly. "We're violating our agreement. You're making me be feminine in spite of myself. "You're getting drenched while I calmly wear your raincoat. Take the blessed thing. You've let me keep it just to humiliate me."

"I don't desire to humiliate you, my charming cousin. But I must insist that in a pouring rain it seems a little more sensible that you keep on the coat." She attempted to remove it. He checked her. She resisted. "Very well," he said at last. "Take it off and give it to me. Anything to make you happier."

She tossed it over his shoulders "Thank you," he said.

In a moment the torrent had drenched her to the skin. But she rode on smilingly. They halted before the door of the dim-lighted veranda, gleaming white in the rain. Vilak wiped off water which had dripped onto the holster of his pistol. "I was going to see Nanny back to his hotel," he said. "But perhaps under the circumstances we'd both better stay here tonight. Nanny won't object, I'm sure. I'll stay in my regular room, if you don't mind. Call me if you hear or see the slightest thing suspicious."

They dismounted and entered. "Sleep well, Nanny," Vilak called to the old man, who was fairly obliterated by the towels and dressing gowns put over his shoulders and arms.

"Er . . . sleep?" The chemist looked at him protestingly. "I'll never sleep, er . . . again, Vilak, no . . . never."

"The events of the day too much for you? This was really nothing, mon cher. If you stay in Porto Verde a few days, judging by the way things appear, I think I can safely promise you a few hours that even a hardened sinner like myself will call exciting." His face grew serious again. "Don't forget, Elise. Whatever happens that's unusual, call me. No matter how slight or insignificant it may seem. Your life may depend on it. Good night."

Affetionately he watched the old man and the girl disappear into another part of the house. He turned out all the lights except one, a dim hooded candle over the fireplace, and began slowly pacing up and down the brilliant carpet.

The Chinese cast of his eyes became accentuated again; slowly he took out a pellet of betel nut and began chewing it. He walked to a dark corridor, took his raincoat from a hook, put it on, turned off the light in the living room, and went out into the rain.

He directed his steps toward the stone shed where the guns had been kept, flashed his electric torch on the door and the ground about it again, then strode back through the beating rain, and keeping well back into the bushes, made a slow circuit of the house, black and sepulchral, except for the lights which marked the bedrooms of his cousin and friend.

He watched in the rain until these two lights went out, then softly made his way to the room always reserved for him. He had arranged it to suit himself and as a room is often an expression of character of the occupant, so here the bizarre, exotic side of his nature had taken full possession.

The draperies were the most vivid his cousin's ample supplies afforded: the furniture was Spanish of the flamboyant type with heavy carving around all the edges; here a monster with a tiny body and a great howling head, there a fat-bodied devil stretching out his claws to rend some unseen enemy.

For decoration he had set around idols which his cousin had obtained from the neighboring tribes of Indians and which he had speedily claimed; green idols in the shape of fish, ebony idols in the shape of dogs. Here a mere stick uncouthly carved into some semblance of a man's body showed undoubted African influence.

One of the rugs on the floor was of a brilliant Mexican pattern, the other an old Spanish weave depicting two knights rescuing a gold-haired maiden from a many-turreted castle of the Moors. Near the window was a gold-striped cot. Bizarre decorations, yet by their very violence composing into a harmonious whole.

Here he stretched out, took his favorite pipe, a Phillippine pipe carved in the shape of a clutched hand, and filling it with the curious mixture he used in his cigarets, began to smoke. The room soon filled with the pungent vapor; the air gave place to a purplish haze; the tiny lamp resting on a table seemed shining through a fog. For hour after hour he lay outstretched with the pipe at his lips. The thin film resembling a bird's inner eyelid began to draw over the lower corner of each eye again, while the pupils dulled until they appeared the eyes of a mummy rather than a man; his swarthy skin became bloodless; his breath came stertorously through his open mouth.

A murky dawn began to streak the sky. He arose, threw open the window to breathe great gusts of the morning air and began to make a tour of the house again. He had gone around the flower-banked sides and rear without seeing anything unusual and had begun to think that the grounds were exactly as they had been the night before, when on reaching the screened front of the building he saw something white flutter ng on the frame of the door.

He drew nearer. It was a sheet of paper, pinned to the wood with a thin bladed dagger. He scanned it intently, then carefully removed the blade and, holding the paper in his hand, for a second time read the single sentence inscribed upon it. It was in Portuguese, written in a scrawled, uneven hand. "Walk once more in the moon and you shall lie forever in the sun."

Vilak thrust the dagger and the letter into his pocket. "Pleasant morning greeting," he muttered to himself. "Intended for Elise undoubtedly."

His eyes roamed quickly over, the ground in front of the door and on the single wooden step which led to it. The step was covered with mud, and the soil so cushiony with water that his feet sank uncomfortably at every step. Yet as with the disappearance of the guns there was not the slightest trace of a footprint. He stood pondering a moment, stroking his bony jaw with his thin, long-nailed fingers, then took his horse and rode to the house down the road which he had pointed out to Nunnally the night before.

Here he stripped off his fashionably tailored garments, plunged naked into a nearby brook, put on the modest suit which he wore in the barber shop, ate frugally of some mangoes, filed a piece of steel for some minutes, then made his way to the town.

He spent the day in his usual duties, shaving now the Portuguese proprietor of a neighboring fazenda, now a bronzed trader on his way to sell glass necklaces and other atrocious jewelry to the Indians of the forest, now a young South American dandy who kept him busy for two hours with shampoos and massages.

He had just finished with the latter and was breathing a sigh of relief, when a rider whom he recognized as one of Elise's laborers drew up before the shop and, hastily dismounting, hurried inside. He gave the barber an envelope. "Senhorita Marberry she say take it very fast," he mumbled. "The Senhor Nunnally has sent it."

Vilak tore open the envelope. It contained a brief note which he read at a glance: "Come as quickly as you can without creating suspicion. Something dreadful has happened. Elise needs you—Nunnally."

BRITISH COMPLAIN ABOUT U.S. PLANES

Believe Canada Should Have Bought Machines in Old Country.

LONDON, June 8 (British United Press). —"British airplane makers here are naturally troubled that the Canadian Government did not order its machines for photographic survey in this country," says the Manchester Guardian to-day. It complains that plenty of suitable machines are available and cannot understand why the Dominion saw fit to turn to the United States for six Fokker type planes.

Similar complaints are being heard in London air circles.

Russian Colony in Warsaw Denies All Connection With Assassin.

WARSAW, Poland, June 8. Canadian Press. — Although the assassination of M. Voikoff, the Soviet Minister to Poland was committed by a Russian refugee, who is not a Polish citizen yesterday, it was causing much anxiety in Poland to-day. It was feared that Soviet Russia might demand extradition of the nineteen year old assassin, Boris Kowceda, to which Poland could not possibly agree without loss of prestige and violation of the principle of not surrendering political offenders. Members of the Russian colony in Warsaw repudiate connection with Kowceda and fear deplorable consequences.

Notwithstanding Soviet denials, the Polish public connected M. Voikoff, when he was sent here in 1924, with the murder of the former Emperor Nicholas of Russia. When he arrived in Warsaw the foreign office proposed to give him special protection but he refused and appeared offended at the proposal.

Regrets Conveyed.

MOSCOW, June 8. Canadian Press —The Polish minister at Moscow, M. Patek called on Maxim Litvinoff, the acting foreign commissar, last night, and expressed the profound condolences of the polish government for the murder in Warsaw of M. Voikoff, the Soviet minister to Poland. He voiced condemnation of "this criminal act."

GREAT BRITAIN BLAMED.

MOSCOW, June 8. — (Canadian Press.)—Blame for the assassination of the Soviet Minister in Warsaw is placed upon Great Britain by the leading Moscow newspapers. Only incidentally is Poland charged with the responsibility through her alleged failure to observe the clauses of the Riga Treaty of 1921 prohibiting the harboring of enemies of the Soviet.

FOUNTAIN TOP CRUSHES BOY

Meaford Lad Killed When He Falls From Top of Fountain.

WHEN STRUCTURE BREAKS.

MEAFORD, Ont., June 8.—While his youthful companions played ball alongside, 15 year old Russell Smith was killed on Market Square here last night. Young Smith, with a couple of other boys, climbed upon the Memorial drinking fountain. The top broke off and the heavy iron dropped to the cement below, pinning the boy beneath it, cutting him across the eyes and killing him instantly. The top weighs about 300 pounds and the sharp edge of the disc made a deep gash in young Smith's head. Coroner Dr. Bennett was called and after viewing the remains decided upon an inquest.

The accident happened so quickly that even the boys with Smith do not know exactly what happened. The boy was not more than five feet from the ground.

Plenty of good words from the profession for Dr. Chase's Every-Day Mouth Wash

For a year the dental practitioners of Canada have been trying out this new antiseptic lotion in private practice and the verdict they present on its merits is one of high appreciation.

Letters such as the following from a prominent Ontario dentist are frequently received. "Referring to Dr. Chase's Every-Day Mouth Wash. No treatment was ever more welcome to my patients, especially following extraction. It is a fine sedative, analgesic, deodorant and disinfectant in such cases."

Another dentist writes:—"I might say I have used Dr. Chase's Every-Day Mouth Wash in my spray bottle at the chair and a great number of patients have spoken about it in a most complimentary way. I have used it personally for sore throat and found it good."

Uncle Wiggily

By Howard R. Garis

To-day's Bedtime Story.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SQUIGGLER'S SPOTS

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

Once upon a time, not so very many years ago, there were two little Squiggle Bugs, named Squiggy and Jiggy. The little Squigglers had pretty red spots on the backs of their wings, and they were quite proud of these colored dots. Not too proud, you understand, but just proud enough.

One day Squiggy, who was rather larger than his brother, buzzed around and said:

"Jiggy, let's make a bonfire in the woods!"

"Fine!" buzzed Jiggy. "It will be fun! But have you any matches? If you have, we must be careful how we use them, so we will not burn our legs or the pretty red spots on our wings. And we must not make a fire where it will burn any of the beautiful trees."

"That is right!" answered Squiggy, nodding his head. "And when we get through playing with our bonfire we must get the water bugs to wet down the embers so that the sparks will not start a blaze at night after we have gone to bed. But I have no matches. Have you?"

"No," buzzed Jiggy. "But we can ask a lightning bug to make the fire for us."

"Oh, yes," laughed Squiggy, and soon a lightning bug who was asleep under a leaf, was awakened and he kindly said he would light the bonfire for the Squigglers. This he did and when he had crawled back beneath

"Oh, what have you done to your pretty red spots?"

his leaf to wait for night, when he would shine more brightly, Jiggy and Squiggy sat about the blaze and made believe they were Boy Scouts and Indians on the trail.

"There's a great deal of smoke from this fire!" coughed Jiggy.

"There is always smoke at a fire unless it's in a gas stove," said Squiggy. "We mustn't mind that."

So the two bugs sat in the smoke buzzing about different things until, all of a sudden, along came hopping Sammie Littletail, the rabbit boy. He looked at Squiggy and Jiggy and exclaimed:

"Oh, what have you done to your pretty red spots?"

"Why, we haven't done anything to our red spots," answered Jiggy. At the same time he looked at his brother and said: "Oh, but Squiggy, your red spots are dull and dingy! They are black instead of red!"

"So are yours!" buzzed Squiggy. "Something must have happened—a-hek! a-hek! a-hek!" he coughed.

"It's the smoke from your bonfire!" said Sammie the rabbit. "The smoke has made your pretty red spots quite dingy, my dear Squigglers!"

"Oh! How can we bring back the beautiful red in our spots?" sighed Jiggy. "If I had known this would happen I would never have made a bonfire."

"Nor I!" echoed his brother. "But let's see if we can't rub the smoke 97 our red spots."

The Squigglers rubbed each other's spots with their legs, and Sammie tried to help, by rubbing with a piece of fern. But though some of the smoke came off, the Squigglers' red spots were not as bright as before.

"Perhaps if I get some water from the brook and wash your spots they will shine again," offered Sammie. Most kindly the rabbit boy dipped up in a green leaf for a cup, some water from the brook. But that did not wash the Squigglers' spots any brighter.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Jiggy.

"Dear, oh!" sighed Squiggy.

Just then sounded a rustling in the bushes and out hopped Uncle Wiggily, with Dumple, the bright red Wogglejig boy from the bungleump.

"What's the matter?" asked the rabbit gentleman, seeing how sad the Squigglers appeared. "Has anything happened?"

"Our bright red wing spots are all dingy and grimy from the smoke of our bonfire," answered Jiggy.

"Never more shall we have pretty red spots!" sighed Squiggy.

"Tut! Tut Nonsense! Of course you will!" laughed Mr. Longears. "Here, Dumple!" he called to the Wogglejig boy. "Let me take a little of the red color off your tail. You have more than you need."

"Help yourself to all you want for the Squiggle bugs," said the Wogglejig boy. So Uncle Wiggily scraped a little red paint off Dumple's tail, and with a piece of grass for a brush, the rabbit painted the spots bright red again on the wings of Jiggy and Squiggy.

"Oh, now we are happy again!" they buzzed. So the water bugs put out the fire and everybody was filled with joy.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 1927

Friendly stars dominate today, according to astrology, which reads the principal aspects as benefic.

There is promise for all who seek employment under this rule, which should be fortunate for vocations that require special training.

Something rather discouraging to farmers may occur this month, but it will result eventually in profit, it is predicted.

Much activity is foreshadowed for persons who are in positions of responsibility to the public.

Quick decision and positive action will be required on the part of the governors of more than one state, it is prognosticated.

This is held to be a lucky day for all who are fortunate in the possession of this world's goods. Much is likely to be added to their wealth.

Rapid fluctuations of the stock market may be expected and it is well to resist the temptation to speculate.

The evening should be an auspicious time for intellectual pursuits of every sort. Speakers should make the best of today's opportunities.

There is a promising sign for those who start on journeys by water while this configuration prevails.

Hotel proprietors at summer resorts have the forecast of a summer of profit, for extreme heat may be expected in cities.

Many persons will seek country homes and again the simple life will become desirable to those who have enjoyed luxury, the seers prophesy.

This should be a lucky rule under which to meet new acquaintances, for the planetary influences encourage sympathy and interest.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have unexpected good fortune in the coming year. Promotions for those who are employees is foretold.

Children born on this day should be most fortunate all through their lives. Friends and favorable circumstances attend their careers.

Itching and Burning Severe. Cuticura Heals.

"I had pimples on my face for about six months. They were hard, large and red and scaled over. The itching and burning were so severe that I could not keep from scratching the eruptions, which became quite sore. My face looked so bad that I was ashamed.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped me so much that I purchased more, and after using six cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Dill, Box 9, Viceroy, Sask., Nov. 6, 1926.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The sophisticated mode is exemplified by this evening frock of mother-of-pearl spangled chiffon with rhinestone and gold bead trimming. The red feather boa carries out the color of the ruby earrings and the pearl and ruby necklace.

Some day a decade or more hence we may recall with amusement the admiration that we possess at present for clothes that are what we call "sophisticated." Even the word will sound quaint and old-fashioned. It will be remembered as one of those fashionable adjectives, like genteel, elegant, reserche, each one of which once stood for something that was much admired by women of fashion. Sophistication—or the desire for sophistication—has been a post-war mood. To say that anything from a book to a frock, from a young man to a new dance was unsophisticated has been to malign it in the eyes of the thoroughly up-to-date young women of the day—just as once upon a time you could bring discredit on anything by calling it ungenteel.

Lots of things that have enjoyed the favors of fashion have done so recently for no other reason than because they were or appeared to be sophisticated. Doubtless in every colony of snakes there are some individuals who are as guileless and unsophisticated as a baby lamb—but in the popular estimation every member of the reptile family is supremely sophisticated. That no doubt accounts for the recent vogue of snakeskin.

Funny, isn't it, how certain materials—certain ornaments—strike us all as being sophisticated and others as just the reverse? Shades of jade green are sophisticated—sky blue is just the reverse. Beaded georgette is sophisticated—so is heavy silk fringe, as are Spanish shawls—flower-printed organdie, ribbon bows, wreaths of poppies and daisies on leghorn hats are not.

Slowly but surely fashion is growing tired of over much sophistication. She likes a little variety in the picture. For certain types of women—not necessarily those whose minds are the most sophistical—the sophisticated mode is most becoming. For some women—not necessarily the most naive—ingenuous clothes are most appropriate.

HINTS ON ETIQUETTE.

1. At what age should children be introduced to their parents' guests?
2. Can a guest suggest considering the evening over and retire or must the host make the first move?
3. How soon must one answer invitations for a house party?

The Answers.

1. Quite young, so they will grow up with natural social ease.
2. Either can.
3. Immediately.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

PIANO DUSTERS.

The piano should be dusted with jersey silk or chamois, for coarser fabrics will mar its delicate polish.

LETTUCE BAGS

Bags to be moistened and filled with lettuce in the ice-box must be frequently washed, to prevent sourness.

BREAD PUDDINGS.

Crusts should be cut from bread and rolls before they are chopped for bread pudding.

BOILED RICE.

To remove the sticky substance from boiled rice, plunge it into a colander and let cold water run through it thoroughly.

SWEET BUTTER.

Sweet butter quickly absorbs odors from other foods in the icebox unless it is kept covered.

SPONGING BLACK

Dresses of black silk, georgette or satin should be sponged with hot coffee and pressed while damp on the wrong side.

Women's Simpler Hygiene

More absorbent—Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

ALL the problems of old-time hygienic ways have recently been ended, largely because of a new way called Kotex.

Kotex discards as easily as tissue. Thus no laundry, no embarrassment of disposal.

Being 5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton "pads," you wear lightest gowns and frocks without slightest fear. Deodorizes, too, thus ending all fear of offense.

Obtain at any store without embarrassment simply by saying "Kotex." Many stores have it already wrapped on counters, ready for you to pick up and take along without even asking for it.

Try today and you'll never again risk the uncertainty of old ways. Box contains 12. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

Leafs Win Final Game of Series at Reading

EVENS SERIES WITH READING

Three Keystone Pitchers Unable To Hold Final Drive of Leafs.

ORIOLES WIN DOUBLE.

NEW YORK, June 9 (Canadian Press). — Toronto evened the series with Reading by taking the final game there 12 to 5. Four Keystone pitchers worked against the Leafs, three being ineffective. George Quellich hit a homer, his third in four days, with one on base in the fourth inning. He also hit a triple, the ball falling by inches to clear the left field fence.

Great pitching by Chick Davies, who held Syracuse to four hits in seven innings, enabled the Bears to win the second game of a double-header at Newark, by a score of 1 to 0. Harry Mackin's single and Cliff Lee's double scored the only run of the game.

Erratic pitching by Joe Zubris and Cy Twombley, and wretched fielding behind them, gave Syracuse the first game by the score of 8 to 1.

The Orioles won both games of yesterday's double-header at Baltimore with the Bisons ,10 to 3, and 8 to 4. Three runs in the first and six in the third innings put the locals far out of reach of the visitors and clinched the first game. In the second game heavy hitting in the opening frames again put the locals ahead. Hohman, Bissonette and Porter hit for the circuit.

Sensational twirling by Dick Coffmann gave the Skeeters an even break with Rochester at Jersey City yesterday afternoon. The locals took the first game 1 to 0, but Rochester won the second with a late rally, 3 to 2.

FIRST VICTORY FROM PIRATES

Giants Win 8-7 After Losing Five Previous Encounters.

ROBINS DEFEATED 3-2.

NEW YORK, June 9 (Canadian Press). — Breaking through with a four-run rally in the ninth, the New York Giants took the measure of the Pirates at Pittsburgh by 8 to 7. After Cummings had hit a homer to start off the final session, Harnsby smashed for the circuit with two on. It was Hornsby's tenth of the year. Barnhart and Grantham hit a home run apiece, but no one was on base either time. Aldridge and Barnes started, the former finishing on the short end, but the victory went to Kent Greenfield although Clarkson pitched the final ending. It was the first New York victory over Pittsburgh this year ,the Giants have lost five previous encounters.

Hack Wilson's home run in the seventh broke a two-all deadlock, and gave Chicago a 3 to 2 verdict over Brooklyn at Chicago. Webb hit a homer, his ninth of the season, with one on in the first. Pitcher Hal Carlson made his first start in a Cubs' uniform, and pitched a great game, defeating the speed ball king, Dazzy Vance. The latter yielded only five hits against nine totalled off Carlson.

Reds Win 5-4.

Sharp hitting in the seventh and eighth innings at Cincinnati gave the Reds a 5 to 4 victory over Philadelphia to chalk them up with four straight wins. The game was scoreless until the seventh, when the Reds scored two runs and followed with three more in the next frame. Four hits in the ninth, coupled with two errors, gave the visitors their four runs, but did not save them from losing their second straight to the Reds.

The Boston Braves pounded Rhem, Alexander, and H. Bell for fourteen hits at St. Louis, and defeated the Cardinals, 11 to 8 . Rhem was wild, allowing four bases on balls and forcing in one run in the second inning. Four Cardinal errors also helped the visitors. The Cardinals had one big inning, the third, in which Bottomley and Schulte each got a home run with one on. Richbourg got four hits, including a fluke home run, in six times at bat. The defeat dropped St. Louis to third place, while Boston jumped to sixth.

Three games stand out in the major league career of Pitcher Howard Emmke of the Philadelphia Athletics. Strangely enough, they are in direct contrast.

Two of them deal with the most effective bit of pitching ever accomplished in the majors, while the other deals with the most ineffective hurling.

Only for a bit of generous scoring, Howard Ehmke would now boast the unique and unusual record of having pitched no-hit games in two consecutive appearances.

That was during the season of 1923. Early in September he blanked Philadelphia without a hit and in his next appearance, against New York, he allowed only one hit, an infield single, that could have been as properly scored an error.

It is a strange coincidence that just three weeks later in the 1923 season, September 28, the New York club, that had undeservedly spoiled two no-hit games in a row for Ehmke, should establish an American League swat record at his expense.

In six innings the Yanks made 21 hits off Ehmke's delivery, getting 11 runs in the sixth inning. Nine more hits, making a total of 30, was made off Ehmke's successor, the Yanks winning 24-4. ... .

MENIE BREAKS TIE FOR LEAGUE LEAD

Defeat Mount Pleasant 14-3 in Campbellford League Softball Fixture.

BURNBRAE, June 9.—Menie broke the tie for the leadership of the softball league when they defeated Mt. Pleasant Tuesday evening by a score of 14 to 3 on the latter's grounds. The Mt. Pleasant boys could not hit Eagleson's offerings with any degree of success. H. Johnston being the only one to reach first on more than one occasion. Weaver, Johnston and F. Jeffs were the scorers for the team. While the Menie boys fielded well and kept down any batting threats, their opponents wobbled at inopportune moments and allowed runs to cross the plate. Shillinglaw was the only Menie player who failed to get into the run column, while Rannie, S. Little and Linn scored three each. In the games to date S. Little and A. Linn have been the stars of the team, both at bat and in playing their positions.

Next week Menie journey to Glen Ross and meet Mt. Pleasant in a return engagement. By that time they should be firmly established as league leaders.

WRIGHT A FAVORITE IN ROWING CLASSIC

Canadian Sculler Will Meet the World's Best in Diamond Sculls.

LONDON, Eng., June 9.—(CAP cable).—Canadians will have an even greater interest in the famous Henley royal regatta this year than usual. Joe Wright, junior, 20-year-old son of Joseph Wright of Toronto, world-known rowing coach, is one of the three outside competitors from outside Britain who will attempt to wrest the Diamond Sculls and the world's amateur sculling crown from Jack Beresford, jr., winner for the past three years. He will probably go to the post one of the favorites.

The Diamond Sculls is most popular of all Henley's historic events, because it embodies contest between personalities instead of crews. The final will be sculled on the last day of the regatta, which will take place from June 29 to July 2. As Joe Wright made a new world's record for the Henley course at Philadelphia last month, he is considered to have better than an even chance. The course at Philadelphia, like all Henley courses, is not merely named after, but is the identical length as the original Henley course on the Thames —one mile, 550 yards.

Joe's record time of 7.23 4-5 compares with 8.28 made by Jack Beresford in winning the Diamond Sculls last year. Beresford, a power in the amateur rowing world, also won the Diamond Sculls in 1920. Besides young Wright will be up against J. Fruin of Leyden University, Holland, and perhaps W. E. G. Gilmore of Philadelphia. Gilmore's entry is problematical and in any event he is not likely to give Wright serious opposition. Gilmore was eliminated at Philadelphia, and Wright subsequently easily beat Gilmore's eliminator. Little is known about Fruin, but Leyden University's reputation in the rowing world indicates that he might be a serious contender in the Sculls. Among the Englishmen are likely to be Gollan, Collett and Edwards, all first rank scullers.

Eight Events.

There are eight great events at Henley. Henley royal regatta was founded in 1839 at a public meeting in Henley-on-Thames. Two challenge cups were purchased, the Grand Challenge Cup to be rowed for annual in eight-oared boats open to amateur crews, and the Town Challenge Cup for four-oared crews, residing within five miles of Henley. In 1840 another district race was added and in 1841 the Steward's Challenge Cup for four-oars was added to the program upon the same conditions as the Grand Challenge Cup.

The four open events now are the Grand Challenge Cup for eights; Steward's Challenge Cup for fours; Silver Goblets for pairs, founded in 1845, and the Diamond Sculls for single scullers, founded in 1844.

The four restricted events are: Ladies' Challenge Plate for eight oars (1845) and Visitors Challenge Cup for four oars (1847), open to schools and colleges in the kingdom; Thames Challenge Cup for four oars (1855). No winner of the Grand Challenge Cup or Steward's Cup may compete in the Thames Cup, while no winner of the Steward's Cup may compete in Wyfold.

The Course is Slow.

The races are rowed against the stream, and the time usually occupied by the winning Grand Challenge crew to cover the mile and 550 yards is within a few second of seven minutes.

In the long history of the Diamond Sculls there are naturally high spots of interest. One is the dead heat in 1862 between E. D. Brickwood and W. B. Woodgate. The memorable contest in 1878 between T. C. Edwards-Moss and G. W. Lee culminated in a heat which was won on the post by the former. The Diamond Sculls left England for the first time when J. J. K. Ooms of Holland won in 1892.

Lou Scholes, who won in 1904, is the only Canadian to win the Diamond Sculls. Bob Dibble, the next Canadian contender, was defeated in the finals. The last Canadian contender was Hilton Belyea of Saint John, who was defeated in his heat.

SOMEBODY LOSES FIRST TO-MORROW

Belmonts and Lock Works Meet at Central Park—Neither Has Lost.

What promises to be the best game of the season in the local Softball League will be staged tomorrow night at Central Park when the Lock Works and the Belmonts hook up. Both teams have yet to lose a game and will be in there fighting all the way.

The Belmonts, fresh from a victory over the K. of C., expect to repeat tomorrow night, but the Lock Works can't see it that way. Both teams are well staffed with pitchers and Manager Miller of the Lock Works hasn't decided whether he will send Joe Dunkerley, the veteran twirler, or Jimmy Waddell, the speed ball merchant against the Belmonts. Manager Stuart may send Carruthers right back against the Lock Works after his good game of Tuesday night, or he may use "Hap" Harrison or Carl McLean.

The fans are assured of a great battle and should turn out for this big game. The teams will get away at 6.15 sharp.

Leads Field After Poor Start in Connaught Park Meet.

QUEEN CITY PURSE.

CONNAUGHT PARK, Aylmer, Que. June 9. Canadian Press. — Patricia J., four year old brown filly of the P. P. Joyce stable, literally ran away with the $1000 Queen City purse, the feature event on the opening day's card of the Connaught Park spring race meeting. The daughter of Sweep-Etheberta was away in front from the barrier after a poor start, and held the remainder of the field safe for the entire mile route to win eased up by three lengths. E. Arlington's Acocoeek was easily the best of the rest and finished second a full ten lengths in front of Uncertain, C. R. Campbell's six year old, who took the short end of the purse.

Patricia J. covered the mile in 1.42 1-5; she was the public favorite, paying a short $2.50 to win.

Ideal weather and a fast track graced the initial programme, but only a medium sized crowd turned out.

BOUT POSTPONED.

NEW YORK, June 9. Canadian Press. — Postponement of the feather weight "elimination" bout between Dick (Honeyboy) Finnegan and Red Chapman, both of Boston, from this Friday to June 22 was sanctioned yesterday by the State athletic commission because of the illness of Finnegan, reported by his manager to have "chills and fever."

TENNIS NEWS.

LONDON, June 9. — (Canadian Press).—Miss "Billie" Tapscott, of the South African women's lawn tennis team that recently arrived in London, appeared at the visiting team's first practice on the grass courts of the Hurlingham Club wearing no stockings. There were many speculations amongst the onlookers on whether the mode would be copied by tennis players generally in this country.

The other members of the touring South African women's lawn tennis team are Mrs. Peacock and Miss E. L. Heine. Miss Heine is only 17 years of age. The South African ladies will compete in the French hard court championships in Paris and in the championships at Wimbleton.

On the question of British women tennis players discarding their stockings, the Daily News interviewed Miss Evelyn Golyer, the English international, who said she thought it a very sensible idea. "On our court at home," she said, "I usually play bare-legged in hot weather. I am not sure whether I am brave enough to follow Miss Tapscott in public—but I'd like to."

The lawn tennis authorities see no objection to bare legs. "If Miss Tapscott likes," said Major D. R. Larcombe, secretary and manager of the All England Club, "she can play at Wimbledon, not only in bare legs, but in bare feet as well."

Miss Tapscott, it appears, likes bare legs chiefly because she has "never played in anything else."

RALLY IN 9TH TO WIN GAME

Yanks Make It Two Straight From Cubs By 12-11 Victory.

3 HOMERS FOR LAZZERI.

NEW YORK, June 9 (Canadian Press). — Tying the score with a spirited five-run rally in the ninth inning, the New York Yankees made it two straight from Chicago by winning out in the eleventh by 12 to 11 yesterday. Lazzeri hit three home runs, his third circuit blow with Durst on base tying the score in the ninth. It was made off Connally immediately after he had relieved Faber.

Durst opened the eleventh with a triple, his fourth hit. Lazerri was intentionally passed, but Moreheart whipped a single over Barrett's head to close the game. There were six home runs yesterday as Falk, Clancy and Barrett also hit homers for Chicago, making a total of ten for the two games played in the series.

Athletics Win Third.

At Philadelphia the Athletics won their third straight game and their second in a row from the St. Louis Browns by a score of 7 to 5. The Mackmen clinched the game by centering their attack on Stewart in the first four innings, pounding him for 13 hits and all their runs. Joe Doley led the attack with four singles. Jimmy Fox hit a home run in the fourth inning with none on base.

Fothergill's home run over the left field fence started the Detroit Tigers on a three-run rally in the sixth inning at Boston, which gave them the game five to three over the Red Sox. Boston fielded raggedly while Detroit gave Stoner brilliant support.

A ninth inning rally gave the Senators a 2 to 1 victory over the Indians at Washington. Lisenbee, rocky pitcher, was generous with hits, but tightened up in the pinches, and in addition aided in scoring the winning tally by singling with Reeves on first. Reeves scored later on Rice's single.

GUM-DIPPING
Builds Extra Miles

The Firestone process of Gum-Dipping is one of the most important of the many Firestone contributions to more economical highway transportation.

It thoroughly saturates and insulates every fiber of every cord with rubber, minimizing friction and heat, so destructive to tire life.

On the cars of hundreds of thousands of motorists, in the service of the largest truck, bus and taxicab fleets, in the battle of tires on race tracks, Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, because of their greater stamina, are delivering longer mileage with added safety and comfort.

The Firestone Dealer in your locality will gladly explain to you the extra value of Gum-Dipping. He is prepared to demonstrate how the cords of the carcass are saturated in a rubber solution, insulating every fiber of every cord with rubber, which minimizes friction.

BETHANY HERE ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Manvers Boys Have Better Team Than Last Week.

PLAY CRESCENTS.

Bethany, with a much better-conditioned team than that which was defeated by Cognawagas a week ago, will be at Exhibition Park Friday evening for an East Peterborough League game with the Crescents. Weak spots in the defence have been strengthened and Daw, Ryley or Staples will work on the mound for the visitors. Crescents may start Mein, with Billingsley or Frost in reserve, and with ideal weather on hand, the teams should put over an interesting battle. Bethany came here last evening for the scheduled game but rain prevented the contest.

NIGHT SOCCER IS PRACTICABLE

Hakoah Team Plays Scoreless Tie With New York Teams.

BIG ARC LIGHTS USED.

NEW YORK, June 9 (United Press).—Night soccer was proved practicable to 10,000 fans at the Polo Grounds last night, when the Hakoah Eleven from Vienna met a combined team of New York Giants and Bethlehem Steel in a space 110 yards by 80, lighted by a dozen 1,000 candle power arc lights. The lights were placed on the roofs of the high pavilions and club house, so the players had no trouble in following the ball, painted white, no matter how high it ascended. Playing was swift but the defences were strong, and the game ended in a scoreless tie.

AT THE REGENT.

GEORGE O'BRIEN IN FINE ROLE AS FIGHTER IN "BLUE EAGLE." FORD'S MASTER FILM ON NAVY.

Popular Fox Star Plays the Part of Gang Leader in Big City And Is Called Upon to Do Some Fierce Battling With Rival, Played By William Russell.

George O'Brien and Janet Gaynor are featured in "The Blue Eagle," Fox Films version of Gerald Beaumont's gripping story of the American Navy and gang wars in a great city, which comes to the Regent Theatre to-day for a 3 days' run. John Ford directed the production. The cast includes Margaret Livingston, William Russell, Robert Edeson and other screen favorites.

Centering about the differences of opinion between George D'Arcy and Big Tim Ryan, the strife involves pretty Rose Cooper, tiny Baby Tom, Father Joe and others who figure prominently in the dramatic episodes.

George O'Brien, as George D'Arcy, has some of the most striking scenes of his motion picture career. There is one fight, in particular, which will go down in screen annals as one of the most realistic bits of action ever photographed. The stalwart figure opposite O'Brien is William Russell, as Big Tim. Both men love pretty Rose and both fight fiercely when the final award is at hand.

With a swift transition during the World War, the action establishes O'Brien and Russell on Uncle Sam's fighting craft and there are many scenes which are hair-raising in their dramatic intensity.

Based upon the last story ever written by California's celebrated author, "The Blue Eagle" gave Director Ford and his evenly-balanced cast excellent opportunities for exceptional action.

The United States Naval forces, co-operating with Fox Films executives, placed at Mr. Ford's disposal the entire Pacific Coast fleet.

One particularly dramatic sequence, a burial at sea, was photographed with the entire naval force standing by while the fleet was halted in mid-ocean.

A fight scene, near the end, is so thrilling it defies description.

CHAMBERLIN TELLS OF ACCIDENT PLANS

Plane Arranged For Speedy Disposal of Gear and Gasoline.

BERLIN, June 9 (Canadian Press).—Clarence Chamberlin, pilot of the trans-Atlantic monoplane Columbia, told newspaper correspondents today what he would have done had the engine failed or had he, for any other reason, been forced to descend on the ocean.

"In the first place," he said, "We had the landing gear so adjusted that we could have dropped it quickly. Had we not done this, we would have turned turtle the minute we struck water.

"Secondly, we planned to let out all our fuel through a valve at the bottom of the tank and then close the valve again. The tank, filled with air, would then have kept us afloat indefinitely, provided the storm was not too bad and the waves too high."

Chamberlin does not think that a non-stop flight around the world is out of the realm of possibility, but that it is a long way off.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

JUST A DOG

He's just a dog, that's all he is,
A mongrel puppy, left alone,
Without a fireside that was his,
Without a door to call his own,
We saw him in the city square,
Where so much love so little buys;
He had no ribbon in his hair—
But, oh, the hunger in his eyes!

Yes, just a dog was all he was,
And all he asked was just a friend,
The right to serve some master's cause,
And someone's fireside to defend.
And so we stopped and picked him up,
Lonely and sad, and poor and thin,
Although he's just a mongrel pup,
And not a prize he'll ever win.

He's just a dog, that's all he is;
We do not know his breed or birth;
No pride of pedigree is his,
But just the pride of honest worth.
But never more he needs to roam,
A lonely waif—and this we know:
We'd rather give a cur a home
Than win a ribbon at a show.

THE CHEMISTRY OF THE COLON

After the food has been digested by the stomach and intestines, it passes into the large intestine which is called the colon. This is a long, muscular tube whose walls are made up of two sets of muscles which have the power to squeeze along the feces, carrying it all the way from the cecum through the entire five feet of colon to the rectum.

It usually takes about fifteen hours after a meal is eaten before any of the food material reaches the colon, and about twenty-four hours before it is completely filled. It then takes from six to twelve hours before this is emptied from the colon into the rectum. Of course, certain amounts of this feces are often held back in pockets and do not empty out until carried along by other food material. Some food, which is especially constipating, will stay in the colon for many days, while softer feces passes by and is eliminated.

When the digested and undigested food material enters the colon from the small intestine it should be in an alkaline condition. No assimilation takes place in the colon, but there is a kind of digestion which goes on as the bacteria of the colon continues to further decompose the feces. The colonic bacteria can only work in an acid medium and so the feces is again changed from its alkaline condition to an acid one. The colon is literally swarming with billions of acid bacteria which act chemically upon the undigested food material and further change it so that it can be more easily eliminated.

Do not confuse these bacteria with the ones found in different diseases. If you could see them under the microscope you would see that they are simply vegetable growths which multiply by division, that is, they divide again and again, the same as yeast mold.

A great deal of experimentation has been going on lately in an effort to find some way for making the contents of the colon normally acid. It has been found that those who suffer from constipation the most do not have a large enough growth of this bacterial flora. Lactic acid milk has been tried, but the results have not been entirely satisfactory, and I do not expect any better results from such treatment than we have had from the giving of hydrochloric acid for defective digestion.

A good course of daily enemas will do more to clean up the colon than anything I know of. At the same time, if the proper physical culture exercises are taken a better tone will be developed through the entire abdomen and this effect is soon noticed in a better chemical condition in the colon.

At the same time as a better muscular tone of the large intestine is developed you must also remember to use the proper kind of food, and especially good food combinations in order to change the chemical condition of the feces before it reaches the colon.

NO MORE PILES

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

This Doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting for years he discovered the exact cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Every pile sufferer should benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay, McDermid & Jury and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID today.

BRITISH SEEK PLANE RECORD

New Machine Will Carry Gasoline Enough For 4,500 Miles.

WILL FLY TO ASIA.

LONDON, June 9. — Canadian Press. — Another British effort to establish a non-stop airplane record, says the Daily Mail, probably will be made next week. The plane to be used, as described by the paper, will carry enough gasoline for about 4500 miles. The flight will be made to Asia and it is hoped not only to make a greater distance than that covered by Chamberlin and Levine in their new York flight, but if the wind is helpful, to fly nearly five thousand miles.

JAPAN PROTESTS SEIZURE OF SHIP

Soviet Says Action Justified as Territory Extends 12 Miles To Sea.

TOKYO, June 9 (Canadian Press).—The Japanese Government has decided to lodge a protest with the Soviet Ambassador against the seizure of a Japanese fishing vessel off Kamchatka. It is reported that the captain of the vessel was shot and seriously wounded during the seizure.

The vessel was not within the three mile limit at the time, but the Soviet authorities contend the seizure was justified, insisting that Russian territorial waters extend twelve miles from the coast.

WHO IS NEXT?

Did anyone ever tell you that you look like Esther Ralston? or Clara Bow? or Gloria Swanson? Are you the type who could play the role of the girl the hero is sure to marry? Are you blonde, blue-eyed and beautiful, or are you small, petite and dark? Are you of superlative caliber and are you wasting your light under the proverbial bushel?

If you are, perhaps you are not alone in your theory, for Famous Players Canadian Corporation may have been thinking of YOU when they decided that the picture world is in need of a new screen personality. They have pondered the success of Mary Pickford, Beatrice Lillie, Norma Shearer, Bert Lytell and the dozens of other Canadians who have triumphed in the movies, and being of the opinion that there are still dozens of equally beautiful and talented girls in Ontario, they have decided to conduct a "Screen Opportunity Contest" in an effort to discover new screen talent who may take their places with Ontario's splendid representation in the world of Motion pictures.

The contest will start on June 18th, in all motion picture houses in Ontario controlled by Famous Players. The winners of the preliminary contests held during the week of June of June 18th will appear under Jack Arthur's direction at the Uptown Theatre Toronto, there to compete in the final contest.

A trio to Hollywood, California, and return, with all expenses paid of winner and chaperone, with arrangements for a screen test, and also a special landeau sedan, will be awarded the winner of the first prize, with valuable prizes for the second, third, and fourth winner in the contest.

Watch for announcement in newspapers.

WOMEN REPORT YEAR OF PROGRESS

Kingston Presbyterial W. M. S. Holds Annual Meeting in Stirling.

STIRLING, June 9.—The thirteenth annual meeting of the Kingston Presbyterial W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church in Canada met in St. Andrew's church here on Tuesday morning, May 31st, at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Duff, of Kingston, the president, in the chair. Devotional exercises were conducted by Mesdames Wallace and Donnan of West Huntingdon Auxiliary. Mrs. Harper Rollins, Stirling, gave the address of welcome, Mrs. Fleming of Belleville replying. Mrs. Duff gave an account of the organization of the Presbyterial 41 years ago. A resolution of sympathy with Dr. Gracey and family of Gananoque in the death of Mrs. Gracey was moved by Miss Mowat and seconded by Mrs. Bain, two who had known Mrs. Gracey since childhood.

Mrs. Robertson of Kingston gave a report of the Ontario Provincial meeting in Brockville. Mrs. Diack of Kingston gave a comprehensive report of the meeting of the General Council in Windsor. Rev. A. N. Reid pronounced the benediction, closing the first session of the convention.

The second session opened Wednesday morning with Mrs. Wilson, Trenton, 1st vice-president, presiding. Miss Mary Hickey of St. Andrew's Y.W.A., Kingston, had charge of the devotional exercises. Miss Fowler then gave a very satisfactory report of the receipts for year, amounting to $2,892.22.

Mrs. Diack offered the dedicatory prayer, and the different secretaries gave reports of their work for the past year and each expressed optimistic outlook for the future. Mrs. Reid of Belleville reported an increase in Home Helper's work, having collected $255.43. Mrs. Fox of Allisonville gave an account of the number of books and magazines sent to lumber camps and how they were appreciated. Mrs. MacIntosh of Madoc reported an increase in subscribers for the "Glad Tidings". Letters of appreciation were read by Mrs. Gothard of Trenton from those who had received the bales sent out. The supplies were valued at $887.37. The press secretaries were lauded by Mrs. Morrice, Belleville, in her remarks she said, "If we read we know; if we know we pray; if we pray we give." After the Doxology and Lord's Prayer in unison, the meeting adjourned for lunch in the basement of the church.

Mrs. Bain brought a cordial invitation to meet next year in Gananoque, which was unanimously accepted.

At 2.30 p.m. Mrs. McPhail and Mrs. Leishman, members of Kingston St. Andrew's W.M.S., had charge of the devotional exercises. The keynote of the afternoon meeting was "Suffer the Little Children to Come Unto Me and Forbid Them Not for of Such is the Kingdom of Heaven." The Mission Band report was given by Mrs. Jenkins of Madoc, who stressed the point that the children are the hope of our country and every one should be delighted to train the youth to make good citizens. The Striuing Mission Ban won the Mission Band banner for 1925 and a new banner donated by Mrs. Duff was presented to them. The banner is a beautiful blue satin with the Burning Bush in gold; and gold lettering "Kingston Presbyterial Mission Bands." This will be competed for annually and will be presented at the annual Mission Band Rally, July 5, 1927, to the successful Mission Band for 1926.

Rev. R. G. Stewart of Belleville brought greetings from Presbytery.

The resolutions committee report was presented by Mrs. West of Madoc. Thanks were extended to Rev. Mr. Reid, to the various hostess who had opened their homes to the delegates, to Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Diack who brought reports from the provincial meetings they had attended; to the Rev. Mr. Reid and the Board of Managers of St. Andrew's church, Stirling, for the use of church and basement; to the organist, choir and soloists who helped to make the meetings such a success.

FRIENDS' SOCIETY MEETS AT WOOLER

Delegates Named For Annual Meeting in Toronto This Week.

WOOLER, June 9. — The Friends' Society, representing four congregations, Wellington, Bloomfield, Moscow and Wooler, held a quarterly meeting, with representatives from each church, in Wooler, June 5th, with visitors, Mrs. Dorland, Mrs. Hubbs, Mr. and Mrs. Crook, Mr. and Mrs. Ward, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Ward, Jr., from Wellington; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Arkett, Miss Winter and Miss Smith, of Bloomfield; Miss Agnes Summerville, Mrs. Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, from Sunbury; Albert Rogers, of Toronto; Rev. Rufus Garrett of Hiawatha; Rev William Barker of Stirling.

At this meeting delegates were appointed to attend the Canada yearly meeting of Friends held at Friends' meeting house 111 Maitland street, Toronto, June 9th to 12th. From Wooler, Mr. and Mrs. Esti Terrill, Rev. Asa Rogers, and Miss Edith Valentine, were sent.

Personals.

The Pius Ultra men's class took charge of the Sunday evening service in the United church, in the absence of Rev. H. B. Neal, who was at conference at Oshawa.

Mrs. Clarinda Terrill is confined to her bed with heart trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown and family, Chisholm Rapids, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Curry.

Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Terrill of Pontypool, spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Terrill.

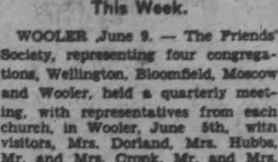
The Woman's Missionary Society held its regular meeting with an attenadnce of thirty on Monday. After quilting a quilt, and transacting business lunch was served by Mrs. H. Gainsforth and group.

Mrs. J. L. Terrill is attending the branch meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society in Pembroke this week.

On Monday evening over one hundred people of the community assembled in the basement of the church to give a shower, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haines (nee Marion Forbes). Many beautiful and useful presents were given showing the esteem in which Mrs. Haines was held among her friends and associates.

After the programme of songs and addresses a sumptuous lunch was served; Mr. and Mrs. Haines will reside in Castleton and be at home to their friends in August.

SRAW HAT TIPS.



Straw hats were up yesterday. This statement is to be taken literally. Between five and six o'clock last evening, the summer headgear of not a few of the King's lieges in this city left this scene of time and soared in the realm sacred to the machines of the flying school. Hats whirled and eddied in the wind and rain like mischievous youngsters indulging in forbidden pastimes. Some pirouetted on George street in the height of the storm as their owners scurried for shelter. Others were whisked as by an unseen hand off the heads of the passersby and lodged in the tree tops bending under the force of the storm. Still others seemed content to lead their master a merry dance as they frolicked along just an infinitesimal degree out of the reach of the hands frantically extended to catch them. If straw hats behave in the future as they did yesterday, Mr. Average Man will soon have little use for them and their market value will lessen. In other words, if straw hats continue to go up they will come down.

PETERBORO WOMEN'S MUSIC CLUB OFFERS PRIZES FOR POEM ON "CANADA."

The Music Club, wishing to commemorate our local celebration of "Confederation" in poetry and song, offers two prizes of five and three dollars to any pupil, over twelve years of age, attending either the Collegiate or Public Schools and Separate Schools of Peterborough, for an original poem on "Canada." The poem must consist of six stanzas of four lines each. The Rev. Mr. Wren of Trinity Church and Rev. Mr. Gordon of St. Andrew's Church have kindly consented to act as adjudicators in selecting the two best poems. The poem winning the first prize, if suitable, will be set to music by our talented musician, Miss Agnes Logan, and sung on some public occasion by a well-known vocalist. By kind permission of The Examiner, the two prize-winning poems will also be published in its pages. We are sure there is as much budding or latent poetic talent among the young people of Peterborough as in any other city, and we hope that the subject of "Canada" will lend inspiration to the efforts of our young poets and poetesses. All poems must be sent to Mrs. Porter, 521 Gilmour Street, the Secretary of the Club, on or before Saturday, June 18th, and there must be enclosed a note from either parent or guardian certifying the poem to be the pupil's own unaided composition. dtf

JUBILEE DEMONSTRATION IS WELL UNDER WAY

Reports Show That Everything Points To Three Wonderful Days in Peterborough.

The regular Wednesday evening meeting of the executive of the Diamond Jubilee Committee for the demonstration to be held here on July first, second and third, was held last evening in the Council Chamber, with chairmen of the different committees in attendance and presenting reports.

The general manager, R. Denne, was out of the city in connection with some work for the City Council, in Toronto. Mayor Holloway occupied the chair.

The report from Mrs. Stevenson on the pageant revealed the fact that that this part of the programme is getting under way in fine shape and the presentation of the pageant will be one of the features of the demonstration.

The Parade Committee, reported on by Dr. Craig, shows that much work is being done and a parade will be given on Friday that will outdo any similar parade ever held in the city.

The Decorations Committee, of which Mr. Paul Manning is convenor, has arrangements under way whereby the city will be decorated in a manner in keeping with the demonstration and present a wonderful appearance. Arches are to be erected, lights are to be strung, and general decorations on the streets and on the buildings are to be taken care of by the individual storekeepers and by the Decoration Committee.

A motion was passed that a resolution be sent to the Retail Merchants' Association suggesting that the stores be open until noon, leaving the afternoon free, for the Demonstration Committee and citizens.

Lieut.-Col. Gordon Hall was present and assured the commitee that the military authorities desired to co-operate in every possible manner and is looking forward for information, so that a definite announcement can be made in the course of a day or two.

A committee from the Belmont Club was present in connection with their part in this parade, and this matter is to be taken up with the Parade and Band Committee.

An additional sum of money was voted to Mr. Webber Turner and Mr. G. H. Roper, whose committees have charge of the sports for Friday afternoon, making it possible for them to secure a programme that, together with what has already been arranged, will be an exceeedingly good one for Friday afternoon.

LITTLE DAMAGE TO MOTOR CARS

Rear End Collision on George Street Attracts Large Crowd.

DRIVERS UNINJURED.

A loud impact and a knot of interested spectators which speedily swelled into a fair-sized crowd were the chief results of a collision of two cars at the intersection of George and Hunter Streets this afternoon shortly after 12 o'clock.

A car belonging to Miss M. V. Jory was proceeding along George Street close behind that of J. Kent. At the junction of the two streets the latter stopped suddenly and the collision was the result.

Much to the surprise of the onlookers the damage to either car was very slight and no personal injuries were sustained.

GUNS IN PARK ARE REPAINTED

Preparations Made For Visit of Governor-General This Month.

WAR TROPHIES.

The guns in Central Park were given a new coat of paint yesterday, in preparation for the visit of His Excellency the Governor-General. The paint used was the battle grey shade so much in vogue among the artillery in the years before the war. The three guns—one a howitzer, one a nine point two, and the third a "whizz-bang" — were part of the trophies captured by the 21st Battalion in conjunction with two other Eastern Ontario units—the 2nd and the 38th.

SIGN IN DANGER OF FALLING OFF

Wind Loosens Sheet Iron On Front of Turner Building.

REMOVED BY WORKMEN.

During the height of yesterday's gale, one of the large sheet iron signs on the Turner building on George Street became loosened on the north end and began to warp through the fury of the storm.

Some workmen were busily engaged in passing ropes around it to place it in position when the south end of the sign also became loosened and threatened to fall into the street. More ropes were brought into play and all danger was averted by the entire removal of the sign.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Mrs. James Mack, who died June 9, 1926:
Our mother is sleeping, so free from all pain,
Oh, wake her not, sweet Spirit, to suffer again.
She slumbers so soundly, Oh, let her sleep on,
Her sickness is ended, her troubles are gone.
Just think how she suffered, and moaned with pain,
In the long night hours we soothed her in vain,
Till God in His mercy, sent down from above
An angel that whispered a message of love.

IN MEMORIAM.

MACK.—In loving memory of Mrs. James Mack, who died June 9th, 1926.

A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better God never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One in a million—that mother was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by your friends, and all whom you knew,
Our wonderful mother, that mother was you.

Two Local Men Killed in Crossing Crash

F. L. BRADBURN LIKELY TO BE LOCAL VENDOR

Board Refuses Statement, But He is Visiting Store in Toronto.

NOW DEPUTY-SHERIFF.

Has Good Overseas Record, Winning Military Cross For Gallantry.

TORONTO, June 10 (Special to The Examiner).—Although no official statement has yet been given out, it appears certain that Frank L. Bradburn will be appointed Government vendor at the Peterborough liquor store. The Board refuses to make a statement, but Mr. Bradburn spent today in the liquor store at Lombard and Church Streets, watching operations and getting instructions.

Mr. Bradburn has been deputy-sheriff of Peterborough since Sheriff F. J. A. Hall succeeded to the position of Sheriff. He is a son of Thomas E. Bradburn, who has been for many years prominent in mercantile and public life in the City, and was a member of the Provincial House representing this riding for several years.

F. L. Bradburn has a splendid military record, having enlisted with the 51st Battalion and reverted to the rank of Lieutenant in order to get to France with the 49th Battalion. He was awarded the Military Cross, and after his return, served actively with the local Militia up to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

It is believed that Mr. Bradburn's assistants in the liquor store will be Frank Pratt, county constable, and Patrick Kenny, with two other clerks.

The furniture was placed in the store today including desks and counters, but no stock of liquor has yet been brought in. Rumor says the Peterborough store cannot possibly open before Wednesday next, and that it will probably be later.

HOPE CHEST DRAW END OF NEXT WEEK

Many Handsome Articles Included—In Aid of Orphanage.

The Hope Chest which is being sold for the benefit of St. Vincent's Orphanage, will be on view in the George Street window of the Grafton Company's establishment to-morrow and next week, and on Saturday morning ladies will be selling tickets in front of the store. The draw for the chest will take place at the annual Orphanage social on June 23th.

The Hope Chest is beautifully appointed with various articles of interest to the feminine portion of the population. It is of mahogany, and contains, among other things, a pair of blankets, pillows and pillow cases, sheets, a bedspread, centrepiece, bath mat, bath towels, buffet set, tea towels and candlesticks.

Couples Win Dunmow Flitches of Bacon Did Not Offend Each Other in Last Year

LONDON, June 10. — With all its ancient ceremonial the Court of the "Dunmow Flitch," held at Ilford, Essex, decided that two claimant couples had fulfilled all its conditions in that they had "never offended each other in deed or word" and never once wished themselves unmarried during the last year and, therefore, that each couple was entitled to a flitch of bacon.

A third couple, after a severe cross-examination, were judged undeserving, mainly because the husband admitted that he had been married before.

W. Wright, a Labour member of Parliament, was one of the successful husbands. The other was a golfer. When asked to state his handicap, the golfer answered, "seven children," and this reply was severely commented on by counsel for the flitch.

Following the verdict, the two successful couples knelt to receive the sentence on the ancient Dunmow kneeling stones, and later, with the two flitches of bacon awarded to them, headed a procession around the grounds with judge, jury, counsel, and other pseudo-legal dignitaries participating.

WANT EXCLUSIVE FRANCHISE TO OPERATE BUSSES IN CITY

Bus Company Representative Interviews Council Regarding Transportation Problem.

INCREASE BUSSES.

Would Furnish Service Upon Reasonable Terms and Satisfactory Conditions.

F. J. Mitchell of Walkerville, representing the Border City Transit Company, was in the city yesterday, and interviewed the council with a view of establishing a motor bus service that would effectually provide efficient transportation for all parts of the city of Peterborough.

A great many people do not know that this company had to make a serious sacrifice in cancelling its contract with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission in order to supply the service which this city has enjoyed since the street railway went underground.

This company was entitled to three months' notice at the hands of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission to cancel the contract under which it was entitled to be paid 22 cents per mile for a minimum of 100 miles a day on each bus, which would have entitled it to a revenue of $88.00 a day for the four busses, for a period of three months. This would have given the company a revenue of $7920 without any risks and without any depreciation on its busses.

Mayor Holloway interviewed the company and pointed out that the city of Peterborough must have transportation service, but on the other hand, the Border City Transit Company pointed out that if it were to act on the suggestion of Mayor Holloway it would forfeit its rights as against the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

It is to the credit of the company and of Mayor Holloway and the city council that the negotiations resulted in a decided advantage to the citizens of Peterborough, because as a result some service, at all events, has been given to the many patrons who have been using the existing bus service.

Establish Loop System.

Mr. Mitchell is not at all satisfied with the present service that is being furnished to the citizens of Peterborough but feels sure that if he had a satisfactory agreement with the city council a much better service could be furnished to all parts of the city. He says that the present method of running up a street and then down again, is not a satisfactory way to give the most efficient service to the citizens of Peterborough. He is satisfied that a loop system can be established in different parts of the city that will give a very efficient service.

Mr. Mitchell also states that the system the company proposes to inaugurate will furnish the best possible protection to the public. They carry $50,000 of insurance with well established accident insurance companies that will amply protect the passengers in the cars, the pedestrians on the streets, and motor cars and other vehicles which may collide with their busses.

Mr. Mitchell claims that the service to the public can only be obtained by having an exclusive franchise to operate their busses on the streets of Peterborough, and that the Border City Transit Company is prepared to furnish this service to the city of Peterborough upon reasonable terms and conditions that should be satisfactory not only to the Mayor and Council but to the taxpayers of Peterborough as well.

Increase Busses.

Immediately a satisfactory agreement is arrived at, additional busses will be placed on the streets to serve all parts of the city and in addition to that, the company will be equipped with ample bus facilities to take care of fraternal societies and other organizations which may desire to make excursions to outlying attractive points, adjacent to Peterborough.

This extra reserve will materially assist and aid during the Peterborough Exhibition and on other special occasions which may arise in the city, such as on holidays.

Mr. Mitchell was very much pleas-

Ald. W. J. Hancock was elected a member of the Advisory Board of the Union of Canadian Municipalities at its meeting held this week in Ottawa.

Ald. Hancock was last year one of the Ontario Members of the Executive, and has been promoted.

A joint meeting was held yesterday with the National Association of Comptrollers and Accounting Officers of America which was meeting in Ottawa.

VOTING QUIET IN FREE STATE

Few Instances of General Disorder at Polls During Election.

WOMEN'S VOTE HEAVY.

DUBLIN, June 10.—(A.P.)—Yesterday's general elections of the Irish Free State were carried out with but few instances of disorder at the polls, the voting being brisker than in previous elections with the women's vote particularly heavy.

A prolonged analysis of the ballot, necessitated by the proportional representation system which is employed, will delay final announcement of the results for nearly a week. With 70 per cent of the electorate voting, according to the best estimates, the general indications are that the present government will be returned despite an extensive campaign waged by candidates of the Eamon De Valera group which is opposed to the present Free State constitution.

The De Valera adherents were exceedingly active and published full page advertisements in the morning newspapers. It is estimated that his party spent £20,000 on the campaign, the funds having been collected by De Valera on his recent visit to the United States.

Women Feature.

The great number of women voting was a feature of the elections. They came with children at their heels and babes in arms, handed their infants to civic guards and then tackled the complicated ballotz.

There were nearly 400 candidates for the 153 Dail seats, the De Valera candidates numbering 115.

The first election day fracas to be reported was at Clones in County Monaghan, where the government party downed a banner stretched across a street by the Republicans. Nothing more serious than several black eyes resulted although a revolver later was found in the street.

Government Confident

DUBLIN, June 10 (A.P.).—Owing to the proportional representation perplexities, official quarters are reticent regarding the results of the elections held yesterday. At the same time the Government is quietly confident of securing not only success but a good working majority, mainly at the expense of disgruntled Republicans and farmers.

Kevin O'Higgins, Minister of Home Affairs, and Peter Hughes, member of the Dail, said last night that it was too early to make a statement, while President Cosgrave, exhausted by a fortnight of campaigning, retired early, and his representative could only say that there had been a heavy poll.

CAMPBELLFORD CHILD KILLED IN CAR CRASH

Automobile Owned By Andrew Bennett Wrecked at Belleville.

OTHERS INJURED.

Driver Lost Control and the Car Ran Into Four-Foot Ditch.

DEAD:
Mary Sofia Bennet, 5 months.

INJURED:
Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bennet.

SHOCKED AND CUT:
James Bennet, 4 years.
Donald Bennet, 6 years.

BELLEVILLE, June 10 (Special to The Examiner).—Mary Sofia Bennet, aged 5 months, was killed; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bennet, of Campbellford, were slightly injured, and James, aged 4 years, and Donald, aged 6 years, were badly shocked and cut about the head and face, when the car in which they were proceeding to Brockville at 10.30 this morning left the Highway near Marysville, turned turtle, and landed upside down in a four-foot ditch.

The party who had left Campbellford this morning at an early hour, proceeded through Belleville at about 10 o'clock, and were on their way east, where they intended to visit friends.

Lost Control.

Mr. Bennett, who was driving the car, was seated in the front of the car with his wife, and the baby was in the tonneau in an improvised bed. He said that his attention for some inexplicable reason, was diverted from the road and he momentarily released his hold on the steering gear, when the car careened toward the cement culvert at Marysville. Before he could right it he found himself tottering over the embankment and the car was thrown with terrible force into the ditch.

The baby was killed almost immediately by flying glass and the impact, while the other occupants of the car had a miraculous escape.

Two passing motorists, proceeding to Montreal and Ottawa, seeing the accident, immediately stopped and helped the injured family from the mass of wreckage.

Dr. Sargeant of Shannonville was called and found on examination that an inquest was unnecessary. The little body was taken to Allen's undertaking establishment at Deseronto, while the remaining members of the family went to the home of Mrs. Cole at Deseronto.

The two little boys who suffered severe cuts were brought this afternoon to Belleville General Hospital, where an X-ray examination was made.

The car was smashed almost beyond repair, with the top crushed in, wind-shield broken, fenders and radiator jammed. Mr. Bennet is a prominent furniture dealer in Campbellford.

WIPE OUT DEBT IN FORTY YEARS BY DALY'S PLAN

Investment Bankers' Head Offers Retirement Scheme For Dominion Debt.

DISCUSSED AT OTTAWA.

Would Be Free of Obligations By Centenary of Confederation.

Ottawa, Ont., June 10 (Canadian Press). — Retirement in a period of 40 years of the outstanding net debt of the Dominion of Canada was the plan proposed yesterday at the annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of Canada, by R. A. Daly, Toronto, president of the organization. Mr. Daly's plan of retirement provided for the payment of $23,447,000 yearly on the national debt. This annual sinking fund, with saving of interest, would wipe out the present financial obligations of the Dominion by 1967—the centenary of Confederation.

Mr. Daly said Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, had expressed the desire to have the opinion of the Investment Bankers' Association on the question. The president did not wish the comments made in his address to be regarded as exhaustive, or as final conclusions on the subject. They were offered in the hope that a general discussion of the question might be helpful in working out the best solution of this important national problem.

U.S. Debt Cut.

"Naturally," said Mr. Daly, "we view with admiration the rapidity with which the United States has reduced its debt and its taxation since the close of the war, but we must not forget that the wealth of the United States is so much greater proportionately than that of the Dominion of Canada, and their stay in the war so much shorter that they recovered infinitely more rapidly." The United States proposed to cancel the present national debt of $19,383,000,000 in 1958, or within 38 years from commencement of the operation in 1920. The history of the United States had always been one of prompt extinguishment of debts.

The problem of debt reduction and taxation reduction in Great Britain was very different and much more difficult than that of the United States. In spite of this the Mother Country was actually ahead of its programme laid down in 1923 in the matter of the reduction of its debt, which now stands at aproximately $37,500,000,000.

Great Resources.

"In Canada," declared Mr. Daly, "we have been in a position somewhat between that of Great Britain and the United States. We resemble Great Britain in that our war effort was for the full term of the war. Our national debt in proportion to population is greater than that of the United States, but less than that of Great Britain. Our position resembles that of the United States, however, in that our country has great natural resources, developed and undeveloped, and for that reason we can recover more rapidly from the effects of the war. It would seem logical, therefore, that Canada's position is more favourable than that of Great Britain, and that we should make a more rapid reduction in our debt and taxation."

Pointing out that debt reduction was really a question of taxation and was inevitably tied up with taxation, Mr. Daly said:

"The public cannot ask for reduction in taxes at the expense of debt retirement. On the other hand reduction in taxes stimulates business and makes possible a larger collection of taxes at a lower rate."

Minimum Amount.

In conclusion, referring to his proposed debt retirement plan for Canada, Mr. Daly said:

"The above amount of $23,447,000 per annum would represent the minimum amount to be retired each year, and as this amount is no greater than the average amount of debt that has been retired in each of the last four years it is apparent that the plan is perfectly feasible, especially when we consider that we are now running into what should be a much more prosperous period."

COUNSEL SAYS SUBMISSIONS ARE EXTREME

Lawyer for Carlings Thinks Rowell Suffers From "Alcoholic Complex."

DENY CARS SWITCHED

Brewery Protests Against Recommendations Laid Before Royal Board.

MONTREAL, June 10.J—(Canadian Press).—That submissions of counsel for the Royal Customs Commission in respect to Ontario brewers are "extreme" was contended before the commission yesterday by J. H. Clark, counsel for the Carling Brewing and Malting Company, who argued at some length. Mr. Clark suggested that Mr. Rowell, the author of the submissions, is suffering from an "alcoholic complex," which might account for his conclusions.

The argument of counsel for the Carling Company covered a number of the points raised by Mr. Rowell. Mr. Clark denied that there was any evidence that the Carling Company had ever camouflaged cars of beer in order to get them into the United States, he said there was no evidence of "switching" of beer cars by Carlings, and he declared that the submission of attempted bribery by Harry Low, vice-president of the Carling Brewery, was based on the flimsiest evidence, which had been denied. He considered the commission should make no recommendation in respect to criminal prosecution based on such evidence.

Powerful Influence.

"There must have been some powerful influence in the United States at work to obtain switching of cars," said Mr. Clark. "The Carling Company did not need to switch cars. It could ship beer, and ship it legally, across the river.

Chief Commissioner Brown informed Mr. Clark that he did not believe Harry Low's evidence in regard to the McGowan incident.

Mr. Clark replied that Mr. Low had given his evidence in a frank and open manner.

Carlings Would Pay.

Counsel said that if it was decided that the Ontario brewers were liable for gallonage and sales tax on export business, the Carling Company would pay these taxes.

He said that a great deal of evidence, which would not be admitted in a court of law, had been presented to the commission. The proceedings constituted a somewhat unfair examination for discovery by the Government in its suit against the brewery. Writs had been issued against the Carling Brewery, and then the commission came along and "examined all our witnesses," looked through the books and listened to a lot of evidence which should not be admitted in a court.

Government Unfair.

Mr. Clark made it clear that he was not suggesting the commission had been unfair. He was suggesting that the Government had taken an unfair advantage of the brewerles in view of the pending litigation.

Other argument was offered against certain of the submissions by J. P. Ebbs, of Ottawa, appearing for some of the breweries who are members of the Bermuda Export Company. Mr. Ebbs informed the commission that a sample set of books which must be kept by breweries has now been filed. Thus all doubt about what records must be kept by the breweries was now set at rest.

Had Overpaid Sales Tax

MONTREAL, June 10 (Canadian Press).—Some surprise and gratifications was expressed by members of the Royal Customs Commission yesterday afternoon, when A. E. Nash, auditor, reported that Molson's Brewery, Ltd., had overpaid sales tax to the Government by nearly $33,000 during a three-year period.

"You can flatter yourself that you occupy a very unique position among the breweries," Commissioner W. H. Wright informed Herbert Molson, Secretary Treasurer of the brewery during his brief testimony at the afternoon sitting of the Commission.

While the Commission auditor reported that sales tax had been substantially overpaid by the Molson Brewery, he found that for the three years in question, 1924, 1925 and 1926, gallonage tax had been slightly underpaid. The net overpayment on both sales and gallonage taxes, however, amounted to $26,410.

Mr. Nash took exception to certain deductions that this brewery made for income tax purposes during the three-year period. In the first place, he said, the Molson Company had deducted the sum of $60,462, the cost of a building which had been torn down of the purposes of the brewery.

"This was clearly wrong, and when we drew that fact to the attention of the brewery they paid the tax on this amount," the auditor told the Commission. Secondly, there was a deduction of $17,000 which had been explained to him as expenses in connection with the operation of a pri-

J. Fry and A. Haskill Victims of Accident And Girl Is Injured

Instant Death Claims One Peterborough Man, Who Is Charred Almost Beyond Recognition—Second Dies of Injuries in Orillia Hospital—Families Reside Here.

FLORENCE MORRISON OWES HER ESCAPE TO BEING THROWN CLEAR OF AUTOMOBILE

Party Was Returning After Woodmen of World Meeting at Midland—Haskill Was Organizer, and Companion Also a Member—Inquest To Be Held at Beaverton.

THE DEAD:
John W. Fry, 149 Lake Street
Allan A. Haskill, 532 Charlotte Street.

INJURED:
Miss Florence Morrison, Midland.

BRECHIN, Ont., June 10 (Special to The Examiner).—John W. Fry of Peterborough was instantly killed; Allan A. Haskill, also of Peterborough, died as a result of injuries, and Miss Florence Morrison was slightly injured, this forenoon, when the car in which they were driving was struck by a train at Talbot railway crossing. Mr. Fry's body was burned almost beyond recognition in the blaze that consumed the automobile after the crash.

The party was travelling from Midland to Peterborough, and Mr. Haskell, driving the car, apparently failed to see the train approaching. The approach to the crossing is dangerous, being hidden by a house and trees, but the train, en route from Peterborough to Midland, was travelling at only 15 miles an hour, having slowed down from the bridge over the Trent Canal. Four section men were working at the spot where the crash occurred, and they say the driver of the automobile slowed up and then "stepped on the gas" in an attempt to beat the train.

Mr. Fry's skull was fractured, and several ribs were broken, death being instantaneous and the burning taking place after. His body was removed by County Constable Campbell to Beaverton, where an inquest will be held. Coroner Dr. Grant has already empanelled a jury.

Mr. Haskell had a leg severed and suffered several fractures. He was taken by train, with Miss Morrison, to the Memorial Hospital at Orillia, after receiving medical attention from Dr. Dockley and Dr. Grant.

Held W.O.W. Meeting.

Mr. Haskill was an organizer here of the Woodmen of the World, and last night held a meeting in Midland. He was formerly a barber in the city and sold his business to Ken. Throop. Born in Port Hope, he had lived in Peterborough many years. He is survived by his widow, residing at 532 Charlotte street, and two daughters, Mrs. Leila Spriggs, employed at the William Hamilton Company, residing at home, and Miss Olga Haskill, at Lindsay.

Mr. Fry, who was well known in the city as a piano tuner, was also a member of the W.O.W. and accompanied Mr. Haskill to attend last night's meeting and also to obtain business. He came to Peterborough from Norwood at the time of his marriage, 22 years ago, and since the death of his wife, nine years ago, he has lived with his sister-in-law at 149 Lake street. He is survived by two sons, Elmer, in Fort Myer, Virginia, and Max in Detroit; two brothers, Hiram in Preston, and a second in Norwood.

On Way Home.

The party was apparently returning to Peterborough, Miss Morrison being a friend, whose mother is just recovering from an automobile accident. The scene of the crash was about nine hundred feet east of the swing bridge crossing the Trent Valley canal. The engineer of the train was S. Barlow, and the conductor, J. Bedford.

C.N.R. EXPERT SAYS FREIGHT COST IS $8.96

Three Widely Differing Estimates on Transportation Costs Before Commissioners.

EVIDENCE CLASHES

Testimony Demonstrates Will Be No Recession From Estimates Presented.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10 (Canadian Press).—Three widely differing estimates of the cost of transporting Alberta coal to Ontario were befor the Board of Railway Commissioners at the close of yesterday's hearing. The estimates were backed by imposing arrays of statistics and the testimony of three prominent rate experts.

Yesterday E. P. Mallory, C.N.R. expert, presented the estimate prepared for the railway on the 'out-of-pocket' cost of transporting the coal from Drumheller to Toronto. His estimate was $8.96 a ton. This estimate included $1.37 of revenue which would be lost were American anthracite supplanted by the Alberta product.

Wednesday George W. Oliver, Chicago, employed by the Province of Ontario, presented an estimate of from $5.25 to $6.06 a ton between Drumheller and Toronto and an estimate of from $5.03 to $5.83 a ton from Edmonton to Toronto.

He was followed by S. W. J. Liddy, C.P.R. statistician, who estimated the cost at $7.60 a ton from Lethbridge to Toronto and at $8.31 a ton from Kneehill, Alta., to Toronto.

Clash on Repair Costs.

Yesterday's testimony further demonstrated that there would be no recession by either the C.N.R. Railway or the province from the estimates presented. The testimony of Mr. Mallory clashed with that of Mr. Oliver particularly as to repair costs for cars used in transporting coal and the average load which such cars would carry.

The estimates of these witnesses covered the cost of a movement of 1,000,000 tons over the C.N.R. between the same points.

Mr. Mallory was on the stand for the greater part of the afternoon session, during which time he gave a careful survey of the method by which he reached his estimate.

He allowed, he said, for a 3.6 per cent. increased cost due to recent or pending wage adjustments.

Mr. Mallory estimated that with shipments of 1,000,000 tons of Alberta coal to Ontario the net operating revenue loss to the railway on shipments of U.S. coal which would be displaced would total $1,388,080.

Including a profit on operating cost to provide all income charges and reserve, Mr. Mallory estimated that on the 1,000,000 ton shipment the additional cost to the railway would total $10,797,161, if surplus or idle grain equipment were used. This would amount, including a fair profit, to $10.62 a ton. Without the profit the "out-of-pocket" cost of transporting Alberta coal would be $8.96 a ton. Mr. Mallory's estimate of a fair profit was figured at a rate of 5% per cent. on a 70 per cent. operating ratio, which resulted in a figure of $3.18 per ton.

Mr. Liddy took the stand shortly before adjournment and began an explanation of the statistics which he had prepared. He will continue when the hearing is resumed to-day.

Space has been reserved at the Canadian National Exhibition for a combined exhibit of the Colonies of British West Africa.

GERMAIN HANGED FOR KILLING WIFE

Execution, Postponed To Allow Appeal, Takes Place To-day.

RIMOUSKI, Que., June 10 (Canadian Press).—Ulric Germain, of Rimouski, convicted of the murder of his wife, was hanged here this morning. The execution had been set for May 27, but a stay of execution was granted by Judge Stein, who presided at the trial, to allow the case to go to the appeal court. Permission to appeal, however, was refused by the Solicitor General, Hon. Lucien Cannon, Acting Minister of Justice, this week, and the prisoner was hanged today, the date set by Judge Stein.

OCEAN FLIERS HONORED BY AERIAL CLUB

Cerman War Time Aces Gather in Welcome to Aviators.

NOTABLES PRESENT.

Despatch Cablegrams of Heartiest Greetings to Orville Wright.

BERLIN, June 10 (Associated Press).—Most of the living German war time aces assembled yesterday afternoon in the German Aerial Club to welcome Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, trans-Atlantic fliers, at tea. The pair, accompanied by United States Ambassador Schurman and Major Von Kehler, president of the club, were escorted to the table of honor, while their 400 hosts jumped to attention and stood silent until they were seated.

Among the notable German air experts gathered to greet them were General Von Haenelt, war time inspector of army aviation; Major Von Parsifal, who carried out Zeppelin's idea of rigid airships; Dr. Koschel, army surgeon for aviation in the war, and Professor Berson, who for 20 yedrs held the altitude record for balloons.

A goodly number of those assembled wore the Iron Cross of the first class—awarded for bravery in battle, as their many scars testified. There was a fair sprinkling of officers still in the service or the reserve, wearing field gray uniforms with decorations, and a large number of young civilian aviators.

United Two Worlds.

After a half-hour of congenial sipping of tea and nibbling of cakes and biscuits, Major Von Kehler, first in German, then in English, greeted the fliers. He told them they had united the old and new worlds, thereby proving the truth of the proverb, "When there's a will there's a way." He called upon the audience to stand at attention and led the gathering in three staccato hurrahs, barked out with military precision.

Major Kehler then read the text of a cablegram which the club was sending to Orville Wright, saying that the members of the club, together with Chamberlin and Levine, sent heartiest greetings to "the first successful flier in the world."

Amid applause, a girlish enthusiast in the balcony threw a bouquet of red roses in Chamberlin's direction. It went wide, but was relayed by a nimble German flier to the Columbia's pilot.

Messages from numerous aero clubs in Germany and Central Europe were read, inviting "the flying twins" to visit them. After both had signed the club's "Golden Book" they retired between two lines of applauding fellow fliers to appear for the dinner given in the evening in their honor by the Minister of Communications. A large crowd outside, despite the drizzle, warmly cheered them upon their arrival and departure.

At the dinner, Herr Koch, the Minister, welcomed the fliers with words of enthusiastic praise.

"Rarely," he said, "have men in Germany been received with such jubilation, such indescribable joy as you. Once it was Columbus; to-day it is Columbia.

"For us Germans who are concentrating all our energies to adapting aviation to the traffic problem, it is a good omen that the first trans-Atlantic passenger flight was completed in our country. When the schedule of an air service between America and Germany is consummated you will be honored as the pioneers of this cultural attainment and your memory will be gratefully cherished."

COUNCIL HEARS TWO APPEALS

Other Business Left Over Until Return of Reeve Wood.

PAVING FOR MILLBROOK

MILLBROOK, June 10.—The Millbrook council held a brief session as Court of Revision on Monday night when the appeal of Alan Mitchel for a rebate of taxes on his garage was heard, and the transfer of taxes on the Hutchison property, Tupper street, was made to A. J. Brown, the new owner.

Reeve Wood being absent at Cobourg attending the Counties Council, any further business, in connection with the regular council session was left over until his return.

The matter of paving King street, which has been up for considerable discussion recently, is still 'hanging fire' until the Reeve's report of any action by the Counties Council is received. Failing this the contract for oiling the streets will be proceeded with in the immediate future. In any event some provision will have whether King Street is paved or not. King street is paved or not.

The term "Dixie" is said to have originated from banknotes issued by a New Orleans bank which bore the French word for ten, "Dix." The notes came to be called commonly "Dixies."

Religious Revival Worries Soviet Russia; New Fight By "Anti-God Society" Planned

RIGA, June 10. — A religious revival in Russia is causing concern to the Soviet authorities. A special report on the anti-religious situation in town and country was considered at a plenary sitting of the Communist Party in Moscow. The official spokesman, Barkanoff, said the anti-religious organizations unquestionably were suffering discomfiture and a sort of religious revival had occurred among the masses. Various kinds of religious organizations and sects have come into being and their influence has penetrated the factories and even the barracks of the Red Army.

This revival was particularly apparent at Easter, when "the churches were flooded by a sea of light and artistes from the Grand Theatre in Moscow sang in them." Barkanoff complained that the 29,000 members of the "Anti-God Society" had proved unable to stem the religious tide. The society, he said, must, therefore, be reorganized and agitators specially trained on a mass scale to meet the new "menace," particular attention being devoted to propaganda among women and adolescents.

JOHN D. THEXTON LEAVING VILLAGE

Veteran Citizen of Mount Pleasant Presented With Cane.

MOUNT PLEASANT, June 10.—A committee from the former Methodist Sunday school presented Mr. John D. Thexton with a cane and fountain pen on the evening before his departure from the village, when he has lived practically all his life.

Mr. Thexton is in his eighty-third year and is yet quite active. He was born in Cavan on the farm now occupied by Harry Byrans. Later in life he moved to the farm now occupied by Mr. Walter Windrum, where he became very prosperous and about twenty-one years ago he built a home in the village, which he occupied until now.

Mr. Thexton's wife died a number of years ago. He was a consistent member of the Methodist church, having held a position on the board for a number of years. He was very liberal in helping any good cause, especially in church work, and will be missed in the neighborhood.

Last year he spent the summer months visiting his brothers in Dakota, Chicago, and Florida. He left on Tuesday to go to St. Thomas, North Dakota, where he intends to make his home with his brother, Mr. Albert Thexton.

His many friends wish him many more years of peace and happiness. The following address was read to Mr. Theton:

Dear Mr. Thexton:

It was with sincere regret we learned of your intended departure from our midst. For years you have been a pillar of strength in the religious life of this community and your true noble character has been a helpful example to all of us. We know that our loss will indeed be very great.

As a slight token of the esteem in which you are held we ask you to accept this cane and fountain pen. We hope they will both be of service to you during your travels and that they will, in the remaining years of your life, remind you of the good wishes and kindliest regards of your friends at Mount Pleaasnt.

May God richly bless you in health and strength, and grant you many more years of peace and happiness in your new home.

Signed on behalf of the Mount Pleasant Sunday school.

Mr. Thexton, although taken by complete surprise, thanked his fellow-workers for their kindness toward him in a few well chosen words.

WOMEN VOTED WET BY STAYING HOME

Women's Institute Delegates Told Where Blame Lies For Dry Defeat.

WOLFVILLE, N.S., June 10.—(Canadian Press)—"For actual legislation the last two years has been somewhat barren," stated Mrs. W. F. Cameron of Davidson, Sask., in her report to the convention of Federation Women's Institute. "Ontario and Saskatchewan have gone away backward from prohibition, and perhaps the end is not yet. Women are as much responsible for this defection as men. They may say 'yea' and 'amen' to a resolution in favor of prohibition, when they are full of enthusiasm at convention, but on election day, right at home, many voted wet.

"Apart from prohibition," she continued, "women seem to get most of what they ask for, with the exception of the vote in Quebec and seats in parliament. In the latter instance women have mostly themselves to blame, for they do not stand behind their few women in provincial assembles or their one ewe lamb at Ottawa."

Mrs. Cameron advised all W.I. members to note what the League of Nations may have to say in council this September on the vexed question of woman's nationality and her privilege of retaining it, irrespective of her husband's. She suggested some study of Hansard. A number of men in every community receive this weekly and copies might be borrowed. She also urged W.I.'s to take advantage of the many publications issued from Ottawa on every variety of interesting and useful subjects such as child welfare, gardening, tree planting, dairying, egg marketing, etc. There are also many other pamphlets on new industrial developments, new mining and geological "finds", new and very accurate maps. Much literature of this type is available in provincial departments and they are of very great assistance to High School students who want to know the last word on certain subjects, said Mrs. Cameron.

NEW RESIDENTS MUCH ESTEEMED

Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Hamley Receive Many Token From Red Deer People.

The following is taken from The Red Deer (Alberta) Advocate, in reference to Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Hamley, who are coming to Peterborough to reside in future.

Mr. Hamley has entered into partnership with his brother, Mr. Norman Hamley, in the Peterborough Bookstore.

From the presentations made to Mr. and Mrs. Hamley in the West, they will be greatly missed in the locality in which they have resided, and they will be welcomed in coming to Peterborough to enter the social and business life here.

"Mr. L. I. Hamley, who has been in charge of the clothing and furnishings section of the W. E. Lord Company's store, is leaving at the end of this month for Peterborough, Ont., where he will enter into business in the stationery and sporting goods line with his brother, Mr. Norman Hamley, formerly of Red Deer.

"Irwin, as he was familiarly known here, will be greatly missed in the community. He has been a resident of Red Deer since 1905, coming here with the Smillie Dry Goods Co. Later he was with Hill & Horn and travelled for the Gaetz Manufacturing Co. for a couple of years. He has been with the W. E. Lord Co. for the past eleven years, and has proved himself a capable and popular business man. Mr. Hamley is one of those quiet, solid citizens, who are a great asset to any town, and he has always stood for what is clean and best in community life. He is a member of the Board of the United Church, and has been connected with baseball and hockey clubs for years, and in the earlier days turned in some pretty fair ball games for the Red Deer boys. He is a Past Master of Kenilworth Lodge No. 29, A. F. & A. M., and one of the oldest resident members of the lodge. The best wishes of a host of friends will follow him to his new home.

"Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Hamley have been the recipients of quite a number of presentations during the past week. On Tuesday evening the members of Kenilworth Lodge gathered for a social evening and presented Mr. Hamley with a life membership in the lodge, and Mrs. Hamley with a silver cake basket. Mr. Fred. Turnbull made the presentation to Mr. Hamley, and Dr. John Collison that to Mrs. Hamley. Wor. Bro. Charles Sinclair presided. A number of members spoke highly of Mr. Hamley's worth as a man and a Mason, and wished him and the family all success in their new home.

"The Board of the United Church presented Mr. Hamley with a travelling case in appreciation of his services to the board.

"On Monday afternoon Mrs. F. D. McIntyre and Mrs. Howard Byers held a handkerchief shower for Mrs. Hamley, and on Tuesday afternoon some of the neighbours gathered at the home of Mrs. E. Wilson and presented Mrs. Hamley with a silver sugar and cream set. Last week the W. M. S. and the Ladies' Aid of the United Church gave Mrs. Hamley a silver flower basket.

"Mr. and Mrs. Hamley and the boys left on Wednesday morning for their new home at Peterborough, Ont. There were quite a number of friends and neighbours at the station to bid them good-bye.

"The staff of W. E. Lord Co. and their wives, with Miss Edna Hamley and Miss Smally, of Calgary, were the guests of Mr. W. E. Lord at a banquet in the Auditorium Hotel on Wednesday evening, on the eve of the departure of Mr. L. I. Hamley for the East. Mr. Lord presided in happy style and proposed the toast to the guest of honor, Mr. Hamley, mentioning Mr. Hamley's long and faithful service to the company and the community and the general regret at his departure.

"Mr. Hamley, in reply, thanked the chairman for the kindness shown to himself and Mrs. Hamley, saying that he would always remember the pleasant associations with the firm and the staff.

"At the close of the evening Mr. Lord presented Mr. and Mrs. Hamley with a reading lamp as a token of the esteem in which they were held by the staff. Mr. Hamley thanked Mr. Lord and the staff on behalf of himself and Mrs. Hamley.

"A cordial vote of thanks was given to Mr. Lord by the staff for his kindness and generosity in entertaining them."

SEARCH BEGINS FOR NUNGESSER

Major Cotton Hops Off in Monoplane on the First Hunt.

HARBOR GRACE DISTRICT.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld, June 10 (A.P.).—Major P. Sidney Cotton hopped off from the Quidi Vidi Lake air station at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his silver painted monoplane, Jeanne d'Arc, bound on his first air search for any trace of Captains Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli, missing French trans-Atlantic fliers.

His hunting ground was a huge pie-shaped wedge of jagged coast line, harbor and rugged interior bounded by this city; Harbor Grace, 25 miles to the northeast, and the southwestern shore tip of Placentia Bay, 120 miles southwest of here. It was in a half a dozen scattered communities throughout this area that the sound of an aeroplane motor on May 9 was reported to authorities here in the week following the Frenchmen's unsuccessful Paris-to-New York non-stop flight.

Major Cotton said he would fly over the same area again today should yesterday's hunt prove fruitless and at least once more after that, depending on the visibility.

Major Cotton and the other members of his search party, Lieut. Cyrus Caldwell, relief pilot, and James MacPhail, mechanician, arrived in St. Johns, at 3 a.m. yesterday aboard the Red Cross liner Sylvia. The Jeanne d'Arc was launched immediately and hundreds of persons were awakened as the plane roared over the city on an early morning test flight.
